U. S. CONVICTS 7 AS KIDNAPERS OF RICH OIL MAN

Face Life Terms; 3 Are Acquitted.

[Copyright: 1933: By the United Press.]

A crushing blow to the rapidly spreading kidnaping racket was struck yesterday when 13 persons, members of two desperate rings, were convicted and sentenced to long prison terms.

The jury verdicts returned in the cases of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire, and August Luer, aged Illinois banker, capped the first offensive of a mighty drive by state and federal governments to stamp out crime.

Seven of ten persons charged with holding Urschel for $200,000 ransom were convicted. One was a woman. All six charged in the Luer case were sent to prison. One woman received life imprisonment.

Some of the most reckless of the new crop of southwestern outlaws were committed to prison for life in the Urschel case. Among them were Harvey Bailey, notorious gunman and object of a hunt that led thousands of miles through half a dozen western states; Albert L. Bates, a chief lieutenant; R. G. Shannon and his wife, father and mother of the wife of George [Machine Gun] Kelly, and three minor members of the gang.

Next object of the federal authorities' relentless pursuit of the outlaws is Kelly himself. He and his wife, Katherine, were arrested at Memphis and are expected to be returned immediately to Oklahoma City for trial.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Seven defendants in the Charles F. Urschel conspiracy case were convicted by one swift blow from a federal court jury here today and held for sentence next Saturday to terms which may range up to life imprisonment.

Three others were freed and left joyously for their homes at St. Paul and Minneapolis. They were Sam Kronick, Sam Kozberg, and Isadore Blumenfeld.

The first federal court jury to act under the "Lindbergh" federal kidnaping law convicted not only the actual gunmen who abducted Urschel but also persons who participated in guarding him during his nine days imprisonment on a Texas farm and two of those who took part in attempts to change the $200,000 of ransom money paid for his release.

These Are Found Guilty.

Those convicted were:

Albert Bates, gunman, identified as one of the two men who broke up a bridge game on the sun porch of Urschel's home July 22, and, with machine guns, forced Urschel and Walter Jarnett, a guest, to accompany them. Jarnett was released an hour later after being robbed of $51.

Harvey Bailey, gunman and escaped convict, who was found asleep, machine gun at his side, Urschel ransom money in his pockets, on the Shannon farm near Paradise, Tex., where Urschel was held.

R. G. [Boss] Shannon, his wife, and their son, Armon, who entertained at their farm home both Bates and Bailey, guarded Urschel there while he was being held for ransom, and attempted to mislead investigators after the farm hideout was discovered.

The jury's verdict was reached after only an hour and a half of deliberation last night, but could not be announced until today because of orders of Judge Edgar S. Vaught. It left the penalties to the court.

Judge Vaught announced he would grant attorneys for the convicted defendants three days to prepare motions for new trials, and lawyers for all but Bates said they would have these motions ready Monday. Bates' attorney, Ben Laska of Denver, was not present.

Government on Top.

The result of this major test of the "Lindbergh" law, passed by congress in June, 1932, was hailed jubilantly by District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde and Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, who were in charge of the prosecution.

"The verdict means the government is on top in this fight against kidnaping, and we are ready to 'shoot the works,'" said Hyde, a stocky young Oklahoman of Indian extraction.

"This is just a skirmish," declared Keenan. "The government is not

War! Waste and carnage, mass destruction, hate and plunging death,
Blinded eyes and tortured nerves, the gases' poison breath.
Wounds and gangrene, vermin, hunger, stiff and clotted blood,
Weariness past bearing, boys asleep in rain and mud.
Faces scarred revoltingly so nevermore can wives
Or sweethearts kiss without a choking horror all their lives.
Mothers sending off their sons to maim and stab and drag
To death the sons of other mothers 'neath another flag.
A patriotic frenzy paints the foe a beastly swine
While gilding those beneath our flag as heroes brave and fine,
Glossing deftly o'er the fact that some of those who sailed
Were forced by draft to join the troops to keep from being jailed.
Crafty lies conceived and spread to fan the fires of hate
Change kindly souls to murderous—the truth comes out too late.
Back at home in safety profiteers unheeded soar
To great and greater riches while the men are off at war.
An angry blast of protest smites those who make complaint
As reckless costs climb unopposed by even mild restraint.
And when at last the war is o'er the ghastly toll stays on
Of crushing taxes, broken men, and moral standards gone—
Easy money, easy virtue, easy ethics everywhere;
Then panic, disillusionment, futility, despair!
No wonder helpless mankind prays to end this dreadful curse
Whose aftermath of burdened years, long drawn, grows ever worse.

War! Colorful, stirring, romantic, glamorous war
That always quickens pulses and will forever more.
Thrilling martial music in crashing cadence played,
Swinging files of marching men in banner decked parade.
Surging cheers of shouting crowds as boys go tramping by;
Trembling tears for many who smile a last good-by.
And younger, eager, keen eyed boys who plead with every breath
To share the great adventure with not a thought of death.
Slender girls with glowing eyes who urge their sweethearts on
Or brand the men who hesitate with devastating scorn.
Preachers in cloistered churches where the war-mad congregate
Exhort their flocks in fiery words to give and kill and hate.
A consecrated sacrifice of all that men hold dear;
Bitter, wholesome loathing for the greedy profiteer.
Pride in the loss of a gallant son who lightly gave his life,
Scorn for those whose consciences cry out against the strife.
The stately line of battleships, the bombing squadrons' roar,
Shown daily in the news reels, rouse fervor for the war.
Much that's good in human nature, all that's clean and brave,
Awakens in both high and low when flags begin to wave.
Our history books abound in war, bronze warriors grace our parks,
Tin soldiers, toy artillery, lie deep in children's hearts.
Time dims the somber facts of war, the bright alone remain;

MARRIAGE LICENSES SHOW 19.5 PER CENT INCREASE OVER 1932

Marriage licenses were issued to 24,355 couples during the first nine months of this year, an increase of 3,973, or 19.5 per cent, over the number of licenses issued for the similar period in 1932. This was announced yesterday by Chief Clerk Sidney Summerfield of the marriage license bureau.

In the first nine months of 1932 there were 20,382 licenses issued. The increase has been most marked during the last two months. Last month 3,615 licenses were granted, an increase of 1,372 over September, 1932, when 2,243 licenses were issued. In August 3,760 licenses were issued, an increase of 1,233 over August, 1932.

Mr. Summerfield said that although the Fair is responsible for bringing many couples here to wed, the main reason for the increase is the improvement in the economic outlook.

OBSERVES YOM KIPPUR; THIEVES LOOT HIS STORE

While Harry Levin was observing Yom Kippur last night in his home above his store at 2638 West Division street, burglars broke into the store and removed virtually its entire stock of women's clothing. They took 180 dresses and 42 fur and cloth coats valued at approximately $4,500. Levin did not learn of the theft until he went downstairs some time later and unlocked the store.

Bubs Quinlan Evades Penalty in Auto Death

Michael "Bubs" Quinlan, gangster and beer runner, drove his speedy sedan over a safety island at 65th street and Ashland avenue on the evening of Jan. 14, 1932. The car fatally injured James Borkovic, 45 years old, 6506 Justine street, and permanently crippled his wife, Julia, 42 years old. At the time police and several witnesses said that Quinlan was drunk.

Yesterday it was disclosed that Quinlan has escaped all criminal prosecution in connection with the accident. It also came to light that the records of an inquest into Borkovic's death and attended by Coroner Frank J. Walsh himself, have mysteriously disappeared from the coroner's office in room 500 of the county building.

The missing records should include a police report on the accident, a physician's report upon the causes of Borkovic's death, complete testimony of the police, of a dozen witnesses of the crash, and of the coroner's jury's verdict. This verdict, according to a record certified to the city health department, was "probable manslaughter."

No Mittimus Ever Issued.

Such a verdict is supposed to hold a prisoner for grand jury action without arraignment before a judge of the Municipal court. It was learned, however, that no mittimus ever was issued for Quinlan's seizure by Coroner Walsh or any of his deputies. A detective pointed out that Quinlan's gang activities are confined to the 15th, 16th, and 17th wards. Coroner Walsh is Democratic committeeman of the 17th ward.

The health department records show that Borkovic died on Jan. 21, 1932, at St. Bernard's hospital. The following day, according to these records, an inquest into his death was held at Mastney's mortuary, 1745 East 47th street. The deputy coroner who presided was Louis Nadherny, but Coroner Walsh also attended. The hearing was continued because Mrs. Borkovic was in a critical condition from her injuries in the hospital where her husband died.

Comes from Health Records.

All this information was gleaned from the records of the health department. An investigation at the coroner's office discloses that the death of Borkovic was recorded at 7 o'clock on the evening of Jan. 21. In the "day book" in which this record is kept—as is the record of all other violent deaths in the county—the clerk on duty recorded in pencil at the time of the report, that "Bubs" Quinlan

FREAK ELECTRICAL STORM RAKES SOUTH SIDE AND SUBURBS

A violent freak electrical storm, accompanied by torrential rains of cloudburst proportions, swept across the south side of Chicago and southern suburbs late yesterday afternoon.

One man was struck by lightning, a barn near Homewood Park was burned, and north bound traffic on the Illinois Central railroad was delayed half an hour when a trolley wire was struck by lightning. The electric lighting systems in the village of Homewood and at the Washington Park race track were knocked out. Pari-mutuel bets at the track had to be paid off by candle light.

Despite the intensity of the storm on the far south side, the part of the city farther north was not affected. Not a drop of rain fell at the World's Fair.

John Stokes, 25 years old, 9040 Greenwood avenue, was the man struck by lightning. He was burned on the left leg and abdomen by the bolt, which first struck an elm tree in front of his home and coursed along the aerial wire of his radio. He will recover.

At the weather bureau at the airport it was explained that the storm was a "line squall." It was caused by sharp recurring winds from the west meeting cooler winds from the northeast.

400 Special Trains Due Today.

Parade Traffic Rules

The heart of the Chicago business district, from Oak street to 16th street and between the lake and State street will be barred to traffic all day Tuesday during the American legion parade. Traffic will be restricted in most of the same area tomorrow night during the "Forty & Eight" parade. Details on Page 4.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

American Legion week in Chicago begins today.

In its outward aspect, the fifteenth annual convention of the boys of 1918, which opens its first formal session in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow morning, will be one of the most colorful and crowded of all the years since the war. At this momentous period of American history the actions of the Legion take on unusual significance, in their possible effect on national policy.

It is taken for granted in convention headquarters that President Roosevelt will be on hand to address the Legion tomorrow, although no announcement on this point is expected to be made until today. Tomorrow's program, however, is shaped around this supreme event, and it will not be until Wednesday and Thursday that the delegates get down to business. Tuesday is dedicated to the great parade.

400 Special Trains Today.

Special trains and buses added hourly to the throngs of overseas caps in Chicago streets and hotels yesterday. The blue and gold flamed from every lamppost. Headquarters boiled over with registrants. Today 400 more special trains will unload their thousands of light hearted veterans in the city, beginning with Alabama's delegation at 4 a. m. To care for the early morning arrivals, registration headquarters at 105 South Dearborn street were kept open all night.

The convention is expected to be twice as large as the Detroit convention in 1931, which made a record for interest due to the bonus struggle. On the Sunday before the Detroit convention opened, however, only 165 train loads of veterans arrived, and forecasters of a record Chicago convention contrasted this figure with the 400 special trains due here today.

Meanwhile the bonus issue seems pretty well submerged this year under the four point rehabilitation program advanced by Attorney Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, Illinois' representative on the national committee of the Legion and candidate for national commander.

Welcome Machinery Working.

Chicago's machinery of welcome, which has been well oiled during the months of A Century of Progress, seemed to be working smoothly under the pressure of the incoming delegations. It takes on the color of national convention time last June. The Union is here again, with more music and much less of politics. The fifteen years since the armistice have made middle aged men of the boys who came home from the war. Roistering memories fade into the freshman tradition as the old grads come back to the campus.

The old grads, however, are blamed for many a campus picnic of which the deans disapproved, for they seem to shed the years when they put on the old cap again, and so plans for handling disorder among the expected 300,000 visitors have been perfected.

Legion Police on Duty.

Five hundred members of the Legion police service committee went on duty yesterday from headquarters at 163 North Franklin street. These were mostly Legion members of the police department and the sheriff's office, wearing citizens' clothes but marked by their blue hats with red tops and gold badges. They are ready to offer assistance to the Legionnaires as well as to curb firmly those who become too playful.

"We are on the spot. It depends on us whether the visitors will go away boosting or criticizing Chicago."

"Be gentle, but bring in the troublemakers," said Matt Murphy of the state's attorney's office, assistant head of the committee. "We will see that they get a fair break."

Municipal Judge William E. Heland-

ROOSEVELT HERE TOMORROW IF HIS DUTIES PERMIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Preparations were going forward at the summer White House tonight for President Roosevelt's trip tomorrow to the American Legion convention in Chicago, although no final decision had been reached on whether or not the President would make the trip.

Late tonight Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President, issued this statement:

"While the President still hopes to visit Chicago during the convention of the American Legion and see the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition, it was uncertain tonight whether the trip could be made at this time. The President will make a final and definite announcement tomorrow."

It Depends on Affairs.

The decision, it was said, will depend upon matters concerning which the President was consulting by telephone with officials in Washington tonight.

Under the tentative plans for the Chicago trip the President would leave Hyde Park late tomorrow afternoon by special train, reaching Chicago about Monday noon and speaking to the Legionnaires immediately after his arrival. The stay in Chicago, it was said, would be cut to a minimum.

Following his appearance at the convention, the President probably would drive through the World's Fair grounds. The tentative plans then call for a drive out to the Bohemian National cemetery, where the President will lay a wreath upon the grave of the late Mayor Cermak, who died from the effects of the bullet which the assassin, Giuseppe Zangara, meant for Mr. Roosevelt in Miami.

Quick Return to New York.

From the cemetery the Presidential party would drive back to the train and depart for New York City, arriving there about Tuesday noon. The President is to speak in New York Wednesday night.

Deputy Police Commissioner Ira J. McDowell last night issued an order for 200 Chicago policemen to be held in readiness for special guard duty during the prospective visit of President Roosevelt to the American Legion convention and the World's Fair tomorrow. The order specifies that the men are to be at the La Salle street station between 10 and 11 a. m. and also between 4 and 5 p. m.

Wallace Acts; Chicago Milk Price to Rise

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Chicago's retail milk price will be boosted one cent, up to 11 cents a quart probably a week from today. That will be in line with the approval given by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today to an amendment to the Chicago milk code.

After Mr. Wallace had signified his approval, Don F. Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk association, boarded an airplane for Chicago, with the amendment in his pocket. The document will be signed in Chicago by representatives of producers and distributors. It is expected to be returned here early next week. It then will be formally signed by Secretary Wallace and take effect after three days of grace.

Defends Price Boost.

Dr. Clyde L. King, chief of the dairy section of the agricultural adjustment administration, defended the price boost by declaring it would be passed to the farmer producers in its entirety.

"The price to producers for class 1 milk," he said, "is raised from $1.75 to $2.10 and on class 2 from a percentage of the butter fat market price to a flat $1.45 per hundred pounds. Surplus milk will cost distributors three cents per hundred pounds, plus three and one-half times 92 score Chicago butter."

The amendment also sets up an equalization pool which is expected to result in a blended price being paid to all milk producers regardless of the dealers to whom their milk is sold.

Milk 11 Cents a Quart.

The retail price of milk is raised from 10 to 11 cents per quart, pints remaining unchanged at 7 cents. The wholesale price of both milk and cream is raised, but no increase is allowed in the consumers' price of cream.

The amendment also brings about the complete elimination of all the "fair practices" sections of the milk agreement. Those provisions, seeking to regulate advertising, discounts, bonuses to employés, the giving of free samples and the like, resulted in much controversy and criticism, it was stated.

PRESIDENT HAS A PLAN TO AVOID WINTER HUNGER

Will Use 330 Million Federal Cash.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Federal charity stripped of pretense and fine distinctions is to be distributed from Washington this coming winter as one of the significant methods on which President Roosevelt is depending to forestall public discontent and carry the new deal through what bids fair to be a crucial period.

In consultation at the summer White House today with Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, the President planned the expenditure of 330 millions of federal funds to be devoted to the donation of food, fuel, and clothing to destitute families.

To Cut All Red Tape.

The determination to shear away official red tape, to abandon the disguise of federal relief disbursements as loans and to forget the requirements that contributions from Washington be matched by local funds, was the concluding act of a vacation period, probably the last of the year, which the President has used as a quiet hour of planning before the impending test of the administration's recovery program.

Added to the 330 millions to be expended by the federal government, the expenditure of an approximately equal amount by the states, counties, and municipalities is expected to bring the national relief bill during the fifth winter of depression and unemployment to a total of nearly 700,000,000 of dollars. The federal funds, drawn from the huge 3 billion 300 million dollar authorization in the public works act, are to be scattered wherever needed as a forthright federal subsistence dole.

All of Millions Needed.

Administrator Hopkins told the President flatly that 330 millions of the balance unallocated in the public works fund will be required to help feed, warm, and clothe the members of the more than 3 million families estimated still to be on the relief rolls.

The first step will be the employment of the 75 millions drawn from this fund for the double purpose of taking off the market farm crop surpluses and of donating the food stuffs thus purchased to the relief of the needy. Within a week, Mr. Hopkins stated, his organization will be ready to start the buying and distribution of these surplus commodities.

In addition to food, the relief administration is prepared to buy fuel and clothing.

Must Buy Coal, Too.

"We've got to buy coal," said Mr. Hopkins. "I don't know how much or how. But we intend to see that those in need are kept warm this winter, and that goes all along the line."

Mr. Hopkins said he intends to see that families on the relief rolls receive a balanced ration and not a diet of "salt pork and beans."

While it was not so stated, it was apparent that should the money presently available prove insufficient, as the winter progresses, President Roosevelt will not hesitate to ask congress for further relief funds.

Only Part of Strategy.

The relief program, however, is but one segment of the strategy which the President is expected to have mapped out by the time of his return to Washington next Thursday morning. He will leave Hyde Park with the major question of a monetary policy—to inflate or not to inflate—still unanswered. Various spokesmen, with or without his approval, have prophesied a statement clarifying that policy in the very near future. To date, President Roosevelt has not admitted the imminence of any such pronouncement.

Despite this official silence a statement of policy shortly after the President's return to Washington would not be surprising. As he has demonstrated in the past, the President is a believer in the dramatic value of the sudden and unexpected.

Want Money Policy Known.

The increasing necessity for a public announcement of the administration's monetary policy is apparent to many of the President's advisers. In their opinion, industry will not expand, capital will not go to work until the present fog of uncertainty has been dispelled.

It is the belief of many close to the administration that President Roosevelt has already determined upon the general course to be followed.

As authoritatively outlined, that course does not follow to the extremes of inflation demanded by the more radical elements, particularly in the cotton and wheat states.

As described, the program has three phases:

Expansion of credit through federal aid to banks and a reorganization of coördination of federal credit agencies; acceleration of the public works program; and lastly, a resort if necessary to the section of the Thomas inflation amendment giving the President the right to issue three billion dollars' worth of greenbacks for the purchase of government securities.

Urge Credit Expansion.

Efforts to bring about expansion of credit already are actively under way at Washington. The return of the President to the capital is expected to bring about further speed in pushing public works projects. It is concerning inflation that the country is still anxiously waiting to hear the voice of the President.

But when it comes to inflation there is a strong opinion that President Roosevelt will not go beyond greenbacks for government bonds without a direct order from the congress which meets three months from now.

He already has, it is said, received pledges from the conservative Republican element in congress that they will give him their support up to, and if necessary including, that section of the Thomas amendment.

McNary Sees President.

Beyond that, however, they will not go. Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Republican leader of the upper house, recently was called to Washington by the President and is said to have reached a working agreement with the chief executive on that basis. The next congress, therefor, may reasonably see the somewhat incongruous alignment of President Roosevelt and the Republican conservatives on one side, opposed on the other by the inflationist progressives who worked so zealously to put the President in office. If the demand for radical inflation grows to irresistible proportions, it is predicted, President Roosevelt will not exercise the powers he now holds of his own volition, but will require the congressional inflationists to give him a political out by making those powers mandatory.

ARMY'S SURPLUS CANNED FOOD WILL FEED IDLE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Surplus army beef as well as cured pork from surplus swine purchased by the agricultural adjustment administration will be devoted in future to the relief needs of the unemployed.

The war department announced today that army emergency rations kept in storage for the last 11 to 14 years, will be sold at nominal prices to recognized charitable organizations for distribution in unemployed relief. The emergency rations are packed in containers, each with 7 ounces of corned beef, 8½ ounces of pork and beans, 6.6 ounces of hard bread, 3 ounces of sweet chocolate, .6 ounces of soluble coffee, and 2.4 ounces of granulated sugar.

About 200,000 of these containers are available and will be declared surplus to military needs. Laboratory tests have shown that these rations still are good, it was announced.

Two carloads of 30,000 pounds of pork each were shipped, one from the Swift & Co.'s plant at St. Paul and the other from the Cudahy Packing company's plant at Newport, Minn., to Butte, Mont. Three additional car loads are slated to go to that state.

HUDSON TUNNEL PROJECT GIVEN U. S. APPROVAL

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Permission to construct the Midtown Hudson tunnel, from 39th street to Weehawken, was granted today by Harry C. Woodring, assistant secretary of war, to the Port of New York authority. Mr. Woodring acted on the opinion of the chief of army engineers that the work of constructing the tunnel would not unreasonably interfere with navigation.

JOHNSON TRIES TO END STRIFE AT COAL MINES

Wagner Takes Over Ford Strike.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Pressing vigorously for a settlement of the western Pennsylvania coal strike, Hugh S. Johnson, the national recovery chieftain, announced tonight that he expected a compromise to be worked out tomorrow under which the miners would go back to their jobs Monday.

Gen. Johnson gave out this announcement to newspaper men after conferring all day with representatives of large steel companies, which own bituminous coal mines supplying their own needs, and with agents of the United Mine Workers.

"Recognition" Causes Strife.

Despite announcement by President Roosevelt yesterday that the "captive," as the steel mill controlled mines are known, had agreed to come under the coal code, which goes into effect Monday, and to give their men the same wages and working conditions as in the surrounding unionized territory, the miners had stood fast for recognition of the United Mine Workers as a condition to returning to the shafts.

The steel men, Johnson told reporters, refused absolutely to give formal recognition to the union. In response to questions Johnson agreed that the issue with the steel men concerned the coal mines only slightly, but that they were making a determined stand against what might prove to be an entering wedge for outside unionization of the entire steel industry

Can't Force Companies.

Johnson said it was beyond his power to require any agreement from any employer or worker group. In view of the refusal of the steel men to sign a union agreement, Johnson determined to exhaust possibilities of a compromise and proceeded to lay before his conferees alternative suggestions.

The men he conferred with were Myron Taylor, chairman of the board of United States Steel company, and Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel corporation, together with Nathan I. Miller, former New York governor and counsel for the American Iron and Steel institute.

The gravity which the steel men attached to the question was reflected in the unwillingness of those outstanding leaders of the industry to act alone. They insisted, before giving a decision, on consulting with other members of the institute.

Johnson called the steel men to the Walter Reed hospital, where he has been more than a week following surgical treatment for a local infection.

During the day he conferred with Tom Kennedy, international secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, and by telephone spoke also to John L. Lewis, president, and other officials of the union. Lewis, like Johnson, has been ill.

Would Avert Air Strike.

The national labor board worked through the day in an effort to head off a strike of airline pilots and to obtain from parties to the Philadelphia bakery drivers' strike acceptance of its arbitration.

It hurried also with creation of regional mediation boards to handle the mass of conflicts and disorder sprouting in many sections. These so far have had to be handled in a manner regarded by the national board as too haphazard to continue.

A special problem for the board, which the chairman, Senator Wagner, personally undertook to deal with, involved Ford company assembly plants where walkouts and picketing have taken place.

Wagner still expressed hope the company would accept arbitration by his board. Efforts he had made so far, however, to comunicate with Edsel Ford, active head of the company, had met with no success if not actual rebuff.

Over the week-end Johnson expected to have a final look at the retail codes to decide whether he would recommend to President Roosevelt inclusion of the price control provision demanded by the trade.

To Hear Retailers' Complaints.

Meanwhile, however, he announced a public hearing would be conducted by Deputy Administrator Arthur Whiteside, on complaints by retailers that they were being overcharged.

The price control provision in retail codes has aroused serious opposition by consumer groups, government economists and the farm administration, which has jurisdiction over food dealers.

The ultimate decision was expected to rest directly with the President and it may come early next week. However, earlier plans to send the code to Hyde Park for his action today or tomorrow were canceled and officials said the document might not be taken up before Tuesday. There were secondary provisions still under review.

Johnson after ten days of hospital treatment was expected back in his office Monday or soon after

To Quiz Factory Owners.

Prior to the hearings which are to be conducted on prices which have caused retail complaints, Whiteside will make public notices requiring a number of manufacturers to justify their advances.

The NRA said complaints filed by retailers included the charge that certain manufacturers in anticipation of the approval of permanent codes built up hugh stocks of merchandise which they are now forcing on the retailers at exhorbitant prices with the explanation that increased costs under the code were responsible.

One manufacturer, not identified, was charged, NRA said, with boosting the price of his product 175 per cent within a few hours after the code for his industry was approved.

One Recovery Policy Seems to Reduce Surplus While Another Promotes Larger Production

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Uncle Sam, under the new deal, is spending millions from all of his pockets, and one hand knoweth not what the other hand doeth.

Millions are spent to take farm lands out of production. Millions are spent to put farm lands into production. Food and cotton are destroyed, while many people hunger and go ill-clothed. Prices are sky-rocketed and people are told to buy more.

Water Power vs. Miners.

Water power is planned to take the place of steam while thousands of coal miners are jobless. Waterways are projected while the railroads go bankrupt and thousands of rail workers go jobless. Bankers are lashed to grant easy credit, while the government refuses to adopt a money policy which might insure the repayment of the new debts in kind.

For all of this the taxpayers bear the brunt at both ends, paying processing taxes to pay the farmers for destroying produce, paying for the dole to feed the hungry; paying for power plants whether their communities benefit or not; paying more and more taxes to support the ever growing bureaucracy, which invokes all the schemes at Washington.

These paradoxes, and many others, are held inevitable in a government which almost overnight has essayed to control farming, industry, finance and transportation, which is starting to spend three billions of public moneys for a thousand and one widely diversified projects, most of which are leading the government into endeavors to paternalism, government-in-business and socialism.

Hard to Gather Reasons.

So confusing is the whole picture that none in the government even can correlate them. At the department of agriculture, professorial haven for most of the paradoxical schemes, not even Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell, successor to Prof. Moley as leader of the brain trust, could give answer to queries on the seeming contraditions in the agricultural program.

Paul Appleby, an assistant of Secretary Wallace, admitted that no one has yet determined that one scheme will not defeat another.

Mr. H. R. Tolley, however, has been appointed "chief economist of the production division of the administration," with the special task of studying crop controls and to keep a weather eye cocked also upon the "replacement crops secton" and the "subsistence homesteads section."

President Roosevelt organized the "executive council," composed of the heads of the various new deal departments and the members of the cabinet. Under Frank C. Walker, executive secretary of the council, this group is supposed to mold the components of the Roosevelt program into a forward moving mass, but some of the schemes seem hopelessly irreconcilable.

There is the homesteads plan, being worked out experimentally with a $25,000,000 appropriation. This would give small farm homesteads to seasonally employed factory workers.

Drawing families in this manner from the cities, the plan also would draw from the farms. Prof. Milburn L. Wilson, one of the first of the Roosevelt brain-trusters, says there are two million farms among the six million in the United States which give their owners a meager subsistence on a low standard of living.

Prof. Wilson in Charge.

Mr. Wilson declares that these two million scrub farms yield nothing to the commercial side of agriculture and provide no more than an existence. Therefore it follows that taking farmers away from near barren fields will not diminish the surpluses which have impoverished all farmers. By putting them on fertile plots they will still produce in at least the same degree of competition with other farmers as they did before.

Two million additional wage-earners, however, will be crowding for places in industry—in industry where millions are now jobless and living on the public dole. And if the cities ever do empty part of their industrial life into the country, where workers will raise crops for their own tables, there, too, will be an additional load on the surpluses which have plagued agriculture for at least fifteen years.

"The shorter work week is here to stay," Prof. Wilson declared. "I can see how it may be necessary to reduce the workers' toils to a four or even a three day week in order to divide the available work among all the workers. And this will give them leisure to cultivate their garden plots."

Brain Trust's Deaf Side.

Mr. Wilson did not say whether the American capitalistic system, straining to the breaking point now under Gen. Johnson's "temporary" codes averaging a five day week, ever can endure paying high wages to workers for three or four days' labor.

In a single year the consuming Americans must pay additional taxes aggregating approximately $364,500,000 for farm products. That money is to be paid to farmers in return for their agreement to curtail wheat acreages, plow up cotton, send pigs and sows to slaughter, cut production of tobacco, butter, and cheese, to raise prices paid to farmers who are accused of increasing productivity to get the federal funds.

Reclamation to make more arable land, and power projects for more electrical power than required, thus far approved by Secretary Ickes call for the expenditure of $166,000,000. One item is the building of the Casper-Alcova dam in Wyoming, bringing water to transform 66,000 acres of desert land into rich, fertile farm land. Another is Boulder dam, aimed at irrigating 2,100,000 acres. These look like creation of more surplus in farm and industrial production.

Federal power projects at Boulder dam, Casper-Alcova dam, and two ventures more recently approved, Grand Coulee dam in Washington state, $63,000,000, and Bonneville dam in Oregon, $31,000,000, will compete with steam produced power for the cities of the northwest, and will drive more nails into the coffin of feeble old King Coal.

Tennessee Valley Project.

The Tennessee valley authority dream of President Roosevelt and Senator George Norris of Nebraska, with $50,000,000 to spend this year, is a combination of these described paradoxes, bringing new lands into cultivation, creating new water power where there is insufficient demand for what is now available.

On the other hand, waterway developments under way or projected threaten the already menaced or "busted" railroads. The chief proposal is the St. Lawrence waterway.

There are other paradoxes. The NRA abjures people to buy when the costs it has put upon industry have raised prices faster than purchasing power. The R. F. C. is hammering the bankers to supply free credit while the treasury's examiners caution the bankers to keep their institutions in liquid condition. The public works administration, intended to give quick employment to "a million men by Oct. 1," has alloted most of its funds thus far to projects which will not get under way until next year and may take five or six years to finish. To date, the public works administration has spent just $65,500,000 in cash out of allotments totaling $1,653,591,410.

Mr. Ickes has assigned $5,000,000 to be spent in halting soil erosion, his engineers promising in one year to terrace 4,752,000 acres of land to halt the ravages of water draining away soil and plant material. His announcement held that 75 per cent of the cultivated land in the United States is seriously affected by erosion and that 17,000,000 acres of formerly cultivated lands have been destroyed by it. Erosion, said Mr. Ickes, removes not less than 126 billion pounds of plant food material from the fields and pastures of the country every year. All this seems to promise farm surpluses in the future.

Woman Fair Visitor Dies in Hotel Room

Miss Arminda Ray, 58 years old, of Hennepin, Ill., a World's Fair visitor, died in her room at the Hotel Grasmere, 4621 Sheridan road, following a heart attack early yesterday. Miss Ray recently retired after teaching in Hennepin schools for nearly a score of years. She was visiting in Chicago with her sister, Mrs. Nellie Coford, and her brother-in-law, Alden C. Coford, county clerk of Hennepin.

QUOTES HOOVER AS SUPPORTING RECOVERY CODES

Ex-President's Guest Talks to Press.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover, in a conference today with Omaha Republican leaders, told them that all Republicans should support in every way possible the NRA, according to Gould Dietz, well known Omaha globe trotter, who attended the conference.

"We must help the administration put it over if it is humanly possible," the former President said, according to Dietz, who added that other than this there was no talk of politics.

Hoover Avoids Politics.

Mr. Hoover, in an interview with newspaper reporters, sounded a warning regarding political questions when he opened the talk with the remark: "I'm sorry I can't give you boys a good story.

"I'm not answering any political, economic, or public questions."

Mr. Hoover said he had been devoting himself to intensive reading and had not taken any part in politics other than just to "keep myself informed."

"I am not making any personal investigations," he said in answer to a question whether he had been talking with farmers regarding present economic conditions during his trip through the middle west. He left here this morning, continuing his westward trip home.

Ex-President Jovial.

The ex-President was in a jovial mood and responded quickly to many requests for his autographs. In the Hoover party at breakfast was J. F. McDermott, Omaha banker, who took Mr. Hoover's check despite the latter's comment that "I've still got enough money to pay for my own breakfast."

McDermott ran into difficulties, however, when he found himself lacking enough cash to pay the checks.

WORKER IN SILK MILL SAYS CODE COSTS JOB; ASKS COURT ENJOIN IT

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A hearing on an application to enjoin the Southern Silk Mills of Spring City, Tenn., from complying with a "code of fair competition" for the underwear and allied products manufacturing industry, and the United States district attorney from enforcing it, will be held before District Judge George Taylor here Oct. 7.

Ralph Starring, an employé of the mill, filed the suit today. It alleged that the company had notified Starring that "solely through fear of prosecution for violation of said machine hour provision of said code and its endeavor to comply, it is necessary for complainant to be discharged from his employment because said machines cannot be operated the full number of hours they are now being operated."

The suit challenged the right of congress to delegate to the executive branch of the federal government the powers attempted to be delegated under the act, and further alleged that the code is unconstitutional, especially the part which makes criminal the act of an employer in operating his machinery more than a given number of hours a week.

It was pointed out that Starring has a wife and two children to support "and that the operation of this unconstitutional and invalid code is about to cause complainant to suffer an irreparable injury to him."

BANK PRESIDENT KILLS HIMSELF ON CLOSING EVE

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Frank H. Schrenk, chairman of the national depositors' committee seeking to liberate cash in restricted banks, was found shot to death a few hours before the state banking department today permanently closed the bank of which he was president.

Police said he had taken his own life. Expressing the conviction he had not foreseen the fate of the North City Trust company, relatives and associates asserted he was worn out by his campaigning on behalf of the restricted banks.

His own bank had been restricted since the national banking holiday, being allowed to do normal business only with funds deposited since that time.

As chairman of a committee of thirteen bank presidents, Schrenk last summer petitioned President Roosevelt for relief.

RETIRING LEGION HEAD PLEADS FOR STRONG DEFENSE

Reports on Fight Against 'Destructive' Slashes.

Once again the vigorous call of the American Legion for the maintenance of adequate national defenses was sounded yesterday by Louis Johnson, retiring national commander of the organization.

In his annual report to the delegates to the big convention that opens tomorrow the West Virginian told of the Legion's efforts during the last year to lessen the seversity of appropriation cuts "striking at the very foundation" of the protection of the nation and urged the service men always to be on guard against destructive, extreme economy.

At the same time his announcement of what he believes will be the legislative program of the Legion for the next year indicated a conservative program so far as the national treasury is concerned, seeking a continuation of rights already established rather than battling for new grants.

Plea for Adequate Defense.

Mr. Johnson's report, under the heading of "National Defense," read, in part:

"The Legion has been in the forefront of the fight to maintain an adequate national defense, and we can justly take pride in the fact that by our effort, in conjunction with others, we had a real part in saving the national defense structure.

"With economy being preached on every hand, it was to be expected that the army, navy, and marine corps could not escape drastic cuts in their appropriations. Reasonable economies in the army and navy can be effected without injury to our national defense, but the country was not prepared to accept the very drastic cuts proposed, some of them striking at the very foundation of the defense of this nation.

"The national defense committee directed its attention to saving the civilian components of our defense system, upon which a vicious attack had been made, and played a leading rôle in restoring in part the training of the National Guard, the organized reserves, and the C. M. T. C.

Defense Framework Saved.

"The regular establishments were not neglected and, even though severe and drastic cuts were made in the appropriations, the national defense committee, in conjunction with the legislative committee, worked incessantly and successfully to effect adjustments whereby the framework of national defense was saved, no component part being actually eliminated.

"It must be realized that there are within this country many who would scrap our defensive forces and leave our nation subject to attack from within as well as from without. The American Legion must always stand as a bulwark against those who would reduce us to impotency. The Legion will stand on guard.

"While recommending, as I do, a careful study and the elimination of waste at obsolete posts and stations, I nevertheless stand unqualifiedly for an army of sufficient strength to assure that no enemy shall ever land a military expedition on our shores; a navy second to none. competent to protect our commerce in times of peace and guarantee the freedom of our seaborne trade routes in time of war; and a marine corps ready for instantaneous service as an expeditionary force to meet a temporary emergency."

The Rehabilitation Program.

After describing the work of the national rehabilitation committee during the year Mr. Johnson discusses the four point rehabilitation program ready for consideration by this convention. The four recommendations are as follows:

"That no war veteran disabled in the line of duty suffer any reduction of those benefits granted such veteran in the world war veterans' act as in effect prior to March 20, 1933.

"That hospitalization under federal government auspices be afforded all war veterans not dishonorably discharged who require hospital treatment and who are not able to reasonably pay for their own treatment.

"That perpetuation of service connection for all veterans properly granted such connection under laws in existence prior to March 20, 1933, be recommended as an item of Legion policy.

"That the benefits provided for dependents of veterans as established in the world war veterans' act be resumed and maintained as the government's policy, and that in no event shall widows and dependent children of war veterans be without government protection."

"These recommendations," commented Commander Johnson, "have met with general approval throughout the Legion and, if adopted by the national convention, will form the backbone of the Legion's next legislative effort."

The retiring commander, pointing out that the work of the national rehabilitation committee will increase and not decrease with the passing of years, urged that this committee be housed permanently in a building owned by the Legion.

"I therefore have recommended," he said, "that at the earliest moment possible the national organization procure modest and unpretentious headquarters in the city of Washington for the use of the national rehabilitation committee and that every safeguard be employed to protect the records and documents from fire or other damage.

"I believe this will prove a measure of economy. The annual rents paid out for office space in Washington would in a few years amount to a sum equal to the purchase price of a building such as that contemplated."

Confident of Future.

Despite heavy losses in membership during the last two years, Commander Johnson voiced his confidence in the continued strength of the Legion.

"The Legion has kept the faith," he said, "and I am most happy to report that we are emerging from the dark years of national emergency and crisis with greater solidarity and more closely welded together than ever before in our history."

Speaking of the reduced membership, Commander Johnson said in his report:

"The American Legion started off its first year, that of 1920, with a total membership of 845,186. This figure gradually decreased from year to year until we reached the low mark of 609,407 in 1925. From 1925 the yearly total gradually increased until a peak was reached in 1931 of 1,053,909. Due to economic conditions, the 1932 membership dropped to 931,373."

FAIR GROUNDS SCENE OF MOST OF LEGION SPECIAL PROGRAMS

Most of the entertainment formally prepared for the 300,000 delegates to the American Legion convention will center on the grounds of A Century of Progress Exposition, it was announced yesterday by the veterans' committee in charge of the annual reunion. Edward F. McGinnis, commander of the Cook county council of the Legion, issued a plea for Chicago Legionnaires to familiarize themselves with the grounds and exhibits so that they can act as guides to out of town visitors.

Many of the concessionaires are arranging special programs for the benefit of the Legion and special prices are being offered to Legionnaires and their families who wish to visit the Fair grounds.

At the Pantheon de la Guerre a daily ceremony will be held by drum and bugle corps from various posts of the Legion from all over the United States. These ceremonies will be in the form of concerts by the corps, contests in baton wielding, and exhibitions by champion fife and drum outfits.

200,000 ON WAY TO CHICAGO FOR LEGION PARLEY

All Transport Agencies Overtaxed.

Trains, buses and airlines were overtaxed yesterday as armies of Legionnaires and their families moved on Chicago. All transportation agencies were putting on extra equipment to handle what was regarded as the greatest influx of veterans to an American Legion convention.

Their reports showed that fully 200,000 will pour into the city today and tomorrow over the railroads, by airplane, bus, and in automobiles. As a contrast it was pointed out by Legion officials that approximately 50,000 vets and their families attended last year's national convention at Portland, Ore.

Give Fair Much Credit.

The transportation and Legion officials said that two things were responsible for the tremendous influx. One was the fact that Chicago is a mid-country location, the other A Century of Progress. A large number of the Legionnaires, they said, for the first time were bringing their wives and childrmen to the convention because of the Fair. In the past American Legion conventions have been more or less stag affairs, they pointed out. The Fair, it was considered, was a magnet to thousands of war veterans who otherwise would not have come. Some never have attended a convention before.

Put on Extra Trains.

Railroads reported that they had been forced to add numerous extra trains and sections to handle hundreds of organized Legion posts. One hundred and ten such groups, numbering 50 to 400, are scheduled to arrive today. As many more are expected tomorrow. The Pennsylvania lines alone reported they have provided forty extra trains to bring in 20,000 Legionnaires and their families from Detroit, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Lima, O., and other points.

Passenger Traffic Manager D. M. Bowman said twenty extra trains and sections will bring 15,000 over the Michigan Central, the New York Central and the Big Four. On the Rock Island lines 12,000 will be carried in added sections, according to W. J. Leahy, assistant passenger traffic manager.

R. Thomson of the Chicago and North Western railroad lines estimated that the road will bring in 15,000 veterans and their families today and tomorrow. F. W. Benefiel, vice president of the Greyhound Bus Lines, estimated the company's buses will bring in between 8,000 and 9,000 Legionnaires by Tuesday morning.

Planes at Capacity.

Air lines officials said that all their planes for Chicago were operating at full capacity. K. A. Kennedy, traffic manager of the United Air lines, said they had to add three extra planes to supply demands for transportation from the Pacific coast to Chicago.

One special train from the west coast was to arrive at the Chicago and North Western station this morning at 8 o'clock with the Salem, Ore., national champion drum and bugle corps, totaling 175 persons. Another special over the Illinois Central will bring 275 veterans, including the Miami drum and bugle corps, which has held the national championship four times and which intends to wrest it away from the Salem post. The latter group was scheduled to arrive at 10:35 o'clock this morning.

Over the North Western, to arrive at 8 o'clock this morning, was the Portland Rose train carrying the Idaho Falls American Legion post of 175 members with 30,000 pounds of Idaho potatoes in ten pound sacks. These vets will be cloths in potato "smocks" when they march in the parade Tuesday. The group included the Idaho champion band and the Idaho Falls drug and bugle corps.

California Due Today.

Over the Milwaukee road at the Union station at 9 o'clock this morning was to arrive the California delegation numbering 250. The délegation includes the famous Hollywood band, comprising members of the movie colony.

One of the largest organized groups of Legionnaires is the Minnesota delegation of 500. This body is made up of one special train having twenty-two cars, arriving on the Milwaukee line at the union station at 9:10 this morning. From Germantown, Pa., was to arrive the Henry H. Houston II. post, with a sixty-five piece trumpet band at 8 o'clock.

From the sixth and eighth Wisconsin districts comes the Madam Schumann-Heink special with 300 veterans and the noted signer. The train arrives at the Soo line station at 4:40 this afternoon. A delegation of 400 from Washington, D. C., will arrive at 8:30 this morning at the Union station. From New York City at 7:40 a. m. will arrive the Metropolitan Caravan over the Michigan Central.

Eastern, Mass., post comes in at the Michigan Central 457 strong at 7:30 o'clock tonight. From Boston arrives the Marlboro drum corps with 150 members at 6 o'clock this evening at the La Salle street station.

MEETINGS OF SEVEN LEGION GROUPS ARE SCHEDULED TODAY

Seven pre-convention meetings of American Legion groups are scheduled for today. The meetings, their location, and the time at which they will be held are as follows: Assistant secretaries—office of national adjutant, Civic opera house, 9 a. m.; Legion Press association — office of Fred G. Condict, Civic opera house, 9 a. m.; credentials—room 10 Palmer house, 1 p. m.; permanent organization—room 10 Palmer house, 1:15 p. m.; rules—room 10 Palmer house, 1:30 p. m.; national executive committee—room 10 Palmer house, 3 p. m.; national child welfare committee—red lacquer room, Palmer house, 2 p. m.

Month's Fishing Starts Today in 2 South Parks

The fishing season will open today in the Washington and Jackson park lagoons and continue through October. The Washington park lagoon was stocked with blue gills, bass and pickerel five years ago while the lake supplies the lagoon in Jackson park. Fishermen may fish only from rowboats, according to the order of the south park commissioners.

Lieut. Col. Ijams Elected Head of Military Order

Lieut. Col. George E. Ijams, assistant of the veteran's bureau in Washington, was elected president of the Military Order of the World War at the Congress hotel yesterday. Capt. John Parker Hill, retired, of Philadelphia, and Rear Admiral R. R. Belknap of New York were elected senior vice commanders.

REVEAL TRAFFIC PLAN FOR GREAT LEGION PARADE

Turn Heart of City Over to Veterans.

BY HAL FOUST.

Traffic engineers and police yesterday finished plans designed to save the city's normal activities from complete paralysis during the greatest parade in Chicago's history, the march of 120,000 American Legionnaires on Tuesday from the Michigan avenue bridge to Soldiers' field.

The participants in the parade constitute an army by themselves and added to these, as a traffic problem, will be a throng of spectators estimated as high as half a million.

The heart of the Chicago business district, from Oak street to 16th street, between the lake and State street, will virtually be turned over to the Legion for this demonstration. The problem of the police is to allow the normal flow of 900,000 workers and shoppers into this central business district while the all day parade is on so that the wheels of industry and commerce will not be stopped.

40 and 8 Parade Monday Night.

Special traffic arrangements and policing in this area will begin tomorrow preparatory to a 40 and 8 parade at night. All parking will be prohibited in the afternoon and evening in Michigan avenue, Wabash avenue, and State street and in all east and west streets from the lake as far west as State street and from Chicago avenue to 16th street. The ban will be enforced all day Tuesday and the restricted area extended north to Oak street.

An hour or so before the starting time of the 40 and 8 parade at 7:15 p. m., Michigan avenue will be closed in the restricted area; east and west streets will be closed east of State street and Wabash will be reserved for busses and street cars only. The streets will not be opened until about 10 p. m.

On Tuesday these regulations will remain in effect from 9 a. m. until about 9 p. m. The main Legion parade is scheduled to leave the Michigan avenue bridge at 10 a. m. Tuesday, moving south to Jackson boulevard, thence east to the lake front drive, south into Soldiers' field and back north in the inner drive and across the Congress street viaduct to disband.

Assign 2,375 Police.

The police have assigned 2,375 men to handle the crowds and the traffic. Along the line of march will be stationed 1,650 uniformed men. Over an area of sixteen square miles, from Melrose avenue to 39th street and as far west as Halsted street, Capt. David Flynn of the traffic division said 725 city and park police will be directing the rerouting of normal traffic.

North side motorists en route to the loop will be detoured in Lincoln park over La Salle street and nearby parallel streets. Traffic from the south in the outer drive will be sent west at 23d street to State street or farther. Michigan avenue automobiles will be turned west at 14th street.

Busses that normally operate in Michigan avenue will use Wabash avenue, reserved exclusively for busses and street cars. Because State street will be the most easterly north and south pavement remaining open it is anticipated that it will be badly congested. Private car drivers are advised to avoid the loop, using Canal street, Halsted street, Ashland avenue, or Western avenue as a detour for intersectional trips.

Assembling of Parade.

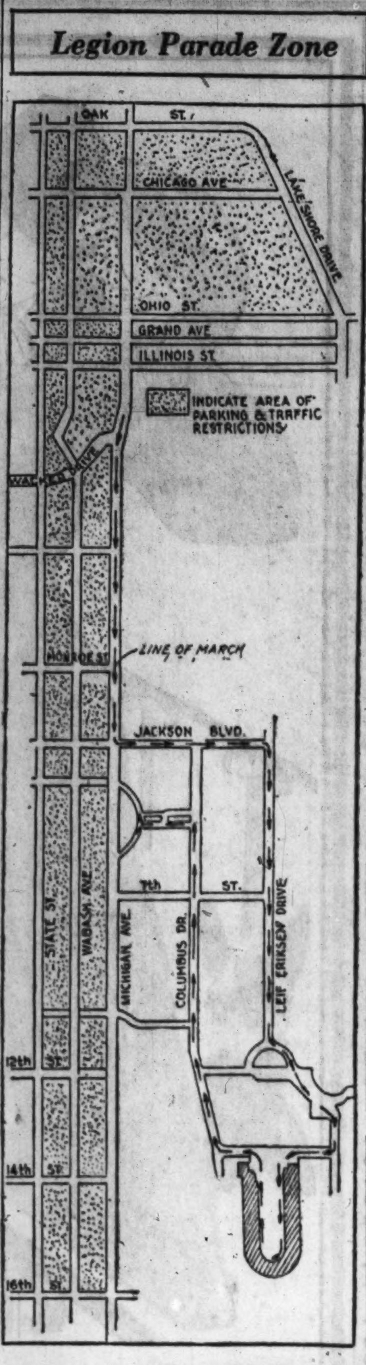
On the near north side, the area between State street, the lake, the river, and Oak street will be used to assemble the parade. Chicago avenue, however, is to be kept open for two way traffic, while Grand avenue will be used for east bound and Illinois for west bound vehicles crossing the lower level of Michigan avenue. This lower level of Michigan and of Wacker drive will be used by pedestrians and vehicles.

The Illinois Central is the only railroad that will be inconvenienced. Capt. Flynn said he will keep the pedestrian under passes accessible at Jackson, Monroe, Congress, and Van Buren streets. Occasionally, pedestrians will be permitted to cross Michigan at grade south of Jackson boulevard.

Taxicabs will have access to the Illinois Central station at Roosevelt road.

Transportation to A Century of Progress will not be seriously handicapped. The street cars will operate as usual to the Roosevelt road and 18th street terminals, although there will probably be some congestion at the north end of the Fair, due to the marchers.

Busses and taxicabs will discharge passengers en route to the northern gates at Wabash avenue and 11th street or Roosevelt road. These carriers will continue as normally to touch the gates at 23d street and farther south.



This area will be virtually taken over by the American Legion for its history making parade Tuesday. Michigan avenue will be closed from 16th to Oak street and parking in the area will be prohibited. Arrows show the line of march. The map was prepared by the Chicago Motor club.

CHILD WELFARE HOLDS INTEREST OF LEGION TODAY

Conference to Discuss Important Work.

The child welfare work done by the American Legion and its adjunct groups will be discussed at a conference of representatives of each in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house at 2:15 p. m. today. The gathering is one of the most important to be held in connection with the annual reunion of the veterans.

Mrs. Margaret Wells Wood of New York City, whose topic is "Today's Child Tomorrow's Parent," will give the main address of the conference. She is affiliated with the national board of the Y. W. C. A. as secretary in coöperation with employers.

She also is executive secretary of the Hospital Social Service association of New York, is affiliated with the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and holds the post of associate chairman of the social hygiene committee of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Miss Emma C. Puschner, national director of child welfare for the Legion, with headquarters at Indianapolis, will be the presiding officer of the conference, which is open to the public without charge. Dr. Charles Schott of Chicago, Illinois representative on the Legion national committee, will welcome the gathering, and Milt D. Campbell of Cincinnati, chairman of the national committee, will speak.

'PRACTICAL PACIFISTS'

Legion Auxiliary members are "practical pacifists," in the words of Mrs. Adeline Wright Macaulay of Menomonie, Wis., who headed the organization in 1928 to 1929. They belong, she explained, to that school of American thought which holds that fostering a world community spirit will bring disarmament, as contrasted to those who hold that the only way to achieve a world community spirit is by disarmament first.

Mrs. Macaulay was an educator prior to World War days, when her husband, a lawyer, and her brother, were both sent overseas. When the latter came home wounded, she resolved to center her interests on world peace. She is now a lecturer on the topic. Her big brown eyes and prematurely gray hair were set off yesterday by a cold colored satin hostess gown, with a jacket of Persian velvet.

"We are not ready yet for world disarmament," she argued. "American people don't understand the old national hatreds of European nations, handed down from generation to generation, or they would realize how dangerous world disarmament can be at this time. You can't outlaw war in one generation. We who know war for what it means in suffering, owe the next generation the duty of teaching them what it really means."

The Salvation Army's canteen in Grant park was officially dedicated last night by Commissioner W. A. McIntyre. Six hours before that, however, the lassies in the blue bonnets began their free distribution of coffee and doughnuts to Legion men. Under the huge canvas tent north of the Art institute a recreational center similar to those in France has been set up. Last night an old phonograph warbled world war tunes as friendships were revived over steaming hot coffee cups at the wooden tables. Each night a program will be presented as in the war days.

Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war and former governor of Kansas, and his bride, Mrs. Helen Coolidge Woodring, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Marcus A. Coolidge of Massachusetts, whom he married two months ago, arrived yesterday to attend the convention. Mr. Woodring will be the guest of Legion Commander Louis A. Johnson and will be the principal speaker at the commander's dinner to distinguished guests in the Palmer house tomorrow night.

The boss in shirt sleeves of Legion convention headquarters at 105 South Dearborn street is William C. Barnes. His title is assistant to the executive vice president of the American Legion 1933 corporation, Phil Collins. Bill Barnes began work on the convention Jan. 15. He bosses 3,000 volunteer workers. The convention pay roll totals only 31 names. Barnes is a member of the Advertising Men's post of Chicago. He was a lieutenant in the 118th Field artillery.

Officials of the convention are predicting that it will be an unusually dry affair. The men will drink beer and plenty of it, but for that reason hard liquor will not be in general use, the officials say.

Nearly 250,000 persons will have arrived for the convention when it opens tomorrow, according to a conservative estimate. The largest previous convention was in Detroit in 1931, when 185,000 attended.

The convention will drop approximately $2,000,000 a day into the tills of merchants, hotel keepers, restaurateurs and stores in Chicago, it has been estimated. Legionnaires will stay an average of six and one-half days each, it is expected. A minimum of $10,000,000 will be spent in Chicago, according to this estimate, and probably $12,000,000.

Col. Edward B. Clark of Washington, D. C., 73 years old, believes he is the oldest veteran who saw active front line service in France to register at legion headquarters. Col. Clark was a Chicago newspaper man at the time of the old World's Fair.

The 1st Division reunion will be held tomorrow night at a banquet in the Hotel Sherman. Word was received yesterday from Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall, former army chief of staff and commander of the division, that he will be unable to be present because of the severe illness of a dean of the military school of which he is president at Charleston, S. C.

Visiting Legionnaires concerned about getting accommodations in Chicago may have the problem solved by calling upon the Legion housing committee at 105 South Dearborn street. The committee's office is open 24 hours a day. Paul G. Armstrong is chairman of the committee and Larry Felker is vice chairman.

L. S. Rothschild of Honolulu Legion delegate from Hawaii, arrived after a 5,200 mile trip and registered at convention headquarters last night. There are ten posts in Hawaii, Rothschild said. He is a member of Post 1. He was in the navy 32 years.

A memorial service in honor of the men who gave their lives in the naval service during the war will mark the opening of the convention for navy veterans today when a service will be read and a wreath dropped on the water from the steamer Theodore Roosevelt at 11:55 a. m. in midlake. Lieut. Commander A. R. Pieper will conduct the service as acting commander of the ship.

Members of the Third division, A. E. F., the "Rock of the Marne," will hold a two day reunion ending with a dinner at the Hotel Sherman tomorrow night. Maj. Gen. Preston E. Brown, former commander of the division who will take over command of the Sixth corps area when Maj. Gen. Frank Parker departs for the Philippines, is scheduled to speak. Chairman of the reunion is Tom Harwood, 729 Emerson street, Evanston.

The first request for information at the American Legion registration booth in the Bismarck hotel, presided over by Mrs. Grace Heddles, came from Lieut. Col. J. J. Graves of Blonville, France. He is here with his wife and two children and wanted to know where to buy dresses and hats. Col. Graves is proprietor of the Villa Roberta in Blonville.

John R. Quinn, national commander of the Legion in 1924, registered at the Palmer house yesterday. He is working to get the 1935 convention for Los Angeles, he said.

Convention Sessions Will Open Tomorrow.

er, chairman of a special Legion court committee, said that he and Judge Cecil Smith would be present at all times to dispose of the less serious cases of disorder. Important cases will be sent to room 128 in the city hall, where six other judges will hold night court each night from 8 to 12. Ambulances and squads will be held at the Franklin street headquarters.

Headquarters of the Legion at 105 South Dearborn street and in the Civic Opera building were thronged with visitors yesterday. The women's auxiliary, the housing committee, the Boy Scouts, and the credentials and badge committee were swamped with work. Some political headquarters were established and preliminary work done in the committees which will meet tomorrow to steer the business sessions. The national finance committee was the only one which functioned yesterday.

Important Meetings Today.

Today the credentials, rules, and permanent organization committees will get into action at the Palmer house. The child welfare conference, in which the Legion has taken such a deep interest, will also be held there this afternoon. The most important meeting of the day is that of the national executive committee, which will meet in the Palmer house at 3 p. m.

In addition to Hayes of Illinois Legion politics yesterday began to center on consideration of Sam Reynolds of Omaha, Neb., Ray Murphy of Ida Grove, Ia., and George W. Malone of Nevada as contenders for the national commandership.

Reynolds is a member of the Legion executive committee. Last year he ran for national commander at Portland, and told the Legion they were riding for a fall in supporting the cash bonus. He is a coal merchant, 43 years old, and is making his campaign this year on a revision and better deal for the veterans under the economy act.

He told the Portland convention that if the Legion demanded the immediate payment of the bonus "the country's war disabled would be crucified." His attitude now is that the Legion is at the cross roads and must set about the task of restoring justice to the "maimed, crippled and disheartened men" of the Legion.

Two Other Candidates.

Murphy is a member of the Legion legislative committee and has been instrumental in getting legislation enacted. Malone, state engineer of Nevada, makes the point that disabled veterans must be cared for somehow and that the only issue is which unit of government will do it. Such care, he says, should be part of the cost of war, definitely chargeable to the national government.

The first service of the convention will be the memorial service on Navy pier this evening. The public is invited. Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the Legion, and Mrs. S. Alford Blackburn, national president of the auxiliary, will be present, as well as Mayor Kelly, Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, past national commander, Rabbi Solomon Freehoff, Bishop George Craig Stewart and Father Dan Daley. The Legion chorus, one of the largest ever assembled, will be conducted by Samuel Burkholder. The Women's Symphony orchestra will play under the leadership of Ebba Sundstrom. Milton A. Myers is chairman of the memorial service committee.

32 Years in U. S. Army; Sergeant Rates a Review

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Troops at Fort Myer, Va., will review Monday in honor of Master Sergeant William Pratt of Los Angeles, who is retiring after almost continuous service in the army since 1900, including a distinguished war record.

MARCONI ARRIVES TODAY, GUEST OF LEGION AND FAIR

Plan Social Events for the Inventor and Wife.

Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor of wireless, will arrive in Chicago today to visit A Century of Progress and to participate in the American Legion convention. The famous inventor, who is a marchese and a senator of Italy, will be accompanied by his wife.

From the time the Marconis step off the train at 9:45 o'clock this morning until they leave Chicago their time will be taken up by receptions, dinners and other public appearances. Among the events scheduled for today are a reception for the marchese and the marchesa by the Order of the Sons of Italy at the Knickerbocker hotel and a dinner at the Drake given by prominent Chicagoans.

Tomorrow has been set aside as Marconi day at the Fair and the inventor will be honored for his contributions to science and the development of the radio. He will open the day with a formal address in behalf of the Italian government at the opening session of the Legion convention at 10 o'clock in the morning in Soldiers' field.

World-Wide Broadcast.

The chief event will be a world-wide broadcast from the court of the Hall of Science from 5:30 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon. During this broadcast Marconi will send the letter S around the world through a chain of radio stations.

The letter S was chosen for its historic significance in the field of wireless. Thirty-two years ago the first signals across the Atlantic were received and the letter S was chosen for transmittal at that time.

As a climax to the broadcast the star Arcturus will yield to the star Capella as the official illuminator of the fair grounds. By means of a photo-electric cell the rays of light from the star Capella received in the giant telescope at the Osservatorie Arcetri in Florence, Italy, will actuate a relay controlling one of the giant radio transmitters at the trans-oceanic station at Rome.

The signal will be carried from Rome to New York by the Radio Corporation of America and on arrival will be automatically transferred to the lines of the Western Union and sent to Chicago to light the Fair.

Historical Apparatus Shown.

A display of historical apparatus used by Marconi in his early experiments will be installed in the main hall of the second floor of the Hall of Science. Among the exhibits will be a transmitter with parabolic reflector used by Marconi at Bologna in 1895, an experimental tuned transmitter used at Poole, England in 1899, and a replica of the first Marconi radio set.

Marchese Marconi will be the guest at a reception to be held in the Italian pavilion in A Century of Progress from 4 to 4:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. A special program will be broadcast to Italy from the pavilion during which Senator Marconi will send greetings to the Italian people.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Science will be conferred on Marconi by Northwestern university at a dinner to be held in the federal building at the Fair Tuesday evening. President Walter Dill Scott of the university will present the degree, and Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, John H. Hardin, president of the board at Northwestern, and Prof. Henry Crew of the science department.

Presidents of nine middle west universities will attend the dinner. They are Glenn Frank, Wisconsin; W. E. Hotchkiss, Armour; Edward C. Elliott, Purdue; George N. Carman, Lewis institute; Samuel Wilson, Loyola; F. V. Corcoran, De Paul; Irving Maurer, Beloit, and Herbert W. Moore, Lake Forest.

Gets Italian Phone Girls.

The Drake hotel management yesterday ordered the assignment of two Italian speaking switchboard operators as a convenience for Marconi. Mrs. Elizabeth Shields, in charge of the telephone switchboards of both the Drake and Blackstone hotels, appointed Frances Cera and Louise Contino for this job. They performed a similar duty at the Drake hotel during the visit of Italo Balbo and his overseas air squadron.

As plans for honoring the Italian inventor went forward it was recalled that had his father's plans been carried out the world would have had to look to some one else for the wireless and radio developments. The father insisted that Marconi study music and become a composer, but the youth turned to science.

He was 22 years old when, in 1896, he went to England and took out the first patent ever granted for a practical system of wireless telegraphy by use of electric waves.

WAR MOTHERS DENOUNCE REDS; ELECT OFFICERS

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Election of officers was completed today at the biennial convention of American war mothers.

Upon completion of the balloting, the election of the following officers was announced: Mrs. Irving Fairweather of Wallace, Idaho, recording secretary; Mrs. Cora Purcell of Pueblo, Colo., treasurer; Mrs. Eleanor Wagner of Riverside, Md., custodian of records; Mrs. F. Norman Smith of Clarksville, Tenn., chaplain, and Mrs. J. E. Wilcox of Bancroft, Kas., historian.

The convention at its closing session adopted resolutions calling for preparedness and denouncing communism.

CONVICT TESTS AID BATTLE ON SLEEP SICKNESS

U. S. Officials Seek Disease Cause.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Surgeon General Hugh C. Cumming said tonight the public health service, in conducting encephalitis tests on Mississippi convicts, was following the course which resulted in discovery of the cause of pellagra.

The present tests, as in the former case, Dr. Cumming said, participation in the experiments by the convicts was entirely voluntary. He emphasized also that they were only made on the prisoners after members of the public health service had subjected themselves to the tests with negative result.

Subject May Win Parole.

Although the chief of the public health service said he was not familiar with all the details of the arrangement he said the prisoners were given the opportunity to subject themselves to the tests in return for parole.

One of the purposes of the tests, Dr. Cumming said, was to determine whether mosquitos carried the sleeping sickness germ. He indicated he had not received a report on the outcome of the experiments.

Revealed by Governor.

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Gov. Sennett Conner tonight revealed that a series of encephalitis tests have been conducted among convicts of the Mississippi penitentiary by United States public health officials in co-operation with state health officers, but declined to make public results of the experiments.

The executive said a "complete report" of the official findings was in his hands and he would issue a statement along with the report on Monday.

FRENCH ENVOY TO THE LEGION ARRIVES TODAY

Veterans' Welcome Ready for Count de Chambrun.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Only a few hours behind Marconi of Italy, Count Adalbert de Chambrun, a general of France and a descendant of the Marquis de Lafayette, will arrive in Chicago this afternoon to represent his government at the convention of the American Legion. Both the foreign plenipotentiaries, it is expected, will present invitations to the Legion to hold its 1937 meeting in their respective homelands, the one in Rome, and the other in Paris.

Count de Chambrun's appointment as the official French representative at the Chicago convention has been acclaimed as a happy choice. He is American born, his native city being Washington. His birth occurred there in 1872 while his father was legal counselor to the French embassy. The elder Count de Chambrun came to this country originally in the 1860's on a special mission, and became a friend of Lincoln and Sumner.

Attached to Pershing's Staff.

During the world war, Count Adalbert de Chambrun was attached to Gen. Pershing's staff, where he had the opportunity of making a number of lasting friendships among American officers and men. One of these who knew him then was Col. R. R. McCormick, and another was Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, both of whom will be hosts to the distinguished Frenchman during his stay here.

The count will be accompanied to Chicago by his wife, Countess Clara Longworth de Chambrun, a sister and also the biographer of the late speaker of the national house of representatives, Nicholas Longworth. She is an outstanding personage in the literary world of France and is an authority on the life and works of Shakespeare, having won the degree of LL.D. at the Sorbonne with a thesis entitled "Shakespeare: Actor Poet." She recently completed a novel based on the life of Shakespeare.

Her book on the life of her brother, published last spring, is called "The Making of Nicholas Longworth." It relates not only the history and background of the Longworth family, but much of the early development of their home town, Cincinnati.

Associate of Literary Leaders.

Countess de Chambrun is further distinguished for her association with such literary figures as Abbe Dimnet, Andre Maurois and others in the French Book club, which promotes French literature in America as a bond of good will between the countries.

The de Chambruns have a son, Rene, who is now an attorney in New York, and whom they will visit before returning to France.

Attorney C. Wayland Brooks is chairman of the distinguished guest committee of the Legion which will welcome Count and Countess de Chambrun when they arrive in the Union station at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon over the Pennsylvania lines. They will make the trip to Chicago in the private car of W. W. Atterbury, president of the railroad. Also on hand to extend greetings will be the French consul general in Chicago, M. Rene Weiller.

Col. McCormick will be host this evening at a dinner for Count and Countess de Chambrun. Tomorrow night Count de Chambrun will be one of the honored guests at Legion Commander Louis A. Johnson's dinner in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house, and on Tuesday Brig. Gen. Davis will entertain for him.

Walter Camp Jr. Marries Mrs. J. L. Smith of Indiana

"FIRSTS" IN WAR, NOW ROOMMATES, AWAIT CONCLAVE

The first man drafted in Chicago during the world war and the first alien ever permitted to join the United States navy, now roommates at 7344 Cornell avenue, are looking forward to the opening of the American Legion convention tomorrow.

Alfred Primeau, a French Canadian by birth, was the first man accepted for the national army. He was living at 217 North Clark street at the time. Primeau had his first citizenship papers at the time, and before he went overseas with the 211th motor supply company, received full citizenship in a mass ceremony before Federal Judge K. M. Landis.

In a hospital at Brest he met Patrick Sexton, the first alien to be enlisted in the navy. In order to enlist Sexton had to go to Washington, D. C., to make a personal appeal to Franklin D. Roosevelt, then assistant secretary of the navy. He also became a citizen while he was in service. He is a native of County Cavan, Ireland, and during the war was a seaman on the battleship Utah.

Grain Board Cuts Session to Honor Legion Meeting

The Chicago Board of Trade will close at noon Tuesday, Oct. 3, as a compliment to the American Legion convention. Many members of the exchange and employés will participate in the parade. The Board of Trade Legion band will not take part in the contest to determine the national championship this year, being barred from competition as it won the convention contest at Seattle, Wash., last year.

RUSSIANS CLAIM BALLOON MARK OF 11 MILES HIGH

In Air 8 Hours; Descend Amid Wild Acclaim.

MOSCOW, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Three men in an aluminum ball hooked to a balloon ascended 11.8 miles today, the greatest height ever reached by man, and enjoyed themselves so much that when they landed the first thing they said was they would do it again as soon as they could.

"None of us seems to be any worse for the experience, and we could go up again tomorrow," said Ernest Birnbaum, the leader of the expedition into the stratosphere.

He was accompanied on the record breaking flight by two other air service veterans, Georgi Prokofiev and Konstantin Gudenoff.

In Air Eight Hours.

The balloon Stratostat, U. S. S. R., landed near Kolomna, 71 miles from Moscow, after they had been aloft 8 hours 19 minutes.

There are 65,000 persons in Kolomna, and almost every one of them took part in the welcome to the aeronauts, who started immediately for Moscow, where a welcome of even greater proportions awaited them.

Instruments carried by the balloon indicated it had reached a height of 19,000 meters, compared with the record of 16,700 meters set by Prof. Auguste Piccard in August, 1932. Piccard's record equaled 10 miles and 117 yards.

"It was a great experience," said Prokofiev. "The temperature outside the gondola was 67 below, but inside it was 30 above and we were almost stifled, particularly in view of our heavy clothing.

Balloon Is Unharmed.

"All the scientific instruments which we carried functioned splendidly, and every calculation proved to be correct. Our landing was so perfect that the balloon was not harmed and we could very well ascend again tomorrow.

"After resting and correlating our scientific data, we intend to make another attempt, and perhaps we shall be able to reach a still greater height. We not only want to confirm our present data but also obtain more information regarding the cosmic rays. I am convinced that such attempts will be possible throughout the entire winter."

Birnbaum was immensely pleased with the success of the flight.

"We sealed ourselves in at a height of 2,000 meters [6,564 feet] and did not open up again until we were 4,000 meters [13,128 feet] above the ground on the descent. The heat was terrific, but we didn't mind it, and we ate our sandwiches."

Wireless to Earth.

Frequently during the flight the aeronauts used their wireless apparatus to keep those on the earth informed of their progress.

The gondola in which they rode is shaped like a ball and is equipped with nine windows. When the takeoff was made it carried liquid oxygen enough to last the three men 40 hours. In addition there were numerous scientific instruments which functioned automatically.

The balloon, built of rubberized percale and having a gas capacity of 25,000 cubic meters, was inflated with only 3,500 cubic meters at the takeoff to allow for expansion.

Record Must Be Checked.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The claimed record breaking altitude flight of three Russian balloonists today was described as a "very marvelous performance" by Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics.

King said the record would be subject to confirmation by the Federal Internationale Aeronautique, the association which passes on all such records.

Commander T. G. W. Settle, America's famous balloonist, left today for Akron and was expected to go from there to Chicago to prepare for a second attempt to set a new altitude record. He attempted one flight, ascending at A Century of Progress Exposition, but was forced down after climbing only a short distance.

DROP ELECTRIC RAIL LINE HIT BY BIG STORM

An order authorizing the Aurora, Elgin and Fox River Electric company to abandon its line between Elgin, Dundee, and Carpenterville, which was demolished by a tornado on July 2, was entered by the Illinois commerce commission yesterday.

Testimony showed that it would cost the company about $10,000 to restore the line and that funds are not available. It was also shown that present traffic would not justify the expenditure. A certificate of convenience and necessity was issued to the Fox Valley coach line to render motor bus service.

The commission also granted a six months' extension on the removal of the street car tracks on Lake Shore drive between Chicago avenue and Ohio street. The matter is pending in the courts.

PLANE RUNS INTO AIR POCKET; FOUR DIE IN THE CRASH

Mangum, Okla., Sept. 30.—[U. P.]—Four youths were killed in an airplane crash late today near Cooperton, south of here.

The dead:

Travis Jennings, Cooperton, pilot; Burford Casner, Clearwater, Kas., and Gail Casner, Cooperton. All were said to be in their twenties.

Gail Casner, a cousin of Burford Casner, died in an ambulance en route to Mangum. The others were killed instantly.

Jennings had been to Cooperton taking up passengers. Witnesses said his ship seemed to strike an air pocket at an altitude of 300 feet. It went into a spin and struck the earth with great force.

FINED AS RESULT OF AUTO CRASH.

Judge Eugene J. Holland in the Traffic court yesterday fined Anthony Caruso, 19 years old, 3041 Arthington street, $7 for auto violations. Caruso's automobile collided with a car driven by Fire Battalion Chief Joseph J. Graham on Aug. 11 at Jackson boulevard and Wells street.

AIRPLANE PILOTS' STRIKE AVERTED; PAY RISES TODAY

The possibility of a strike of air line pilots over differences concerning a uniform wage scale that is being placed in effect by the four major air lines of the country today was forestalled by the national labor board at Washington last night. The board appealed to the pilots not to strike pending adjudication of their dispute. David L. Behncke, president of the Air Line Pilots' union, announced that he had instructed the pilots to stay on their jobs.

The four air lines who are placing the uniform wage scale in effect today are United Air Lines, American Airways, Transcontinental and Western Air Lines and Western Air Express. Eastern Air Transport company, which agreed to the uniform scale, yielded to the request of its pilots that it not be placed in effect immediately.

The new scale will give air line pilots an average income of $7,700 a year for flying 21 hours a week. This means a raise for all pilots except on United Air Lines, which has instituted a bonus system to keep its pilots' salaries at last year's higher levels.

American Firm Wins Nicaragua Air Contract

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

MANAGUA, Sept. 30.—The government has contracted with the Compania de Transportes Aeros de Nicaragua, an American company, to carry air mail, cargo, and express throughout Nicaragua. The contract is for three years and provides for service to all cities with flying fields. Nicaragua now has two American and one Italian company maintaining regular air service. The trip from Managua to Ocotal takes two hours by air instead of two weeks as by mule.

LA FOLLETTE, EX-GOV., TALKS OF DEATH PLOT

Says Gangsters Visited Friends' Home.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Philip F. La Follette, former governor, described here today what he believed was an attempt to ambush him and Thomas Amlie, Elkhorn, former congressman, at a lonely cottage at Williams Bay, Lake Geneva, early this morning.

La Follette and Amlie had attended a meeting at Kenosha last night. There they made speeches before a Lutheran assembly. They talked with local residents until after midnight and at 12:45 started for Mr. Amlie's cottage at Williams Bay. They arrived at the cottage at about 2:30 and found Mrs. Amlie greatly disturbed.

Tells Story of Mystery.

After a consultation with his friends La Follette declared that he decided to tell the story to newspaper men and called them in.

Mrs. Amlie told the two men on their return that she had awakened at about 10:30 last night and heard noises outside the cottage. The cottage stands by itself in a lonely wood. She saw two men a short distance away from the cottage and called to them to ascertain who they were.

La Follette quoted her as telling about one of the men asking in a gruff voice whether La Follette and Amlie had yet returned. She replied they had not.

She again asked the men who they were:

"None of your damned business," was the reply. When the men faced her she noticed that they wore masks.

Mrs. Amlie, a maid and the four Amlie children were in the cottage and there was no telephone.

Hears Men in Yard.

Mrs. Amlie went to bed. She could hear the men moving about in the yard. At 12:45 the Amlie pup squealed and one of the men is believed to have stepped on the young dog. This started one of the Amlie children screaming and Mrs. Amlie again went to an upstairs window and called to the men.

She explained that she did not believe that Amlie and La Follette were coming back because of an agreement that if they were delayed to an extent they would not return last night. The men stayed about the cottage for about 15 minutes more and then disappeared.

La Follette declared today that according to Mrs. Amlie the men were not able to pronounce Amlie's name correctly, leading to the assumption that they were not local residents. He said they apparently had a surprising knowledge that he was going to stay at the Amlie cottage when no one knew this outside of his own office and a few friends.

La Follette discounted the theory of kidnaping, declaring that any one who would have gone to the trouble of getting all the facts the men apparently had would also have ascertained the fact that the La Follette family did not have enough money to furnish a worthwhile ransom.

La Follette viewed the episode as a probable attempt at ambush, believing that it may have represented an attempt to end his campaign against the Roosevelt recovery program. La Follette has been making a speaking campaign against some phases of the Roosevelt theories.

CHARGES PLOT

Philip La Follette, former governor of Wisconsin, who says attempt was made to kidnap or ambush him at cottage in Lake Geneva district.

Mother of B. F. Lindheimer Dies Suddenly in East

Mrs. Lilly Lindheimer, mother of Benjamin F. Lindheimer, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, died suddenly yesterday at Atlantic City, N. J. She had been there a week, resting at a local hotel. Her three sons, Benjamin, whose home is at 4805 Drexel boulevard; Horace, 5454 South Shore drive, a realtor, and Arthur, went immediately to Atlantic City. Mrs. Lindheimer's husband Jacob died several years ago.

RESTAURANT WAITER SHOT.

HAVANA GUARDED BY TROOPS; REDS HELD IN CHECK

Remains of Communist "Martyr" Vanish.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 30.—Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of staff of the Cuban army, loomed as the strong man of the Grau San Martin government today as Havana speculated on what effect yesterday's fighting between the army and communists might have upon the question of recognition of the Grau régime by the United States.

The palace refused to comment, but an undercurrent of opinion was that the suppression of the Red demonstration at a cost of six lives and 20 wounded was, perhaps, the strongest argument the Grau régime so far has presented for recognition and as indicating that Col. Batista may be able to restore order, at least in Havana. This city overnight turned from turmoil to quiet and today was tranquil.

The whereabouts of the ashes of Julio Mella, communist student killed in Mexico three years ago by alleged agents of former President Machado, remained a mystery today. No funeral was held this morning in Colon cemetery under military surveillance, as projected last night. It was over the attempt of the communists to bury the ashes of Mella as a martyr that the fatal rioting began yesterday.

Several versions were told today of what happened to the round pink talcum box and the square blue pasteboard box which held Mella's ashes. One was that soldiers had confiscated the boxes. Another was that the bona fide ashes had never arrived from Mexico. A third, put out by the communistic Anti-Imperialistic League of Cuba, was that the boxes were removed to a place of safety when the shooting started at the headquarters of the league yesterday.

Bonfire Smolders in Street.

In Reina street a bonfire was still smoldering this noon in front of the mansion of former Senator Wilfredo Fernandez, which had been converted into a Red headquarters and which was raided last night by soldiers and civilians. Fernandez is now a prisoner in Cabanas fortress. Soldiers squatted in the doorway of the mansion and the entire district was under close military surveillance today. The soldiers were under instructions not to allow any Red flags to be carried away.

In Fraternity park police were smoothing over the spot from which the soldiers yesterday wrenched the small stone under which the ashes of Mella were to have been entombed. Laughing crowds looked on.

At the docks a few incoming tourists who missed yesterday's excitement were met with words of assurance from guides and taxi drivers.

"Everything is quiet, Sharlie," they said.

Police Are Militarized.

The national police force of Havana, 2,000 strong, was put under Batista's control and militarized this morning. Lieut. Ulciceno Franco was put in command of the police by an order from the general staff. He succeeds Emilio Laurent. The avowed idea is to clean up the city, where the underworld, always wild, has been running wilder than usual during the revolutionary period.

"My campaign," said Franco, "will be directed not only against political disturbers but against all law breakers. I hope to restrict the brazen flouting of prostitution in the street and stop the thievery and burglary which have increased during the political unrest."

The opinion of merchants is that yesterday's disturbance is likely to be beneficial to Havana. Communist leaders, said to be mostly foreigners, are keeping business and industry in apprehension and the curbing of the Red demonstration was interpreted as indicating that the communist movement here is a thinner shell than was supposed.

Expect Roundup of Reds.

A roundup of agitators and disturbers by soldiers and military police is surmised to be in prospect. Communists here are affiliated with the Uruguayan branch of the Third Internationale of Moscow and some authorities conjecture that if less than 100 leaders were deported the soviet movement would languish.

At the National hotel the army and navy officers, who have been bottled up for three weeks, stood in groups on their rock this morning almost forgotten except by the soldiers guarding the approaches to the hotel.

Many witnesses of yesterday's performance seem inclined to the belief that the army seems to be operating as well under the former sergeants and corporals as under the old officers.

Joseph Gibson, American news reel camera man, who was shot in yesterday's fighting while taking movies with other American camera men at the roof garden of the Isle de Cuba hotel, was X-rayed today. Besides eight wounds showing on the surface of his legs a number of bird shot were shown to be imbedded in his flesh.

Snipers Are Blamed.

Camera men say the shots came from snipers above them, and in the fusillade it is a wonder all were not wounded. Gibson is at the Anglo-American hospital, where he is said to be out of danger.

Strikers from the Hershey mill, the largest sugar refinery in Cuba, called at the palace today with a request that the government ask Milton Hershey or Percy Staples, officials of the company in the United States, to come to Cuba to settle the strike. The strikers were headed by Ramon Collazo, president of the syndicate of unions at Hershey and pastor of a Quaker church there. Collazo said:

"Mr. Hershey is like a father to us."

SON OF PERUVIAN DEPUTY SHOT ON CONGRESS FLOOR

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 30.—[U. P.]—A bitter quarrel on the floor of congress today led to a shooting in which a youth standing beside his father, Deputy Pedro Abraham Del Solar, was seriously wounded.

Excitement had been running high because of protests against remarks by Deputy Oscar Medelius. He had criticized several army leaders who were active when the late President Sanchez Cerro was in office. Explanations by Medelius did not satisfy Climaco Tamayo, brother of the former minister of interior. The disorder became so great that the session was suspended.

In the confusion, some one shouted "wretch," at Medelius. He rose, infuriated, pistol in hand. Deputies leaped toward him, striking his arm. The pistol was fired and the bullet struck Fernando del Solar Miroquesada, son of one of the deputies attempting to restore order.

Famous British Church Bells Ring Again Today

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Church of St. Mary le Bow at Cheapside will be the scene of reopening services tomorrow. The famous Bow bells, restored through the generosity of the former Chicago merchant, Harry Gordon Selfridge, were rededicated in July by the archbishop of Canterbury.

TOWNSMEN KILL ESCAPED FELON; SHERIFF EXPLAINS

Eight Are Still Hunted by State Police.

JOSEPH JENKINS.

Nashville, Ind., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Joseph Jenkins, one of ten convicts who fled from the Indiana state prison at Michigan City on Tuesday, was slain in a gun battle with a hastily gathered posse of citizens at Beanblossom, a small settlement near here, this evening.

Herbert McDonald, who keeps the general store at Beanblossom, was shot and wounded in the arm by the fugitive. Shotgun fire by William Alltop and Benjamin Kantor, residents of the village, caused the death of Jenkins.

Suspect, Fellow Convict.

Alltop was at the home of his father-in-law, near Beanblossom, when the man later identified as Jenkins stopped there to ask directions to the general store. After the information had been given, Alltop, suspecting the stranger might be one of the fugitives, got into his automobile and drove to the hamlet, passing Jenkins on the way.

He asked aid of Kantor and McDonald and all armed themselves. A few minutes later Jenkins arrived and was challenged by the trio. He attempted to flee into an alley near the McDonald store, but was cornered. Drawing a pistol he shot McDonald. Kantor and Alltop then fired at Jenkins.

Killed with Shotguns.

Struck by the fire of both shotguns, Jenkins fell, fatally hurt. He died as he was being brought to Nashville.

Capt. Matt Leach of the state police hurried here from Indianapolis, 55 miles to the north, and identified the body as that of Jenkins. He previously had issued a warning that Jenkins probably was headed this way, as Jenkins had kidnaped a motorist near Indianapolis in the afternoon and forced him to drive south until the gasoline in the car was exhausted. The convict then fled on foot, leaving the car owner, Victor Lule, stranded.

Several other members of the band are believed to be in south central Indiana. The state police are seeking them there. Jenkins is the second of the ten convicts accounted for, James Clark having been captured at Hammond last night.

Eight Still at Large.

It is regarded as probable that the other eight have separated and are trying to evade capture singly. The police have established strong guards over the Ohio river bridges at Jeffersonville, New Albany, and Madison.

Sheriff Charles Neal of Harrison county, who was kept a prisoner of the band to which Clark belonged from Tuesday until last night, today returned to his home in Corydon. There he explained why he had told a story not strictly true when he first reported to the state police in Gary.

Neal said the convicts had threatened to kill his wife and children unless he protected the band by remaining silent. He was left with Clark early Friday morning when the other three decided to stick together. This was at McCool, about midway between Gary and Michigan City.

"I did my best to persuade Clark to give himself up," the sheriff said. "He suffered from stomach trouble and I told him he would die unless he got to a doctor. But he had a pistol and I had none and I had to obey orders."

Gunmen Force Orchestra to Play During Holdup

Six bandits early today forced a Mexican orchestra at gun point to continue playing while they robbed 25 men and women in a beer tavern at 13 East 119th street of $460. Carrying two shotguns and revolvers, the robbers forced Phil Rosenberg, the owner, three bartenders, five women patrons, and 16 men to line up and surrender their valuables.

30 DISMISSED TEACHERS GET CAFETERIA JOBS

Domestic science teachers whose positions in the elementary schools were abolished by the board of education's economy program have been assigned as managers of the thirty high school cafeterias, Supt. William J. Bogan announced yesterday. The managers hold temporary teaching certificates, serve as instructors in household economy and receive salaries of $150 a month.

The teachers had been on the waiting list and accepted the positions as an alternative to taking courses at Chicago Normal college, according to Mr. Bogan. If the group wishes to meet the requirements for permanent teaching certificates they will attend the college next semester and their positions will be taken by other teachers.

Mr. Bogan also stated that forty-two unemployed teachers had been assigned to the night school staff. These teachers will replace those who were teaching in both the regular day schools and at night.

Four Gunmen Take $385 in Holdings of Office

Four young bandits, brandishing a sawed off shotgun and revolvers, invaded the office of the E. and H. Standard Auto Parts company, 3018 North Crawford avenue, last night. They took a $300 pay roll from the company safe and $85 from two owners, an employé and three customers whom they herded into a rear room.

VIRGINIA VOTES OCT. 3 ON DRY LAW'S REPEAL

Richmond, Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Virginia will become the thirty-second state Tuesday to vote on repeal of the 18th amendment.

At the same time the voters will register their choice between state prohibition and a liquor control system which would prevent the return of the saloon.

Bishop James Cannon Jr., a legal resident of Virginia, who as superintendent of the Virginia Anti-Saloon league before his elevation to the college of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, was outstanding in the ranks of the drys, has not taken the stump during the recent campaign.

DEATH OF WET AFFECTS OHIO'S REPEAL SLATE

Columbus, O., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Ohio repealists hoping for victory in the Nov. 7 election encountered a legal obstacle today, but moved speedily to overcome it.

Attorney General John Bricker ruled their slate of convention candidates of whom each statae has 52, had been made defective by the death last Tuesday of Charles L. Knight, militant wet publisher of the Akron Beacon-Journal.

The repealists have only a week—until October 7, to get 5,000 legal signatures under the name of a new candidate to replace Knight. Such petitions must be filed 30 days before an election. Philip Weiss of Cincinnati has been chosen to replace Knight.

Bomb at Dentist's Office Causes Damage of $300

A dynamite bomb which had been placed directly in front of the office door of Dr. Morton M. Herzon, a dentist, on the second floor at 2009 Roosevelt road, exploded shortly after 4 o'clock this morning causing damage estimated by police at about $800. The explosion broke in the office door, shattered windows in other offices of the building and tore plaster from the walls of the Public Castle restaurant on the first floor.

Grein Seeks City Law to Mark Capacity of Stein

Joe Grein, city sealer, yesterday asked the corporation counsel's office to draft an ordinance which will provide that all beer steins shall be marked to show their capacity in liquid ounces. He said he would present the ordinance to the city council. "It is my contention that the consumer should have some measure by which he can tell what he is getting for his money," said Mr. Grein.

Choose Coffee by TASTE not by price

A price tag tells you how much you have to pay for coffee—but it's not a reliable indication of quality. The only certain test is taste. That is why we ask people to compare A & P Coffees with other coffees for quality alone, leaving price out of it.

A & P Coffees aren't merely "good at the price." They are the finest coffees money can buy. They cost you little because we bring them direct from plantation to you, with only one small profit. Their quality has made them the world's most popular coffees. These three coffees outsell any other nine coffees. Try them. Really fresh Coffee is ground before your eyes

By real freshness in coffee we mean natural freshness—not "preserved" freshness. And this is assured when freshly roasted coffee beans are ground to order before your eyes. Nature's seal, the coffee bean itself, is the best guardian of coffee flavor. When this seal is broken for you by grinding at the moment you buy, you know you are getting all the rich, full coffee flavor.

That is the reason A & P Coffee is ground when you buy it.

GERMAN BREAD BASKET IS FULL; JUBILEE TODAY

Nation Honors Peasants; Hitler to Speak.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—With granaries bursting, Germany is preparing to hold a big thanksgiving day tomorrow as a celebration for the great harvests throughout the land. All towns and villages will participate. General merrymaking and dancing will conclude the day's festivities.

The two slogans for the day are "Farmers' day" and "Bread and Iron." The latter typifies the essential needs of the country and will be emphasized by the prominent rôle which the military will play in the principal demonstrations. Almost every person is wearing a badge—a poppy with two ears of grain.

500,000 Peasants Gather.

Five hundred thousand peasants tonight converged from all parts of the reich by road and rail on Hameln, the town made famous by the Pied Piper. This demonstration will be staged on Bueckeberg hill, overlooking the Weser river, outside of Hameln.

Stunt flying and displays of infantry and cavalry have been arranged. Chancellor Adolf Hitler will be escorted from Hameln to Bueckeberg by a cavalry regiment.

A battery in the valley will fire a salute of 21 guns to mark the opening of the demonstration. Speeches will be delivered by Hitler and Walter Darre, reich minister of agriculture. A torchlight procession will follow the speeches.

Twelve Cent Family Dinners.

German housewives today were planning their Sunday dinner under the new regulation which limits their expenditure for food to 12 cents per person on one Sunday a month. The newspapers published recipes which chiefly called for Irish stew. The money thus saved will be devoted to the relief of the idle.

Flags will be unfurled on all public buildings on Monday, the 86th birthday of President Paul von Hindenburg. The president is at his estate in Neudeck, East Prussia.

Film Czar Arrested.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNICH, Germany, Sept. 30.—Adolph Engel, Nazi commissar in control of the film industry in Germany, was arrested today by secret state police. He was charged with embezzlement and bribery. Engel played a leading part in ousting Jews from German movies. Until 1932 Engel was a member of the Communist party. In that year he transferred his allegiance to the Nazis.

Sentence 63 After Raids.

BRUNSWICK, Germany, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Sixty-three persons were sentenced tonight to various periods of imprisonment for "illegal activities." The proceedings followed surprise police raids at Halberstadt. Wernegerode and other towns in the Harz district, which the official press said revealed newly reorganized communist centers.

World Wants Dictators, Says Emil Ludwig on Visit Here

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The world wants dictators now," said Emil Ludwig with conviction. He is the author of "Napoleon," "Goethe," "Bismarck" and other vastly popular biographies and of a book coming out in the fall which will be devoted to nine European statemen whom Mr. Ludwig has known personally. "There are great statesmen in Europe," he said. "In your country I do not know any. I have heard that your President is a statesman. I have not yet met him. But most of your great men are out of politics."

But the biographer, who gave his opinions while visiting Chicago and the World's Fair yesterday, could not be made to enlarge upon his statement about dictators. The name of Adolf Hitler, who ordered that Ludwig's books, along with those of Thomas and Heinrich Mann, Leon Feuchtwanger, Erich Remarque, and other leading German writers, be burned May 10 last, was met with polite but firm silence.

Silent on Germany.

"I really know nothing about Germany," he said. "I am not even a German citizen any longer. When I saw the rain coming [he said this with almost the only glint of humor that lighted his face during a difficult interview], I became a citizen of Switzerland. I have not lived in Germany since immediately after the war."

When asked how he felt about the burning of the books, he said:

"The night that our books were burned I invited Erich Remarque, who is my neighbor in Locarno, to my house. We turned on the radio, from which came a broadcast of the howling crowds, even the noise of the crackling flames. From my cellar I brought up my best wine and he and I drank to the future. To us, and to some of the others, it does not mean that we have no readers, for I, for instance, have readers in 32 countries, even readers of German in 29. But to those writers who have not yet found a public outside Germany, it is a tragedy."

"But why were Remarque's books burned?" I asked. "He isn't a Jew."

Reason for Book Burning.

"Because his books are pacificistic. Half or more of the books burned were by Christians who wrote what the government declared is subversive doctrine. My own books were burned because, it was declared I had minimized German characters in them. However, after the burning, a new cheap edition of "Goethe" was brought out and has sold more extensively in Germany than any other book."

Mr. Ludwig was in Chicago for one day, "for the sole purpose of seeing your World's Fair, which he called "wunderbar." He is on his way to Hollywood to be supervising director of Warner Brothers' superfilm, "Napoleon, His Life and Loves." It is his first visit to Hollywood, but not to Chicago. He was here six years ago, with his charming wife, who was a great help to all of us because his English is not fluent while hers is as delightful as her charm. She did not accompany him this time, but he was delighted that I regretted her absence.

"The most prized clipping I have in my scrap book of oddities," he said, "is a clipping from a Chicago paper describing her under the headline "Bobbed for 20 Years." We often laugh about it . . . she still wears her hair short. Chicago's headline did not cure her."

Czech Mob Attacks German Baron for Wearing Swastika

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Baron von Bibra, secretary of the German legation, was attacked by a street crowd here today because he was wearing a swastika—the Nazi emblem. He and the legation's military attaché, Col. con Falkenhorst, were rescued by police before either had been injured seriously. Six men were arrested.

The University of Chicago will open classes for the 42d year tomorrow morning. The registration for the autumn quarter is 7,200 students, exclusive of some 4,000 home study registrations. Of this total 5,200 students are registered for the Midway campus and 2,000 more for the down town college. This enrollment is almost exactly ten times the number of students at the university when it opened for the first time, Oct. 1, 1892.

The annual services commemorating the first chapel exercises will be held at the university chapel at noon on Tuesday. Prof. Edgar J. Goodspeed, son of one of the founders of the university, will be the principal speaker. Course offerings at the Midway include 156 classes in biological sciences, 213 in humanities, 115 in physical sciences, 102 in the social sciences, 152 in the professional schools, 97 discussion sections in the college.

CLAIMS TO PROVE GRANDFATHER OF HITLER WAS JEW

Paper Says It Has Found Grave in Bucharest.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 20.—The Freie Press Journal, German language paper published here, carries in today's issue a documented claim that Chancellor Hitler of Germany himself is of Jewish descent. Photographs are published of a tombstone alleged to be that of Hitler's grandfather, whose name is given as Adolph Abraham Hitler. The stone is engraved in Hebrew and Rumanian characters and says the alleged grandfather was buried in a Jewish cemetery in Bucharest in 1892. The photograph was sent by a Bucharest journalist.

This journalist says Adolph Abraham Hitler was a porter in the Hotel Boulevards in Bucharest. He was born in Poland, died of a heart attack in Bucharest and was buried by a Jewish charitable institution called Philanthropia in a Jewish cemetery, it is said. His grave is said to lie in the seventh row of the eighteenth group and bears the number nine. The inscription on the tombstone reads as follows: "Here rest the mortal remains of Adolph Abraham Hitler, Jewish, who died Oct. 26, 1892, at 60 years of age. Pray for him."

The report says in conclusion: "Although Jews have little reason to be proud of the fact that Hitler, according to his racial conceptions, is properly a Jew, the newly created office of heredity in Berlin will undoubtedly be interested in the above."

League Votes to Help Jews.

GENEVA, Sept. 20.—(AP)—With Germany abstaining, the steering committee of the league of nations assembly voted unanimously today for a Dutch resolution to provide a plan to solve the problem created by the thousands of Jewish refugees from Germany.

The resolution will now be examined by a technical commission of the assembly, which is expected to draw up a practical system of finding homes for Jews.

This activity probably will be directed by a league high commissioner. Christian L. Lange, Norwegian diplomat, is being mentioned for the post.

German representatives said they were entirely indifferent to the Dutch scheme, but some delegates remarkd that they felt it would be regarded as a political question and not as entirely social.

M. Frangulis, a Greek, who is Haiti's delegate, presented to the assembly a resolution demanding a world convention under league auspices "to grant equality for all individuals, regardless of race, color or religion."

In a public speech tonight, Charles E. Walter of South Africa, president of the assembly, said that the economic machinery of the world was making slow but definite recovery.

He expressed the hope that the two South American conflicts would soon be settled. These disputes are between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Gran Chaco territory, and between Colombia and Peru over the Leticia frontier.

PRUSSIA DISMISSES 22 PROFESSORS; 18 UNDER NONARYAN BAN

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Prussian ministry of education today published the names of 22 dismissed university professors, 18 of whom were under the non-Aryan ban. Four were released on political grounds.

The ministry explained the 22 men could not be notified directly because they probably were abroad.

Among the prominent non-Aryans were Adotf Fraenkel of Kiel and Hans Kelsen and Isidor Scheftelowitz, a Sanskrit authority, of Cologne. Two of the political dismissals were of Herman Heller, counsel for the cabinet of Premier Otto Braun of Prussia, who unsuccessfully appealed the removal of his government by reich authorities, and Hugo Sinzheimer, a Frankfort jurist.

IN 1931, one of every fifteen new trucks registered in the United States was an International. In 1932, it was one in every eleven. Now, in the first six months of 1933, according to official registration figures, the demand for International Trucks has increased to one in every NINE—this with fifty-three truck manufacturers competing for the market.

What is the reason behind so rapid and so consistent a rise in popularity? International has never made a bid for leadership through price. The reason is deeper and more practical than low first cost. It is in fact two-fold — International QUALITY in the trucks, and International SERVICE back of them. With these two vital factors International Harvester is in position to reduce hauling costs to lowest possible terms, as tens of thousands of veteran International owners have learned.

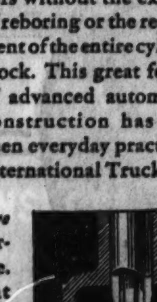
Come in and ask for demonstration of any model.

Note these chassis prices, f. o. b. factory:

¾-ton Model D-1	$ 360
1½-ton Model A-2	615
1½-ton Model B-2	695
2-ton Model B-4	1045

Other Models 2 to 7½-ton

Removable Cylinders permit replacement of cylinders without the expense of reboring or the replacement of the entire cylinder block. This great feature of advanced automotive construction has long been everyday practice in International Trucks.



Hardened Exhaust-Valve Seat Inserts are an International engine feature. They retard valve seat burning, engine efficiency is retained, and valves seldom need grinding. Details like these spell low-cost hauling over a long period of years.

WIFE OF WEALTHY BRITON IS FINED FOR SMUGGLING

Found Guilty of Trying to Cheat Customs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 30. — Penalties amounting to $775 in fines and costs were assessed against Lady Muriel Bowden, wife of the millionaire bicycle manufacturer, Sir Harold Bowden, by Folkestone magistrates yesterday on the charge that she attempted to cheat customs.

Mrs. Florentine Preston Marsaudon, another defendant now supposed to be in the United States, was fined $250 and assessed $25 costs on the same summons. In addition she was ordered to pay $50 or spend a month in prison on a separate charge involving her alone.

Companion Is Detected.

According to the prosecution the two women attempted to smuggle Paris fineries valued at more than $2,000 into Great Britain. They failed because Mrs. Marsaudon was detected while Lady Bowden was sitting in a coach waiting for the London train to depart.

Discovery of bills issued by a Paris department store with a London branch in Mrs. Marsaudon's handbag led to the complaint. The bills were made out to Lady Bowden. She had just been passed through customs with a small handbag from which a single bottle of perfume was produced as dutiable goods.

Lady Bowden was ordered to return to the customs shed later. A heated argument between the two women and customs officers ensued.

Leaves Duties to Friend.

The defense in the case of Lady Bowden was based on the plea that she was ill and the business of going through customs inspection was left to her friend, Mrs. Marsaudon. The duty on the imported clothing was placed altogether at $205. Lady Bowden claimed she had left more than that with Mrs. Marsaudon to pay the customs assessment.

Customs officers admitted that when the two women were confronted in the shed Lady Bowden accused Mrs. Marsaudon of keeping the money given to her to pay customs duties. Mrs. Marsaudon immediately produced some cash and gave it to Lady Bowden. Customs officers testified that nothing like a 50 pound note [about $235] was included in the roll.

The prosecution insisted that Lady Bowden was attempting to avoid paying duties, adding that she enlisted Mrs. Marsaudon's help and gave her a few dollars to support the story in case the pair were caught.

IN TROUBLE BEFORE.

A dressmaker sued Lady Bowden last May to colect an $8,900 bill for furs and clothes. The dressmaker testified that she thought the point of extravagance in women's clothes began at $25,000 a year. It was brought out that Sir Harold had supplied his wife with two separate sums of $60,000 within 15 months to meet her bills. Between 1926 and 1931 he gave his wife or paid to her account a total of $205,000. She was $75,000 in debt by February of this year.

Sally Rand to Make Plea for a New Trial Tomorrow

Sally Rand, the fan dancer, will seek a new trial tomorrow afternoon from Municipal Judge Joseph H. McGarry, before whom she was convicted of staging an obscene dance. She is seeking to escape a sentence of one year in the county jail and payment of a $200 fine, the punishment fixed by the judge after a jury had found her guilty. She now is at liberty on $2,000 bonds and has announced that if necessary she will appeal the case to the state Supreme court.

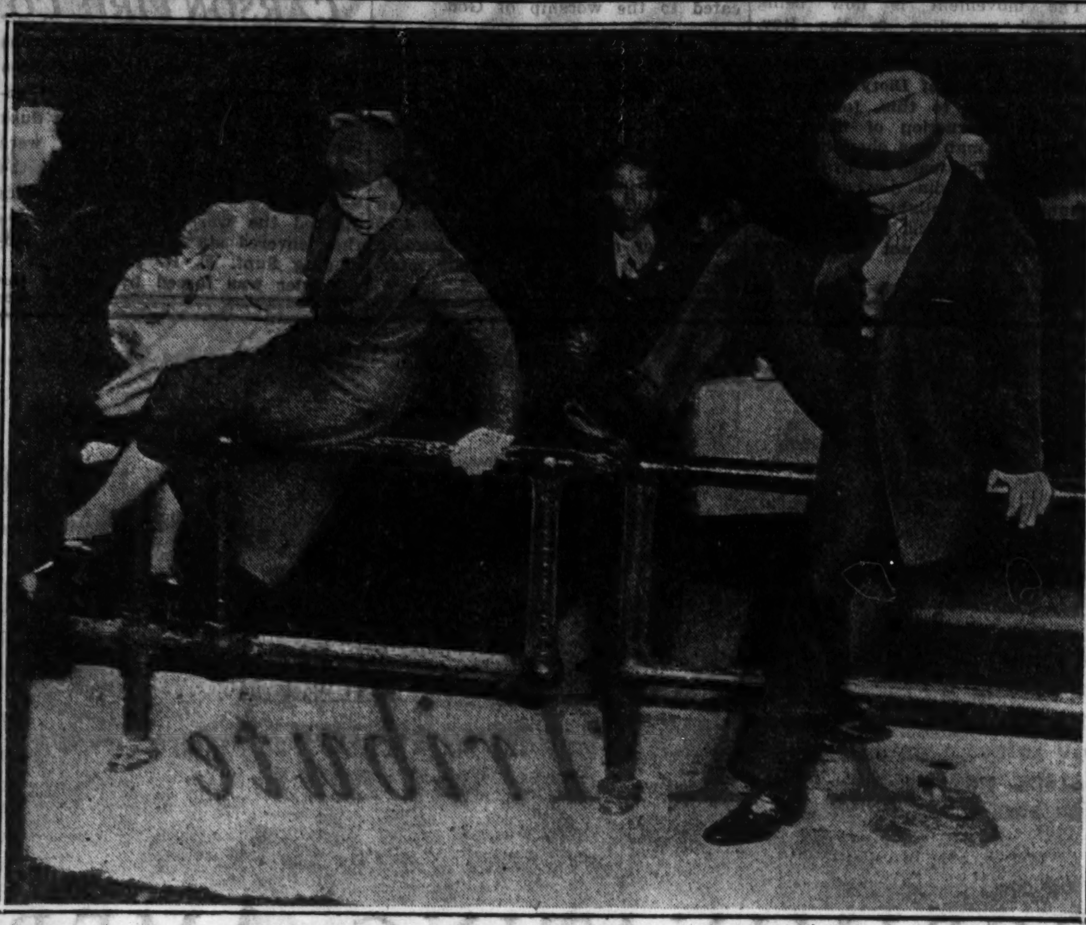
NEWLYWEDS LOSE RACE TO AVOID CAMERAMAN



Mrs. Dorothy Marshall Simmons and her husband, Richard W. Simmons, climbing a fence in effort to elude photographers and guests after their wedding yesterday in Wilmette. Mrs. Simmons is the daughter of the Benjamin H. Marshalls of Wilmette, in whose home the ceremony was performed.

MISS MARSHALL BECOMES BRIDE OF R. W. SIMMONS

BY JUDITH CASS.

Miss Dorothy Marshall, daughter of the Benjamin H. Marshalls, was married to Richard W. Simmons of St. Louis at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony took place in the enormous living room of the famous studio of the Marshall home in Wilmette, where the bride and groom stood in front of the stage, which was banked with green ferns and Easter lilies, to say their wedding vows. The Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard read the service in the presence of relatives and close friends.

The bride was one of the loveliest yet seen, wearing a simple wedding dress of white satin with a high neck, long sleeves, and a long train. Her cap was of rose point lace that was part of her mother's wedding gown, and the veil of tulle fell the entire length of the train. Her flowers were lilies of the valley. Her sister, Mrs. Richard Hill Fleming, the former Betty Marshall, was her only attendant. Mrs. Fleming wore a beige lace gown with brown hat, shoes and gloves, and carried orchids in queer tan and orange shades.

James Pope, who has shared a cottage at the Onwentsia with Mr. Simmons for the past few months, was the bridegroom's best man.

Immediately after the reception which followed the ceremony, Mr. Simmons and his bride left on a wedding trip. They will be at home after Oct. 15 on East Walton place.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. Simmons' sisters, Miss Virginia and Miss Georgia Simmons, and Mrs. John Crago and her husband, and all of the Simmons clan from St. Louis.

MARY J. FALCON WEDS

Miss Mary Jane Falcon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Falcon, and Robert G. Leffingwell, son of Mrs. Mary Hill, were married yesterday at the Falcon home, 2944 Colfax street, Evanston. The ceremony was read by the Rev. Leo Hartke.

After a reception in the Orrington hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Leffingwell left last night for Washington and New York. They will start soon in a small schooner from Nova Scotia on a three years voyage that will cover most of the seas. Mr. Laffingwell, with Hugh Campbell, and Noel Thomas, is to collect specimens of marine life and make pictures for Field museum.

COX FAMILY IS SAFE; KIDNAPING REPORT BLASTED

The country-wide search for the wife of George M .Cox, wealthy Chicago and New Orleans shipowner, her 2 year old son, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Goertz, whom Cox had reported kidnaped last Wednesday, ended yesterday when Mrs. Cox telephoned Chief of Detectives Schoemaker that they had departed from home voluntarily and were entirely safe.

Mrs. Cox's sudden departure from her home at Lake Pontchartrain, La., a week ago, while her husband was on a vacation at Cooperstown, Ill., was explained when she told the Chicago detective chief that she was contemplating suit for divorce.

Information that the family was safe was followed immediately by the freeing of four men arrested on Cox's suspicion that they might know about the disappearance of his family. The men released were William Davis, former bartender on Cox's steamer, the Isle Royale; George Wintz, former steward of the boat; Ben Berkson, ship provision salesman, and Rube Shafford, an automobile salesman.

Increase Fever Treatment for Sleeping Sickness Girl

The electrical fever producing treatments being administered to Miss Patricia Maguire, 523 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, in an effort to revive her from the coma in which she has been for 20 months as a result of sleeping sickness, will be increased this week, it was announced last night. The patient was placed in the machine twice last week for two hour periods. Little change was noted in her condition. This week she will be given three treatments, each of the same duration. These will be increased each week either in the length of the treatments or the rapidity with which they are given, it was said.

MUSCLE SHOALS CHIEF ATTACKS SPOILS POLITICS

Calls System Chief Foe of Public Ownership.

ARTHUR E. MORGAN.

An attack on the political patronage system as the malady threatening the destruction of public ownership and operation of utilities was made last night in Chicago by Arthur E. Morgan, appointed by President Roosevelt last May as chairman of the board of directors of the Tennessee Valley authority, the federal unit in control of Muscle Shoals.

"If we greatly increase public ownership," Mr. Morgan said, "then the doctrine that 'to the victors belong the spoils' will spell the doom of social and economic decency and health."

"The very life of the American nation is threatened by the custom of political patronage," was another of his declarations. "The more widely public activities are extended and the more government has to do with the management of our lives, the more sinister is this evil force."

Engineer and Educator.

Mr. Morgan is both a civil engineer of high standing and an educator of note. He has planned and supervised the construction of no less than 75 water control projects. He is president of Antioch college at Yellow Springs, O., and the author of several books.

He was one of the principal speakers on the program of the third day of the biennial conference of the Public Ownership League of America in the Hotel Morrison. The subject assigned to him concerned Muscle Shoals but on that topic he touched only extemporaneously. His prepared paper dealt with a much wider field.

To his hearers, advocates of immediate public ownership to the greatest possible extent, that paper appeared to be something of a shock. Repeatedly he warned them of the big worm in the apple on which they had their eyes.

Results Will Settle It.

"In the long run," he told them, "the question of public or private ownership will not be settled by theory or propaganda, but by the actual results of operation.

"That may seem a trite and threadbare remark. Yet, if it were fully appreciated, the public ownership movement would be giving more of its energies in making sure of economic effectiveness and less in promoting the extension of public ownership."

In discussing the evil of the spoils system, Mr. Morgan said he was expressing only his personal views, that he had not presented them to any public official for approval. He did not say that his criticism was caused by his experience since he took command of Muscles Shoals, but he did say that he was "not without intimate experience" of the troubles encountered by an administrative officer seeking to confine his selection of men to a basis of merit.

Hits Utility Managements.

He repeated the charge frequently heard that privately owned utilities alone are to blame for the public ownership drive made against them.

"But for the exploitation and mismanagement by which some private utility managements betrayed the trusting confidence of the public," he said, "that confidence would today be resting where it was five years ago."

It was believed he had Muscle Shoals in mind when he said that at this time public ownership on a large scale seems about to have its chance.

"Whether that chance," he said, "will be so used as to usher in a new day in our economic life or whether it will result in a morass of incompetence, and so bring about disgust and revulsion such as that which immediately preceded fascism in Italy, remains to be seen. Scattering cases of management will not suffice. The public will judge by average results."

Mr. Morgan said that in condemning political patronage he did not reflect on a single party, that the "system infects all parties."

"During the present administration," he said, "there has been more loud talk of patronage in some quarters than formerly, but at no time in our recent history has there been an administration in which so large a proportion of appointments has been on sheer merit. This fact should give hope and courage."

He spoke in favor of the appointment instead of the election of administrative officers and urged that utility managers organize their profession so that it might have its own code of ethics as have professions, more effective, he said, than statutory regulations.

Governments as Racketeers.

In speaking of governments, Mr. Morgan said that some of the older European ones "originated and were maintained as racketeering enterprises."

"The patronage system," he continued, "belongs to the old racketeering tradition that 'to the victors belong the spoils.' We must not make peace with that tradition."

"Public ownership," he said in closing his paper, "must give first attention to effectiveness of service and to ridding itself of the incubus of political patronage and the limitations of political as against professional life. If that is done, propaganda will be relatively unnecessary, for successful public ownership will be contagious."

CHAPLIN WILL MAKE SOUND PICTURE, BUT HE WILL BE SILENT

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 30.—[U. P.]—Charlie Chaplin's next picture, soon to go into production, will be accompanied by sound, but the famous comedian will again refuse to talk.

Although the story has only a sketchy outline, it is known that he will play the part of a factory worker. The story, it appears, will be told largely in sound effects, such as achieved in "Tabloid," his composition about the newspaper world, and in "Metropolis."

Despite complaints from Berlin about the shape of Charlie's mustache, he will continue to wear it. Nazi leaders protested the upper lip adornment on grounds it tended to ridicule Herr Hitler.

Naples, Ill., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Three of four men who rode in a small boat propelled by an outboard motor were drowned in the Illinois river here today when the craft capsized in midstream.

CHURCH TO BUILD SECOND PULPIT—FOR SCIENTISTS

Plans to conduct a church with two pulpits, one for science and the other for theology, were announced yesterday by the St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church, Adams and Winchester streets. The church, with the proceeds of several bequests, is to be remodeled both inside and out preliminary to the new church plan.

The Rev. Martineau Darnell, rector of St. Paul's, will occupy the pulpit for theology, alternating with other clergymen. The pulpit for science will be occupied by various distinguished leaders of science, he said.

"The movement is now being launched," according to the Rev. Father Darnell, "as a result of thoughtful, prayerful consideration of the true meaning of Diety. There is a pathetic side to this, for it will mean the destruction of many old fetishes that man has cherished and which have encompassed him for centuries and got him nowhere. Man is hungry for enlightenment. The condition of the world today is ample proof that he has not found what he sought.

"Science is constantly opening up new realms. Science, more than even theology, is proving divine creation and organization. Therefore science belongs in the church, the house dedicated to the worship of God."

Jap Proposes U. S., Tokio Trade 'Friendship' Missions

TOKIO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—To "give the American people a better understanding of events in Asia," Foreign Minister Koki Hirota said today that he was studying plans whereby Japan and the United States would send to each other a commission of leading men representative of various interests.

5 ROBBERS HOLD UP WAREHOUSE OF CARSON PIRIE CO.

Five bandits, armed with shotguns and revolvers, strode in the Carson Pirie Scott & Co. warehouse and garage at 329 West 12th street at dusk last evening. Fifteen drivers were herded into a corner by two of the gunmen and three of the other bandits entered the warehouse office, where they covered six more employés, including Supt. E. R. Fowler.

Fowler was forced by one of the men to hand over a cash box which contained the receipts of the day, about $2,000.

The bandits made a quick getaway in an automobile.

A Tribute to DISCRIMINATING AMERICA!

To me, it is—and will always be, I believe—a source of wonder that good taste is so unerring . . .

and that wherever there is achievement above the ordinary in any art, the more discerning people discover it—and knowledge of it quickly passes from connoisseur to connoisseur.

I have just observed this again with our own Kingsbury Pale. We have done so little, ourselves, to spread the word of Kingsbury's distinguished character. Yet from Bar Harbor to Santa Barbara, discriminating America has made Kingsbury Pale a symbol of fine hospitality.

Publicly, in this message, I pay my tribute to American taste. And I accept gratefully, for my associates in the earnest guild of Kingsbury workers, the compliment paid us in this clearly evident preference.

We recognize fully our responsibility to all of you who choose Kingsbury Pale to express your own hospitality—who depend on it for important occasions. We want you to know this—and to understand how insistently we watch every step, so that you may always be able to serve Kingsbury with pride. Although our plants are—and have been—operating at capacity, our financial position, fortunately, demands no rush for sales volume or profits—we can afford to take time.

This, very briefly, is the way we of Kingsbury think. And you will find the same ideas of service which control us here at headquarters among the distributors who supply Kingsbury Pale to your home, club, or favorite eating place.

To home owners, landlords and those contemplating building, remodeling or improvements of any kind, Hines offers a service unexcelled in the entire country. This service enables you to buy all of the materials needed at one place as one unit.

The responsibility is concentrated in one company with a forty-year reputation for furnishing quality materials of the correct grade, measure and count.

We have a large list of satisfied carpenter customers who are co-operating with us to make this service possible. These artisans are experts of long experience, capable of doing the kind of work you want. If you wish, we will make all arrangements for the complete job and supervise it throughout.

We are not in the contracting business and do no erecting ourselves.

Our twenty-one convenient branch yards are managed by trained and experienced men of mature age. Consult them on any construction work. They'll tell you the best materials for your particular purpose—often at a considerable saving to you.

Right now there is no better way for you to help the government program and insure prosperity than to have repairs, remodeling or construction work done. It not only requires materials which keep men working. It puts men to work in your own locality at once. We are doing our part in maintaining money-saving values. Do your part and save money by having work done now while prices are low.

These Prices Guaranteed to October 15th, 1933.

Do your part and save! Repairs or remodeling done now mean increased employment as well as savings to you.

THE history of Aviation in the year 1933 is filled with the feats of dauntless men and women. General Italo Balbo—with his armada of twenty-four seaplanes—astonished the world by his flight from Italy to Chicago. Wiley Post, flying alone, established a new record for flight around the world. The Lindberghs charted a new air course through the northland. The fearless French flyers, Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos, accomplished the world's record non-stop flight of 5,900 miles from New York to Rayak, Syria. Capt. James Mollison and his wife spanned the Atlantic from England to the United States. These and many other air exploits have thrilled the whole world.

And now "The 1933 Conquest of the Air" brings men, women, boys and girls everywhere an opportunity to share in $10,000.00 in Cash Prizes.

All you have to do is to name the famous flyers of 1933 represented by the puzzle pictures printed in the Chicago Sunday Tribune each Sunday.

Note the three pictures printed at the right. They represent three famous airmen of 1933. Can you name them? Write their names below the pictures.

Start this interesting new game today. It costs you nothing. No hard work to do. No essays to write. No subscriptions to solicit—no tricks, no catches! Just amuse yourself by solving the puzzle pictures of famous flyers and naming them. You'll find it interesting and instructive.

Get the Pictures each Sunday in the Chicago Sunday Tribune. Hold them until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them in. The Chicago Tribune will pay 795 big Cash Prizes for the best answers.

For the benefit of those who may not know the names of the famous flyers of 1933, photographs of all those included in this game, together with others not included in it, will be found among those published in the group at the left.

WHO CAN ENTER: Every man, woman, boy and girl is eligible, regardless of residence, excepting employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing.

WHAT TO DO. Solve the series of Puzzle Pictures of Famous Flyers of 1933, appearing each Sunday in the Chicago Sunday Tribune. Follow the course of the airplane in each picture as indicated by dotted line. The first letter of the name of each object touched by the plane's course as shown by arrows, makes the name of a flyer. Simply write the name of the Flyer, as indicated by the picture, on the line below it. Three pictures will appear each Sunday in the Chicago Sunday Tribune until 42 have appeared.

WHERE TO SEND ENTRIES: DO NOT send in pictures one at a time. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 42. Then send them to "Conquest of the Air," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight, 15 days after Picture No. 42 has been printed. Send your entry by first class mail. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department.

THE PRIZES: The Chicago Tribune will pay 795 cash prizes totaling $10,000.00 to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of pictures in accordance with these rules. You do not necessarily have to solve each of the 42 pictures correctly to win. Prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest. Elaborate entries are not necessary. Just make your entry simple and neat.

THE RULES:

JUDGING: Entries will be judged by a Committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune and their decision will be final. Accuracy in naming the pictures will be the first consideration; neatness the next. In case of ties duplicate awards will be paid.

NOTHING TO BUY: This offer is presented for the entertainment and education of Chicago Sunday Tribune readers. However, it is not necessary to buy the Chicago Tribune to compete. You may copy or trace the pictures from the Chicago Tribune. It may be seen at public libraries or at the Tribune offices, free of charge.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

GOVERNMENT AND LIBERTY.

Only ignorance or insincerity can assume that there is now or ever has been any wish or expectation that the constitution should be a rigid mandate unchangeable with experience. The real controversy over the new legislation is not one of forms but of principles. Many ardent supporters of the New Deal feel that the constitution, both as a framework of government and as a declaration of rights, is obsolete, but the real issue is whether we shall continue to maintain a free society or exchange it for one based on the principle of authority. This is the revolution which one of the leading members of the administration, Mr. Donald Richberg, declares has taken place. It is not because the principles involved are in the constitution that critics of the new legislation oppose it on constitutional grounds but because the constitution declares the principles. The principles exist irrespective of the constitution, although we think the constitution is the best instrument yet formulated for their practical application.

Mr. Richberg's conviction that the American people have undertaken and are accomplishing a bloodless revolution is not apparently shared, or at least not so frankly acknowledged, by other proponents and agents of the recovery program, but its opponents are in opposition because they agree with his conception of the program, or at any rate of its implications and possibilities. It is advisable in any case that the public mind should be clear upon what the issues really are. If the new program is, as it has been declared, a resort to temporary expedients to meet temporary conditions, it is one thing. If it is a revolution, though bloodless and in the form of law, it is quite another. It cannot be both.

"It has been the search of the ages," wrote a wise American historian, John Burgess, "to find a political system, the travail of the ages to construct one, in which government and liberty shall be reconciled, in which each of these all-comprehending means of civilization shall strengthen the other, and in which, finally, each shall be the fulfillment of the other."

Up to the '90s Burgess thought that our American system came nearer to that reconciliation than any other in history, but of the trend toward centralized political power and the transfer of all social and economic responsibilities to federal government which then began his comment is worthy of serious reflection at this time. The whole history of the world's political development, he wrote, "shows beyond any question or cavil that a republic with unlimited government cannot stand, that a republic which makes its government the arbiter of business is, of all forms of state, the most universally corrupt, and that a republic which undertakes to do its cultural work through governmental force is, of all forms of state, the most demoralizing. If a state will have government undertake those tasks which naturally belong, or have come through historical development to belong, within the sphere of individual liberty, then it must have a government lifted so high above all class and party interests that it cannot be controlled or even influenced by any of them. But this is authority reaching from above downward and not from below upward. This is monarchy in the original sense of jure-divino sovereignty. This is the reason for and the advantage of its existence. But for us this is not progress. It is for us retrogression of the most positive kind known to political history."

PULLMAN SHIPS.

We are a seafaring nation. It is not necessary to prove it—we admit it. If questioned, we recall the exploits of American sailors with John Paul Jones, Preble, Farragut, the supremacy of our clipper ships, and, in later years, Dewey, Peary, and Byrd. Yet we stand idly by and watch Great Britain, Germany, and Italy contest for American dollars in the Atlantic trade with the Aquitania, Bremen, Europa, and Rex. It does not add to our dignity to recall that the only firm on this side of the water disposed to enter the contest is the Canadian Pacific with its Empress of Britain.

The radically new ideas of construction embodied in the blunt bows of these new greyhounds of the Atlantic have had the effect of rendering all older types obsolete, so that now, if ever, is the time for America to overcome its inferiority complex and enter the field.

American designers have their cue and American shipbuilders should be able to construct the hull at a cost that will at least approach that of foreign shipyards. Whatever deficiency there might be could readily be equalized in the machinery, where we have the edge.

With its experience in designing sleeping cars the Pullman company could outdistance any builders of interior work. It could probably produce fireproof interior fittings, something that no European shipbuilder has yet been able to accomplish. The Pullman company is also the most competent large scale hotel manager in the world, and Pullman service is unequaled anywhere. Why should the Pullman company not build and operate an American fleet?

If the navigation were assumed by officers expressly furloughed from the navy they could secure that constant experience in navigation which they lack and at the same time save naval maintenance expense. The need of a peacetime merchant auxiliary is unquestionable.

THE LEGION IN CHICAGO.

The American Legion, now welcomed to Chicago for its annual convention, is getting along in years. It is still young, but maturity is settling upon the youth who were mustered into the military service of the United States in 1917 and '18. The wartime government sought for the best fitted young men of the country and got them. Now, in their maturity, they constitute, such of them as have survived the consequences of the war, a distinguished and substantial body of citizenship. They are properly regarded by other citizens as men who have deserved well of the nation and as citizens whose experience has given them a particular concern for it.

For many years the Grand Army of the Republic occupied the place in American life which in the course of time the American Legion will take over. The Grand Army will not have been lost to memory, but it will have lost its living membership. The Legion will remain a force, and probably a growing one, in political action and in the decisions on national policies. It is expectable that its influence will be mainly sound and patriotic. Some political faults have been charged against American veteran organizations in the past, but for the most part men who have once served their country faithfully remain to the end of their days dependable. Considering the large numbers of citizen soldiers that the republic has called from civilian life from generation to generation, the American veteran when mustered out of the service has never been a danger to popular liberties or to established government. The man who has worn the uniform has returned to civilian life a good citizen. The Legion may have perplexing questions to decide and special interests to consider, but in each consideration and in every decision the welfare of the country will be to the forefront.

Chicago extends its welcome to men who have served their country and who will continue to do so.

ENGLISH DIVORCE.

Sir Richard Poole, president of the British Law society, made the English divorce law the subject of a speech at an Oxford meeting and of his severe criticisms. He urged that the legal grounds for divorce be enlarged. English divorce law represents a determination to maintain the legal bond between husband and wife regardless of the suffering caused. The inhumanity of the conditions preserved is disregarded along with the evil almost inevitably arising from the legal frustration of lives.

Origins of this barbarity, for it is scarcely less, are found in the long prevailing English ideas of the degradation of womanhood. The supposedly admirable Victorian society still found the wife with a legal status hardly above that of the husband's dog or monkey, if he had either. Her presence in her husband's home was a legal requirement. Her actual subjection to his wishes was a reality unless she was a sufficient shrew in mind or amazon in muscle to terrify or subjugate him. The husband's will was law and his wife was legally not much more than a chattel unless the amiability of the persons themselves made the theories of matrimony tolerable, as of course in many cases it did.

All this was invested with the sanctity of the home and the inviolability of the family, although in its worst realities it was scandalous and it persists in the rigid divorce code. Justification is found only in infidelity. The dissolution of an unhappy marriage is a benefit not only to the unhappy persons tied by it but to society and to the institution of marriage itself. The attempts of law to hold people in bonds against their will and to their misery not only promote irregularity but they fill divorce actions with fraud and falsification. They destroy reputations and character, and so far as their ostensible object is the purity of society and the stability of the family they are entire failures.

Even the consideration of the children, used to continue the bond, is frequently misdirected. The influence of marital unhappiness upon a child can be worse than the effect of the separation of the parents, each to live in peace. Value is put upon legal constraints in matrimony which are proved socially injurious. Convention is strong and traditional errors persist in spite of enlightenment.

Editorial of the Day

WHEN IS LOW HIGH?

[New York Sun.]

In developing its plans for industrial recovery the government has repeatedly said that the success of the whole scheme will depend finally on the ability and willingness of consumers to buy. Is it wise, therefore, to bewilder the public by such vague and indecisive references to price control and profiteering as those recently issued by various NRA officials?

Gen. Johnson, for example, has just conceded that the new coal code will cause a rise in the retail price of coal. That is simply recognition of the fact that higher costs of mining are sure to be felt by the man who tends the furnace. Nobody denies it. But the same principle holds good in merchandising also, though Gen. Johnson on at least one occasion has evaded that fact. When he was in New York last week he told a thousand members of the Merchants' association that the recovery program now depends on maintaining low retail prices.

Coal is not the only commodity that will cost more under the codes, and the NRA certainly cannot expect the retail business to stop prices from rising when the government has started them upward. It is absurd to talk about maintaining low retail prices when the expressed intention of the government plan is to increase prices of farm crops and wholesale merchandise in general.

The NRA is bound to make confusion so long as it persists in using such indefinite phrases as "reasonable prices" or "low prices" or "runaway prices." Consumers are expecting to pay more for almost everything they buy this winter, yet the NRA officials talk about purchasing power as though it is to be achieved by the process of preventing merchants from raising their prices and preventing them from selling too low.

Russia's Starving Peasants

[From the London Daily Telegraph, Aug. 28.]

In the grain areas of the northern Caucasus bread as a rule has completely disappeared from the dietary of the individual peasant-owner. A few collectivist peasants have a small reserve of their share in the last crop.

In a few collective farms some assistance in food is given. A member of the collective who has done a certain amount of work may have a small quantity of maize flour—usually up to a little more than half a pound—advanced to him on account of his share in the new crop.

Some little help is also given to collectivist peasants by public soup kitchens, where only actually working members of the collective farm may be served. The soup given there is, however, of very little food value, being made with the minimum admixture of food products.

The bread which is distributed in the towns to the workmen and government employés is also, as far as I could see, not made of pure flour, but contains a considerable amount of various mixtures such as maize, beans, etc. People not used to this bread can eat it only with the greatest difficulty.

It is possible to obtain some foodstuffs in the markets, but almost always of a very inferior quality and at a very high price. These articles are mostly milk products, maize bread, barley, etc. The markets never provide pure bread or flour. Even in the Torgsin shops—where only foreign money or gold is accepted in payment—one rarely finds flour. Yet for many people Torgsin is the only means of salvation.

In Krasnodar there were cases of bandits attacking passers-by. Teeth containing gold fillings were broken out of the victim's mouth.

The fact that, even with the immense mortality from famine, no attack of any importance is made upon the state apparatus is a proof, on the one hand, of the strength of that apparatus and, on the other, of the complete helplessness of the population.

One can traverse the famine stricken provinces almost without risk, in spite of the growth of banditry and of numberless homeless tramps, adults and children, who wander far and wide. Resigned despair and complete apathy characterize the people, rather than wrath and bitterness.

During last year's famine in Siberia many sought salvation by moving into more favored localities or into the towns to seek work in the industries. Now the situation is quite different.

The engagement of new workmen for the industries and state farms is carried out by the collective farms and village councils, who make special contracts with members of the collectives seeking outside work. The village council has the right to issue permits of leave for outside work only on the basis of these contracts. At the railway station tickets are issued only to people who can show the permit of the village.

Under such conditions the starving peasant is practically a prisoner in his village, as he has no horse to travel by and is not strong enough to walk far. He has no choice but to remain in his village and await the end.

The present situation in the northern Caucasus may be summed up as follows:

In some villages the population is almost extinct.

In others about half the population has died out.

Finally, there are still villages in which death from famine is not so frequent.

But famine in some degree remains everywhere in the regions which I have visited.

A distinctive feature of this famine is that the authorities have not acknowledged and do not now acknowledge that famine exists. They even officially deny it. Accordingly no assistance, either from the state or from benevolent institutions, is afforded.

Last spring the state sent seeds to the collectives, but the administration kept strict observation that the seeds were used only for "state purposes." On Sept. 23, 1932, the soviet government, by special decree, forbade the rendering of any assistance by local authorities. Therefore the assistance rendered by the government itself by the distribution of seeds in the following spring can only be regarded as a confession of the existence of unforeseen and extraordinary privation.

This year's famine is, without a doubt, more acute than that of 1921. During the latter hundreds of thousands of human beings were saved, thanks to the help of the American Relief association, while now no foreign help is possible.

The soviet government itself does nothing. I was told of many cases of sufferers, swollen from famine, who implored help from the village soviets. They were told that they should eat the bread which they had got hidden away and that no famine at all existed. In fact, the authorities explain the present situation by insisting that there is no lack of grain; that the peasants hide it, and it is only a matter of finding it. Various posters are exhibited in the villages bearing that explanation.

There is no doubt that last spring grain was concealed in many cases. The government at that time formed special permanent committees of Young Communists, male and female, who, carrying iron rods, went prodding the soil in the peasant courtyards, thus revealing large quantities of buried grain.

These committees still continue to visit the villages in many places, seeking freshly dug spots which might prove to be hiding places for grain. I was told of one case in which hidden grain was revealed in a courtyard whose owner had died of starvation, together with his entire family, so frightened had they apparently been of being detected in removing the grain from its place of concealment. Semi-starvation and extreme privation have during the last few years reduced the demands of the population to an extremely low ebb. So used have they become to scanty diet that lives might be saved at very small expense. The distribution of one pound of bread per head daily would prevent death from starvation.

Consequently a million people could be fed, though poorly, upon 100,000 tons of grain from the beginning of the year until the end of July—a million saved from death by starvation.

The soviet government exported 1,500,000 tons of grain from last year's crop.

As famine is officially denied by the authorities, it follows that there exists no organization whatsoever, either for dealing with the bodies of those dead from famine or for succoring those who are awaiting death. People have become callous and indifferent to the fate of those near to them.

One meets people with legs swollen from starvation who move with difficulty. Others have already become so weak that they lie about in the road waiting for death. Several days usually elapse before a chance passer-by endeavors to assist them. One sees bodies not only on the highroads but even in the streets of the towns.

It is usually a long time before the bodies are carried away. In Ekaterinodar I saw a corpse lying in the street which, according to my local guide, had been there for the last three days. The truth of his statement was demonstrated by the condition of the corpse. Grave dangers of epidemics are created in this manner.

FUGUES—WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

Few subjects are better fodder for newspapers than the disappearance of a prominent man. Even when there is no possibility of a kidnaping, a disappearance story has great reader interest. It is not always necessary that the man be especially prominent.

When a person is reported as being found wandering about with no recollection of his own name, family, home, or previous life, there is mystery enough to give the newspaper story a popular appeal. From the medical standpoint such cases are not mysterious. The name physicians have for the condition causing the disappearance is fugue.

Such cases are not properly cases of amnesia, the medical term commonly applied to them. To a degree amnesia, or inability to recall names, places, and events, is present, but the condition of mind is not the same as that which makes it impossible for persons who have had apoplexy to utter the word they want to use, or that makes old people fail to recall events, or that makes many of our minds go blank when we try to introduce people. If amnesia is used for that type of loss of memory it is not the best word to use when speaking of fugues.

There are several causes of fugues. The most frequently encountered and the most mysterious are the hysterical fugues. Another type that is of interest is that encountered in persons of the dementia precox personality. The day dreaming type of personality furnishes a few cases. Some are due to epilepsy or the epileptic type of mind. All these fugues have their foundations in disturbances of personality.

In addition there are the fugues which result from brain tumors, fractures of the skull, concussion of the brain, and other organic brain diseases. The type of personality in which the hysterical fugue is built begins to manifest itself in childhood. The nervous, agitated children who sleep poorly and talk or walk in their sleep are the foundation stone of the trouble. Such children are generally of the asthenic constitution. They are slender, underweight, tire quickly, have dark circles under the eyes. Many of them are day dreamers and some of them are subject to sick headaches. When they become adults they may calm down considerably, and sleep walking and talking and night terrors may be no longer manifest. If, however, they marry unhappily and their home life becomes very uncongenial they are apt to bolt.

Dr. L. H. Zeigler, who reports some cases of hysterical fugue, stresses the importance of personal problems of a distressing nature coming into the life of an adult who in childhood was a fitful sleeper, given to talking and walking in the sleep.

The inability to recall one's name, family, and home is not quite up to specifications in Dr. Zeigler's opinion. There is evidence that such persons can recall more than they do. The forgetfulness has some indication of being voluntary—at least in part.

Hypnosis, suggestion, and the use of certain drugs will cause many of the persons with hysterical fugue to recall their memories.

DRINK MORE WATER.

J. J. K. writes: The other day I put some urine in a bottle, and three hours later when I looked at it I saw an enormous amount of what looked like white sand at the bottom of the bottle. Is that a sign of diabetes or some bladder disease?

REPLY.

It is not a sign of either. When urine becomes cold it often throws down a deposit. Chemical and microscopic tests show what is the nature of the deposit and what should be done about it, if anything. The description indicates that this deposit consisted of urates. This chemical is quite apt to deposit in old specimens.

If you need to make any change, drink more water and eat more fruit and vegetables, assuming the deposit is urates.

WORMS.

Mrs. L. O. writes: Please print a few words on a kind of worm which I am quite sure is the pin worm. It is very small and white. My whole family has these and we have spent quite a bit of money on different medicines, only to find that the worms came back again. It is very unpleasant for us adults, and keeps the children fretful and cross most of the time.

REPLY.

Round worms live principally in the rectal pouch. They may wander to other locations. The customary treatment is injections of quassia tea or salt solution. First, a cleansing enema is given. This is followed by one of quassia or salt.

This treatment brings away the worms that are within reach. It should be repeated about twice on successive days, and, after that, about three times at intervals of about a week. This is to get worms that were out of reach at the time of the earlier injections, or have hatched from eggs after the mature worms were killed.

Great cleanliness is a requisite. Reinfestation from other people and from soiled skin is easy.

CATARACTS.

Mrs. T. A. E. writes: 1. Is cataract congenital or inherited?

2. My husband has a slight cataract on his right eye, but as far as he knows this was not there at the time of his birth, but came at the age of 5 years through some illness. His father had cataract on his eyes.

REPLY.

1. Cataract is sometimes congenital, but is nearly always an acquired condition. It is not inherited in the usual sense.

2. As a rule cataract is acquired in old age. Among the more frequent causes are exposure of the eyes to glare, heat, or dust. It may be due to senility, to diabetes, or to injury. A case developing in a child 5 years of age would be quite unusual. Could this be a case of a corneal scar rather than a cataract? Conditions acquired through illness are not passed on to the next generation.

WHY NOT AVOID THEM?

C. L. writes: My daughter has hives bad whenever she eats tomatoes, strawberries, or any acid food. Is there anything she can do?

REPLY.

Why not avoid the foods which cause her to have hives?

BUILDING UNSAFE.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—A few doors northwest of the address shown is a building from which the tenants were evicted about two years ago. It is now nothing but a shell, the whole inside being stripped. It is an eyesore to the whole neighborhood. Several prospective tenants mentioned it as a drawback to renting our flat. Please see what can be done about tearing it down or at least improving the looks of it a little. W. E.

The building in question is in the hands of a receiver, who has been notified by this department of the dangerous condition of the building and to board up same or demolish. On account of the building being in receivership, as in all such cases, we find it difficult to get any results. The premises will be kept under observation and the necessary action will be taken by this department.

JOHN E. ERICSSON,
Commissioner of Buildings.

"DOMESTIC CORPORATION."

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please let me know what is the meaning of a "domestic corporation." M. R.

That it is not a foreign corporation. In ordinary contexts the term domestic corporation would mean a corporation organized in the state in which the speaker is situated.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BANK STOCKHOLDER.

St. Charles, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Upon the failure of a state bank to reopen [1] is a stockholder financially liable and if so [2] to what extent? Stockholder is married and has a family. Monthly salary is less than $60. Owns a home clear of indebtedness worth about $1,000. Has no other income. 3. In case of judgment what claim and to what amount would such stockholder be exempt from such judgment? R. H. D.

1. Yes.

2. An amount equal to the par value of the stock.

3. Personal property, $400 worth. Wages, $20 per week.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOTE RENEWAL.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I hold a note which matures Aug. 20. If it is not paid to me on that date [1] is it necessary for me to ask the maker for a new note or [2] does it automatically renew itself? 3. When would it be outlawed? M. A.

1. No.

2. Yes, in the sense that it would remain a valid obligation.

3. Ten years from the maturity date or the last promise to pay.

FRIEND OF THE FARMER

[Inquiries on problems of farm management, financing or governmental regulations sent to this department must be accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope for reply.]

S. D. asks: Last summer I furnished a tractor and ten foot power binder and two men to run the outfit to cut my neighbor's wheat. What is a fair rate for such work?

Answer: Unless a written agreement was entered into prior to the time the work was done this department cannot assume responsibility for passing upon legality or fairness of charges made.

Mrs. G. O. T. asks: What rate of interest does the government charge on first mortgage loans and what payments are required?

Answer: At the present time the interest rate is 4½ per cent. Payments are made annually or semi-annually, no principal payments being required the first three years, provided all other mortgage provisions are complied with. Principal must be paid off within 36 years in some cases; in others, within 20 years.

S. A. L. asks: I am the owner of several farms, each operated by a different tenant. Must I sign a wheat reduction contract for each of these tenants?

Answer: Not necessarily. An owner may consider several tracts of land as one farm if in the same county and sign one contract, or may consider one tract of land several farms and sign contract for each, but a separate contract is signed by each tenant.

D. S. A. asks: I own a farm in Arkansas and would like to obtain a loan on it from the government. Can this be done?

Answer: Only if you are engaged in farming yourself or expect to be farming soon.

V. E. L. asks: Can the wheat bonus payments of the government be assigned or garnisheed?

Answer: No. Payments will be made only to signers of contracts.

NRA QUESTION BOX

Following are typical questions occasioned by the national recovery act and answers as furnished by the Chicago Association of Commerce:

Question—I work in a tannery where the boss has signed the NRA. Those of us who worked here a long time have had our hours reduced to 40 a week and receive $16.40 for these shorter hours. New men have been employed and get only $12.80 a week. Is this O. K.?

Answer—This is entirely in order. Your employer had to add men to his pay roll when he shortened the hours of work. The minimum rate under the NRA is 40 cents an hour and in no case can it be less than 30 cents an hour. Your employer is living up to his agreement.

Question—Has a code been submitted for the outlying shops?

Answer—Outlying retail shops, including apparel, dry goods stores, and specialty shops, will all come under the retail code. The same hours and wages will apply for all employés in the city and to date we have seen nothing in it which would prevent shops from keeping open on evenings so long as they comply with the wages and hours for the workers. Full details of the retail code, now being considered at Washington, will be published as soon as possible.

ROADSIDE BEAUTY DESTROYED.

Ravinia, Ill., Sept. 21.—We were motoring down from the north enjoying the scenery and the roadsides. Many kinds of native plants that had been permitted to grow by the authorities in charge along the roadsides greeted us with their smiling faces.

But we were also horrified by stretches of black smoldering areas where yesterday the beauty of autumn had held sway—today death and desolation, perhaps due to abandoned cigarets thrown by careless hands from a passing car, or to the stupidity of officials who believe in this method as a cleaning up process, destroying the loveliness of the roadsides and the cover and protection these plants give to our birds and wild life in general during winter months. Trees and shrubs that in a few weeks would have enlivened the roadsides with their beautiful autumn colors are now staring with their blackened nakedness against the sky. I even saw one place where kind hands had planted the roadside just a year or two ago now offered to the flames.

What use is roadside planting if it cannot be protected from fire and from vandalism? The finer things are destroyed and the weeds are permitted to thrive. One of the worst weeds we have, the quack grass, is encouraged by these fires to the extent that it takes complete possession of the land.

I saw a fire last spring long after the prairie lark sat on his nest. You can guess what became of its brood. We spend millions for all sorts of remedies to destroy our insect pests. Our birds will do this for us if we take care of them. We will have their beauty and their song and we will have beautiful roadsides with lovely blossoms and gay autumn colors just by using a little common sense. Let us take pride in our homeland and the beauty that adorns it.

JENS JENSEN.

MEDITATION ON THE BLUE EAGLE.

Chicago, Sept. 25.—Was blue conceived as a color for the NRA insignia apropos of the general feeling? Is it to be wondered that people are beginning to refer to it as ballyhoo when it is displayed in Chinese laundries behind which men may be seen laboring from 6 a. m. until 11:30 p. m.; displayed on push carts of peddlers who are not U. S. citizens, unable to speak understandable English, do not hire any one and dispense none too wholesome fruit; used as a trademark for a nickel candy bar; plastered in windows of stores until you can't see the merchandise of merchants who do not approach conformity with the code?

Would it not have been more sensible to award the insignia only to those who had produced bona fide evidence that they had and would continue to conform with the code?

The farmer, who under any and all circumstances can sustain himself, and the laborer supported by union propaganda are getting preferred attention. The bourgeoisie who will pay the freight will not a great while longer continue to be innocent bystanders waiting patiently to take it on the chin again.

They will not be overawed by stereotyped propaganda projected by Kate Smith, Milton Berle and comic entertainers who couldn't distinguish the NRA from the Magna Charta, nor by torchlight processions smacking of the horse and buggy whoopla era.

HEROES OF THE EASTLAND.

Chicago, Sept. 26.—It has been erroneously stated in this morning's TRIBUNE that the three other welders who worked on the Eastland in 1915 have left the city. I beg to say that the three Havis brothers have lived in Chicago for years. Being the wife of one of them I should know.

MRS. HAVIS.

RELIEF DOWNSTATE.

Toledo, Ill., Sept. 25.—In Toledo, Ill., county seat of Cumberland county, not one cent has been received from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission for the help of our unemployed. Our merchants are sending their sales tax checks to Springfield for the direct use of the unemployed, and we are being told that there are not sufficient funds to meet the demands, at least no funds are coming back to us. We begin to see why Chicago did not want a county optional sales tax at the last session of the legislature. Our people are wondering if Chicago expects this to continue indefinitely. We have no people receiving local aid that own or operate an automobile. Is this true in Chicago?

Our village is employing men who are willing to work for 15 cents per hour. These men have worked for weeks in ditches relaying sewer tile and are accepting food orders, good for food, clothing and shelter. These orders are taken to the stores and traded out or placed to their future credit, but no cash is paid out except to the merchants who redeem the orders at face on presentation to the village treasurer. Many of the men employed have been receiving aid from our township supervisor, but local funds from that source have been exhausted, and the village has seen fit to help with a program of work until such time as relief money, or our share, should come back from money paid by our merchants in sales tax.

We are wondering if all cities are providing work for those who are on the relief roll, or are continuing to let them loaf. This condition must change soon or our downstate communities will rebel, and unless there is a fair distribution or a more conservative program there will be a general repudiation of all taxes.

It is a disgrace for Illinois or any state to be running to Washington for relief money, and just as long as we keep making raids on the United States treasury just that long will recovery be impossible.

E. B. CUTTS,
President Village Board.

BUT HOW ABOUT INFLATION?

Elkhorn, Wis., Sept. 25.—I read with a great deal of interest an article in THE TRIBUNE of Sunday, Sept. 24, entitled "How to Invest the Forgotten Woman's Mite," by Reuben Cahn. I thought that before he reached the end of that lengthy discourse he would offer a solution of the problem.

I can offer at least a suggestion or two that will answer the problem with safety and certainty, and take his case with a few additional specifications.

Let us suppose the widow is 45 years old and has been left $20,000.

If it was life insurance money, practically any one of the larger companies will allow her to leave the money with them on deposit, and will guarantee an interest income of about $49.40 per month, and at least one of the large companies will pay this year $78.20 per month, they having paid this return for several years. Some companies may pay slightly more and some less, but $49.40 is a guaranteed amount. Any portion of the principal sum may be withdrawn at any time, and the balance will continue to earn at the same proportionate rates.

Or if she is left alone in the world, and income is the only requirement, she may purchase any one of several types of annuity that will guarantee her an income of as much as $115.82 per month for life, regardless of the number of years she may live. Annuity incomes are guaranteed by the total assets of the large companies writing annuities, many of them with upwards of 75 to 90 years or more of successful experience.

NATION TURNING TO CHICAGO FOR INDUSTRIAL ART

Institute's School Is in Its 55th Year.

The safety of the nation—you don't have to worry about that so long as the nation has such young people as the Art institute's school enrolls. Hardworking, intent, gifted, high-minded.

CHARLES FABENS KELLEY.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

Dean Kelley was fluent with epigram on the recent day the Art institute's school swung into its fifty-fifth year.

For, having uttered the words that stand at the head of of this article, he said this:

"The Art institute translates the old slogan 'Art for art's sake' into terms of practicality by adding 'and for an honest living's sake.' In other words, the laborer is worthy of his hire."

This great school, which it costs a quarter of a million dollars a year to run and which is not run for profit, begins its fifty-fifth year with—

More than a thousand students, many of whom, despite the severe requirements of the curriculum, are working their way through.

With a faculty of sixty men and women.

No Laggard Depressionists Here.

With a small but significant World's Fair exhibition of industrial art and architecture on the ground floor of Blackstone hall, in the institute, which is of intense interest to hard-headed business men and which will continue until Nov. 1.

With five of its students studying in European galleries on traveling fellowships that rate from $1,000 to $2,000 a year.

With two of its faculty—Professors Edmund Giesbert and Louis Ritman—just back from Europe with notebooks and sketchbooks full for lectures.

With its own kilns fired up for the burning of the smaller terra cotta pieces designed in the school's department of architectural sculpture.

And with the huge kilns of the Northwestern Terra Cotta company ready to receive the school's larger works. In performing that service the company is loyally carrying out the wishes of its departed president, Gustav Hottinger, whose gift of $50,000 started this phase of the school's activity.

Chicago's Sequestered School.

It is this school which, more than any other one institution, gives us such artistic reputation as we possess in foreign parts. Relatively few Chicagoans know it exists, although it is right in their midst, and hundreds of thousands of them pass it daily. The lower levels behind the institute's vast galleries—the area called by the students "the other side of the tracks"—is honeycombed with the school's studios.

One reason the town passes it by unheeding may lie in the fact that besmocked students are forbidden on pain of expulsion to parade the terraces of the institute in enjoyment of the innocent cigarette. Stupid rule! Anything that would make for a picturesque touch we penalize in America. A flower vender on a bridge parapet! Arrest the varlet.

But Manchester Knows.

But Manchester, England, knows about our art school; the solid cotton magnates of the city, which is the head of the cotton printing industry of the world, know, and they buy our school's designs for printed textiles.

The Manchester Cotton Printers' association sends scouts all over the world in search of novelties. A big man of the association and of the trade bought liberally of the institute's students' designs on his last visit here, saying to Dean Kelley: "I like to buy your students' designs. They are so fresh and original."

Students come to the school on the lake front from many parts of the world.

When a young man registered from Australia the dean asked, "What decided your choice of this school?"

"My teacher at home told me it was the best I could find."

Art Knows No Frontiers.

When the theme, the lyric side of the theater, was painted for the beautiful Goodman Memorial theater, which is part of the institute's teaching equipment, it made a panel ten feet high and forty feet long, and a crew of four students—two men and two women—worked on it a month. They had registered from four countries — China, Italy, Czechoslovakia and the United States—and they did their work so harmoniously that it all looks like the achievement of one artist. The panel is in delicate colors on canvas and includes numerous figures of a more or less modern type.

The three large panels, representing biological development from prehistoric times, in the south wing of the Hall of Science at the World's Fair are another achievement of the institute's students.

They were designed by Miss Catherine O'Brien of Chicago who, when a high school girl, entered the institute's Saturday class. "Her silhouettes," said Dean Kelley, "were the first thing that attracted our attention. Finally she won the Edward L. Ryerson traveling fellowship which, as a result of Mr. Ryerson's endowment of $50,000, gives the winner two years of European study. Before that she was earning her way—working in shops at Christmas time, and other work after school hours.

"This is significant: Most of our winners of fellowships have earned their way through school in part. But we have professional standards, and no student could earn his way during the first year. It would kill him. Our students work six hours a day—9 to 12 and 1 to 4 o'clock—five days a week. There are evening classes on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 7 to 9 o'clock."

Tired Business Man Awakes.

The most novel and intensive phase of the Art institute's work is largely a result of the Illinois business man's faith in art—if not for art's sake, certainly for the money good art brings in.

That confidence laid the foundations five years ago of the department of industrial art in the institute's art school, which was then nearly half a century old.

The Association of Arts and Industries, composed of manufacturers of Chicago and other parts of Illinois, gave the new industrial development in the institute's old school of fine arts its impetus. That organization did more than talk and prate about a better industrial art. It gave $230,000 for the creation of a department of industrial art.

And More Money Rolled In.

"Good," said the Rockefeller foundation, "and if this department is really to be established at the Art institute we will give $100,000 more."

And they did.

Then a Chicagoan, a woman who chooses to remain an anonymous benefactor, gave $200,000 for the endowment of a professorship and lectureships in industrial art.

Thus the new department started with gifts totaling $530,000.

With part of the Rockefeller gift six ateliers for the teaching of industrial art were built "the other side of the tracks." In them today one hundred and fifty students are working under eight teachers who give their time exclusively to industrial art, but the faculty—numbering sixty—of the whole school is also drawn on for this new department.

"An increasing number of art students," said Dean Kelley, "are turning to industrial art because they feel that it is easier to make a living that way than by painting pictures—and they are quite right."

From Cuspidor to Auto.

"Give me some of your young people's specific achievements in the new field, dean."

"General industrial design—anything from a self-righting cuspidor to an automobile. Here are some recent jobs:

"Redesigning of the Rand-McNally schoolroom globes.

"New type of glass brick to be used in penthouses by the Owens-Illinois Glass company, a Libbey affiliation.

"Winning of the New York City Medical association's nation-wide competition for a metal trash receiver, with strict specifications. One of our third year students won the prize of $500.

"Winning of first prize in the American Printers' magazine cover competition, which was open to all printing arts students in the country. There were 300 contestants.

"Redesigning of the American Lumberman's cover, the publisher accepting and paying for about a score of our students' designs, with the intention of using them from month to month.

"Numerous designs for package goods, the designs for which used to be so crude.

"Designs for printed textiles and linoleums. And ~~so on~~—and on."

"Wait Till I Ask Bill."

This kind of thing used to happen in industrial "art":

Scene: Office of a metal stamping company in New York.

"Darling, can't you make something like this?" . . . "I guess so. Wait till I send for Charlie." . . . Enter Charlie. . . . "Charlie, can we do this?" . . . "I guess so. Wait till I ask Bill." . . . Enter Bill. . . . "Bill, can we do this?" . . . "Sure we can!" . . . And in a few days another atrocity in industrial "art" was turned out.

The Art institute has changed much of that. Prof. Emil Zettler is head of its department of industrial art. Eastern firms keep sending for him to give them counsel. At first they would try to resist his counsel and change his sketches. "Take it or leave it—it's all right with me," he would reply, "but don't try to tell me how it should be." His forthrightness and authority awed them. They ceased to resist. And, when they had executed and sent out work done in accordance with Zettler designs great houses like Sears-Roebuck would ask: "Why didn't you send us something like this long ago?"

The victory was won.

America in New Field.

"In short," said Dean Kelley, drawing the moral, "the American industrialist who wants real art has waked up to the fact that, though the best industrial art was made abroad, he now can get his commissions executed here instead of sending them abroad.

"That is the purpose of this school—to train good American designers for American products instead of having foreign designers do the work. To be sure, snobbery survives. Designs for sports clothes are made in New York, sent to Paris, and then mailed back here with Paris labels. Such is snobbery!

"But more and more are teachers and graduates of our industrial arts department becoming consulting designers to large industries, among them famous printing houses."

See the Exhibits.

The institute's pioneers in this new field believe that their school's perhaps unique distinction is that it so teaches the young people the principles behind things, and so emphasizes the learning of basic things that, for example, its designers of fabrics are not left all at sea when styles are changed—as they are, and for sordid reasons—every six months in this country.

The hard boiled but visioned business men whose gifts made possible the creation in Chicago of this half million dollar school of industrial art can see at a glance what their money has done by viewing the current World's Fair exhibit in Blackstone hall at the institute.

It is exhilarating and varied.

For here are gracious and graceful designs for telephone poles, electric light standards, entresols, façades, furniture, book bindings and book jackets, advertising layouts, fountains—some of the fountain designs executed in massive terra cotta—posters, textiles, stained glass windows, coffee urns, upholstery, vases, plaques, and grills for air conditioning.

And all the work fulfills a big epochmaking thought—the thought great William Morris expressed when he said: "I do not want art for a few any more than education for a few or freedom for a few."

An NRA report to President Roosevelt

by the CURTISS CANDY COMPANY

The following letter was sent to President Roosevelt under date of September 28, 1933 . . . .

Mr. President:—We have been informed by the N. R. A. that the Curtiss Candy Company was among the first of American employers to sign and operate under your Re-Employment Agreement. Two months have elapsed since we commenced operating under Blue Eagle requirements, and we now feel it our duty to report to you on progress.

Customers Our First Consideration—It is particularly gratifying to report to you, Mr. President, that our average prices to our distributors are no higher today than before the N. R. A. started its activities. The financial burden of our participation in the N. R. A. has not been passed along. This is in spite of labor and overhead increases estimated at approximately $1,500,000 annually. This is our contribution and support in helping you make your Recovery Plan a success. Thus you will note that we have accepted our moral, as well as financial, responsibility.

Auditing of Operations—We stand ready, Mr. President, to give you complete figures and facts from time to time as you may desire them. Not figures colored by our own interpretations, but plain, unadorned statistics gathered by independent certified public accountants of unquestioned reputation whom we have engaged to make complete periodic audits of time cards, pay checks and operations in each department.

Employment—We are employing over 7,500 people, whereas our payroll a year ago in May totalled 1,119. This increase is due to two factors: First, a substantial increase in our business, the result of courageous merchandising effort; second, the direct effect of provisions in your Re-Employment Agreement affecting hours of employment.

Wages—All wages paid in our plants and offices are equal to or in excess of the agreement requirements. Minimum paid to all girls, 32½c per hour; minimum paid to all men, 45c per hour. The Curtiss minimum wage for men is nearly 30% higher than the minimum established by the Substitute Presidential Re-employment Agreement for the candy manufacturing industry approved by the N. R. A.

Service to Employees—In addition to paying wages equal to or above agreement requirements, we provide nursing and medical services at our plants without charge; our cafeterias supply quality foods at minimum prices.

Realizing that employees working under the N. R. A. are afforded more leisure than formerly, we are endeavoring to assist them in using this time wholesomely and beneficially. Cultural, educational and recreational activities are being sponsored and financed or planned by the Company. Included are the baseball, bowling, tennis, basket ball and hockey teams, a band, orchestra, glee club and many other activities.

Increased Business—The Curtiss Candy Company is today doing the largest business in its 16-year history. Our 1,200,000 dealers and 10,000 jobbers are sharing the benefits of this increased business along with our 7,500 employees. We ascribe this increase to three major factors: National Recovery; the extraordinary values and unexcelled quality we are giving the public; and our aggressive and nation-wide merchandising and advertising activities founded on our confidence in the future of America.

Respectfully submitted,

CURTISS CANDY COMPANY CHICAGO
Otto Schnering
PRESIDENT

A Letter from Executive Secretary, Blue Eagle Division of the National Recovery Administration

We quote from a letter addressed to the Curtiss Candy Company under date of August 19, 1933:

"We note that you were among the first of the employers in the Chicago area to vigorously endorse the N. R. A. Program, and for that splendid support, please accept our thanks."

THE POWER OF THE PENNY—In recognition of conditions existing 18 months ago, with nickels not so plentiful as previously, the Curtiss Candy Company at that time introduced penny packages of most of its products—giving the penny a purchasing power comparable to that of the nickel in many competing lines. All Curtiss products whether 5c, 2 for 5c, or 1c each, are of the same high quality, and each offers outstanding value to the consumer.

PROTECTED PRODUCTS—The Curtiss standard of quality—responsible for the unprecedented success of Baby Ruth, the largest-selling chocolate-coated candy bar in the world—is being rigidly maintained under N. R. A. operation as it has been for sixteen years. Our Baby Ruth, Buy Jiminy, Dip, Mints and Fruit Drops carry the endorsement of the American Medical Association. In the manufacture of our various products we employ only materials of the highest quality, all of which are constantly tested in our laboratories to insure uniformity and purity.

through. We are going right on down the line until we get every criminal and gangster in the United States. The new law has provided a powerful weapon and we are prepared and eager to use it to the finish."

Kelly Next on Trial.

Kelly and his wife, who were captured in Memphis by federal agents, will be brought here to stand trial. Kelly, the machine gunner accused with Bates of having actually abducted the oil millionaire, has indicated he may plead guilty.

Kathryn Kelly may not demand trial, as she has sought to shift blame for the crime on to her husband. Judge Edgar Vaught has set their trial for Oct. 9.

Indictments charging Cass Coleman and Will Casey, Coleman county, Tex., farmers, with harboring the Kellys while they were fugitives in the Urschel case, will be sought at Dallas next week.

Federal agents found $73,250 of the $200,000 Urschel ransom buried in a 250 acre cotton field on Coleman's farm before dawn Wednesday. Its discovery brought the ransom currency accounted for to almost $80,000.

Mrs. Shannon is a sister of Cass Coleman and is Kathryn Kelly's mother.

The Shannons' chief defense was that Kelly and Bates had threatened them and that they guarded Urschel in fear of their lives.

Bates offered no defense. He was the target of a series of accusing fingers throughout the trial.

Bailey's defense was that only through pure coincidence he had been captured at the Shannon home.

Ordered Freed by Judge.

The situation of the defendants from Minnesota was different. Two of the original men indicted, Charles Wolk and Pete Valder, were ordered freed by the judge before the trial ended. They were accused of being the money changers, using shady channels to dispose of part of the ransom.

The cases of the other five were permitted to go to the jury, Judge Vaught said, "only on the slender theory that you jurors may have heard some testimony that the court overlooked."

The Twin Cities men were accused of being "the money changers," the "fringe of the underworld," using shady channels to dispose of part of the ransom.

Kozberg and Kronick were so little involved that Hyde in final argument suggested that the court might order a verdict in their favor.

Mrs. Shannon received the verdict like her husband and step-son, in stolid silence, but later in the county jail she was on the verge of tears as she declared again the family was "forced into this with machine guns, the same as Mr. Urschel."

Chief of Police Fired.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 30.—(AP)—A trip to Oklahoma City to testify in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping trial brought about the dismissal of Police Chief Joseph A. Lehmeyer by Mayor A. G. Bainbridge today.

Mayor Bainbridge previously had said he would demand a complete explanation of the trip and added he did not know until later that the chief had left town.

Chief Lehmeyer replied he had gone to Oklahoma City at the request of defense lawyers, who told him he was to be subpœnaed and that his quick arrival there would prevent trial delay and obviate further expenses. He went by airplane a week ago.

Move Kelly by Plane.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 30.—(AP)—George "Machine Gun" Kelly and his wife will be moved by plane to Oklahoma City about dawn tomorrow, a reliable source said tonight. Unless some change in plans is made, the Kellys will be taken from the Shelby county jail under the machine gun guard of a small army of federal agents and Memphis police.

Conviction of 13 Kidnapers Is Praised by Cummings

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special]—Convictions obtained in the Urschel kidnaping case at Oklahoma City and the Luer case at Alton, Ill., are regarded by justice department officials as the most important victories for law enforcement in a decade. Six were convicted at Alton and seven at Oklahoma City.

"I am greatly pleased with the result of the trials and regard them as distinct achievements," Attorney General Cummings said today. "Naturally I am very proud indeed of the work of representatives of the department of justice who have rendered such excellent service in this important matter."

Will Resume Crime Study.

Joseph B. Keenan, assistant to the attorney general, who is in charge of the crime drive, is expected back in Washington from Oklahoma City on Monday to resume the crime study that will result in the presentation of new legislation at the January session of congress to strengthen the government's arm against activities of the underworld.

Investigations that led to the arrest and conviction of the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel and August Luer were conducted by agents of the division of investigation headed by J. Edgar Hoover. In the Urschel case two important defendants, George "Machine Gun" Kelly and his wife, Katheryn Thorne Kelly, were apprehended after the trial started. They will be tried later. Kelly is said by the justice department to have been the man who covered Urschel with a machine gun while he was seized by Harvey Bailey, notorious southwestern bad man, and others.

Mr. Hoover believes that the successful conclusion of the two kidnaping cases will have a wholesome influence on the general crime drive and will be important in convincing criminals that kidnaping is not a safe business.

Maximum Penalty of Life.

Every kidnaping case since the Lindbergh law, as the federal abduction act is known, has been solved, the criminals are known, and many of them are in custody.

There have been fifteen kidnaping cases investigated by the federal government, some in coöperation with the state authorities, since the federal law placed a maximum penalty of life imprisonment on abduction of interstate character in which ransom was demanded.

HUSBAND HAS HIS WIFE JAILED; SON GOES WITH HER

Mrs. Geraldine Reynolds Dutton, 23 years old, parachute jumper and airplane pilot, was held at the detective bureau yesterday with her son, Richard, 3 years old, on a warrant charging her with kidnaping the child. She was arrested after her husband, Ralph A. Dutton, electrical engineer of Syracuse, N. Y., informed police that she had taken the child from in front of his home on Aug. 8.

A police squad found Mrs. Dutton at 11260 Vernon avenue, Friday evening. The child was with her and she refused to allow her husband, who came to Chicago to see the warrant served, to take the boy from her. Mother and son spent Friday night and last night together in a cell. Mrs. Dutton was unable to post the $5,000 bond required. She will be arraigned before Municipal Judge Joseph H. McGarry in the South State Street court tomorrow.

The Duttons were married in June, 1929, and Mrs. Dutton flew herself and her husband on their honeymoon. The plane crashed near Indianapolis but neither was hurt. They became estranged after two years and Mrs. Dutton returned to Chicago and filed a divorce bill. Her husband has a cross bill pending in the same court. The suit will be heard on Oct. 18 before Circuit Judge Walter J. LaBuy.

HORNER PRAISES CONVICTIONS OF LUER KIDNAPERS

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Gov. Horner today stated that the conviction of the Luer kidnapers at Edwardsville, Ill., and the Urschel abductors at Oklahoma City "indicate that the nation-wide campaign against the cowardly and atrocious crime of kidnaping, which is being waged by prosecuting officials, sheriffs, police, courts, and courageous juries, is becoming effective."

He praised Lester M. Geers, state's attorney of Madison county, who prosecuted the Luer case.

Two months ago Mr. Horner called a conference of Illinois law enforcing officials to organize a state-wide campaign against kidnaping.

JAPANESE PROTEST ATTACKS BY CHINESE DELEGATE AT GENEVA

TOKIO, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today that an official protest to the Chinese government would be made against the asserted anti-Japanese activities at Geneva of Dr. Wellington Koo, Chinese minister to France.

The spokesman said Koki Hirota, foreign minister, had instructed Akira Ariyoshi, minister to China, to present the protest at Nanking. Objection to Dr. Koo's activities at the league of nations assembly was based, the spokesman said, on Hirota's belief that they were injurious to what was described as the "newly developing Sino-Japanese amity."

Addressing the league assembly yesterday, the Chinese minister said: "Ominous clouds are rising on the far eastern horizon." Dr. Koo referred to Japan's continued defiance of the assembly report on its Manchurian invasion as in violation of the pact of Paris.

6 ARE CONVICTED 3 GIVEN LIFE, IN LUER KIDNAPING

Woman, 2 Men Receive Maximum Terms.

Edwardsville, Ill., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Six members of the gang which kidnaped August Luer last July 10 today escaped the electric chair demanded by the state, but were convicted and sentenced to prison terms ranging from life to 5 years' duration.

A Circuit court jury found that Mrs. Lillian Chessen, Randolph Eugene Norvell, and Percy Michael Fitzgerald should spend the remainder of their lives in an Illinois prison.

Lesser members of the gang, including Charles Chessen, husband of the convicted woman, received lighter terms. Chessen and Christ Nicola Gitcho were sentenced to five years and Mike Musiala received a 20 year penalty.

Banker Victim Absent.

The 77 year old Alton, Ill., banker, whose five day captivity and release without payment of a demanded $100,000 ransom brought about the convictions, was not in the courtroom today.

Found at the bank of which he is president, he declined to comment on the justice of the punishment, but admitted he was glad "there wasn't a hung jury, so that we don't have to go through the ordeal of having the case tried again."

Members of the jury said they had agreed to make no formal comment on their verdicts. It was reliably learned, however, that it was first agreed that both Norvell, a professional bondsman and gambler, and Fitzgerald, former convict and gambler, should be electrocuted.

Oppose Life for Woman.

Others of the jurors believed Mrs. Chessen, identified as the "finger woman" who pointed out the banker as a good abduction victim, should receive an equal penalty, but did not think they could vote to take the life of a woman.

As a compromise, it finally was agreed that all three should be given life prison terms.

State's Attorney L. M. Geers said that charges of "extortion by threat," also pending against the sextet, would be stricken from the docket with leave to reinstate.

The United States district attorney's office said similar action would be taken with regard to charges of using the mails to extort money.

Several attorneys representing the various defendants said they would seek a new trial, and, if denied, would appeal.

"Ice Box Kid" Comments.

"It looks like they dealt us a natural," he commented. In St. Louis underworld circles he is known as the "ice box kid." A natural is a winning point at dice, or a losing point for the house.

Asked for comment on the verdict, Mrs. Chessen said:

"What does the dapper Mr. Norvell say?"

At the trial Norvell admitted he drove the kidnap motor car and helped guard Luer, but only because of fear of Mrs. Chessen and "Irish" O'Malley, a fugitive in the case.

Chessen declined to comment. Musiala appeared dazed. Luer was held in a dirty small cave on the Musiala farm near Eagle Park, Ill. Gitcho still protested his innocence.

A small down payment and a small payment each month; so small, in fact, you will hardly notice it and your burner will be fully paid for before you realize it. No Extras—Nothing More to Pay—No Worry! Our Price Includes Installation and Complete Service for One Year.

A New Improved Burner at Much Lower Cost!

Now, when prices are generally on the rise we offer better automatic heat with all the latest developments at 25% LESS than our price of last year when the "Hercules" led the way to lower prices for strictly modern oil burning equipment.

So modern and economical. The NEW "Hercules" burns lower grade oils (lower in price but higher in heat units) and gets the maximum amount of heat out of every drop of oil. You will be amazed at its efficiency.

Replace Your Old, Out-of-Date Oil Burner!

The new "Hercules" is safer, more economical, more efficient. Perhaps the controls for your present burner can be used at considerable saving. The new "Hercules" embodies every modern safety factor. You may find that the saving on fuel alone will pay for the new burner in a comparatively short time. Unquestionably your modernized heating plant will add greatly to your comfort.

Note These Outstanding Features

- QUIET: No objectionable noise.
- ECONOMICAL: More heat from less fuel. Uses cheaper grades successfully.
- EFFICIENT: Burns heavy, low-priced oil which is higher in heating units. Heats average size home.
- CLEAN: No dust, ashes or coal.
- SIMPLE: Nothing to get out of order. Only one moving part.
- AUTOMATIC CONTROL: Thermostat regulates temperature just as you like it. Never forgets.
- POSITIVE ELECTRIC IGNITION saves you cost of gas for pilot light and increases your safety.

NEW U. S. GUN LAW TO BE PROPOSED, COPELAND SAYS

Senate Racket Committee to Hold Hearing Here.

Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, whose senatorial committee on racketeering and kidnaping will meet in Chicago the latter part of this month, yesterday outlined some of the suggested legislative reforms which are being considered for use in a nation-wide war on organized crime.

Senator Copeland said he had proposed to hold the hearings this week, but was forced to postpone the sessions because of the crowded conditions of hotels during American Legion week. The committee will probably meet here around Oct. 20, he said. Police officials, State's Attorney Courtney, Attorney General Kerner, and Criminal court judges will be among those asked to appear as witnesses.

"A wide variety of legal weapons has been proposed to the committee at hearings held thus far," he declared. Some of them have merit and others are impractical. Among the latter is the proposal to declare martial law and shoot all racketeers and kidnapers at sunrise. Suggestions of this type are worthless.

States' Coöperation Needed.

"The coöperation of the states is necessary in an effective drive against racketeering and kidnaping. State lines must be wiped out so that the criminal cannot take refuge in one state when he is wanted in another. The prosecution of criminals is also often impeded because witnesses may not be brought back from other states.

"The constitution permits the states to sign treaties with each other if congress approves. New York state has an agreement with the New England states whereby witnesses may be brought back to attend trials. The states of Illinois and Indiana, for example, might enter into a treaty providing for the return of witnesses and criminals and congress would undoubtedly approve such a pact."

The cost of crime to the United States has now risen to the staggering total of thirteen billion dollars a year, Senator Copeland asserted. He estimated that the national income is now only about fifty billion annually, and pointed out that one dollar in every four of the country's income is wasted on the prosecution of enemies of society.

Likely to Ask New Gun Law.

Legislation to control the sale and use of firearms with a clause outlawing the submachine gun will probably be recommended to congress by the committee, Senator Copeland said. Since 1918 more than one million pistols have been imported, chiefly from Germany and Spain, he declared, and 500,000 revolvers are manufactured in this country each year.

Universal fingerprinting and the organization and maintenance of a federal police system patterned after England's Scotland Yard are also being considered by the committee, he revealed.

"Kidnaping should always be a matter for federal investigation," he asserted. "It is reasonable to presume, when a kidnaping has been committed, that the kidnapers have crossed a state line with their victim, thus giving the federal authorities jurisdiction in the case."

34 JUDGES ARE DISQUALIFIED IN RACKET CASE

Only Five Eligible on Criminal Bench.

Only five of the judges now sitting in the Criminal court are eligible to try the business racket conspiracy case as a result of change of venue petitions filed yesterday by sixteen of the twenty-four defendants. The defendants eliminated all but thirteen of the eligible judges in the entire county by contending that thirty-four members of the judiciary are prejudiced and could not give them a "fair and impartial trial."

If Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court follows out the rule of assigning the case to a judge on the Criminal bench, the trial judge will be either Judge James F. Fardy or Benjamin P. Epstein. The chief justice himself and Judges William V. Brothers and Charles P. Molthrop are also eligible.

The chief justice, however, has never presided over an extended trial because of his executive duties. Judge Molthrop's temporary appointment expires Dec. 4 and Judge Brothers has indicated that he intends to leave the Criminal court within the next two months. This narrows the choice to Judges Fardy and Epstein.

The other judges not disqualified by the venue petitions are Judges John J. Sullivan, Martin Gridley, and Francis Wilson of the Apellate court, and Judges William J. Lindsay, Peter Schwaba, Joseph B. David, Harry Fisher, and Joseph B. Burke of the Civil courts.

Three defendants in the case, Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, former czar of the cleaning and dyeing industry, Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] and Attorney Aaron Sapiro of New York, announced that any judge would be agreeable to them. Ald. Nelson has demanded an immediate trial ever since the return of the indictment. Unless he is tried before the expiration of the November term of court the state will have to drop the charges against him.

The definite assignment of the case, however, is not expected to take place until at least the middle of the week.

Bride Flies Here

Fred Waring, orchestra leader, and Evelyn Nair, dancer, were married at noon yesterday in the County building by Judge Rudolph Desort, they revealed last night. The bride flew here from Hollywood by United Air lines, arriving early in the morning. On the marriage license her age was given as 22 years, and that of Waring as 33 years. Miss Nair was married in 1929 to Will Morgan, former Chicagoan, from whom she recently obtained a divorce. The couple will depart today by air for New York, where Waring makes weekly broadcasts.

U. S. RELEASES GUS WINKLER; IS SEIZED AS 'VAG'

Gus Winkler, north side gang chief, will go on trial tomorrow morning before Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green in the felony court on a charge of vagrancy based on the new criminal reputation law. Winkler was booked at the detective bureau last evening and released after posting a $10,000 bond.

Seized last Sunday for questioning in connection with the killing of Policeman Miles Cunningham after the federal reserve bank mail robbery on Sept. 22, Winkler was held by the federal authorities until yesterday, when it was announced he was no longer wanted. He was rearrested at once on the vagrancy charge.

Winkler at present is appealing a sentence of one year in the house of correction and a $300 fine imposed for carrying a gun.

Shotgun Bandits Hold Up Packing Plant for $900

Six bandits, flourishing pistols and sawed off shotguns, invaded the Jourdan Packing company, 818 West Cullerton street, early yesterday and fled with $900 in cash and $400 in checks. The bandits forced Miss Justine Uhlarek, an assistant cashier, and seven clerks to lie on the floor while they rifled the cash drawer. The robbers fled in a new sedan.

OFFER FINANCIAL HELP FOR LAKE FRONT PROJECT

Business Men Rallying to Recreation Center Plan.

Procuring of financial support for the projected lake front playground on the site of A Century of Progress, a problem which has heretofore been considered the most difficult of many involved, may prove easier to solve than was anticipated.

Business leaders, who regard the project as the one development necessary to sustain Chicago's reputation as a vacation and convention center after the close of the Fair, are manifesting willingness to prove their civic spirit by sharing in the capital costs, it was ascertained yesterday.

For example, members of the Chicago Hotel association, whose business has enjoyed extraordinary prosperity during the Fair, at a meeting where the playground plan was discussed, gave pledges of financial support to the limit of their means. This was revealed by Leonard Hicks, managing director of the Morrison hotel.

Pledge Financial Aid.

"The sentiment of the meeting was that a lake front playground was the one project necessary to round out Chicago's attractions as the summer capital of the country," said Mr. Hicks. "Acting on this sentiment, the members pledged themselves to do their part financially.

"There may be opponents of the plan who will argue that the hotels are backing it from a purely selfish standpoint. To this I cannot agree, for I am convinced that the development of the project will help the whole city, just as the Fair has done.

"Here at the Morrison, for example, we did a business this summer which enabled us to pay off $300,000 in taxes. That money went to pay teachers, policemen, and firemen, and to help sustain the city's credit. This project, enhancing the city's tourist patronage, will do the same."

Mr. Hicks is a member of the Association of Commerce committee of fifteen named by the president, George W. Rossetter, to consider plans for averting a business slump when the Fair has closed. The committee will hold its first meeting Monday.

Others Promise Support.

Another member of the committee, Thomas B. Hogan, president of the Yellow Cab company, had pledged his concern's financial support in a statement Thursday. A third member, C. F. Strodel, officer of the Balaban & Katz Theaters corporation, expressed the same sentiments yesterday, saying that "Balaban & Katz will be willing to do its part to support this splendid project."

The immediate problem, if the Century of Progress equipment is to be utilized, is to procure funds to protect the properties from vandalism and pay insurance premiums through the winter. Mayor Kelly, who is also president of the south park commission, which controls the lake front site, is considering the problem.

The single objection to the project heard thus far is that it might develop into "another Coney Island." As heretofore pointed out, backers of the project envision it, not as a Coney Island, but as a pleasure place modeled on some of the famous resorts of Europe, such as the renowned Tivoli Gardens of Copenhagen, established 80 years ago.

Famous Resort Described.

A description of the famous Danish resort, with its small lake, its groves, concert pavilions, and restaurants, was carried in a recent issue of the Danish Foreign Office Journal, official publication of the Danish government.

"What is Tivoli?" the article begins. "Well, Tivoli is Tivoli. Come there in the afternoon when the mellow gleam of the setting sun picks out silhouettes of the Bazaar building and the Concert hall, and the orchestras on the promenades and in the restaurants form a restful accompaniment to a cup of tea.

"But best of all see the old world enchantment of Tivoli when night has settled over the trees and the avenues of lamps.

"Make your way to the concert hall or down to the lake, which is now converted into a fairy world of fireflies, gondolas, discreet little cafes and leafy nooks. There is the best behaved crowd you ever saw. You'll never see a drunken man, although every cafe and restaurant has a spirit license. Eighty years old, and still the same, and yet the plaec is crowded every night. The secret is the national temperament, combined with wise management."

FALL FROM TRAIN FATAL TO YOUTH.

Frank Doll, 16 years old, 2146 North Lamon avenue, died at the Danish American hospital early yesterday of injuries received when he fell beneath a moving Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul freight train on which he was stealing a ride.

Mrs. Ickes Divulges Views on 2 Parties and Indians

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Mrs. Harold Ickes, commuting wife of the secretary of the interior, held her first press conference this morning, and attracted to it nearly as many writing women as attend Mrs. Roosevelt's Monday morning meetings.

For a sprightly hour she talked about Republicans and Democrats and Indians. But mostly about Indians.

This trilogy of topics is a perfectly natural one.

For:

Mrs. Ickes is and for six years has been a Republican member of the Illinois legislature.

Mr. Ickes holds a portfolio in President Roosevelt's cabinet.

Mrs. Ickes has, for 15 years, been interested in the Indians (Navajo and Pueblo) in the southwest, and is presently to bring out a book about them.

Ask If She's Kidded.

Of course, the first thing the Washington reporters wanted to know was whether she had been kidded a lot at home about being a G. O. P. office holder while her spouse was a Democratic office holder.

"At home? Not at all. It's only when I go away that the question comes up. You see, back in Chicago, we are taken for granted. We have always been independent in our voting."

Independent, she means, not only of the party labels, but of any sheep-like following, one of the other.

"If you'd check up," she suggested, "I think you'd find our two tickets, never a straight ticket, would balance pretty well."

As for this two-party politics. She said that she is "tremendously enthusiastic" over the federal situation. But, she also said that she honestly hasn't yet made up her mind whether or not she is going to step out of the local picture. This much she does know definitely, that it would have been "terribly unfair to my constituents" to have resigned a seat in the Illinois assembly in the middle of a term, and such a "complex term"; and that it would likewise be unfair to step out now, with two special sessions of importance pending.

"But, what about next term?" the girls wanted to know.

Mrs. Ickes doesn't know. With a smile of trust in her constituents and word of apology for that confidence, she said, "it may sound arrogant and smug, but I know that my district, Republicans and Democratics, would return me again."

See New Deal for Indian.

She is pleased that John Collier, long time friend of the Indian, has been put, by her husband, in charge of the Indian bureau in the interior department. She thinks it betokens a new deal for the Indian, and it is high time for it, she believes.

It also amuses her when people ask her if she talks "Indian." That's a little like asking some one if he speaks "European." The Indians are as different "as the Swedes and the Italians," their languages are as varied. She does speak Navajo. With the Pueblos she talks in Spanish and English.

She enjoys watching a Hopi snake dance, but "nobody with any sense believes that the Indians worship snakes."

Then they wanted to know what she thought of liquor control legislation.

"As a dry," said Mrs. Ickes, "I am opposed to any form of control that prevents local option. I haven't yet formulated a definite plan, but whatever it is, it must be based on local option. Dry, though I am, I am not in favor of a high license. For we don't want both liquor and the bootlegger. In that, however, I believe the best wets and the best drys will join forces and work together."

FIGHT CLIMAXES GROCERS' FEUD; THREE WOUNDED

Three men were shot last night when a trade feud of three years' standing between two Italian families was climaxed with a pistol battle fought in the midst of numerous shoppers at Taylor and Green streets. None of the men was seriously wounded.

Tony Cimarusti, 53 years old, grocer at 929 West Taylor street, was shot in the chest. His cousin, Vito Cimarusti, 36 years old, 934 Blue Island avenue, was wounded in the shoulder and thigh. Joseph Caringella, 46 years old, a rival merchant at 924 West Taylor street, was wounded in the right side.

The Cimarustis, who were taken to the Mother Cabrini hospital, said they were shot by Caringella, who appeared later at the county hospital and was removed to the Bridewell hospital. Police arrested Rocco Caringella, a brother of Joseph, and were seeking another brother, Achile. The feud has flourished ever since the Caringellas opened their establishment three years ago.

Dog Saves Cash After Robbers Lock Up Master

Max, a police dog, early today drove two bandits from the drug store of his master, Walter Koelbel, at 459 West 79th street, and saved the contents of the cash register. The robbers, who were armed, had locked Koelbel in a rear room when Max went into action. The moment they stepped behind the counter and reached for the cash register the dog leaped at them. Koelbel heard the dog's attack, followed by the sound of running feet. Released some time later, he found Max in sole possession and the cash box intact.

SWEDEN IS HAPPY; HAS NO FASCIST OR RED PROBLEM

Nation Free of Extremists, Premier Insists.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 30.—Sweden is in the happy position of having neither a communist or Fascist problem. Prime Minister Per Alvin Hansson received me and explained how his country enjoys immunity from the two subversive movements which are now troubling most of the rest of the world.

Per Alvin, as he is known to all of Sweden's hard headed farmers, is from the province of Scania, which is the richest and most conservative province in Sweden.

No Use for Extremists.

The word "conservative" must be taken here in the broader sense, for Per Alvin is a Socialist and his party, which now rules Sweden, is Social Democratic, but it is moderate in its socialism and has no use for extremists of any brand. It is loyal to the king and the constitution. In many other countries it would be regarded as mildly liberal.

"We have eight communist members in a chamber of 230," Per Alvin said. "And they are split in two parties. The Moscow communist party has two seats and the National Swedish communists have six. The two Moscowites come from the forest regions in the north where some years ago a series of bad strikes occurred. The two parties together polled only 200,000 votes in the last election against 1,004,000 by the Socialists, 700,000 by the Conservatives, 350,000 by the Agrarians who vote with the Socialists, and 200,000 by the Liberals.

"I think therefore we need not regard communism as a menace in Sweden. Where there is no communism there is no fascism, for fascism is a reaction against communism. It is true there is a certain slight fascist mental attitude among some of the conservative youth, but only a few days ago Admiral Lindmann, Conservative party leader, warned them in a public speech that they have no chance for success in Sweden.

"They have not succeeded in electing a single deputy. They tried to elect one in Gotenburg, but they polled only 6,000 votes and in Varmland 3,000. These are the only two districts where they have displayed any strength."

Referring to the present economic situation, Per Alvin expressed his hopefulness. Owing to the fact that it is more industrialized than the Baltic states Sweden has suffered more than they have from the economic crisis, but on the whole the nation has not done so badly. Last January the prime minister said the number of unemployed was 200,000. Now it is 130,000 and the number seems on a steady decline.

Forest Industries Spurt.

The forest industries, including timber, paper pulp, and general woodworking, had a good export year and, in fact, forest owners exported up to the limit of economic possibility. Some iron trades and specialty machine trades in which Sweden excels have not been doing so well, but are now showing improvement.

"We are following the same policy as President Roosevelt, in whom we are much interested," Per Alvin said. "We are trying to raise prices, increase purchasing power, and get people back to work by a large program of public works. Our finances now are quite sound. All trace of the Ivar Kreuger smash has been liquidated and we look forward to the future hopefully.

"Without being too optimistic we think here the world crisis is nearly over and everywhere conditions are improving so that Sweden will also benefit."

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB OPENS 27TH SEASON TONIGHT

The twenty-seventh season of the Sunday Evening club will open tonight at 7 o'clock in Orchestra hall. Clifford W. Barnes, president of the club, will preside at the services, after a year's absence due to illness. Speakers will be Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese, Jane Addams of Hull House, and Rabbi Solomon B. Freehof, who will discuss international good-will.

1931 REALTY TAX PAYMENTS REACH TOTAL OF 57.2%

For 5th Week Collections Pass 2½ Million Mark.

A total of $102,860,225 has been collected in 1931 real estate taxes, County Treasurer McDonough announced yesterday. These collections represent 57.2 per cent of the total real estate tax levy of $179,915,404. Collections of 1931 taxes and taxes for the preceding three years during the last week were $2,505,636, marking the fifth successive week in which the treasurer has taken in more than two and a half million dollars.

The rate of collections, particularly on 1931 real estate taxes, is expected to increase in October after the state Supreme court rules on the validity of the order of the board of appeals, which horizontally reduced assessments 15 per cent on the base value of homes and small flat buildings. About 430,000 parcels of property are involved in this order.

During the week County Judge Jarecki appointed the county treasurer receiver for 240 properties, to enable him to collect delinquent taxes under the Kerner-Skarda act. Since the enforcement of the act began, the treasurer has been named receiver for 2,630 properties.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections last week totaled $2,505,636. Collections for the previous week totaled $3,814,334. A total of $74,385,747 has been collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began last April 28. The week's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes of the last four years follows:

Sept. 25-29 ....$	148,657	$ 282,924
Uncollected	17,285,548	45,818,966
	1930.	1931.
Sept. 25-29.....$	490,565	$ 1,583,490
Uncollected ...	71,912,638	77,055,179

Acid Causes FAT says Noted Doctor

Medical Science has found that the minerals found in Vichy (France), and Kissingen (Germany) Waters, will take off excess fat by properly neutralizing the body acids. A famous doctor, in an address before a Medical Society in Maryland, stated: "Vichy and Kissingen not only reduce over-fatness, but also tend to permanently correct fat-making activity."

Remove That Shadow of FAT

Now the same minerals found in Vichy and Kissingen are brought to you in concentrated form in the Shadowfoam treatment. Already people everywhere are reporting amazing results. Shadowfoam contains no harmful, dangerous drugs or violent laxative. Its action is to turn the food you eat into vital energy instead of fat, thus making you feel stronger and healthier while you are reducing. Take away that shadow of fat that stands between you and attractiveness. By removing this excess fat your face and body will assume a more graceful and symmetrical appearance.

A representative of Shadowfoam Co., Battle Creek, Mich., will be in our Drug Department on the Main Floor (State Street Store), to consult with and give free advice regarding excess weight.

Phone and mail orders promptly filled.

It takes seven cars to make a Ford

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

Outside those features which are exclusive in the FORD V-8, many of our advanced improvements can be found in other cars—PROVIDED—you get six or seven of the best cars in America together and combine their particular good points.

But the only car in which you can find ALL these advanced improvements is the Ford V-8.

To illustrate: Begin with the V-type 8-cylinder engine. You can get an ordinary 8-cylinder engine in any of a dozen makes of cars. But if you want the V-type engine of 8 cylinders or more, several other makes of cars will give it to you, if you pay the price of these cars which runs from $2,245 to $5,000.

Take the extra strong X-type frame. You can get this in some other more expensive makes of cars as well as in the Ford. But we do not know of any car except the Ford, in which the X-members continue the full length of the frame, making 4 full length side members instead of two.

Several makes of cars will give you the ¾ floating rear axle if you pay from $1,310 to $6,250. One maker of cars puts this axle in the high-priced cars, but not in the low-priced one. It is standard on the Ford.

You can get the torque tube drive in six other makes of cars, only one of which costs less than $1,000. It has always been a part of the Ford.

There is only one other car—according to S. A. E. rating—that has more horsepower per pound of car weight than the Ford V-8 has, and that is a famous car which sells for $4,825.

Take the Ford V-8 aluminum cylinder head, which adds 10 horsepower to the engine without using more gas—in fact, using less gas; — it is standard in only two cars today, beside the Ford. One of these cars sells just under $800 and the other at $4,825.

The radiator capacity of the Ford V-8 is larger than that of any car of 30 horsepower or under, except one make of car, and that car sells at $1,895.

Its crank case oil reservoir capacity is less than that of any other 8-cylinder car. Five quarts. That speaks volumes as to oil economy.

And so we could go on with specifications, showing that every Ford car combines the advanced improvements which are scattered here and there amongst a number of other excellent makes. And, of course, there are special points of quality that are exclusively Ford features.

In the list of light 8's, the Ford is lowest priced. Of the V-8's, the Ford costs less than one-fourth the price of the next car on the list.

FAIR GUNS BOOM 19 TIMES FOR IOWA GOVERNOR

Corn State Helps Boost Attendance.

Friday, Sept. 29, 1933	123,605
Friday, Sept. 29, 1893	151,513
Total including Sept. 29, 1933 [126 days]	17,132,346
Total including Sept. 29, 1893 [152 days]	14,417,936

The Columbian Exposition opened May 1; A Century of Progress opened May 27.

Iowa, the state where the tall corn grows, deserted its plows and fields, left its cities and towns, and came to Chicago yesterday to visit the Fair. Work hardened tillers of the soil rubbed shoulders with dapper misses from the city, for the Iowa day celebration, more than any other state ceremony, presented a program appealing to all groups.

The throngs of visitors from the neighboring state, plus a large influx of Scots from the Chicago area, who presented a Scots day program, boosted the attendance to optimistic figures. At 11:30 p. m. the paid attendance had reached 176,709.

19 Gun Salute for Iowans.

The official Iowa party entered the Court of Honor at 11 a. m. to be met with a governor's salute of 19 guns, and a military review of the troops from Camp John Whistler. The official party was led by Gov. Clyde L. Herring and included Lieut. Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel, State Auditor Charles Storms, Supreme Court Justice Richard Mitchell, Adjutant General Charles Grahl, Maj. Gen. George Ross, Col. Ray Yenter, and Warden Glen Haynes of the Fort Madison prison.

Following a reception in the Court of Honor and in the Administration building, the party converged on the Court of States for a brief program. Speakers included Gov. Herring, and Rufus C. Dawes, president of the Fair.

Only 31 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair.

Following the formal program the party left for tours of the Fair grounds. In the afternoon all assembled again to watch their state university football team defeat Northwestern university eleven in Soldiers' field. Entertainment by Iowa singers and dancers on the floating theater followed the football game.

In the evening the Iowa-Cook county women's club presented a program in the court of the Hall of Sciene. The ceremonies were attended by hundreds of Iowa Legionnaires, who came to Chicago to root for the Iowa university team, and attend the Legion convention.

Scotch Regiment Parades.

The Scots mingled with the other visitors to make the Fair grounds a surging sea of color. Aiding in the Scots program was the Canadian Essex Scotch regiment from Canada. During the morning and early afternoon the grounds resounded to the pibroch of the bagpipes calling the loyal sons of Scotland to the assembly. The marching of the Stockyards kiltie post of the Legion, resplendant in tartan and plaid, was a feature of the program.

General assembly was held in the court of the Hall of Science at 2 o'clock where festivities continued until 6 p. m. One of the highlights of the program was the presentation of Miss Scotland, Margaret Baikie, a Chicago born girl of highland parents. The main address of the day was given by Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese. Other speakers were Gilbert Alexander, president of St. Andrew's society of Illinois, and Alex Mackenzie, president of the United Scottish Societies of Illinois.

Trooping of the Color.

In the evening the Essex Scottish trooped the color under floodlights in the Court of States. As on previous occasions the balconies and courtway were packed with visitors to watch the military maneuver.

Another foreign country, China, bringing a breath of the orient, will hold the spotlight today. Hundreds of Chinese, living in Chicago, have prepared a program that will invoke memories of their homeland. At 1 p. m. a parade, portraying Chinese home life and the country's history, will start from the Chinese section of Chicago. It will proceed in Cermak road to Michigan avenue, north to 11th street, across to Columbus drive and south to the Court of Honor.

Following the parade a program will be presented in the court of the Hall of Science.

Seized When He Tries to Take Alcohol Into Fair

Homer D. Hobson Jr., 5157 West End avenue, was arrested yesterday by Lieut. Ernest Schondorff of the World's Fair police when he tried to enter the 35th street gate carrying a five gallon can of alcohol. Hobson was sent to the detective bureau, where he was held for the federal authorities.

OFFER BARGAINS IN GOODS BOUGHT AT LOW PRICES

Boston Store Expects Big Crowd Tomorrow.

An opportunity to purchase quality merchandise at prices that are well below those which will prevail in the near future is to be offered Chicagoans in the Netcher day sale of the Boston store tomorrow, according to Henry G. Hart, manager of the store.

The Boston store is telling the story of its bargains in ten pages of THE TRIBUNE today.

"We anticipated rising costs," said Mr. Hart. "We placed huge orders well in advance to take advantage of the low price conditions for our customers. Months ago we stocked our warehouses with hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of staple goods.

"Unit prices have now soared beyond our expectations. But in the case of Netcher day, the Boston store has a tradition to uphold. In many instances the Netcher day selling price equals the market price of today. Replacement costs will naturally make the merchandise much higher after the Netcher day supplies are sold."

Employ 2,000 Extra Workers.

Mr. Hart added that he was expecting the day to be one of the largest in trade volume the store ever knew. Preparations were said to be complete for handling of the great crowds of shoppers who are looked for.

The store has added more than 2,000 workers for this event. They include a greatly augmented sales force and hundreds of workers in the service and nonselling departments.

All these employés, as well as the regular force of the Boston store, work under the NRA Eagle.

DECISION DUE TOMORROW ON OPERA SEASON

After tomorrow Chicago may expect to learn definitely what operatic entertainment is in prospect for the coming winter season. The deadline has been set to determine who will be the future lessee of the old Auditorium, succeeding the present tenant, Fortune Gallo, whose San Carlo company is now presenting opera there at popular prices.

There are two alternatives. One is that the recently incorporated Chicago Grand Opera company will exercise its rights of precedence and sign to take over the house for the production of ten weeks of opera with a company builded locally. Herbert Johnson, formerly business manager of the Chicago Civic opera, and Gennaro Papi, conductor, have been prominent in the negotiations to date.

The second is that Miss Grace Denton, director of the Town Hall series, may avail herself of the opportunity in case the first deal is not completed, to offer a series of ten operas during the season, all brought from other cities, and introducing several novelties. It is understood that Miss Denton has been promised financial backing if the Chicago Grand Opera company does not exercise its option on the Auditorium.

The San Carlo company's agreement with the Auditorium officials is that the lease will run as long as the box-office—now liberally patronized—continues to show that business has remained above a stipulated level. This leaves future bookings dependent on the popularity of the current tenants. The Chicago Grand Opera company, however, will continue to have the first opportunity to lease the building until tomorrow, when its option will be considered to have expired.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

American Legion bands will be featured throughout the week in a series of concerts at the Pantheon de la Guerre. The Harvey W. Seeds post of Miami, Fla., will play at 3:30 p. m. today and a troop of more than 100 members of the All-American Drum and Bugle corps will give a concert at 9 p. m. Tomorrow the Buffalo post, New York, will play at 3:30 p. m., followed by the Racine Drum and Bugle corps, at 4:30 p. m. The latter corps was a winner in the Chicagoland Music Festival held in Soldiers' field. The Capital post of Salem, Ore., present national champion, will appear Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. and the Man o' War post of Lexington, Ky., unit will play at 5 p. m. The Frankford, Pa., post, twice national champions, will give a concert Wednesday at 2:30 p. m., and the Gils Auxiliary corps of Crookston, Minn., will play at the same hour Thursday. At 3 p. m. Friday and Saturday the Tucson, Ariz., post will play.

Arrangements have been completed to bring the Graf Zeppelin to the Fair, it was announced yesterday. It will probably arrive Wednesday, Oct. 25. The tentative schedule is for the airship to reach Akron, O., Oct. 24, and arrive here the following day. The Graf will probably be moored in Washington park. It will fly to Akron Oct. 27 and leave the following day with a load of passengers for Europe.

The achievements of Illinoisans in architecture and allied arts was the subject of yesterday's program at the Illinois Host house. Speakers were Ernest C. Von Ammon, Earl H. Reed Jr., Jens Jensen, Alfonso Iannelli, Rexford Newcomb, dean of the school of fine arts at Illinois university, and Thomas Eddy Talmadge. A play by the Braille Players, a group of blind actors in Chicago, and one by the Barnum Players, under the direction of Mrs. Letitia V. Barnum, president of the Chicago School of Expression, are on the Drama day program at the Host house today. The principal address will be given by Harold A. Ehrensperger. The program begins at 4 p. m.

The International Canning contest, directed by Mrs. Grace Viall Gray and sponsored by the Ball Institute of Home Canning, opens today in the Court of States. The contestants are men and women, boys and girls who do home canning.

ASSURES ILLINOIS AUTO TITLE LAW WILL CUT THEFTS

Pennsylvania Experience Cited by Official.

BY HAL FOUST.

Relief from Chicago's epidemic of automobile thefts is promised through the administration of the new Illinois certificate of title law, which will become effective on Jan. 1, 1934. The promise was held forth in an address yesterday by H. Richard Stickel, director of Pennsylvania's bureau of motor vehicles. He spoke before a national conference of vehicle law administrators, meeting in the Belmont hotel.

"In Pennsylvania," he said, "before the enactment of the certificate of title law, the traffic in stolen cars was rampant. Organized gangs of automobile thieves operated unhampered. The business of dealing in stolen motors reached such proportions that it had to be curbed. The legislature passed the certificate of title law, effective in November of 1923.

Destroys Market for Loot.

"Thereafter the administration of the law was instrumental in exposing and convicting several stolen car 'fences.' It further restricted the operation of automobile thieves by destroying their market for their loot.

"There was a direct benefit to all vehicle owners through reductions in rates for theft insurance. During 1924, the first year after the title law became effective, there was a reduction of 24 per cent in this form of protection. Further reductions have been made until up to and including 1932 the saving is 37.3 per cent."

In Chicago the theft of automobiles has grown through the last few years and insurance rates have been boosted accordingly. The certificate of title act was one of a group of bills passed by the legislature this year to curb car thefts. Others included the licensing and regulation of accessory and used parts dealers.

Protects Used Car Buyers.

Illinois automobile owners, before obtaining their 1934 state license plates, will be required to register with the secretary of state their title to their vehicles. A fee of 50 cents is charged for the certificate and it is good for the life of the car with its present owner.

Purchasers of used cars will be able to establish the legal owner of the machines they are about to buy by checking with the secretary of state. It will no longer be easy to obtain state plates for a stolen vehicle.

Incidentally, the office of Secretary of State Hughes, where Cook county motorists may obtain license plates on a cash and carry basis, was moved yesterday from the Transportation building at 608 South Dearborn street to the Wieboldt building at 120 South Ashland avenue.

DRY LAW VIOLATORS SENTENCED.

Danville, Ill., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Two men and two women were sentenced for prohibition law violations by federal Judge Walter C. Lindley here today. They are: George Faskings Jr., 30 days in jail and $100 fine; Frank Cruze, 90 days and $200; Pearl Gray, 30 days and $100, and Thelma Evans, $100 fine.

The Chicago Association of Commerce convention bureau announced yesterday that there will be 73 conventions held in the city during the last three weeks of October.

During the week beginning Oct. 9 the following will be held: American College of Surgeons, American Bakers' association, College of Anesthetists, American Dietetic association, National League of Compulsory Education Officers, National Poultry, Butter and Egg association, American Life Convention, National Interfraternity congress.

The seven days beginning Oct. 16: American Library association, Audit Bureau of Circulations, Illinois Chamber of Commerce, Institute of American Meat Packers, National Hardware association, National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, Illinois Home Economics association, United Typothetae of America, Newspaper Advertising Executives association.

The week beginning Oct. 23: American Petroleum institute, National Council of Catholic Men, Hadassah, National Standard Parts association, American Federation of the Lutheran Brotherhood.

PLAN TO CHANGE CRAWFORD AVE. TO PULASKI ROAD

Polish Women Launch Move to Honor Hero.

Miss A. Emily Napieralski, county civil service commissioner and a former president of the Polish Women's Alliance of America, has launched a movement to give lasting tribute to the memory of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, American revolutionary hero, by changing the name of Crawford avenue to Pulaski road.

The movement has gained the support of many leaders in business and political life among the Polish residents of Chicago. They said that while in most of the states, Oct. 11, the date of the death of Gen. Pulaski, is a holiday, there should be in Chicago, where over 400,000 Polish people live, a monument that would be a constant remainder of a name famous in American history.

Offers Services to Washington.

"My purpose," said Miss Napieralski, "is to bring about a closer brotherhood of man. Count Pulaski came to America and offered his services to George Washington. In giving distinguished service in the revolutionary war he lifted himself above any particular nationality, and his name should be remembered by all. I have talked to Mayor Kelly and now propose to have submitted to the city council an ordinance authorizing the change in the name of Crawford avenue."

Ald. Walter J. Orlikoski [35th] said he would present the ordinance to the council at an early meeting. Ald. Orlikoski, Frank Zintak, clerk of the Superior court, and John Nering, superintendent of the Postal Telegraph company, are supporting the measures. Others who are being enlisted are John J. Olejniczak, Congressman Leo Kocialkowski, Judges Edmund K. Jarecki, John Prystalski and Walter La Buy, and other political and business leaders.

Count Pulaski joined Washington's army in 1777 and at once distinguished himself in the battle of Brandywine. He was made a brigadier general and chief of cavalry by congress and fought at Germantown and in the battles of 1777-'78.

Defends City of Charleston.

Afterward he raised a mixed corps which was called the Pulaski legion and gave further distinctive service at the head of this force in the south. He defended Charleston successfully in May, 1779, and was wounded fatally in the unsuccessful attack on Savannah. He died on Oct. 11 on board ship.

The part of Crawford avenue lying wholly within the city limits runs from Devon avenue on the north to 87th street on the south, passing through several Polish neighborhoods. From 103d street to 115th street Crawford forms part of the western boundary line of the city. A research by Frederick Rex, municipal reference librarian, and Howard C. Brodman, superintendent of maps, supported an opinion that it had been named either after a Cicero township highway commissioner or a commissioner of the west parks.

U. S. NAVY SECOND TO NONE, SWANSON CITES AS GOAL IN HONOLULU

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, T. H., Sept. 30.—Secretary of Navy Claude A. Swanson, arriving in Honolulu harbor today aboard the cruiser Indianapolis to inspect the naval station, said, "An American navy second to none is the best assurance of continued world peace." He added that the United States must have a navy of full treaty strength.

"We have tried to set an example in reducing our naval strength, but other powers refused to follow," the secretary said. "Therefore, our only alternative is to build to the proper ratio with other nations. Other nations cannot object, provided we do not exceed the treaty ratio."

Secretary Swanson said Japan also has the right to build to treaty strength, which it will reach in 1936, while America will still be 101 ships under treaty strength. The secretary said no nation is so antagonistic to America as to justify building a navy against it.

"Sentiment throughout America is friendly to Japan and from what we know in Washington, Japan's sentiment is friendly toward us," he added.

Mr. Swanson said the Pearl Harbor naval base development will depend largely on his present investigation.

ORDERS $800,000 SPENT BY NAVY TO BUILD SHIPS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—With expenditures and orders placed amounting to more than $800,000 during the last week, the total of orders placed under the naval building program, authorized by the public works administration, is now $22,485,288, it was announced today. The largest item during the last week was $486,953.10 for guns, spare parts and assemblies.

Alloy steel forgings, to cost about $386,350, were put up for bids, which will be opened on Oct. 17. Bids on various equipment totaling about $525,000 were asked, and will be opened within the next two or three weeks. Total allocations to date on navy shore construction projects, also authorized by the public works bureau amount to $16,716,985.

Reports from the individual shipbuilding yards indicate that orders are being placed as rapidly as possible for materials needed in the building program. The New York Shipbuilding Company of Camden, N. J., reported orders placed for 740,000 pounds of welding rod, and 646 tons of steel plates and shapes.

The United Dry Docks, Inc., of New York City, which is charged with the preparation of plans and specifications for 16 destroyers, has given orders for more than $12,000,000 worth of materials, machinery, appliances and fittings within the last two weeks.

TOUCH NEEDED FOR REAL CASE OF IVY POISON

Middletown, Conn., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Seeking a remedy for poison ivy, Wesleyan university scientists have found that its virulent essence does not vaporize—hence that simply being near the plant without contact is not dangerous.

By chemical analysis it is hoped to learn the substance in the oil extracted from the ivy which attacks the skin. This fall the bark of the plant is being gathered in hope of obtaining a purer extract. The oil has proved harmless without actual contact. It gives off no poisonous emanations.

Prof. Hill explains that the golfer who gingerly pokes the ball out of a patch of ivy with his driver, only to find his face broken out next day, forgets that he touched the contaminated club head while putting it back into his bag, and then wiped the perspiration from his forehead at the eighteenth hole. Traces on clothing also account for similar "mysteries."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

"You'll be all right back there, Mother!"

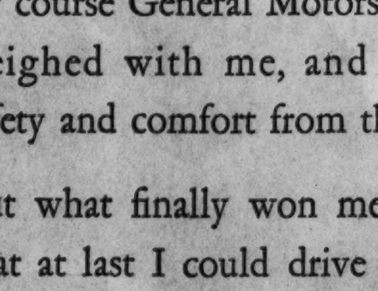
SURE, I know, you would rather sit up in front because of the drafts.

But you just quit dreaming of the past, because here's a new car that simply hasn't any drafts.

Cross my heart—and the fact is, this No Draft Ventilation is the real reason I bought a car right now.

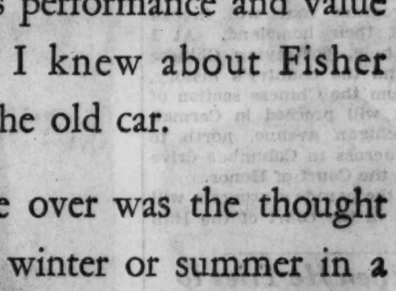
Of course General Motors performance and value weighed with me, and I knew about Fisher safety and comfort from the old car.

But what finally won me over was the thought that at last I could drive winter or summer in a car ventilated as a car ought to be.



ALL FISHER BODIES HAVE NO DRAFT VENTILATION

At any speed in any weather it changes the air in the car without drafts. Draws out smoke and stale air. Prevents dangerous interior fogging of windows or windshield. Each passenger regulates ventilation to suit himself.



OTHER BODIES DO NOT

—which means that the speed of the car sends air currents whipping in the windows—whirling against the back of the neck—increasing the hazard of colds—making one person's comfort another's discomfort—without giving real ventilation.

POLICE HEROES' WIDOWS THANK GIVERS TO FUND

Eleven Bereft Families Receive $443 Each.

Ten widows and a daughter of slain policemen yesterday requested THE TRIBUNE to thank publicly the thousands of contributors to the Police Hero fund. Earlier in the week a check for $443.12 was mailed to each widow from a total of $4,874.30 sent the fund by public spirited citizens as a protest to the wholesale slaying of members of the police force by criminals. Few pay days, with a resulting accumulation of debts, had left the families of the murdered men without sufficient funds.

The Police Hero fund was inaugurated by THE TRIBUNE on July 24.

The police widows, by letter or in person, acknowledged Chicago's gesture of sympathy. Checks would in no way repay the widows for their loss, but the gifts did represent the public's appreciation for the services rendered society by the policemen in their supreme sacrifice in behalf of the life and property of others.

For Debts, Gravestone, Education.

Then they told what they expected to do with their gifts—the payment of bills, the erection of a gravestone, hospital and doctor bills, and in one case a beginning of a law education fund for a Negro girl, the orphaned daughter of Patrolman Roscoe C. Johnston.

The checks had scarcely left the Tribune Tower when a letter of thanks was received from Mrs. Wilma Marcusson, 7946 Ingleside avenue. It was her husband, Maurice Marcusson, who was the first member of the police force slain in 1933.

"THE TRIBUNE has always been outstanding in its show of kindness and sympathy to those in need, and it is extremely gratifying to know that in this world there are those who are ready to bring sunshine into the lives of the bereaved," said Mrs. Marcusson. "This money makes it possible for me to place at the head of my husband's last resting place a fitting marker for his courageousness, a thing I could not otherwise do."

Fund For Girl to Study Law.

On March 21, Patrolman Johnston was killed in a revolver battle with bandits in the offices of the Gordon Baking company, 5324 Federal street. He had been detailed to watch the offices, which had been robbed before. His only survivor is his 17 year old daughter, Lorraine, a senior in Englewood High school. Lorraine, who lives with her guardian, Mrs. Hattie Hill, at 5340 Michigan avenue, has banked the TRIBUNE check for her education.

"I haven't the words to thank you for the check," said Mrs. Rose Skopek, 2630 South Springfield avenue. "It will come in mighty handy because both my 5 year old son and I have been sick and there are doctor bills."

John Skopek was slain with Patrolman Oscar Ostling on July 22 by a moved here just Tuesday. We appre-gang of desperadoes they stopped for questioning in front of 2838 Washington boulevard. A dozen witnesses watched the shooting. Mrs. Ostling now makes her home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Wilcox, at 1720 Kimball avenue. She has one child, Corinne, 10 years old. She expects to use her share of the fund to complete paying bills.

Gift Aids Widow and 4 Children.

Mrs. Estelle Lutke's husband, Stanley, was slain on April 30, when he came upon a holdup at the Argyle Smoke shop, 5108 Broadway. In the mêlée that followed Lutke was shot from the rear as he fired several shots at another of the bandits. He left a widow and four children, who lived at 3711 Bernard street.

"It is a consolation to us to know that people remember us in our grief," his widow said.

Patrolman Arthur Mutter tried to wrest a machine gun from one of three men in the Beverly club at 8041 South Ashland avenue on April 18. He paid for the act with his life. He left his widow, Mrs. Gussie Mutter, and five children, who live at 1822 West 63d street. The widow wrote THE TRIBUNE immediately upon receiving her check that she expected to pay some of the family debts and wanted every contributor to be informed of her appreciation.

Pays for Husband's Uniform.

One of the first uses Mrs Laura Redlick, 1610 North Francisco avenue, found for the proceeds from her police fund check was to pay for the last uniform her husband wore. The next thing she did was to pay bills that were in arrears. "I cannot thank you enough," she said simply. "It was a wonderful thing to do." Policeman Harry Redlick was slain on July 8, when he interrupted two paroled convicts robbing an office in the Madison-Kedzie building.

Mrs. Mary M. Hastings was a bride of four months when her husband, Policeman Joseph Hastings, was slain by pay roll bandits on Navy pier. She is now living with her father, Michael McGrath, at 3607 South California avenue. McGrath is a retired policeman, a veteran of 41 years' service. Mrs. Hastings expects to use the police fund money to finish her high school education so she may pursue a career in music. She already has a degree in that subject.

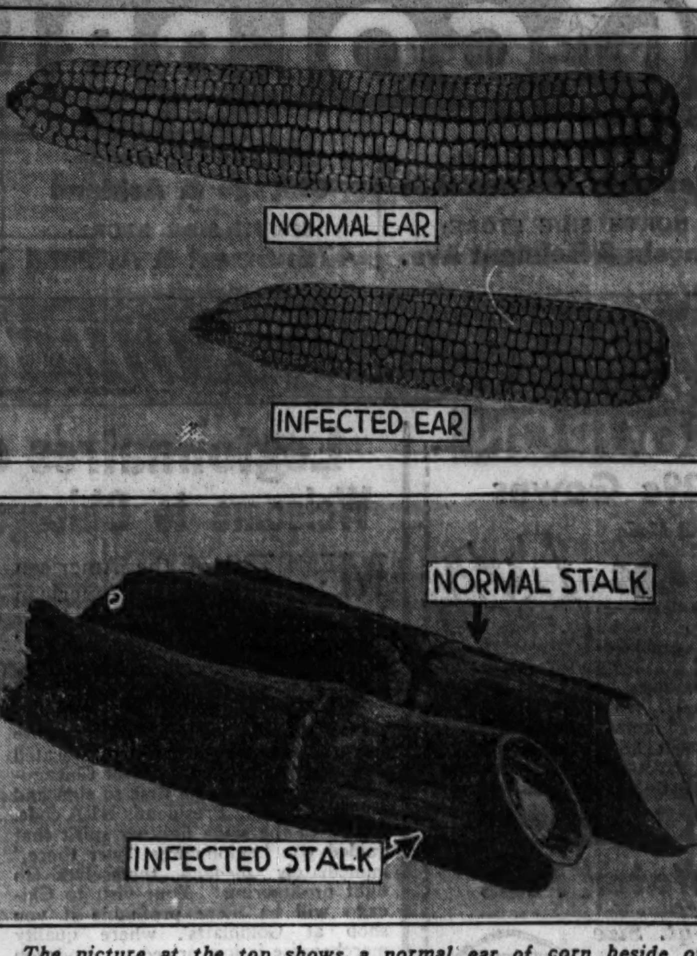
The ninth policeman to be slain, John G. Sevick, already mentioned, left a widow, Claire, who is now living at 6414 Newgard avenue. The money will be used to help pay bills, she said. The tenth widow, Mrs. Nellie Brosseau, 344 South Austin boulevard, also will wipe out debts incurred because of lagging pay days when her husband was alive.

Clubbed to Death by Mob.

"It is good to know others think of you during your trouble," Mrs. Brosseau said. "I will be able, I hope, to get out from under debt." Patrolman Brosseau died after being clubbed by a mob of communists on June 1 as he guarded a bakery in South Kedzie boulevard.

The last of the eleven beneficiaries of the fund is Mrs. Helen Ryan, an invalid for five years. Her husband, Patrick J. Ryan, was shot to death on Aug. 8 when he refused to drink of wine offered by a tipsy hoodlum in a tavern at 3328 Armitage avenue. He left four children, the eldest 16 years old. The family is now living with Mrs. Ryan's brother, Patrick Walsh, at 629 Melrose street.

How Chinch Bugs Cut Corn Yield



The picture at the top shows a normal ear of corn beside one dwarfed as the result of the chinch bugs' attack on the lower part of the stalk. The lower picture shows cross sections of normal and chinch bug infected cornstalks. The entire interior of the diseased stalk has been affected, halting the growth of the ears of corn.

'BUBS' QUINLAN EVADES PENALTY FOR AUTO DEATH

Coroner's Records Disappear.

was the driver held by police as responsible for the death.

The name "Bubs" Quinlan, however, was erased after its original entry, but it still is visible. Over the erasure another phrase, "driver out on bond," has been scrawled. It was pointed out that the usual practice of police when fatalities occur is to hold the responsible person without bond until the inquest.

After this record there is an abrupt gap in the records. No notation of the inquest could be found. An appeal to one of the clerks in the coroner's office brought no more results. After searching all the regular books, the clerk confessed himself to be at a loss. The "day book" entry shows that the first hearing was held but there is no entry to indicate that the inquest ever was closed.

The trail led again to the health department. In the files there a certificate was finally found which indicated that on Dec. 29, 1932, eleven months after Borkovic's death, the inquest was closed. This certificate showed that the victim came to his death from "shock, hemorrhage, and skull fracture." It added that his death was a case of "probable manslaughter."

Bundesen Demands Record.

This certificate was given to the health department after Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen had demanded that he be given the record of the Borkovic inquest among others in order to bring his own files up to date to begin the new year. The certificate is signed by Coroner Walsh and by Deputy Nadherny. It fails to state where the inquest was held.

Mrs. Borkovic last evening said that she had never attended any inquest into her husband's death, and said that she did not know that any sessions had been held after the first hearing. Mrs. Borkovic spent six months in the hospital after the accident, and her physician has told her that she will be crippled for life.

The police files in the Quinlan case are brief. They reveal that Quinlan was arrested immediately after the accident and he posted $2,000 bond for his release on a charge of reckless driving. Seven days later, when Borkovic died, he was arrested and freed on a $5,000 bond on a charge of manslaughter.

After 13 continuances in the Municipal court, Quinlan was freed by Judge John F. O'Connell. The police report states that the charges were dismissed with the consent of Mrs. Borkovic. Last evening Mrs. Borkovic said that Quinlan had promised to pay her doctor and hospital bills if she would dismiss the charges. She agreed, but he never paid the bills, she said.

Mrs. Borkovic has filed a $25,000 damage suit against Quinlan in the Superior court for her injuries. The suit was brought shortly after the accident and has been continued 10 times, the last being on Sept. 24, when it was scheduled for hearing before Judge James J. Kelly. Quinlan's attorney gained the continuance, saying that his client was unable to go to trial at this time. Mrs. Borkovic said last evening that she didn't know when the next hearing would be held.

Bugs More Numerous

Three to five times as many swarming chinch bugs are seeking winter refuge on corn belt farms now than at this time a year ago, according to W. P. Flint, state entomologist for Illinois. The bugs annihilated thousands of acres of barley and corn this year, but will do even greater damage in 1934 at the present rate of hibernating, Flint warned.

"The best measures for cutting down the numbers of chinch bugs are to burn all grassy and weedy parts of the fields, and to plow up stubble and other wintering places this fall," Flint said. "The bugs are so numerous in some sections of Illinois and nearby states that we now give them three to one odds against their being killed off before next summer."

While the bugs themselves are about the size of small ants, they develop enormous capacity for sapping the life from fields of barley or corn. They hatch out two broods each season, each of which is destructive.

AUTO FATALITIES CUT ONE A WEEK SO FAR THIS YEAR

Four Deaths in Day Raise Total to 774.

Automobile deaths in Cook county during the first nine months of 1933 totaled 774 as compared with 822 in the same portion of 1932. That announcement was made yesterday by Coroner Frank J. Walsh. Comparison of the two totals revealed that there have been 48 fewer deaths this year, an average decline of more than one a week; and that motor fatalities have been reduced 5.8 per cent.

A comparison of the deaths by months for the two periods is shown in the following table:

January	88	131
Februray	61	77
March	77	89
April	70	83
May	101	86
June	100	85
July	79	94
August	104	82
September	94	95
	774.	822

Four Deaths Reported in Day.

Four deaths yesterday increased the 1933 total to 773. The victims:

John Ruth, 27 years old, 2422 Butler street, Chicago Heights. Killed when his motorcycle collided with an automobile at State and 134th streets, three miles south of Chicago Heights. John Morvat, 3744 Green street, who was riding behind Ruth, was severely injured.

Daniel Connors, 77 years old, 5512 Shields avenue. Fatally injured when struck by an automobile at Garfield boulevard and Princeton avenue and died after being taken to Evangelical Deaconess hospital. Liddell Parchman, 1520 West 103d street, was the driver of the car.

Richard Schwede, 4 years old, 2325 North Austin avenue. Fatally injured when struck by a truck while crossing the street in front of his home. Dominick Dolmant, 2055 James street, driver of the truck, was instructed to appear at an inquest tomorrow.

An unidentified man about 55 years old was killed last night while attempting to cross 87th street at Commercial avenue when he was struck by the auto of a hit and run driver. The victim wore a gray suit, blue shirt, grey hat and black shoes. He had grey mixed hair and a mustache. In his pockets was found two pair of glasses, a watch and $1.80.

Youth Killed as Train Hits Car.

Theodore J. Chambers, 22 years old, 2200 Elim avenue, Zion City, in Lake County, died yesterday at the Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan of injuries incurred earlier in the day when his automobile was struck by a south bound train on the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks at Zion City. Chambers' mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Chambers, 62 years old, was critically injured in the accident.

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Frank Rochwick, 30 years old, 5544 Newport avenue, be held to the grand jury on a manslaughter charge at the inquest into the death of Mrs. Sarah Thurston, 60 years old, 5727 Lowe avenue. Mrs. Thurston was fatally injured Friday night when she was struck by a truck driven by Rochwick at 47th and Halsted streets.

Mark W. Vant, Manager of Packing Company, Dies

Mark W. Vant, who for thirty-seven years had been manager of Miller & Hart, Inc., packers in the Union stockyards, died of a heart attack in his home at 9134 Winchester avenue early yesterday. Mr. Vant was 59 years old. He is survived by his widow, Estelle, a brother, Irving A. Vant of St. Joseph, Mo., and a sister, Mrs. A. V. Colburn. Funeral services will be held Monday. Burial will take place at Mount Hope cemetery.

AUGUST W. MILLER, FORMER SANITARY TRUSTEE, IS DEAD

August W. Miller, veteran Cook county Republican leader, former sanitary district trustee, died at the Grant hospital at 6 o'clock Friday evening, it became known yesterday.

AUGUST W. MILLER

Mr. Miller was 72 years old. He made his home at the Hamilton club for several years. Death was due to heart failure while apparently convalescing from pneumonia after an illness of six weeks.

A son, George, and three grandchildren are the only survivors. Mr. Miller's wife, Pauline, died of pneumonia on June 1, 1927. His daughter, Mrs. Louise E. Kuhlman, died six months ago. Her son, Milton, and daughter, Alice, are two of the grandchildren. The third is Barbara Jane Miller, daughter of George Miller.

Mr. Miller was a native of Chicago, being a son of a police captain, George M. Miller. Early in his political career he was an assessor and later an alderman. During his youth he joined the Illinois National Guard and rose to the rank of colonel.

In 1915 Mr. Miller was appointed a member of the board of local improvements, and in the same year was made superintendent of streets. In 1921 he split with the Lundin Republicans and was unsuccessful in winning nomination as candidate for recorder of deeds. He later became clerk of the Circuit court. In 1924 Mr. Miller was elected a sanitary district trustee.

Funeral services will be held in the mortuary, 3834 Irving Park boulevard. Interment will be at Acacia Park cemetery on Tuesday.

Find Nude Body of Man in River Near the Pier

The nude body of a man about 30 years old was recovered from the mouth of the Chicago river near Navy pier early yesterday. The only clew to the man's identity were the initials "L. S." tattooed on his left arm, and a signet ring with the initial "S." The man was about five feet eleven inches tall, weighed about 180 pounds, and had brown curly hair. Police said the body had been in the water more than a week. It was removed to the county morgue.

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Charles F. Murphy, whose late husband was leader of Tammany hall, died suddenly today of heart disease. With her was her only child, Mrs. James A. Foley, wife of the surrogate. Mrs. Murphy had been active in charitable work, including many Catholic organizations.

Lain & SON
SINCE 1891-
A SIGN of SERVICE

Pioneers in protecting the public against high funeral costs, Lain & Son have always set the standard of service.

Today, Lain holds more services in a month than the average undertaker has in a year. No other Chapel in Chicago holds as many services as Lain's.

Because of this leadership, Lain includes these exclusive features with all services, even those as low as $110:

Conditioned Air
Protects the health of all who attend Lain Chapel services — provides an abundance of air washed and purified, and circulated at correct temperature.

Imperial Quartet
Lain was the first Chapel to include with all services — the Imperial Male Quartet, Organist and Organ.

Price Protection
Lain was the first to answer the price question by publishing the cost of 1000 funerals, showing that more than one-third of Lain services actually cost less than $200. Also, to price mark all merchandise.

Quality Merchandise
Lain's prices are lower because of volume. All merchandise is bought on a cash basis from reliable manufacturers only; we never offer "bargains" or "seconds" in merchandise.

Lain's personnel has few changes over the years, and with the most modern of facilities — render a service that cannot be equalled.

To secure this finer type of service, call Lain — no matter where you live in Chicago or Suburbs.

WM. I. PHILLIPS, CIVIL WAR VET OF WHEATON, DIES

William I. Phillips, one of the last two survivors of Wheaton, Ill., civil war regiments, died at his home in Wheaton early yesterday. Mr. Phillips was 86 years old. He enlisted in Company I, 105th infantry, from Wheaton in 1863 when he was 16 years old.

His war service was spent in that regiment, in a headquarters regiment stationed at Washington, D. C., and in the 23d Illinois regiment, which was included in Mulligan's "Irish Brigade." It was Mr. Phillips' boast that he was with the troops which entered Richmond, while the town still was being evacuated by confederate soldiers. After the war he returned to Wheaton and was graduated from the college there with the class of 1873.

During his lifetime spent in Wheaton, Mr. Phillips was a pastor, a merchant, and editor of a newspaper. He is survived by his widow, Mary, and three sons. The American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars announced yesterday that they will accord military honors at the funeral on Wednesday.

FRANK R. GREENE, FORMER BROKER, LEAPS TO DEATH

Frank Richard Greene, former Chicago investment banker, was killed yesterday in a leap from the Colorado avenue viaduct in Pasadena, Cal. His body struck in an orange grove 150 feet below.

Mr. Greene was 75 years old. He had been ill for some weeks but had given no indication, according to his widow, of committing suicide. There were several scraps of paper bearing quotations from the Bible in his pockets. There was also a message: "God will take care of me."

Mr. Greene was a resident of Chicago from 1885 until his retirement from business a few years ago. He was secretary of the Chicago City Railway company from 1899 until 1902, later engaging in investment banking. He was a member of the Union League club and, while here, of the Indian Hill and Skokie Country clubs. Since moving to Pasadena he had become interested in California oil lands.

The viaduct from which he plunged is known as "suicide bridge." Forty-six persons have ended their lives by leaping from it, three in the last week.

Dr. A. D. O'Neill, Chicago Dentist for 39 Years, Dies

Dr. A. B. O'Neill, 62 years old, who had practiced dentistry in Chicago for 39 years died yesterday at Rochester, Minn., where he went recently for medical treatment. Dr. O'Neill had been ill for some months, but continued his practice until three weeks ago. He had occupied offices at 108 North State street for 30 years. Dr. O'Neill is survived by his widow. Funeral services are to be held Tuesday afternoon at the residence, 5933 West Circle avenue.

NEW YORK CITY MEETS PAY ROLL AS BANKS LEND

Some Officials Ignore Pledge to Slash Budget.

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The first fruits of the city's new financing plan were apparent today when it began distributing its Oct. 1 pay roll, made possible by the $18,000,000 credit extended by the banking syndicate as the first of the credits they promised under the four year plan. Controller George A. McAneny received the money late last night.

Checks will be received by city workers next week—with the assurance that there is money in the bank to take them up. Until the four year plan dictated by the bankers was accepted by the municipal assembly on Thursday, there was no such assurance. It looked, in fact, as if the city were going into bankruptcy in spite of everything.

Extra Session of Assembly.

Every city department was notified to collect its checks before 11 a. m. at the controller's office. Teachers' checks were ready, but as they were not working today, the checks will not be distributed until Monday.

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman announced that he will, in a few days, convene the state legislature to enact new legislation permitting the city to put its financing plan into operation. He already has conferred with legislative leaders and received their promise to support the legislation.

The bills to be submitted at Albany now are being prepared by Corporation Counsel Arthur J. W. Hilly. They will set up two new funds through which the city will meet maturing city securities issued by the bankers against delinquent and current taxes.

In the meantime the making of the budget for next year continues and some department heads continue to ignore the promise made to the bankers to "chop to the bone." Twenty-three more department heads have filed their estimates for next year with Budget Director Maurice A. Stephenson, requesting appropriations which aggregate millions above their allotments for the current year. Sixteen other heads of departments, whose requests were announced today, have made economies that reduces their requests below this year's figures.

Range of Increases.

The increases range from $824 to $5,198,263.86, while the largest decrease, by far, is $571,013 for the board of transportation. Requests of other departments announced previously called for net increases exceeding $8,000,000.

An increase of $5,198,263.86 is asked by the department of education. The department's budget for 1933, as modified as of July 1, 1933, was $79,240,592.06. The requested appropriation for next year is $84,438,855.92.

The New York City employés retirement system requests $8,196,740.50, which is an increase of $1,169,020 above the figure for this year.

Another large increase is asked for the teachers retirement system, which had an appropriation of $6,289,661.50 this year. An additional $3,353,737.01 is asked, with the explanation that in preparing the 1933 budget there was a large accumulation of excess funds that were used to reduce the appropriation. There were no such excess funds this year.

An increase of $4,552,712.89 is asked to support the city's charitable institutions, the sum of $12,141,675 having been appropriated for this purpose in 1933. Another large increase, $2,400,000, is asked for tax deficiencies, the appropriation for this in 1933 having been $5,000,000.

SEEKS RETURN OF $392,942 ON STATE PRINTING

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Action was taken today to compel H. L. Williamson, former state superintendent of printing and two Springfield printing firms to repay $392,942 to the state. Gov. Henry Horner directed the action. Named with Williamson is the Jefferson Printing company which Williamson is reported to own, and the Schnepp & Barnes Printing company.

Assistant Attorney General J. J. Neiger is handling the served notice on Williamson, officers of the Jefferson Printing company and the Schnepp & Barnes Printing company today.

Williamson served as superintendent of printing under the administrations of former Gov. Len Small and former Gov. L. L. Emmerson. He was asked to resign by Horner. E. B. Dunnigan, printing expert of Chicago, was named to succeed him and an investigation followed.

OFFICIAL ACCUSED

JESSE HALL.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Bond in the sum of $137,900 was given by State Representative Jesse Hall, former East Peoria mayor, and Eugene P. Welcher, East Peoria, both former members of the East Peoria sanitary drainage district board, charged with embezzlement, forgery and bribery.

The two men, together with William Free and James W. Betson, were indicted by the Tazewell county grand jury and will face trial next month.

"We could have made up $100,000 more if necessary," said former Mayor Hall. "They tried to put me in jail, but they didn't make it. It's all a frame-up. They made the bond high enough, for the amount of the shortage claimed is only $7,500." The bond of Hall was $43,000 and Welcher's $87,500.

NEW YORK MAY LIFT PROPERTY TAX EXEMPTIONS

Hospitals, Cemeteries, Schools Affected.

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special]—Tax exempt property carrying a total assessed valuation of 268 million dollars was studied today by the city administration with a view of placing most of it on the 1934 tax rolls.

Samuel Untermyer, financial adviser to the city, said in a letter to Mayor John P. O'Brien that tax exemption should be abandoned on all enterprises engaged in commercial activity. In this category he listed hospitals, club-hotels, cemeteries, schools and colleges and bar associations. Mr. Untermyer complained that the department of taxes and assessments had given him a jumbled list of these properties to work on. Despite that he asked for immediate instruction on the board of estimate's attitude on removing the tax exemptions.

Value Runs Into Millions.

In listing the assessed valuations of tax exempt properties, Mr. Untermyer found that cemeteries were valued at $67,117,630 of the total. Schools and colleges carry a valuation of $93,250,000, while the two bar associations in Manhattan and the one in Brooklyn are valued at $1,375,000. Three Masonic club-hotels and three Knights of Columbus club-hotels are appraised at $6,485,000. Hospitals with "very limited charity wards" are rated at $95,000,000.

Mr. Untermyer's letter made no reference to churches enjoying tax exemption. He concentrated on exempt properties engaged in commercial business, in competition with property that now pays city taxes.

"All these hospitals have a large part of their space devoted to private purpose and pay patients," the lawyer wrote. "I see no reason why, to the extent that they are in a sense commercial enterprises, the property devoted to that purpose should not be restored to the tax list."

Value of Land Cited.

"The cemeteries enjoy exemption under the tax law. Land in these cemeteries is valuable, and is sold by the cemetery corporations in the same way as other commercial enterprises are conducted. And yet, all the real property in the city devoted to cemtery purposes is exempt.

The tax law, Mr. Untermyer pointed out, also grants specific exemption to the land and buildings of private schools, academies, and colleges. While part of this property was properly exempt, the financial advisor contended that most of it should be taxed.

McKEE BEGINS HIS FIGHT FOR MAYOR MONDAY

Said to Have Astor's, Roosevelt's Help.

New York, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Joseph V. McKee's campaign for the mayoralty as an independent candidate will start Monday with a conference at his headquarters in the Biltmore hotel. At that time a campaign manager will be announced. Plans for nominating a full ticket for places on the board of estimate will be considered.

With the political picture completely changed by the injection of the former aldermanic president into the mayoralty race, the outcome will depend entirely on the strength his candidacy develops and how he draws from his two major opponents, Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany nominee for reëlection, and Major F. H. La Guardia, the fusion candidate.

Claims Astor's Support.

It was learned today that Mr. McKee, in addition to the support of the Roosevelt administration, despite White House assurances that the President will not participate personally, will have powerful backing. Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the emergency unemployment relief committee, and Vincent Astor, personal friend of President Roosevelt, were said to be among his influential backers.

It also was reported that former Police Commissioner George V. McLaughlin and former State Senator Thomas I. Sheridan, turned down for renomination by Tammany, would support him, and that one of the latter might be his campaign manager.

Fight Starts Oct. 16.

The present plans of Mr. McKee's sponsors call for the beginning of his speaking campaign on Oct. 16 and a three weeks' intensive drive for his election.

Tammany also will delay the opening of its campaign for the reëlection of Mayor O'Brien until the world series is out of the way, experience having shown the leaders of Tammany that it is difficult to interest the New York public in politics when a New York team is battling for the baseball championship.

Give O'Brien Credit.

The Tammany strategy calls for the stressing of what its orators will call Mayor O'Brien's achievements in office. An attempt will be made to claim credit for him in averting financial catastrophe for the city and the suspension of pay roll payments and unemployment relief payments by the recent agreement with the bankers.

The present outlook is that Mr. McKee will be supported by a complete board of estimate ticket, with M. Baldwin Fertig, regular Democratic candidate for aldermanic president, and John J. Lyons, regular Democratic candidate for borough president of the Bronx, virtually sure of endorsement.

N. Y. RACKETEERS FOUND PREYING ON DUCK RAISERS

New York, Oct. 1.—[Special.]—Long Island duck raisers rallied today behind Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr. and his racket bureau following the discovery by Mr. Bennett of a profitable form of wholesale gang coercion.

With the aid of Lazarus Joseph, one of his Suffolk county deputies, Mr. Bennett has found what he believes is the root of all evil in the New York City Kosher fowl market, victim of one of the earliest forms of racketeering. It amounts to a levy of about five cents a pound on ducks, and pours an annual income estimated at $2,000,000 into the pockets of racketeers, Mr. Bennett said. L. Barron Hill, district attorney in Suffolk, is working with Mr. Joseph.

Gangster methods dictate the size of the market and in many instances order duck raisers in Suffolk to cut their production by as much as 50 per cent. They promise duck farmers handsome returns in revenue, explaining that their schemes are similar to the federal cotton plowing agreement.

Unlike federal agreements, however, Mr. Bennett said today, the gangsters do not keep their end of the bargain. The only effect of curtailed supply is to increase the price of ducks to the consumer and fatten the purses of gangsters whose own duck farm output has not been diminished.

Mr. Bennett said Mr. Joseph had forty-six witnesses, most of them duck farmers, who were willing to appear before the grand jury.

Real Estate Management Corp.,
4340 Drexel Boulevard,
Chicago, Illinois.

Attention: Resident Manager.

Gentlemen:

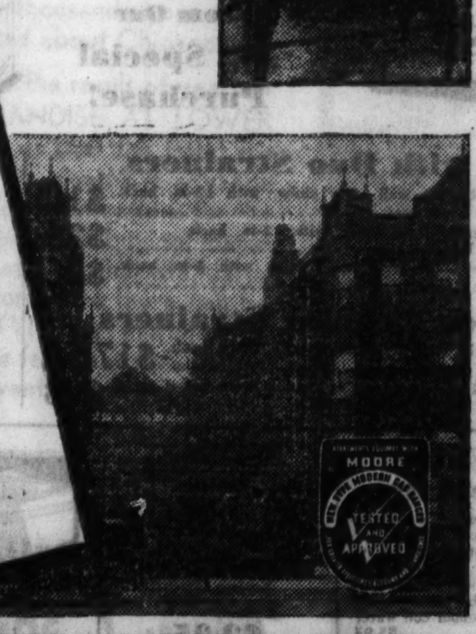
Please let me tell you how much I appreciate the new modern gas range in my apartment.

It is a pity that every modern woman does not know about the modern gas range and what it means to her in convenience, economy and time saved.

For years I have cooked on an old style range without any of the new improvements that I have on my new range. I suffered this inconvenience because I knew of no better way.

Never again will I go back to old-fashioned cooking on an old-fashioned gas range. This modern gas range I now have is without a doubt the very last word in easy, pleasant cooking.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs Claude G Cox



BANNOCKBURN APARTMENTS—4408 DREXEL BLVD.

Insist on a Modern gas range in YOUR Apartment or Home

Housewives are quickly discovering that they no longer have to endure the daily inconveniences of the old-type kitchen stove—they scarcely believe their eyes when they see the features of new-type Modern Gas Ranges, and learn how economically and efficiently they operate.

To cook in a cool kitchen—how delightfully different! No more uncomfortable tiring heat—actually you can prepare a large dinner and then sit down to enjoy it—fresh, cool, and relaxed.

Your days of watching and worrying about your roasts, pies, and cakes are over—thanks to Automatic Oven Temperature Control. And for quick, highly efficient preparation of broiled foods—the newly designed Adjustable Broilers do a perfect job with no burned hands or smoky kitchens.

In the new Insulated Ovens that keep heat inside the ovens and out of the kitchen, roasts are cooked to juicy tenderness—the tasty flavor sealed in—and all with but a slight loss in weight.

If you are looking for a new apartment or home, insist upon one of these Modern Gas Ranges, with its porcelain enamel inside and out. Be sure to look for the "Tested and Approved" emblem—it's on the Modern Gas Range and the building installing them. When buying new cooking equipment, insist that your dealer supplies a range marked with the "Tested and Approved" emblem. Remember, an apartment or home is NOT modern if it does not have a Modern Gas Range.

BE SURE THAT YOUR APARTMENT OR HOME IS EQUIPPED WITH ONE OF THESE NEW TYPE MODERN GAS RANGES IDENTIFIED BY THIS EMBLEM

Renters, Attention
For information regarding apartments equipped with these new-type modern gas ranges see listings in classified "Apartments for Rent" sections of this paper.

OCTOBER 1, 1933.  A

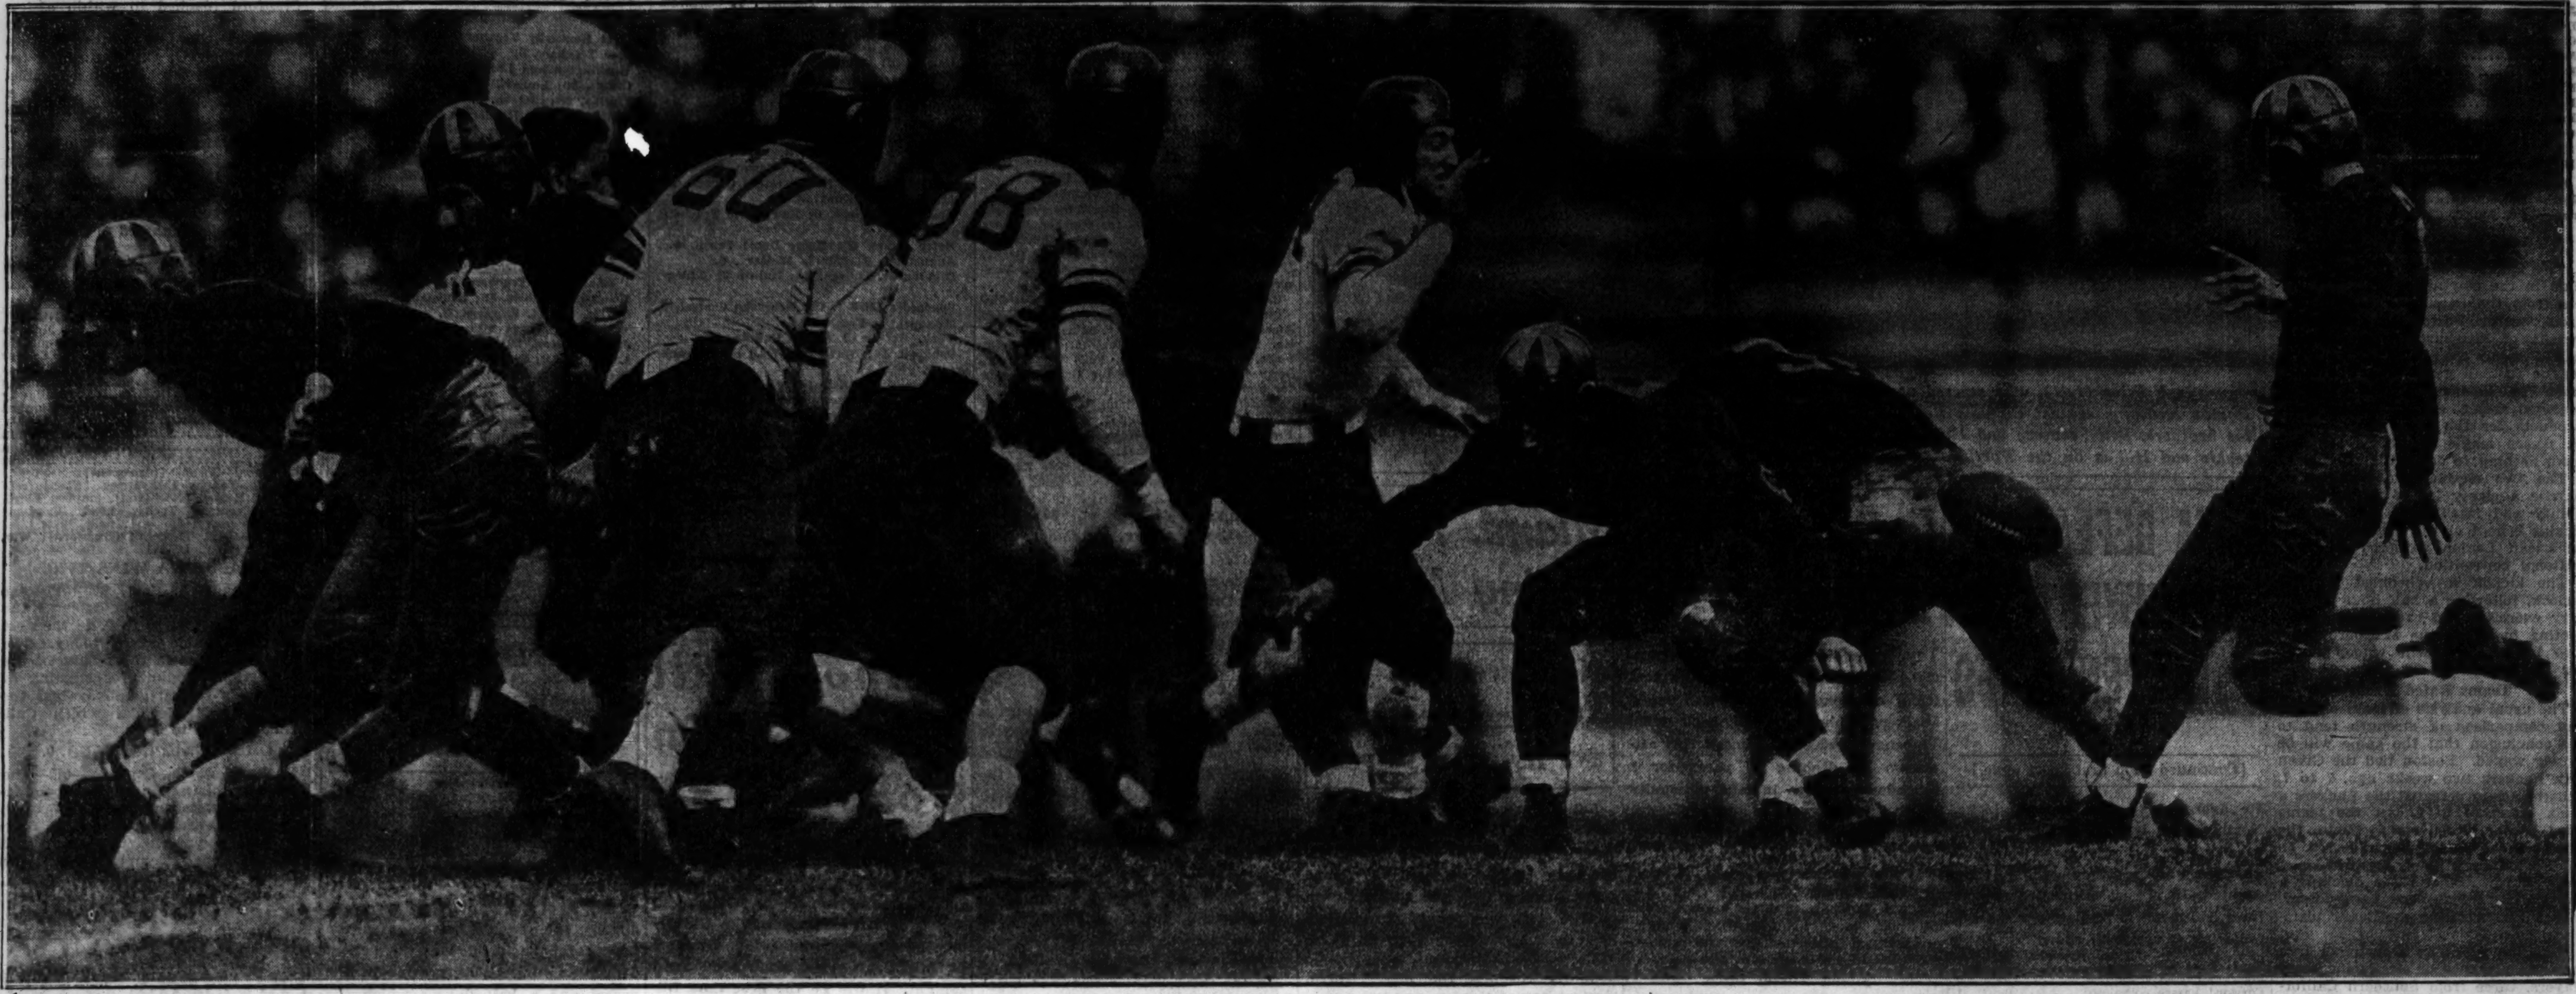
IOWA WINS OVER NORTHWESTERN ELEVEN, 7-0

IT'S BATTLE WHEN HAWKEYES AND WILDCATS GET TOGETHER



Behind ample protection furnished by two backs R. J. Fisher, University of Iowa half back, got off a long punt against Northwestern in the first quarter of their battle yesterday before a crowd of 25,000 at Soldiers' field. The charging Wildcat linemen are No. 60, Bill Riley, tackle, and No. 58, H. Kostbade, end. The smashing thrusts of Dick Crayne, Hawkeye full back, gave Northwestern's line more than it could cope with, but the Iowans were kept away from the scoring line until Joe Laws broke through in the fourth quarter. GUY BUSH GAINS LONG SOUGHT 20TH VICTORY FOR CUBS, 12-2

Third Place Clinched by Triumph Over Cardinals.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—The industrious Guy Bush led the Cubs into the clinching of third place world series money and also realized an ambition of long standing this afternoon in the penultimate battle of the 1933 season. The swarthy Mississippian treated the Cardinals to a five hit exhibition that terminated with a 12 to 2 margin and at the same time registered his twentieth victory of the season against 12 defeats. It was the first time in his long career that Bush has reached that figure, his best previous being 19 last year.

Of particular joy to the Cubs, aside from the money feature and the Bush achievement, was that the famed Jerome [Dizzy] Dean was one of the leading goats of the proceedings. The tall boy discovered that six innings were enough for one day. By that time the Chicagoans had assailed him for ten hits and six runs, the half dozen remaining tallies resulting from a blast against Bill Hallahan in the ninth. However, Dean did have the satisfaction of fanning five, two of them in succession with the bases loaded. His total of strikeouts for the year now is 202.

Babe Does His Bit.

Next to Bush, Floyd [Babe] Herman was the leading conspirator in the move that shoved the Cardinals dangerously close to a second division berth. The Babe wasn't so hot while the pennant tension existed, but apparently he is able to cope with any mental hazard short of that. At least he showed today that third place complications couldn't annoy him. The Babe tripled to start Dean off on the wrong foot in the first inning. He figured in half of a four run attack on Dizzy by slashing his sixteenth homer of the season with a mate waiting in the sixth. And in the ninth the Babe opened the big rally with a double and ended it with a single.

Woody English signaled his return to active service at third by opening the game with a single over short, and it might have been a double if he hadn't stumbled after rounding first base. He was forced by Billy Herman. Cuyler became Dean's first strikeout victim of the day. Then Babe Herman slapped a fly to right against the screen just beyond Watkins' reach. Billy Herman scored and the Babe went to third, helped by the fact that the ball rolled half way back to the infield. Stephenson beat out a single to deep short, and the Babe scored. Grimm closed the inning on strikes.

Cardinals Tie Score.

The two runs with which the Cards climbed back on even terms in their opening attack on Bush started on Martin's double to left center. Martin went to third on Watkins' infield out and home on Frisch's single, which slipped off Grimm's glove tip. Bush cut loose with a wild pitch that put Frisch on second, but the Cub star made amends for that by fanning Medwick. Then Collins singled to center, scoring Frisch, and taking second on the throw to the plate. Three strikes for Moore ended the disturbance.

Dean rose to his greatest height in the fifth, and you should have heard the ladies day fans screech over what happened. Billy Herman led off with a fly to right, and it eluded Watkins for a two base hit. Cuyler walked, and Babe Herman flied to center. Stephenson grounded to Durocher. An easy double play appeared imminent, but Frisch dropped the throw at second. This filled the bases with one out. Then Dean fanned both Grimm and Hartnett. The manager didn't even enjoy a swing at his third strike.

Force Dean to Vanish.

The business of melting Dean down to the status of a loser in the sixth had its start on a fumble by Durocher on Jurges' roller. Bush sacrificed. English pumped a fly ball single into short left to score Jurges. English dashed home on Billy Herman's two bagger into the left field corner. Cuyler was disposed of on a pop foul to O'Farrell. Then Babe Herman made his big contribution. He sailed his homer, a real line drive, over the right field roof, scoring his namesake ahead of him and boosting the net run production of the inning to four. Dean vanished after this inning.

After the first inning Bush didn't surrender a hit until Moore, who had fanned twice, opened the seventh with a single to left. Nothing developed from that. The eighth was slightly more complicated, although not actually embarrassing Bush. He gave a pass to Martin, fanned Watkins, and then Frisch singled. This situation was cleaned up on a forced play and a popup. The Frisch hit was the last for the Cardinals.

Parting Shot in Ninth.

The parting shot, in which the Cubs indulged in the ninth, opened with Babe Herman's double off Hallahan. The Babe scored on Stephenson's single. Hallahan played bounce with Grimm's roller long enough to let it go as a hit and then threw the ball into right field, Stephenson scoring, and Grimm lugging himself to third. He scored on Hartnett's looping double behind first base. A bit later Hartnett scored on a single by English. Singles by Billy Herman, Cuyler, and Babe Herman did the rest of the six run damage.

Late Date Is First; Storm Routs Patrons

BY FRENCH LANE.

Late Date, an Oaks winner a year ago and considered one of the great 3 year old fillies of the year, dashed to a brilliant victory in the $2,500 Homewood handicap at a mile at Washington Park yesterday afternoon.

Racing home just in front of a heavy rain storm, Late Date moved up from behind in the stretch, soon galloped into the lead and wound up by beating Polydorus by two and one-half lengths. Evergold from the Nash Brothers Shandon Farm stable was third, while Glastonbury, an easterner, was fourth.

A few minutes after Late Date scored her victory dark clouds blackened the skies and a heavy thunderstorm drove every one in the crowd of 10,000 to cover. The last two races were run in almost complete darkness with rain bordering on a cloudburst beating into the faces of horses and jockeys. The severe lightning and wind had the crowd on the verge of panic, but no injuries were reported.

Karl Eitel Breaks in Front.

The storm had no effect whatever on the outcome of the handicap for the track was lightning fast when Late Date reeled off her mile in 1:37.

She wasn't away any too well, Karl Eitel breaking in front, with Polydorus second and Evergold third. A quarter out Late Date was back in sixth place in the eight horse field. She picked up a little ground going down the long back stretch, but rounding the turn she still was fourth.

Heading into the stretch Jockey Kacala roused her with his whip. Then she started running past horses. She had romped to the lead and there was still an eighth of a mile to go. She killed off Evergold, Minton, and Glastonbury in that one drive.

Polydorus Moves Up.

Then a new menace began to appear. It was Polydorus, racing on the extreme outside. He dashed past the faltering Glastonbury, then took Minton into camp. Finally he made Evergold shorten up his strides and went on past him.

Late Date was running straight and true, however, and while Polydorus went past some tired horses, he didn't even come close to Late Date. She went sailing by the winning post two and one-half lengths in front of him.

The half had been reeled off in :46 3-5, and they were at the three quarters in 1:12.

Late Date Is Favorite.

A late plunge made Late Date a slight favorite over Polydorus. In the mutuels she paid $6.76 to win, $4.08 to place and $2.80 to show.

The storm and the darkness during the running of the last two races made the horses appear just so many shadowy figures as they went past the judges' stand. On the back stretch it was imposible to see them at all.

A bolt of lightning put the lighting and on the turn into the home stretch system at the track out of commission and mutuel betting clerks had to quit selling tickets before the last race was run. The cashiers paid off after the last race by the flickering lights of candles.

BROWNS FIND 3 SOX HURLERS ARE READY FOR CITY SERIES

Hose Win 4 to 1 with Jones, Durham and Lyons in Form.

Three White Sox pitchers took a workout for the city series at the expense of the St. Louis Browns at Comiskey park yesterday, and between them they limited the Browns to four hits. Meanwhile an array of regulars, reserves and rookies got to Bump Hadley for one big inning and a 4 to 1 victory.

Sad Sam Jones started the game and worked three innings in which the Browns got two singles. He was followed by Ed Durham, the erstwhile invalid. It was the first time Durham had pitched since he was a spectator to Jimmy Dykes' lamented footrace with Joe Cronin in Washington. He also worked three innings, allowing only one hit. Ted Lyons, who has been in the throes of his worst big league season, finished the game, allowing the Browns' their fourth hit of the afternoon. This one, however, was a home run by Sam West at the start of the ninth inning and spoiled a shutout. Durham was scored the winning pitcher.

Hadley's Luck Ends.

Hadley faced only 13 men in the first four innings, allowing no hits and having a runner on base only in the fourth, when Levey threw low to first on Stoneham's grounder. In the fifth, however, Hadley's luck took a recess and before he could get the side out the Sox had scored three times.

The Sox got to Hadley for two hits at the start of the seventh inning, but a fielder's choice, a strike out and a fly to Campbell left runners stranded on first and third. McDonald, the Athletic cast off, pitched the eighth inning and was the victim of the fourth White Sox run.

The success of his pitching choices was a source of satisfaction to Manager Lew Fonseca, who has long since learned how to appreciate four hit pitching. So effective did the trio work that only two Browns saw third base. Scharein got there in the sixth inning when he received credit for a double as Swanson danced around after fielding his drive to right. He went to third while Hayes was throwing out West. Scharein's hit was the only one off Durham. Melillo singled off Jones in the second and Scharein singled off him in the third, but neither advanced past first.

Bocek Drives in First Run.

The White Sox three run foray in the fifth inning started inauspiciously with Appling grounding out to Levey. Kress then beat out a single to Levey and went to third when Hayes singled to right on a hit and run play. Berry walked, filling the bases. Durham struck out for the second out, but Bocek, who had relieved Stoneham in left, hit sharply between Scharein and Levey. Scharein fielded the ball but was in no position to throw and it went for a single, driving in Kress and leaving the bases filled. Haas then hit sharply to Melillo, who let the ball go through his legs into right field for an error, permitting Hayes and Berry to score and Bocek to reach third. Rhyne, who relieved Dykes at third in the city series warm-up plan, ended the inning by popping out to Melillo.

McDonald walked Swanson after one was out in the Sox eighth inning, and Evar took second on a wild pitch. Appling singled to right, sending Swanson to third, whence he scored the last run of the game on Kress' fly to Reynolds in left.

SENATORS ARE RUTH'S CHOICE TO WIN SERIES

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Babe Ruth stuffed a wad of tickets for the world series games into his pocket today, shook hands with one and all at the business offices of the New York Giants and then proceeded to pick the Washington Senators to win the baseball championship.

"They have got the power," said Ruth, referring to the American league standard bearer.

Aurora Beats Greentree for Title, 14 to 11

Westbury, N. Y., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Elmer Boeseke Jr., a hard riding player from California, today made the final of the United States open polo tournament almost a personal victory. He scored seven goals to lead Seymour Knox's Aurora four to a 14 to 11 triumph over Greentree.

Playing a back, a position not designed for high scoring, Boeseke figured in nearly every Aurora scoring play, at the same time keeping the way closed to most of the Greentree thrusts.

Backed by a team which rode well together, appeared better mounted, and was eternally on top of the ball, Boeseke overshadowed his higher ranked western contemporary, Cecil Smith, who made a gallant, but rather ineffective effort to stem the Aurora attack from his No. 2 position on the Greentree side.

Boeseke Has Edge.

Several times Boeseke and Smith, whose meeting in the final had been looked forward to with keen anticipation by polo fans, clashed as they rode after the ball or fought for it in front of the goal, and on nearly every occasion it was the big Californian who came out with the honor.

He was given a big cheer by the crowd, which numbered 10,000, as he galloped down the field at the end of the game on the blue ribbon winner, Red Ace, to join his team mates and accept the open cup.

Also on the Aurora team were Elbridge T. Gerry Jr., Jimmy Mills, and Knox, who organized the team two years ago and gave it the name of his Buffalo estate. Knox rode through to two goals, Mills for four, and Gerry, a fine defensive player all afternoon, for one.

Whitney Is Stopped.

Gerald Balding and Smith shared scoring honors for Greentree, each with four goals, while John Hay Whitney, organizer of the team, scored twice and Ivor Balding once. It was the inability of Whitney to get away from Boeseke which largely accounted for Greentree's defeat. Whitney had been a high scorer for his team in both its victories en route to the final.

Although the play was mostly in their territory through the first few periods, Greentree managed to stay within striking distance of Aurora up to the fifth, the half time score being 6 to 5. Starting the second half of the match, however, Aurora went out to score four goals before Greentree could register again.

Plays One Other Game.

Aurora had a bye through the first round and played only one other match in its march to the title, defeating the Hurricanes 8 to 7 in the semi-finals.

Greentree put out the defending Templeton four in the first round, 14 to 13, and won from Westbury, 14 to 9, in the other semi-final.

The lineups:

AURORA [14].		GREENTREE [11].
Seymour Knox	No. 1	J. H. Whitney
J. P. Mills	No. 2	Cecil Smith
E. T. Gerry	No. 3	Gerald Balding

LAWS CRASHES THROUGH LINE FOR 32 YARD TOUCHDOWN RUN

Crayne, Sophomore, Star of Hawkeye Surprise Team.

BY ARCH WARD.

University of Iowa's football team, for three years a weakling in Western conference competition, yesterday served notice it is a robust contender for the 1933 title by defeating Northwestern, 7 to 0. The game was played before 25,000 at Soldiers' field as the sports feature of Iowa day at A Century of Progress.

The score is not a true index to Iowa's superiority. Throughout the second half the Hawkeyes constantly were hammering at the Purple goal. Fumbles and intercepted passes, combined with the Wildcats' strong defense when their goal was endangered, prevented a larger count.

Iowa Scores in Fourth Period.

Thwarted time and again when a touchdown seemed imminent, Iowa finally put across its victory margin in the fourth quarter. It started after Thoma grounded a Northwestern punt on the Hawks' 45 yard line. Russell Fisher sped around his left end for 15 yards. Dick Crayne made nine more on a similar play.

The Iowa backs then lined up in box formation, two of them on each side of center. The ball was snapped to Joe Laws, who broke through the Northwestern line between left guard and left tackle. He cut back after clearing the scrimmage line, eluded the defensive right half back and ran 32 yards to the goal. Fisher added the extra point from placement.

The Iowa rooters, led by Gov. Clyde Herring, came to their feet. It was the first time the devotees of the Old Gold and Black had enjoyed an opportunity to celebrate an important football triumph since the school was suspended from the Big Ten conference in 1929. Iowa's last conference victory was scored over Minnesota, 9 to 7, on Nov. 9, 1929. No student now in school remembers the game.

You'll Hear More of Crayne.

Iowa yesterday introduced a young man to conference football who will figure prominently in public prints the rest of the season. He is Richard Crayne, a sophomore full back from Fairfield, Ia., where he won all state inter-scholastic recognition before matriculating at his state university.

Crayne appears to be one of the best running backs the Big Ten has had since Red Grange laid aside his college armor in 1925. He starts fast and once under way he leaves sparks in his wake. He knows how to use his hips to shake off tacklers and he showed a clever change of pace that repeatedly fooled the Purple secondary. His 63 yard run to the eight yard line in the third quarter was the thrill of the game.

Laws Shares Honors.

Sharing offensive honors with Crayne was Laws, quarter back, from Colfax, Ia. In addition to his brilliant work on the touchdown play he made several long runs on return of punts. All Iowa backs were good blockers.

The Northwestern line, with one or two exceptions, was no match for the Hawkeye forwards. The Iowans were faster off the mark and consequently were outcharging their opponents. Manske at end was the standout in the Purple line. He played one of the best all around games of his career.

Iowa's strongest play was a half spinner to the weak side with Crayne carrying the ball. Iowa's cross blocking was consistently effective.

Augustson Overtakes Crayne.

Northwestern can thank Roy Augustson, quarter back, that Iowa did not add at least one touchdown to its total. He was the man who brought down Crayne on that 63 yard run. The Iowa flash had eluded Jakie Sullivan and was touchdown bound when Augustson lunged at him from behind to bring him down on the eight yard line.

Olson several times drove Iowa out of the scoring zone by his long punts.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Boston Redskins, with one Indian in the starting lineup, six players from the Pacific coast, and none from nearer Boston than the University of Pittsburgh, meet the Chicago Bears in the opening professional league football game here this afternoon at Soldiers' field. Chicago's players aren't exactly home town products for the most part, but, as in major league baseball, this will have nothing to do with the result.

The two elevens are expected to parade a classy lot of post-graduate ability and intelligence for the particular benefit of the members of the American Legion gathered for their national convention.

The kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock, following a half hour of military exercises and promiscuous horn tooting in which the Marlboro drum and bugle corps will whoop it up for the Redskins.

Teams Rated Even.

The usual analysis of team offenses and comparison of strength tend to the conclusion that the game will be closely waged. Boston tied the Green Bay Packers two weeks ago, 7 to 7, and the Bears defeated the Packers a week later, 14 to 7, but the teams must be considered equal despite the Bears' victory. The Bears scored, as did Boston, by a long forward pass, and Bill Hewitt's work in blocking a Packer kick, while bringing victory, reflected no credit on the Bears' teamwork.

More important as a customer lure than the presence of six Pacific coast players, three from Southern California, in Boston's lineup is the fight between Hewitt, Bear left end, and Jack Riley, Boston's right tackle. Their positions will bring them into contact on nearly every running play by the Bears. Hewitt was a member of Michigan's 1930 and 1931 Big Ten teams which tied with Northwestern for the Big Ten title. In both years Riley was the outstanding line man for the Wildcats. They have never played against each other.

Riley and Hewitt probably will play throughout the game, since both are durable and can take it. It won't require more than average imagination to bring back the days when Michigan and Northwestern might have played for the title and didn't.

Horstmann with Boston.

For good measure in this division of Big Ten talent the Redskins this afternoon will have Roy Horstmann, formerly of Purdue, on the bench ready for action. Horstmann did some line busting against Northwestern in 1931 and helped the Boilermakers to a share in the championship at the expense of Northwestern.

Minnesota's Jack Manders, who has tried his luck against Riley before, will be lugging the ball for the Bears today when Bronko Nagurski, his predecessor at Minnesota, is not hurling his weight at Boston's front line defenders.

Boston began professional football a year ago as the Braves, a natural follow-up of Boston's baseball Braves. Redskins followed Braves to prevent confusion. Actually Boston will be represented by one brave, Orien Crow, a Cherokee, who played center at Haskell institute, under Lone Star Dietz, before Dietz turned to the professional game. Three other Indians —Dave Ward, a Yakima; Louis Weller, Caddo, and Larry Johnson, a Menominee—will be in war paint ready to work on the Bears.

Probably Will Take to Air.

The caliber of the line men presumes that a decision will be reached by forward passes rather than continuous pounding through the line. Neither team has an exceptional passer in the starting lineup, although Red Grange and Carl Brumbaugh are fair throwers, while Jack Manders may cut loose with short tosses. But Walt Holmer, new Boston back obtained in a trade with the Chicago Cardinals, will be a threat when he takes the field. Holmer also can kick and run with the best of the backs.

Left-handed Bill Doehring, whose long distance shots sometimes are caught merely because the defense doesn't believe he can throw more than 50 yards, will be the Bears' counter for Holmer. Keith Molesworth, a jumping jack of a runner, likewise can handle the ball on pass plays.

The field was covered after yesterday's Iowa-Northwestern game. The Bears' management announced yesterday that if rain forced cancellation of the game today it would be played tomorrow night at 8:30 at Soldiers' field.

CARDS AT PORTSMOUTH

Portsmouth, O., Sept. 30.—[Special.] —The Portsmouth Spartans, with decisive victories over Cincinnati and the New York Giants, will face the Chicago Cardinals tomorrow confident of continuing their drive for the National league title which they lost last year in a playoff with the Chicago Bears. Coach Potsy Clark has developed a good line and his backfield apparently carries the same consistent scoring threat that made it dangerous in 1932.

Clark has warned the Spartans of Jim Bausch's plunging ability and the open field running and passing of Joe Lillard, but Portsmouth's forwards are expected to take care of both, while the secondary is fast enough to cover the receivers for Lillard's passes.

The Cardinals lost their opening game Wednesday night at Pittsburgh, 14 to 13, after leading in the first half, 13 to 0.

A REDSKIN AND HIS LITTLE BROTHERS

IOWA DEFEATS NORTHWESTERN IN OPENER, 7-0

He averaged 48 yards on 12 kicks. Northwestern had an edge in forward passing, but was unable to complete its tosses when they would have counted. In almost every department Iowa had a marked advantage, as the following figures will show:

	N. U.	Iowa.
Yards from scrimmage	96	242
Forward passed attempted	15	7
Forward passes completed	6	1
Passes intercepted by	1	3
Yards gained from passes	73	16
Number of punts	12	12
Average length of punts	48	39
Number of punts blocked	0	1
Yardage lost from penalties	40	30
First downs	6	9
Number of fumbles	4	3
Fumbles recovered by	3	1

Iowa's first scoring threat came in the opening period after it had obtained the ball in midfield. Crayne nibbled at the line for three yards and then broke away on a half spinner for 20 yards. He repeated the play for 14 yards, putting the ball on the Wildcats' 22 yard line. Cruice of Northwestern ended the Iowa march by recovering Crayne's fumble on the 15 yard mark.

Fisher Intercepts Pass.

The game took on a different complexion a few moments later when Sullivan returned a punt to Iowa's 32 yard line. Fisher then intercepted a Northwestern pass and raced to his 40 yard line. Crayne slipped around his left end for 25 yards as the first quarter ended.

Kopecky, a substitute linesman with an eye for the ball, recovered an Iowa fumble on the Purple's 40 yard line and Olson quick kicked over the goal line, thereby ending immediate danger of an Iowa touchdown.

Northwestern might have gone somewhere shortly afterward, but a temptation to gamble ended the opportunity. It was the Purple's ball on Iowa's 43 yard line. A pass, Olson to Kostbade, was good for six yards. A line thrust brought three more, but the second plunge collapsed at the scrimmage line. It was fourth down and a yard to go. Orthodox football called for a punt, but the Wildcats chose to run with the ball. They ran nowhere, and Iowa took the ball on downs.

Purple Hopes Soar.

A few minutes later it seemed that Northwestern was on its way. A forward pass, Olson to Jens, was good for a first down. Then Augustson passed to Manske, who tossed a lateral to Cruice. He held his feet until he reached the 23 yard line. Sullivan and Cruice moved the ball five yards closer to the Iowa goal, but on the next play Hoover, Iowa half back, intercepted Olson's pass, and Northwestern's only real scoring opportunity went for naught.

Early in the third quarter Iowa advanced to Northwestern's 32 yard line, where the Purple line braced sufficiently to force a punt. Sullivan, a moment later, put his team in the hole by fumbling a punt which Iowa recovered on the Purple's 18 yard line. The Hawkeyes were unable to make the required yardage on four plays and Olson punted out of danger as the third quarter closed.

Second Touchdown Called Back.

The touchdown play related above occurred early in the final period, and was followed by another that would have resulted in another score except for a penalty on the play. Laws returned a Northwestern punt to the Wildcats' 10 yard line. On the next play Crayne, sweeping wide to the right, tossed a lateral to Page, who ran over the goal for a touchdown. The score was disallowed, however, as officials ruled the pass to Page was forward instead of lateral. A five yard penalty was inflicted.

Virginia Wins Over Randolph-Macon, 39 to 0

University, Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Harry Martin, playing his second game was the hero of Virginia's 39 to 0 victory over Randolph-Macon today. With Martin and Willard Quarles, half back, doing most of the ground gaining Virginia made 22 first downs.

Central Normal College Defeats Earlham, 13-7

Richmond, Ind., Sept. 30.—[U. P.]—Central Normal college of Danville took advantage of some poor punting today to defeat Earlham, 13 to 7. Earlham's only touchdown was scored in a series of end runs which gained 50 yards.

Indiana Whips Miami, 7-0, on Pass in Closing Minute

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—After failing to cross the goal from the one yard line, Wendell Walker, sophomore full back from Vincennes, redeemed himself this afternoon by dashing 30 yards for a touchdown to give Indiana university a 7 to 0 victory over Miami university of Oxford, O. It was the Hoosiers' opening football game.

With a minute to go, Walker snatched a pass from Don Veller, Indiana's veteran quarter back from Bicknell, raced around Miami's right end, eluded three tacklers, and crossed the goal in the corner of the field.

Miami Threat Fails.

Until Indiana's last quarter drive, led by Veller, Walker, Dauer, and Sutherland, Miami had made the only threat to score. In the first half Pat Roudebush, quarter back, attempted a drop kick from Indiana's 18 yard line, but Beeson blocked it and Voliva recovered for Indiana.

Late in the fourth quarter Veller sneaked through the line for a 20 yard dash to the goal, but both teams were offside and the ball was called back. After smashes by the Hoosier backs, Veller skirted his right end from the nine yard line, but was run outside two yards from the goal. On three plunges Walker rammed the ball to within inches of goal, but the Miami line held.

Kruseski punted out of danger for the Ohioans. A pass from Veller to Vercuski netted a nice gain, bringing the ball to Miami's 31 yard line. Veller then tossed the winning pass to Walker. While Veller held the ball, Dauer kicked goal from placement.

In the third quarter Leonard Fertig, Miami's brilliant full back, stole the show with his passing and running. Intercepting a pass on his own 10 yard line, he ran 58 yards before two tacklers brought him down.

Hoosier Stars Get Going.

The reëntry of Indiana's big guns, Veller, Walker, and Dauer, in the last five minutes of play brought Indiana out of its lethargy and provided the scoring punch. Miami, champion of the Buckeye conference, dropped its sixth game to Indiana by losing today. Ten thousand fans saw the battle.

Johnny McDonald, sophomore quarter back on the Indiana eleven, suffered a broken leg in the game. His injury was not discovered until after the game.

MICHIGAN PLAYS FROSH.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—A "secret practice" game played this afternoon in the Michigan stadium between the varsity and the freshmen squad, attracted a crowd of 3,000 students.

This regulation game, instituted by Coach Harvey Kipke to supplant an early practice contest, was designed to give varsity players an opportunity to demonstrate their qualities under fire.

The varsity scored seven touchdowns in the first half, after which 22 varsity men took the field, representing first and second teams. Capt. Stan Fay started the game as quarter back and was followed by Renner. Michigan faces Michigan State here next Saturday in the Wolverines' opening contest.

PURDUE WHIPS FROSH.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 30.—[Special.] —Purdue's veteran backs ran rough shod over the freshmen this afternoon in the annual varsity-freshman game before 4,000 spectators, to score a 63 to 0 triumph. The yearlings offered stiff resistance in the first quarter, which ended with the varsity leading, 7 to 0, but once Hecker, Purvis, Carter, and Pardoner got under way the touchdowns started rolling in. The varsity held a 32 to 0 lead at the half.

Northwestern College Beaten by Lake Forest

Lake Forest college, playing its first game under Coach Ralph Jones, defeated Northwestern college, 26 to 15, at Lake Forest yesterday. Three Lake Forest touchdowns resulted from passes. One was for 35 yards, Roberts to Dohr, who ran 20 yards to score. Dyer and Eaton gained consistently through the line. Northwestern scored a safety and two touchdowns, both against Lake Forest's reserves.

MONMOUTH WINS, 14 TO 0.

Monmouth, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.] —Monmouth defeated Iowa Wesleyan, 14 to 0, here today. Marion Harper scored the first touchdown midway in the first quarter when he fell on a punt behind the goal line after it had been blocked by Stanley MacDonald. A 70 yard run by Bobbie Woll in the fourth quarter produced the other touchdown. Catanzaro kicked both points after touchdown.

Monmouth made four first downs to three for Iowa Wesleyan. Wesleyan threatened twice, but fumbled on the 12 yard line in the first quarter and was held for downs on the 15 yard line in the fourth period. Lucas at guard for Monmouth played an outstanding game, as did McConnell at tackle and Harper and MacDonald at end. For the visitors Patterson, end, and Bennett, half back, were standouts.

NORMAL, 19; DE KALB, 7.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—State Normal today whipped Northern Teachers at De Kalb, 19 to 7, in the first Little 19 conference games for each college.

An 80 yard march in the second quarter brought Normal to first touchdown, Leslie Murray, quarter back, going over. Murray also kicked the goal. De Kalb tied the score in the third quarter after a bad pass from center had given it the ball on Normal's two yard line. McGloshan, a full back, plunged over. Grant kicked for the seventh point.

After gaining on lateral passes, Normal scored again in the fourth quarter when Adams hit tackle from the five yard line. Another sustained drive brought the third Normal touchdown, Jackson scoring from the one yard line.

MACOMB, 18; KNOX, 6.

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.] —Macomb Teachers defeated Knox, 18 to 6, today in the opening Little Nineteen conference game for both teams.

Brady of Macomb went through tackle for the first touchdown in the opening quarter after Vasen's punt had been blocked. Knox evened the score in the third quarter when Lewis ran 15 yards after receiving a ten yard pass from Lamberti. A 30 yard run, followed by a pass to Arthur Justus gave Macomb its second touchdown later in the third period. In the fourth quarter Justus scored again after Biels' punt had been blocked.

NORTH CENTRAL WINS, 7-0.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—North Central snapped Western State Teachers' string today, 7 to 0. The Hilltoppers had won 12 games since last being defeated in 1931.

Referee—Millard [Illinois Wesleyan]. Umpire—Schommer [Chicago]. Field judge—Fred Young [Illinois Wesleyan]. Head linesman—Wilson [Williams].

Coaches—Vee Green, Drake; Bob Zuppke, Illinois.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Les Lindberg, sophomore half back from Lockport, made a spectacular college debut today as Illinois defeated Drake, 13 to 6.

At the end of the first half the Des Moines Bulldogs led the Illini, 6 to 0, and things were not going particularly well for Illinois.

Drake had scored on an unusual play. Cliff Gano, sophomore quarter back, who had replaced Jack Beynon, regular pilot, tried a pass from the Illinois 35 yard line. A Drake player blocked the ball as he threw, deflecting it laterally into the arms of Walter Jones, big Drake center, who plowed along the Illinois goal with no opposition. Fred Frink blocked Potts' attempt to place kick but Drake held the rest of the quarter.

Lindberg Does His Stuff.

In the third quarter Beynon's quick kick was blocked by Mellinger, giving the Bulldogs the ball on the Illinois 15 yard line. Reeder threw a lateral intended for Wieland, but Lindberg ran between the two, caught the ball and dashed 85 yards for a touchdown. Swan was on his heels as the big sophomore sped along the sidelines but never could catch up. Cummings place kicked the goal, putting the Illini in the lead, 7 to 6.

In the fourth quarter Beynon passed to Lindberg, who, although surrounded by Bulldogs, twisted through them and darted 38 yards to the goal. The sophomore's pass for the extra point failed. Lindberg did a good job of punting when he was called on. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 170 pounds.

Drake's forte was intercepting passes, the Bulldogs' backs breaking up many Illini attacks. The Illini made eight first downs to five by Drake, gained 140 yards through the line, against 94 by Drake, and 28 yards around end to 29 by Drake.

Steib Makes a Bid.

Another sophomore who narrowly missed fame was little Steve Steib of Aurora, who dashed 30 yards in the third period and was brought down by the Drake safety man.

Frank Froschauer, Illinois back field star, was benched with a strained tendon and unable to compete.

MINNESOTA WINS, 19-6

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Minnesota opened its football season this afternoon by defeating South Dakota State, 19-6. The Gophers were sluggish until their opponents tied the score at 6-all early in the fourth quarter. Then they marched down the field for two touchdowns.

It wasn't until the third quarter that the Gophers got their offense to functioning. Then they took a drive from their own 18 yard line to get the score. Lund made the first as well as the next two touchdowns for Minnesota.

Kramer Scores on Pass.

A 25 yard pass, Belfany to Kramer, got South Dakota its touchdown. Belfany had raced through the Minnesota line for 19 yards before he called for the pass play.

It was at this point that the Gophers began to click. With Lund and Roscoe clashing off the ends, the Gophers advanced the ball to the South Dakota 34 yard line. Then Lund tossed a pass to Tenner on the four yard line and two plays later Pug went over the line standing up. He missed the goal.

Lund Scores Again.

Champlin and Lund were the big cogs in the third touchdown, carrying the ball in a march from State's 37 yard line over the goal, with Lund again making the score. Champlin drop kicked for the extra point.

Minnesota gained plenty of ground through the afternoon, but fumbles and generally ragged play kept the score down. The South Dakotans, too, were much stronger than expected. They showed a strong line with Arndt the outstanding performer. Lineup:

SO. DAKOTA [6].		MINNESOTA [19].

Illinois Will Play U.S.C. On Coast in '35

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.] — The University of Illinois has reached an agreement for a home and home football series with the University of Southern California, Director of Athletics George Huff, announced tonight. It will be the first time Illinois has played a Pacific coast eleven. The Illini will travel to Los Angeles in 1935 to play U. S. C. on Oct. 12. The coast team will appear at Illinois on Oct. 10, 1936.

Negotiations for the series were carried on by Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois and Coach Howard Jones of Southern California, who will resume a rivalry that dates back to when Jones coached at the University of Iowa.

Coach Zuppke, by arranging the series, is carrying out an ambition he has held ever since he entered the Big Ten field in 1913. As a high school coach at Oak Park, Zuppke twice took teams to the coast, defeating representative prep elevens at Seattle and Portland.

Good for Boys.

"The trip to the coast will take our boys away from the class room only six days," Zuppke said. "Our feeling is that this traveling experience is well worth while from the standpoint of the boys. I have never believed that it was necessary to make a long stay in order to become acclimated."

Three Illinois track teams have traveled to the coast, two to meet the University of California and one Southern California.

The Southern California series will replace the Army-Illinois series which will conclude with the next year's game at Illinois because of the Big Ten ban on further competition with the cadets.

NOTRE DAME STAYS ON.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The home and home game football agreement between Universities of Illinois and Southern California will neither terminate nor hinder the continuation of the U. S. C.'s intersectional series with Notre Dame, Trojan officials said tonight.

Al Wesson, of the U. S. C. staff, said existing contracts carried the Notre Dame series through 1935, and that the Trojans had every expectation of an automatic renewal of the contract for future games with the Indiana school.

THERE'LL BE HOT TIME AS HAWKS GO HOME TODAY

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 30.—[Special.] —There was no one on hand to see the University of Iowa team off to Northwestern yesterday, but there will be thousands to welcome them home tomorrow. The victory jubilee was rapidly being organized tonight, although students hardly knew how to celebrate a Western conference win properly.

Fans who remained at home were astounded at the Hawkeyes' 7 to 0 victory over the Wildcats, the first against Western conference opposition since Nov. 9, 1929. Since then the Iowans have scored only two touchdowns against Big Ten teams, one against Purdue and one against Northwestern last year.

Plans were being hastily made tonight for a rousing reception for the varsity squad, which arrives at 8:20 o'clock tomorrow morning. Meanwhile the chief of police announced that his staff would be lenient "with any one who decided to celebrate, as long as they didn't try to tear up the town."

CHARLEY NIEGO DEFEATS WILSON IN 3 ROUND BOUT

Charley Niego, former Golden Glove champion, defeated Jake Wilson in a 3 round windup of the amateur boxing show on the floating theater at the Century of Progress last night. Other results were:

Bob Brown beat Rudy Lucianse [3].
Jean Nelson beat Ed Leverette [3].
George Johnson beat Earl Mandell [3].
Ernie Kulasik knocked out Clyde Nelson [2].
Lynn Sanford beat Carl Creissler [3].
Charles Richardson beat Jimmy Baxter [3].
Russ Hagstrom beat Joe Turner [3].

Notre Dame Beats Freshman Eleven, 60-0; Pilney Stars

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The Notre Dame varsity trampled the freshmen in approved fashion today, 60 to 0, in the annual Frosh-Varsity game.

Only 16 of the points, however, came during the twenty-five minutes the first team backfield was in action. Thirty additional points came in the period and a half during which the pony backfield played behind the varsity line.

Andy Pilney, sophomore left half back from Chicago, scored three touchdowns on runs of 55, 15, and 11 yards to lead individual scoring. Nick Lukats, senior left half back, scored the first touchdown late in the first quarter on a 25 yard pass from Steve Banas. A safety had previously given the varsity 2 points.

The pony backfield with John [Red] Tobin, a senior, at right half back, shot Tobin through the line for 5 yards and a touchdown on the fifth play of a 55 yard march. Don Elser and Pilney each made 15 yard runs in this drive. Nine plays resulted in 85 more yards and culminated in Pilney's 11 yard touchdown run. Pilney scored his second touchdown without any one touching him on a 15 yard run. He faked two freshmen defensive men out of position for his third touchdown, making the score 33 to 0 at the half on a 55 yard jaunt.

Johnny Young, left half back, scored on a 10 yard run to open the third period. Lowell Hagan trotted 54 yards for the only other score in that period. Young added both points from placement.

Lukats passed 10 yards to Devore in the final period after the varsity had once been held for downs. Reyman Bonar, who played quarter back with the sophomore back field, ran back a punt 65 yards for the final score. Banas kicked 2 extra points from placement.

BADGERS STRESS PASSES.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 30.—[Special.] —Devoting much time toward developing a forward pass offense, Coach Clarence Spears sent the Badgers through a long scrimmage today. Tommy Fontaine, Kenny Kundert, Lyn Jordan and Bobby Schiller did the passing. Fontaine appeared to be the most accurate. A rugged freshman team prevented most of the varsity's attempts through the line.

STANFORD BEATS U. C. L. A., 3 TO 0, ON PLACE KICK

Corbus Scores Field Goal from 21 Yard Line.

Palo Alto, Cal., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Stanford opened its Pacific coast conference campaign today with a 3 to 0 victory over the University of California at Los Angeles.

Stanford reached to within a few yards of the goal three times, only to lose the ball. Two of the threats were checked when U. C. L. A. held for downs and the third one on a fumble.

The three points were scored on a place kick by Bill Corbus early in the first period. Sim, Stanford quarter back, quick kicked over the U. C. L. A. secondary, the ball rolling to the 4 yard line. U. C. L. A. kicked out to its 38 yard line. Hillman passed to Sim for ten yards. Conservative plunges carried Stanford to U. C. L. A. 8 yard line.

Corbus then dropped back to the 21 yard line and placed kicked with Sim holding the ball. Lineup:

U. C. L. A. [0].		STANFORD [3].
Maxwell	L. E.	Moscrip
McGue	L. T.	Palamountain
Boyer	L. G.	O'Connor
Coats [C.]	C.	Bates
Storey	R. G.	Corbus
Rafferty	R. T.	Callaway
Muller	R. E.	Norgard
Frankovich	Q. B.	Sim
Cheshire	L. H.	Maentz
Livesay	R. H.	Hamilton
Keeble	F. B.	Hillman

Field goal—Corbus [placement].

Officials—Tommy Fitzpatrick [Utah], referee; Sub Huebel [Michigan], umpire; Lloyd Yoder [Carnegie Tech], head linesman; Rufus Klawans [Chicago], field judge.

Coaches—C. E. Thornhill [Stanford]; Wm. Spaulding [U. C. L. A.].

CALIFORNIA WINS TWO.

Berkeley, Cal., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The University of California defeated the California Aggies, 39 to 0, in the first game of a double header today. The game was called in the middle of the final period to allow for starting of California's second game against the University of Nevada, which California won, 34 to 0.

OREGON, 14; GONZAGA, 0.

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The University of Oregon football team defeated Gonzaga university, 14 to 0, in a non-conference game today, scoring touchdowns in the third and fourth periods. Temple led Oregon's attack.

CORNELL, FIRST FOE OF CHICAGO, TRIUMPHS, 12 TO 7

Mount Vernon, Ia., Sept. 30.—[Special.] — The Cornell football team, which will oppose the University of Chicago next Saturday, defeated Iowa State Teachers college this afternoon, 12 to 7.

Passes by Fred Shadle, West Chicago, Ill., boy, following the recovery of a blocked kick by Charles Berve, Rochelle, Ill., were largely responsible for the first Cornell touchdown, made by Shadle, early in the fourth quarter. Cornell scored its second touchdown on a pass from Shadle to Eldon Coffman, sophomore end from Polo, Ill. Lineup:

IOWA ST. T. [7].		CORNELL [12].
Stribley	L. E.	Coffman
Kraft	L. T.	Zoda
Stewart	L. G.	Osburn
Sidler	C.	Cassidy
Miller	R. G.	Bunch
Ralston	R. T.	Berve
Hintzman	R. E.	Ray
Kimberlin	Q. B.	Shadle
Hoeman	L. H.	Morford
Carson	R. H.	Reynolds
Cedarholm	F. B.	Peterson

Touchdowns — Shadle, Coffman, Halgason [substitute for Kimberlin].
Point after touchdown—Cedarholm.

Valparaiso Wins, 26-0, Over Indiana Teachers

Valparaiso, Ind., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Taking advantage of intercepted forward passes and fumbles by Indiana State Teachers of Terre Haute, Valparaiso university won its second game of the season here today, 26 to 0.

Pitt Wins, 9-0, Over W. and J. in Last 4 Minutes

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 30.—[Special.] —After two desperate goal line stands Pittsburgh defeated Washington and Jefferson, 9 to 0, through a field goal and touchdown in the last four minutes today.

Pitt had been expected to whip the Presidents easily, but was fought to a standstill in the first three periods. Finally after each team had broken up two scoring threats, Weinstock kicked a placement from his 18 yard line and Odell, a substitute back, was shaken loose by perfect interference for a touchdown.

IOWA MISSES ATTEMPT TO GAIN THREE POINTS ON PLACE KICK IN THIRD QUARTER. Fourth down and three to go for touchdown! Iowa elects to try for three points, but Joe Laws' place kick is blocked and recovered by Northwestern on the Wildcats' two yard line. Dick Crayne's 65 yard run placed the ball on the eight yard line and three plays left it only three yards from the goal line. Another line smash might have brought a touchdown, but Iowa was just as well satisfied, for the Hawkeyes won with their touchdown in the fourth quarter. (Story on page 1, Sports.)

Giants' battery in opener Tuesday will be Catcher Gus Mancuso (left) and Pitcher Carl Hubbell.

The Giants don't pretend to be sluggers but Manager Bill Terry (left), Frank O'Doul (center) and Mel Ott are exceptions.

GIANTS RELY ON HUBBELL TO WIN FIRST OF SERIES

Series Facts

Opening game—Polo grounds, New York, Oct. 3.

Capacity of parks—Polo grounds, 52,000; Griffith stadium, Washington, 35,000.

Probable batteries for first game—Carl Hubbell and Gus Mancuso for the Giants; Earl Whitehall and Luke Sewell for the Senators.

Series schedule—At New York Oct. 3 and 4; at Washington Oct. 5, 6, and 7; at New York Oct. 8 and 9, if necessary.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—Baseball's annual classic, so called because the champions of the two major leagues are involved in the harvesting of a lot of cash, along with some fleeting glory, gets under way Tuesday at the Polo grounds, New York.

It will be sort of a resumption of an act cut short after seven games in the fall of 1924. That year the Washington Senators, after winning the first American league flag ever captured by the capital city, went on their way to a world series triumph over New York's Giants, rulers of the National league.

Now, nine years later, the same struggle will be taken up by the same teams and the Giants are fervently hoping to make amends for what the Senators and a concealed third base pebble did to them in the seventh and deciding battle in 1924.

Senators Are Favorites.

The Senators will go into the impending series with an edge accorded them by both experts and bettors. The experts, that is a majority of them, base their opinion on a well balanced team as against a team with little beyond great pitching strength. The bettors give the American league entry a 7 to 5 edge mainly because the junior major has won 18 of the last 29 world series. But the Giants were 7 to 10 favorites in the 1924 wagering. The pebble that sent a ball bounding unexpectedly over Freddy Lindstrom's head at third base proved the bookies had made a bum guess.

The figures on the happenings of 1933 bear out in a bold way the superiority of the Senators as a team. They topped their league with an approximate team batting of .288, against .265 for the Giants. The Senators have four regulars over the .300 mark and two a few points removed. One Giant can claim a right to be in the .300 circle. All except two of the others are far removed from the select class. The difference in liveliness of the balls employed by the two leagues accounts for some of this, but not much.

Too much cannot be taken for granted about the Giants' four man pitching staff, great as it was during the 1933 season. Carl Hubbell is admittedly one of the game's all time outstanding southpaws, and along with his ability, has the ideal temperament. Nothing annoys him. Hal Schumacher, another with an enviable record, is a youngster who might be bothered by the glamour. Roy Parmelee is a wild, erratic youth who is said to have lost confidence in himself since in a space of a few days he broke bones in the hands of two batters. Terry might hesitate about starting him.

Goose Hates Southpaws.

Freddy Fitzsimmons, the fat Hoosier, has the poorest season record of the quartet, but that doesn't mean anything. Fitzsimmons, despite his relatively poor work this year, still rates highly. He throws a knuckle ball that bothers them all, but he doesn't depend entirely on that. He's a cagey fellow who works on the batters' weaknesses with his excellent control. And Fitzsimmons adds to his effectiveness by fielding ability that few pitchers can match. It is almost impossible to hit a ball past him, and he's a cat getting around on infield grounders.

It is figured that Hubbell, playing on his own field, will be the victor in the first game. It is a matter of record that Goose Goslin, owner of baseball's choicest snoozle, doesn't like to hit against southpaws. Heinie Manush and Joe Kuhel, two other portside swingers, have the same complex against wrong armed pitching, but not to the same extent as Goslin. On top of this, Hubbell, with a screw ball that breaks down and in to a right handed hitter, can give the latter variety no end of trouble.

For those who are building their hopes on the power of the Giant staff it might not be amiss to point out a recent world series happening. Just a year ago the Cubs, boasting the best staff in the National league, met up with the Yanks. The Yanks knocked that staff to splinters in four straight games.

Umpires for the world series, named yesterday, are Charles B. Moran and Charles Pfirman, National league, and George Moriarty and Emmet T. Ormsby, American league.

Bad News for Cubs; 3 Sox Hurlers Ready

As a sort of consolation event after a season of disappointments the White Sox and Cubs will get together this week to see what can be done about apportioning some loose change. The city series gets under way Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Wrigley field and will continue until one of the clubs has collected four victories.

Although the Sox, because their pitchers appear to have become interested in other lines of business, are generally regarded as a setup for the late contending Cubs, it doesn't mean that the impending event will turn out that way. Since the municipal baseball title idea was brought forth way back in 1903 the American leaguers have had a fondness for whipping Cub teams which on paper appeared vastly superior. The Sox have whipped their town rivals 12 times, including the world series of 1906. The Cubs have won six times and tied in the first meeting in 1903, each team holding seven victories.

Will It Be the Sox Again?

In the nineteen fall series the Cubs, with one exception, have never triumphed over the White Sox in two successive events. That was in 1928 and 1930 when the Cub team was at its height and the Sox just the opposite. There was one stretch—1911 to 1921—when the Sox won all of the seven series played. There was no city action in 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920. In the latter year the Sox refused to play because of the scandal, and in the three previous series one or the other was concerned with world series work.

The complete record between the two teams, including the world series of 1906, follows:

1903—Sox, 7; Cubs, 7.
1905—Cubs, 4; Sox, 1.
1906—Sox, 4; Cubs, 2.
1909—Cubs, 4; Sox, 1.
1911—Sox, 4; Cubs, 0.
1912—Sox, 4; Cubs, 3.
1913—Sox, 4; Cubs, 2.
1914—Sox, 4; Cubs, 3.
1915—Sox, 4; Cubs, 1.
1916—Sox, 4; Cubs, 0.
1921—Sox, 5; Cubs, 0.
1922—Cubs, 4; Sox, 3.
1923—Sox, 4; Cubs, 2.
1924—Sox, 4; Cubs, 2.
1925—Cubs, 4; Sox, 1.
1926—Sox, 4; Cubs, 2.
1928—Cubs, 4; Sox, 3.
1930—Cubs, 4; Sox, 2.
1931—Sox, 4; Cubs, 3.

Spend Week-end at Sox Park.

The present local series, unlike the world series, will be governed by dates instead of game numbers. In other words, if the Wednesday and Thursday games scheduled for Wrigley field are canceled by inclement weather it will cause no change in the Friday, Saturday and Sunday dates at Comiskey park. If the first five games are played without interruption, the sixth and seventh games will be staged at Wrigley field, provided such battles are necessary.

BLACKHAWKS TRADE GRAHAM FOR CONACHER

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Teddy Graham, veteran Blackhawk defense man, was traded to the Montreal Maroons for Lionel Conacher, today, William Tobin, Blackhawk business manager, announced tonight.

Conacher was second to Ernie Shore of Boston in scoring last year, with seven goals and 21 assists. He is 32 years old and weighs 205 pounds. He is a brother of Charley Conacher, the Toronto forward and high scorer.

With Taffy Abel and Conacher, the Blackhawks will present the largest and most powerful defense line in the National league this season. Graham, who has been with the Blackhawks since the organization of the club, barring part of a season when he was farmed out to Tulsa, is a speedy, but not particularly rugged defense man.

Tobin also announced that the board of governors meeting here today had decided in favor of the Blackhawks in the case of Jack Leswick, Duluth center, who led the American association in scoring last year. Leswick also was claimed by the Detroit Red Wings.

The National league season will start Nov. 9 and close March 18 under a schedule adopted by the board of governors. Boston will open the season at Toronto, the New York Americans at Chicago, and Detroit at Montreal Canadiens.

It was decided to retain the deferred penalty rule under which no more than two men from one team may serve penalties at the same time. A suggestion to limit the number to one was voted down.

Wheaton College Plays Tie with Northwestern 'B,' 0-0

Wheaton college held the Northwestern B team to a scoreless tie yesterday at Wheaton. Lawrence, Wheaton full back, made the longest run of the game when, in the final quarter, he dashed 40 yards through the line.

Giants Defeat Dodgers, 4-2, on Eight Hits

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The New York Giants gave a demonstration of the kind of baseball that won them the National league championship today as they defeated the Dodgers, 4 to 2.

They got only eight hits off Van Lingle Mungo, while Brooklyn pounded Fred Fitzsimmons for nine. The Giants, however, coupled their hits effectively with Mungo's bursts of wildness, while Fitzsimmons was untouchable in the pinches. The Giants also turned in several sparkling defensive plays.

A wild pitch that allowed Hughie Critz to go from first to third made possible a Giant run on Manager Bill Terry's fly in the first inning. In the third, after two infield hits and an error by Tony Cuccinello had filled the bases, Mungo forced over a run by walking George Davis, and another scored when Travis Jackson forced Davis at second. The final run for the Giants came in the ninth when Terry singled, took second on another wild pitch, and scored on Mel Ott's hit. Score:

What a Break! Ryan Quits Minors to Join Champions

[This is the ninth of a series of sketches on Giant players who will participate in the world series with the Washington Senators.]

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—A year ago Blondy Ryan probably would have laughed himself into hysterics if any well wisher had told him he would in the near future be playing regularly with a major league pennant winner. And a lot of people who figured they knew everything there was to know about Blondy would have enjoyed a large sized laugh over the same statement.

Ryan now can laugh about it if he cares to, but for a different reason. It is all right to rave about the Giants breezing unexpectedly to a pennant because of their phenomenal pitching. The pitching has been their chief stock in trade, but it hasn't been the entire show. Ryan has played an important part and in time this fact will become common knowledge.

When Jackson Fails Blondy Steps In.

The kid has been a rookie in name only. The Giants didn't even buy him on the idea that he would be a regular. They took him from the Buffalo club merely because there had to be some protection against the possibility that Travis Jackson, in his prime a ranking shortstop, would not be able to carry on in 1933 because of knee ailments. It developed that Jackson couldn't cover ground as he once did and Ryan was put to work. Nobody with leanings toward the Giants has had cause to regret the switch.

He not only has played short brilliantly but has conducted himself as if he were Manager Bill Terry's first assistant instead of the rawest rookie in the outfit. When a Giant pitcher gets into a bit of trouble Ryan is right in there with Terry working to get the pitcher back on both feet. He's been giving advice like a veteran who has been through the mill. None of his mates has seemed to resent the boldness of the youngster. He has been doing it in a way that makes his aggressiveness easy to take. His spirit undoubtedly has helped to buoy the entire team.

Ryan Tells Teammates to Get Going.

Possibly Ryan himself thinks he is an important member of the act. An incident during the past season indicates that. The Giants came west for their second trip, but Ryan was absent. A spike had ripped a long gash in one of his shins and he had to remain at home for repairs. Without him the Giants did none too well. They came to Chicago to drop four straight and dropped another at St. Louis for a total of seven trimmings in a row.

Ryan didn't think so much of this, so after the seventh jolt dispatched a telegram to his floundering mates. It was something like, "Don't Give up the Ship," or "Get going; I'll be there soon." Anyway it had the desired effect. The Giants did get going and to make sure that it wasn't a flash Ryan hustled himself back into action as soon as he could obtain a guard to protect his leg wound. He has played practically all the time since with that shin guard under one stocking.

A Weak Hitter, Except in Pinch.

Ryan was a great fielder when playing with the Holy Cross college team and it was that that attracted the attention of the White Sox. The young man, however, couldn't hit. In fact, he looked so bad at the plate that it was accepted as safe to judge him hopeless. He was shipped to the Southern Association. He continued to be weak with the bat. He was about the same way at Buffalo last season. And he still isn't a high average hitter, but the pitchers who have faced him this summer will tell you he is a bad boy in a pinch.

BELOIT ROLLS UP 22-0 SCORE OVER DUBUQUE

BUFFALO BEATS COLUMBUS, 7 TO 3, FOR 2D VICTORY

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 30.—[U.P.]—Buffalo pounded four pitchers for 10 hits tonight to defeat Columbus, 7 to 3, in the fifth game of the little world series. Columbus still holds a 3 to 2 edge, however, in the best five out of nine series.

Lefty Milstead scored his second victory over Columbus, holding the American association champions to 10 hits and striking out eight.

Judd, Teachout, and Heusser succeeded Winford on the mound for Columbus. Score:

SENATORS SHINE IN 7-2 TRIUMPH OVER YANKEES

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Washington's Senators outdid their previous displays before New York fans as they combined a brilliant defense with their usual attack to defeat the Yankees, 7 to 2, today in the final game of the series.

The Senators executed six double plays to equal the major league record held jointly by the Giants, the Phillies and the Cincinnati Reds. They got some great pitching from Monte Weaver in the six innings he worked, and they smacked George Uhle and Danny MacFayden for nine hits, most of which figured in the scoring.

Babe Ruth's 33d home run of the season, which he made on Jack Russell's first pitch in the seventh inning, was the big event for the Yankees. Their other run came right after it when Lou Gehrig singled, Lyn Lary walked and Frank Crosetti hit a double. Score:

Oak Park High school, 1931 football champion of the Suburban league, again demonstrated its superiority over Austin, its traditional rival, at the Oak Park stadium yesterday, 21 to 0.

The victors scored twice in the second period as a result of long gains by Armour and Oaks. Armour plunged six yards for the first touchdown after a 60 yard march down the field. Later a 20 yard pass, Major to Irish, gave Oak Park its second score.

Yesterday's play also saw the second successive defeat of Morgan Park, defending champion of the Chicago Public High School league. The champions lost to Englewood, 13 to 7, in their second practice game at Normal park. Capt. Grabler's short run around end for a touchdown gave Englewood victory in the last minute of play.

Lane Tech defeated Crane Tech, 6 to 0, and Marshall and Senn tied, 7 to 7, in a double header at Mills stadium. It was Lane's first practice game of the season. A touchdown by Pabick late in the last period brought Lane victory.

Evanston Wins Over Lindblom Eleven, 20-13

Lindblom, perennial threat in the central section of the Chicago Public High School league, twice held the lead in its game against Evanston, Suburban league champion, but the suburban team finally triumphed, 20 to 13, at Evanston's field yesterday.

Lindblom took the lead shortly after the game started when Shimanek ran 45 yards for a touchdown, but the quarter ended with Evanston holding a 12 to 7 lead. Then in the last period Lindblom scored, but Evanston was assured of victory when Cook crashed over the Lindblom line later in the same quarter.

Morton and New Trier, two other members of the Suburban league, also played yesterday. New Trier overwhelmed Schurz, 20 to 0, at Winnetka, and Morton lost to Harrison Tech, 13 to 0.

Capt. Andy Puplis and Korock scored Harrison's touchdowns against Morton. Puplis ran 60 yards for the first Harrison score in the third period and Korock plunged several yards in the last quarter for the second touchdown.

EVEN MILK CART STEEDS TO SEEK PRIZES AT SHOW

The World's Fair Horse show will open at the 124th field artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue, on the afternoon of Saturday, Oct. 21. It will continue through Oct. 29.

Every type of horse will have its inning, from the springy hunters and jumpers, the graceful gaited saddle performers, the harness types, down to the powerful draft animals and the well trained steeds that pull milk wagons.

This show likewise will have its international aspect, for among the events will be the military jumping classes, in which the entries of the United States, Swedish, Irish Free State, and Czechoslovakian armies have already been received. Another feature will be the competition among mounted police, wherein Capt. David Flynn, in behalf of the Chicago force, challenged sextets from other leading cities.

Besides the honor of winning, which, of course, raises the value of the winner, there is the consideration of sharing in the $30,000 of prize money, as well as the trophies and ribbons being offered in the 189 classes.

Porter Fox, president, and his fellow executives of the World's Fair Horse Show association, have done another unusual thing by offering five prizes instead of the customary four in the various classes, thereby giving more exhibitors a chance to share in the award money.

Knox Next Football Foe for Augustana Eleven

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Augustana, which handed Carthage a 35 to 0 defeat last night and has been undefeated for fifteen games, will meet Knox in another Little Nineteen contest here next Saturday. North Central will come to Augustana for its home coming day game Oct. 13.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

"TOUGH" SCHEDULES.

At this season of the year it is customary for football coaches and alumni to call attention to the hard schedules of their respective football elevens. For instance, we hear many forecasters calling attention to Purdue Big Ten bookings as reason why the Boilermakers have the easiest route, other things being equal, to the conference title.

Now that reasoning happens to be correct. It is only fair, however, to state that Purdue has not picked its schedule. Failure to card the so-called leaders outside of Minnesota and Wisconsin is due to desire on the part of rivals to play "money" games in this period of depression. Purdue does not draw as well at home as elevens located in larger cities.

Chicago, with prospects of its best season in recent years, meets Purdue, Michigan, and Wisconsin on successive Saturdays, a task difficult enough for elevens with great reserve power which the Maroons have not. Michigan has Ohio State, Minnesota, and Northwestern from the strong teams of 1932.

Minnesota has a more difficult rôle with Purdue, Northwestern, Michigan, and Wisconsin. So has Northwestern with Minnesota, Purdue, Ohio State, and Michigan, to say nothing of Illinois—and Stanford and Notre Dame for "practice" contests. Illinois has Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern, and Ohio State.

But while the "big fellows" are discussing their schedules as affecting title chances, where do you think is really the most difficult schedule in the whole conference? That honor, if it be an honor, is reserved for Iowa. Yes, sir, Iowa, which had not won a conference fray since 1929 until it defeated Northwestern yesterday.

Of the six leading elevens of 1932, Iowa has five of them as opponents, yep, five of them. Beginning with Northwestern at Soldiers' field yesterday, come in order Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, and Purdue. Nebraska, advance favorite for the Big Six title, is the last game of the season. So, when an Iowa alumnus hears alumni of other colleges complaining of hard schedules, he is entitled, if he wishes, to say, "You ain't seen nothing yet."

$10,000 Swim Today Draws 200 Entrants

A series of nine 100 meter races marked the opening of the two day swimming carnival in the south lagoon of A Century of Progress yesterday afternoon. The meet will conclude today with a 15 mile marathon which will start off Navy pier at 8:30 o'clock this morning. The field of more than 200 who will seek $10,000 in prizes includes the outstanding distance swimmers in the United States, Canada and Europe.

Heading the list are Marvin Nelson, Fort Dodge, Ia., who recently captured the 15 mile Toronto swim, and George Blagden, Memphis, Tenn., who won the Toronto event three years ago. Twenty-two women, including Myrtle Huddleston, New York, and Lottie Schoemmel, Miami, Fla., will be among the starters.

$5,000 to Winner.

The winner of the race will be awarded $5,000. The runner-up will receive $2,500, while the third place winner will get $1,000. The first woman to touch the finish line will be awarded $1,000 and $500 will go to the first middle west swimmer to finish.

The contestants, after leaving Navy pier, will swim inside the breakwater. They will swim south of the Planetarium and will enter the south lagoon off 23d street. About half of the 15 miles will have been covered when the swimmers enter the lagoon. They will finish near the Floating theater.

Claudia Eckert Wins.

Claudia Eckert, speedy Shawnee Country club star, and Emma Shemaitis of the Lake Shore Athletic club, won individual honors in the women's events yesterday. Miss Eckert won the back stroke in 1:31.2, while Miss Shematis triumphed in the free style event.

Harry Rieke, former Schurz High school swimmer, captured the back stroke event for men. He covered the distance in 1:11.6. Robert Kerber, Shawnee Country club, was second, and Taylor Drysdale, one of the members of the University of Michigan team which competed in the meet, finished third.

The summaries:

$50,000 PURSE IS RESTORED FOR 500 MILE AUTO RACE

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Indianapolis Motor Speedway corporation today announced $50,000 in prizes will be awarded place winners in the 500 mile automobile race to be run next May 30.

This is an increase of $20,000 over the purse for which the drivers competed this year, and restores the amount for the first ten finishers to the same total awarded for many years prior to 1933.

First prize next year will be $20,000, as compared with $12,000 given this year.

Lap prize money and prizes given by various accessory firms will swell the total to approximately $100,000.

"A continued improvement in business conditions and a desire to add our bit to the nationwide drive for a complete return to good times has caused us to make an early announcement of our return to the original basic prize purse of $50,000," E. V. Rickenbacker, president of the speedway, said.

COUCH'S 77 TOPS POW-WOW FIELD AT ONWENTSIA

Tourney Ends with 18 Holes This Morning.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Nearly 150 braves went on the warpath against par yesterday at the Onwentsia club's 21st annual Pow-Wow but none was able to catch it, let alone scalp it. Ira J. Couch of the Chicago Golf club came closest to accomplishing that feat with 37—40—77 for the first eighteen and the lead in the running for the 36 hole low gross prize. The Pow-Wow proper will be concluded with the final eighteen holes this morning.

A stroke back of Couch was George F. McLaughlin with 40—38—78, and W. I. Howland, 39—39—78, followed by Henry P. Isham with 43—36—79, and Dexter Cummings with 39—41—80. The low net leaders for the opening eighteen included J. P. Spang Jr., 90—22—68; D. F. Tabor, 82—12—70; J. E. Magmus, 82—12—70; W. I. Howland, 78—7—71, and L. L. Cooke, 82—11—71.

Butler and Fulton Shoot 82.

Among the low gross scorers pursuing the leaders were Rush C. Butler Jr., 40—42—82; D. B. Fulton, 42—40—82; Paul McBride, 39—44—83; Champ Carry, 41—42—83; S. J. Templeton, 40—43—83; Francis Blossom, 42—42—84; Richard Gambrill, 42—42—84; George F. Henneberry, 41—42—83, and A. C. Hammond, 43—41—84.

Couch's card:

Par—Out	535	434	444—36
Par—In	445	434	443—35—71
Couch—Out	454	444	444—37
Couch—In	445	545	454—40—77

Prizes will be awarded at the end of today's play. They call for low net in classes A, B, and C for yesterday's play, for the low net foursome and twosome yesterday, and for two flag tournament prizes. Today's awards, all for 36 holes, include low gross and low net, foursome, twosome, and for the best gross card on the eight par three holes.

Coffin Wins Nine Hole Event.

The Pow-Wow celebrants were treated to a spell of rain for a few minutes yesterday, and the last three foursomes had to rely on the light over George Smith's scoreboard to guide them home.

In a special nine hole sweepstakes at half handicap, preceding the opening of the Pow-Wow, the winners were H. A. Coffin, 42—10—32; C. P. McCullough, 43—7—36; H. D. Curtis, 45—9—36; Scott Durand, 43—6—37, and B. B. Bryan Jr., 42—4—38.

North Side Wins Police Baseball Championship

Capt. Patrick J. Harding's North Side baseball team won the championship of the local police department yesterday by defeating Capt. John Hogan's South side nine, 14 to 11, at Wrigley Field, in the third game of their series.

The North Siders pounded Dennis and Gutcher for 18 hits. The South Siedrs made only two less off Delaney and Lynch. The latter was credited with the victory.

The South Siders were off to an early lead, pounding Delaney out of the box in the second inning when they drove in eight runs. The North side continued to hammer Dennis and at the fifth inning had scored six runs. It chased the southpaw in the next inning.

Going into the first half of the eighth the North side was leading 11 to 10. E. Mullaney, first man up in the South side eight, tied the score with a home run over the left field fence.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Westbrook Pegler

New York, Sept. 30.—For guest of honor at the dinner which Will Terry plans to give for the baseball experts after the world series so that he may chide them for guessing the Giants out of the National league race last April there should be only one nomination. This would be Mr. Mike Houston, the only expert who selected the Giants to win and thereby exceeded the optimism of Mr. Terry himself, who was paid well to guess high but nevertheless only dared reckon that his ball club would finish there or thereabouts.

Mr. Houston is now the sports editor of the Times-Dispatch in Richmond, Va. But he was a baseball expert for the New York Evening Post when he made the prediction which is now making a famous man of him. Incidentally, Mr. Houston is a bit miffed by suggestions that his present status of sports editor in a minor league is inferior to that of staff expert on a major league paper, and would be pleased to have that matter cleared up. As the job of manager in Minneapolis or Newark may represent a promotion to a ballplayer who is only a field-hand on a major league team, so the job of sports editor in a minor league city in many cases excels that of staff writer in New York or Chicago.

This will explain how it is that a ballplayer or a journalist may be promoted downward or upward, improving his position and his pay in apparent defiance of the law of gravity.

Maybe Mr. Houston Got Some of That 50-1.

I have not yet heard whether Mr. Houston selected the Giants in a mood of derision, which seems possible as one reconstructs the probabilities of last April, or based his prediction on solemn mathematics and faith. Perhaps it would be better merely to acknowledge his distinction and not go into his motives. I doubt that the stableboy who bought the winning ticket on the daily double in Chicago lately and went home to Kentucky with more than $2,500 for his $2 bill could detail the reasoning by which he arrived at his selection of the two long shots.

As matters stood back in April you might have thought that a man who selected the Giants to win was merely being humorous or different, but this is not April, and I do hope that Mr. Houston, if his prediction was serious, had the acumen to buy a few dollars' worth of that 50 to 1, or whatever the outlandish figures were which the leading bookmakers were quoting against the Giants at that time.

How a Baseball Expert Gets That Way.

He will be known for a long time in the baseball and sport writing trades as the man who picked the Giants in 1933, and thus will qualify for membership in a very small company of experts who have made historic guesses.

Another such was Mr. Hughey Fullerton, who picked the White Sox to beat the Cubs in the world series of 1906, a very improbable result as it seemed before the ball games. Mr. Fullerton may not have meant it at the time. Always a bit of a joker, he might have reckoned that if he did pick the White Sox he would at least make himself conspicuous, and further, that if the Sox, by any miracle, should win, he would become a great expert. This was the origin of a great baseball writer's reputation, and he was shrewd enough not to clown it but to assume a serious face and undertake to prove by pseudo-scientific data which nobody could understand, least of all himself, that he had not just guessed the outcome, but had figured it all out.

A long while afterward, in the fall of 1915, Mr. Oswin King of the Dallas Journal, who never had seen more than a few major league ball games and hadn't seen any that year, performed an even more amazing miracle. Mr. King established a hayseed character for himself which he called Uncle Jake and, writing in the standard rube vernacular, including such words as "wuz" and "hain't" and "goshdinged," he set out to predict the winner and the score of each ball game in the world series.

He hit it right the first day and took another chance. When that guess was confirmed by the score that day the citizens began to bet on his predictions. Uncle Jake guessed them all in that world series, a feat which he has never been able to duplicate since, but he made the professional error of kidding himself and admitting that luck and not scientific deduction had dictated his selections. Still, Uncle Jake remained a baseball prophet for a long time in the southwest.

Knowing the Game Has No Part in It.

I think that if I had wished to be facetious in the poll of the experts last spring I would have picked the Giants to win in the National league and the Browns in the American. The Browns ran true to form but the Giants crossed up the probabilities.

You never can tell where expertness will strike.

A historic case concerns the amateur expert, an Italian bricklayer, who selected all the winners and, with just a couple of small mistakes, predicted the scores of the 20 outstanding football games one week-end a few years ago. His reward was a pair of tickets for the Army-Navy game at the Polo grounds, but he did not go to the Army-Navy game. Instead he sold the tickets for $50 each. He explained that he had never seen a football game and did not know anything about it. But six day bike racing—now there was his favorite sport, and he was a hog for it. So he used the $100 taking a week's vacation from his job in which, for the first time in his life, he would watch a six day bike race from start to finish.

REIS' SPEEDBOAT WINS PRESIDENT'S CUP ON POTOMAC

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[U.P.]—The speed boat El Lagarto, owned by George Reis, won the President's cup race on the Potomac river today.

The victory was the third major one for Reis this year. He won the Gold cup race and the National sweepstakes.

El Lagarto averaged 53.768 miles an hour for the 45 mile race, run in three heats, one yesterday and two today. El Lagarto finished first in each heat, for a point total of 1,200.

Second in point standing was Mrs. Raymond T. Baker's Delphine VII, driven by Horace E. Dodge, Detroit. [illegible], owned by John Rutherford, Port Washington, N. Y., was third.

A lap record for Gold cup class boats was set by Ethyl-Ruth III, owned by John Shibe, Philadelphia, in the second heat. The craft made the lap at the rate of 60.810 miles an hour before breaking down and being forced out.

CHICAGO LEADS ST. LOUIS, 10-2, IN GOLF MATCH

Chicago district golf stars defeated St. Louis' best players in the opening of the sixth annual intercity series at the Ridgemoor Country club yesterday, 10 to 2. Only Chester O'Brien, Missouri state champion, and young Bill Vollmer were able to win for the visitors.

Yesterday's singles matches all were over 18 holes. The six best ball foursomes, which will complete the series today, will be at 36 holes. One point will be scored for each 18 hole round.

Two Shoot 73.

Johnny Van Nortwick of Chicago Golf and George Dawson, Chicago district champion from Glen Oak, were the medal scoring stars of the day, each coming through with a 73. Van Nortwick defeated Fred Evans, 6 and 5. Dawson, 3 down after four holes to Capt. Jimmy Manion of the St. Louis team, squared the match at the 12th and came on to win, 3 and 1.

Chet Williams of Bob O'Link was in the same predicament as Dawson at the end of the fourth hole of his match with Dick Bockenkamp, but also squared it at the 12th and won, 1 up.

Johnny Lehman, Olympia Fields, evened a score when he won, 3 and 2, from Mike Roach, who had eliminated him in the western amateur tournament at Memphis in July.

Don Armstrong Beaten.

O'Brien scored the first of St. Louis victories when he defeated Don Armstrong, Illinois state champion, 2 and 1. Vollmer won his match from Bill Lain of Beverly, 3 and 2.

Jack Westland, western amateur champion, scored a 5 an 4 triumph over Bob Cochran, former western titleholder.

The summary of the individual matches follows:

Johnny Lehman, Olympia fields, defeated Mike Roach, Westborough, St. Louis, 3 and 2.

Bill Vollmer, Sunset Hill, St. Louis, defeated Bill Lain, Beverly, Chicago, 3 and 2.

Jack Westland, Sunset Ridge, defeated Bob Cochran, St. Louis, 5 and 4.

Chet Williams, Bob O'Link, defeated Dick Bockenkamp, St. Louis, 1 up.

Hunter Hicks, Skokie, defeated Sid Salomon, Westwood, St. Louis, 2 and 1.

Frank Justin, Edgewood Valley, defeated Bob Eaton, Norwood, St. Louis, 2 up.

J. L. Garard, Skokie, defeated Lester Slattery, Norwood, St. Louis, 5 and 4.

Johnny Van Nortwick, Chicago, Golf, defeated Fred Evans, Norwood, St. Louis, 6 and 5.

The pairings for today's forenoon foursome matches:

Jack Westland, Sunset Ridge, and Douglas Casey, Oak Park vs. Jimmy Manion and Bob Cochran, St. Louis.

Chick Evans, Edgewater, and George Dawson, Glen Oak vs. Dick Bockenkamp and Chester O'Brien, St. Louis.

Don Armstrong, Aurora, and Henry F. Bowbeer, Chicago vs. Sid Salomon and Mike Roach, St. Louis.

John Van Nortwick and Art Sweet, Chicago, vs. J. F. Switzer and Bill Vollmer, St. Louis.

EQUIPOISE LOSES TO OSCULATOR IN TURF FAREWELL

Winner Sets Track Record; Scores by Length.

Havre de Grace, Md., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Equipoise, C. V. Whitney's gallant campaigner, lost what probably was his last race today, but it took a new course record to turn the trick.

Competing in the $10,000 Havre de Grace handicap, the five-year-old son of Pennant finished a length behind William R. Coe's Osculator after the latter clipped one-fifth of a second from the existing record at Havre de Grace for the mile and an eighth distance.

A. C. Bostwick's Mate finished third, a little more than a length behind Equipoise. The Wheatley stable's Dark Secret, second choice in the betting and recent conqueror of Equipoise in the Jockey Gold Cup race, was unable to do better than fourth.

Crushing Impost Hurts Chance.

It was a heart breaking race for the Whitney entry, which is to be retired to stud in Kentucky. Forced behind in the early stages of the race, when the field bunched, he gradually fought his way to the fore, passing Mate on the stretch and apparently was headed for first place.

The crushing impost of 132 pounds proved to be too much and Equipoise was unable to catch the flying Osculator, which carried only 104 pounds.

Victory for Osculator was unexpected and the Coe entry paid $40.40 on $2 tickets to win, $12.20 to place and $6.20 to show. Mate also was an outsider and paid $13.20 to show. Backers of Equipoise were paid $4.60 to place and $4.20 to show.

25,000 See Equipoise Run.

The time of Osculator was 1:49 4-5. The former record was held jointly by Cudgel and Crusader. Donald [Long Shot] Meade rode the victor.

A crowd estimated at 25,000 fans, the largest ever to enter the Havre de Grace plant, was on hand to see the publicized last effort of Equipoise.

The victory was worth $8,325 for Osculator, and paid $2,000, $1,000, and $500 to the next three.

Michigan State Beats Grinnell Eleven, 14 to 0

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 30.—[Special.]—Michigan State opened its football season today with a 14 to 0 victory over Grinnell college. Scoring was confined to a five minute period in the second quarter. It was the Spartans' first appearance under a new coach, Charles Bachman, and a crowd of 12,000, many of them children, who were admitted free, watched the contest.

A 16 yard pass, Armstrong to Zarza, and an off tackle plunge for 10 yards by Jones paved the way for State's first touchdown. McCreary, in three plunges, took the ball over from the one foot line, and Jones added a point from placement.

The second touchdown came in a few minutes after Grinnell had been held following the kick off and had punted to State's 40 yard line. Jones passed 40 yards to Klewicki and a minute later made a 13 yard gain through the line. Wiseman and Jones, on successive plunges, took the ball over and Jones kicked the extra point from placement.

State settled down to a defensive game after the scoring and Grinnell failed to threaten the Spartan goal seriously, although completing several passes in the middle of the field.

The Spartans were engaged in a long march toward the goal line as the game ended. The lineup:

GRINNELL [0].		STATE [14].
Anderson	L. E.	Zarza
Gould	L. T.	Bush

HOOPS ROLLS HOME A WINNER

Hoops leads field home in third race at Washington Park, with Major Lanphier second and Fiddler third. The race was at one mile and was run before the storm that drove the crowd of 10,000 to cover and obscured the horses as they circled the track.

Mills Meet Florals Today in Two Games

The Duffy Florals will travel from the south side to Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, today to meet the Mills team in a double header. So far this season the teams have played four times and have divided the honors.

For the Mills the pitching will be done by Lefty Sullivan, veteran southpaw, and Gordon McNaughton, young right hander. They will be opposed by two of the best pitchers in the leageu in Dutch Kohlenberg, former Fort Wayne pitcher, and Toney Simms.

Something of a novelty is scheduled at Logan Square park. The Al Kress Boosters, Midwest league champions, will play the Cragins in the first game, starting at 1:30 o'clock, after which the winner will meet the Logan Squares, who will have their regulars in the lineup, with either Jim Vaughn or Malcolm Moss pitching.

SOCCER TEAMS TO PLAY DOUBLE HEADER TODAY

Wieboldt's Wonderbolts, formerly the Brickies, wil meet the newly organized American-Hungarian team at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon in the first half of a soccer double header at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue. In the second game two other National league teams, Sparta and the Ravenswood Scots, will play.

The Wonderbolts will use three new players—Jimmy Anderson, formerly of the Brooklyn Celtics; Dave Wales, late of the McDuffs, and Jimmy Monro, who has returned from Canada.

The International league's outstanding games are those between the Norwegians and Swedish-Americans at 4600 Fullerton avenue, and between Schwaben and the Wanderers at California and Roscoe. Both will start at 3 o'clock.

BREEDING PLANS FRESH UPSET AT EVANSTON TODAY

It will be Wesley Breeding against the field in the auto races this afternoon at the Evanston Motor speedway, Lincoln and Devon avenues. Starting at 2:30 p. m., there will be two sprint races at 10 laps and a windup at 30 laps.

Breeding, a comparative newcomer to the north side dirt track, sprang a surprise last week by beating the favorites easily. Among his victims were Shorty Sorenson, of Detroit; Emil Andres and Jimmy Schneider, Evanston's best pilots, and Ori Anderson, Verne Frank, Gordon Chard, and Cowboy O'Rourke. All have entered today's meet.

BROTHERS VIE IN RACES TODAY AT ROBY TRACK

Charles Wiggins, colored automobile driver, will compete against his brother Lawrence and several other colored stars in a series of five races at the Roby speedway this afternoon. Charles and Lawrence recently finished one-two in a race for the Negro championship on the same track.

There will be two races at five miles, one at 10, one at 15 and the final at 25 miles. Others who will compete in the events include Bob Salice and Homer Cloud. Next Sunday the Roby track will be the scene of the national 100 mile dirt track championship race. A record field is expected to race for the title.

Kansas State Defeats Emporia Teachers, 25-0

Manhattan, Kas., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Capt. Ralph Graham scored all the touchdowns today as Kansas State college defeated the Emporia Teachers, 25 to 0, in the football season opener.

VISITORS TAKE DRIVES IN LEGION BOWLING TODAY

Propose Later Tourney Next Season.

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

Bowling will take a major part in the multitude of activities arranged for the visiting army of Legionnaires who are in Chicago for their annual convention. At least 350 war veterans will participate in the second annual ten pin tournament of the American Legion, which is being held on the Bensinger alleys, 131 South Wabash avenue.

The opening attack on the pins took place last night with Chicagoans occupying the drives, but visiting sharpshooters will have their turn today, tomorrow, Tuesday, and Wednesday with Detroit, Indianapolis, Peoria, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Milwaukee, Racine, and Reedsburg, Wis., among the cities represented. All of the out of town delegates had not registered last night. W. G. Albert, chairman of the bowling committee, expects many more today.

Wrist watches instead of the usual medals will be awarded the nine champions when the tournament is concluded with the last of the Chicago squads in action Oct. 7 and 8 and Oct. 14 and 15.

An effort will be made at a meeting tomorrow night at the Legion headquarters to separate the bowling tournament from the convention. The convention is held too early in the bowling season, Alberts said, and it is proposed to have the tournament late in the season when there will not be counter attractions such as those in connection with the convention. The tournament will be backed by the American Bowling Congress and patterned after national meets conducted by fraternal organizations, Albert explained.

K. O. Pins as of Old.

After mediocre performances on opening night, Randolph leaguers knocked over the pins for respectable totals Thursday with members of the Mineralites and Birk Brothers' team doing the heaviest cannonading. The veteran, Harry Steers of the Mineralites, who hung up the high series of 3,088 while winning their sixth straight game, was high with 699. His best game was 254. Frank Kartheiser, another Mineralite, registered 676 and a high game of 251, while two Birk Brothers' shooters collected impressive totals, Joe Traubenik, 695, with a high game of 259, and Jules Ellinger, 652. Despite a 3,023 team total the Birks lost two out of three to Ault and Wiborg. Next Thursday's schedule at the Randolph alleys:

7 o'clock squad—Von Thenen Café vs. Litsinger Motors, Live Stock Press vs. Noble and Peterson, Mineralites vs. Bowlers Journal, Wagner and Hanson vs. Burlington Route.

Classic League.

By getting high team series of 3,186 and high game of 1,156 for the week, the Baby Ruths emerged with the leadership of the men's Classic league. Their lofty total, in which E. Zajac and L. Strouse were the big guns with 685 each, helped the Baby Ruths knock off Budweiser in three games and broke a tie for first place. The Baby Ruths now have won 18 and lost 9, followed by Moulding-Brownell, 17 and 11; Lorenz Knitting, 16 and 11, and Budweiser, 15 and 12, the latter dropping from a first place tie to fourth place. Ad Carlson, with a 213 average, still tops the league. Tonight's schedule:

Edelweiss vs. Olive Can at Madison-Kedzie, Arlington vs. Old Manhattan at H. B. Kaad's, Stevenson Heating vs. Moulding-Brownell at Schueneman's Logan Square, Lorenz Knitting vs. Budweiser at Cinderella, Baby Ruth Candy vs. A. J. Cermaks at Windy City.

Women's Classic League.

The Hardings, paced by C. Crob, started the Women's Classic league with three victories, which included high game of 914. Bessie Fender of the Petersens tops the individuals with a 192 average, with M. Ebert of Windy City, 189; E. Kelly of Betersens, 183, and M. Warmbier of Schueneman's Logan Square, 183, following. Each of these leaders turned in a 200 game. The next session, on Wednesday, will be held at the Windy City alleys.

Keep Pins Flying.

There's no stopping the Illinois Pies in the Windy City Major league, for they still have a clean slate in nine games. The Pies' foes tomorrow will be the J. M. Kralovecs, who have won six of nine. P. Peterson of the Cicero Boosters and E. Fragel of Vogel Brothers head the individual list with 211 averages. G. Morrison of Monarchs has 204 and O. Svestka of Kralovecs 202. Tomorrow night's schedule:

Corina Cigars vs. Pilsen Olympia, Rosedale Dairy vs. Blazek & Co., Svehla Primas vs. Vogel Brothers, Monarch Old Times vs. Soper Brothers, A. J. Cermaks vs. Mineralites, Rock Garden Tavern vs. Atlas Wet Wash, J. M. Kralovec and Sons vs. Illinois Pie Co., and Cicero Boosters vs. Curtiss Buy-Jiminy.

Make Higher Scores.

A decided improvement over the preceding week was noted in scores of the Woodlawn Recreation Major league, with the Brucks getting high series of 3,029 and Lee Calloway of Club El Rado clicking with an individual series of 693 on games of 247, 234, and 212. Other big totals were shot by Sajdak, 658; Logan, 663; Taylor, 648, and Kobza, 637. In the team standings, Youngs Boosters, American Brakeblok, Power Boosters, and Club El Rado are tied for first with five won and one lost. Calloway's average now is 231. Tomorrow's schedule:

Woodlawn Recreation vs. Crest Recreations, Young's Boosters vs. Walker's Fulton Fish, Miller's High Life vs. Oofondaliers, American Brakeblok vs. Club El Rado, Brucks vs. Knudsen Brothers, Powers Boosters vs. James M. Whalens.

Frank Brown's 198 average leads the Woodlawn Junior league in which the team of L. E. Jenkins & Co. is setting the pace with 6 victories and 3 defeats. Jum Shinners has high game of 278 and Available Warehouse has high team game of 1,094 and high series of 2,870.

Pekie Leads Bombardment.

"Bob Pekie certainly was hitting the pocket," said Joe Gratz, secretary of the North End Traveling league, anent the week's highlights of that organization. "Yes, sir, he set the season series record of 697, which enabled the Birk Brothers to sweep their match with the Michelobs." The three victories tightened the Birk Brothers' grip on first place, they now having 11 games won against one loss.

Here's a "Code" for Sportsmen Hunting Ducks

BY BOB BECKER.

Waterfowl hunters in the Mississippi valley can hoist a Blue Eagle flag and follow a "code" of their own this fall when they go into the marshes to shoot ducks. This code can be a simple one, too, but effective in what it will do.

For the waterfowl hunter the best "we do our part" program is to shoot no blue winged teal, green winged teal or gadwalls, and to take as few redheads and canvasbacks as possible. All of these birds are scarce. In fact, they are so scarce that this fall a hunter may not take more than eight of any one species or eight in the aggregate on a day's hunt.

Inasmuch as the numbers of these valuable species have been so seriously decimated in recent years because of the drought and overshooting, one of the most constructive conservation acts that could be accomplished by a waterfowl hunter would be to refrain from shooting very many of these birds which need as large a breeding stock as possible.

To let the species which are low in numbers have an "easy" year as far as hunting is concerned is simply an investment for the future of waterfowl hunting, an investment that is urgent if we are going to perpetuate the sport.

In Illinois the blue winged teal is not a big factor in the hunter's bag during October and November for the very good reason that this fleet little bird seems to dislike nippy autumn weather. The green winged teal may stay around late in the season. But the blue winged species comes down early in the fall and continues on to the gulf before old Jack Frost gets in his best licks.

Some years ago when the duck season used to open in September midwestern hunters used to enjoy some fine sports with the little teal ducks which combined with home grown birds to enliven the Illinois river marshes on hot September days. But since trouble has hit our waterfowl population the teal hunting has been almost nil in this territory.

A duck hunter's special Blue Eagle flag ought to go this fall to every waterfowl shooter who hangs up a high record in retrieving wounded birds. Far too many ducks are lost by careless or indifferent hunters who won't stir out a blind to follow a wing tipped bird. A good dog will get most of such birds. Lacking a retriever, the hunter himself must get busy and retrieve every wounded bird that he can by leg work in order to cut down the big waste of crippled ducks which occurs every season.

By concentrating most of his hunting on the mallards, pintails, and wild geese which, according to current estimates of waterfowl investigators, have had a fair year, and by going easy on the species which are on the restricted list, the waterfowl hunter this fall can have some sport and yet keep the future of hunting in mind.

Plays that made Football History

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Remember when Art Parisien, Notre Dame's left handed forward passer, threw to Johnny Niemiec in the last minute of the 1926 Southern California game at Los Angeles to whip the Trojans, 13 to 12? The thousands in the stands that afternoon saw a finish that later came to be expected always of Notre Dame. And it was just the kind of a contest that has made the Southern California-Notre Dame series one of the best in the country, although one of the youngest.

It wasn't the thrill of the scoring that was unusual. Notre Dame led first 7 to 0, then 7 to 6 and finally trailed 12 to 7 until Parisien's victorious pass. But the manner in which Southern California failed to make the points after its two touchdowns must be considered unusual. Probably in no game of such importance have two kicks been missed by such a small margin.

Ball Strikes Bottom of Crossbar.

Riley scored the first touchdown for Notre Dame on a 7 yard run around end in the second quarter and O'Boyle kicked the point which later was the deciding factor. In the same period the Trojans crossed the Irish goal line. Brice Taylor, Southern California's Negro left guard, attempted the kick for the tying point. The ball was straight, but it struck the bottom side of the cross bar and bounded under.

In the third quarter Don Williams replaced Morton Kaer at quarter back for the Trojans who immediately paraded 43 yards for a second touchdown which apparently placed them in a safe position since the Irish had not threatened following their score. Morley Drury tried for the point after this touchdown. The ball hit the left upright above the cross bar squarely and then fell back. Thus Southern California led 12 to 7.

When Inches Mean the Game.

This was changed by Notre Dame's rally in the final minute and Notre Dame won, 13 to 12. The unusual feature of the game was that both of Southern California's tries for the point after touchdown struck the goal posts. Either of these, by a difference of inches, would have tied the score.

PUBLIC NOTICE OF REGULATIONS FOR TAKING MIGRATORY WATERFOWL

Regulations adopted by the Secretary of the United States Department of Agriculture, under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, and approved by the President of the United States, September 11, 1933, provides as follows:

The daily limit on mallards and other common species of ducks has been reduced from fifteen to twelve, and on canvasbacks, and others of the rarer species to eight of any one kind, or eight in the aggregate. The possession limit in both cases is two days' kill.

The season will run from October 16 at 12 o'clock noon, to sunset December 15, on ducks, brants, geese, and snipe; especial attention is called to the snipe season as the Illinois law places the season from October 1 to December 31, and due to their more stringent provisions the Federal regulations will take precedence over the provisions of the Illinois law.

The feeding or baiting of ducks and other waterfowl will be permitted; with a limit of twenty-five live duck decoys being permitted at any one shooting stand.

LONG RUNS HELP DEPAUL DEFEAT OMAHA U., 19-0

Stadler Races 44 Yards, Oldani 65.

Starting Right

DE PAUL [19].		OMAHA [0].
Krause	L. E.	Ossian
Barskis	L. T.	Sorenson
Schuster	L. G.	Johnson
Gorsky	C	Fouts
Sexton	R. G.	King
Pionke	R. T.	Barkheimer
Delaney	R. E.	Peary
Flood	Q. B.	Hoover
O'Brien	L. H.	Fischer
Stadler	R. H.	Turner
J. Condon	F. B.	Leon Fouts

Touchdowns—Stadler, Loess, Oldani. Point after touchdown—Kein.

Substitutions: De Paul—Loess for O'Brien; Kein for J. Condon; Oldani for Stadler; Kelly for Kein; Sullivan for Brainard; Brainard for Delaney; Mertes for Schuster; Wosik for Mertes; Carlson for Pionke; Schwartz for Sexton; Lannon for Gorsky; Cella for Flood; Walters for Barskis; Reid for Schwartz; Clancy for Walters; H. Condon for Krause; Durkin for Cella; Hayes for Oldani.

Omaha—Nieman for Fischer; Tyler for L. Fouts; Minihus for Ossian; Carter for John; Crawford for Johnson; James for Peary.

Referee—Laurie [Chicago]. Umpire—Smith [De Pauw]. Field judge—Owens [Northwestern].

De Paul university opened its fotoball season yesterday afternoon at Loyola field by defeating Omaha university, 19 to 0. De Paul scored in the first period and then added two touchdowns in the second half. Omaha failed to threaten and never reached De Paul's 30 yard line.

While De Paul outplayed the Nebraskans, making 18 first downs to 5, and gaining 261 yards to 56 yards, the Blue Demons failed to capitalize all their scoring opportunities. This was due in part to the numerous substitutions by Coach Kelly, who wished to try out most of his squad members.

Stadler Runs 44 Yards.

Marty Stadler was responsible for the opening touchdown. Following a punt by Hoover, Stadler went through the line on a janut of 44 yards, finishing on Omaha's 2 yard line. On the next play he plunged for the touchdown. Eddie O'Brien's attempt to place kick the point failed.

In the second quarter De Paul's second team took the field. While De Paul held command, the players failed to score, although inside the 10 yard line on one occasion.

Fisher, of Omaha, broke loose for a 30 yard run early in the third quarter, but the Nebraskans could not get farther than De Paul's 40 yard line. Then, after a punt, Loess, Kein and Stadler advanced through Omaha's line and around end to the 10 yard strip. From here Loess plunged over on his third effort. Durkin added the point.

Oldani Gets Away.

Oldani was the third De Paul back to score. With 10 minutes of the game left, he went off Omaha's left tackle and in a brilliant 65 yard run crossed the goal line. He was aided by excellent blocking, but his change of pace prevented other defenders from bringing him down. The try for the point was wide.

De Paul will play Valparaiso at Mills stadium next Saturday.

Legion, C.Y.O. Nines to Meet for Title Today

Two of the greatest amateur baseball teams in the country will be seen in action this afternoon at Wrigley field when St. Adrian's and National Tea post meet to settle the national amateur baseball championship.

St. Adrian's holds the Catholic Youth organization title and National Tea won the recent American Legion tournament.

Pitcher Phil Cavaretta of the Legion champions, a product of Lane Tech, has not been defeated in twenty games this year. Although only 17 years old, he has already attracted the attention of major league clubs.

Opposing Cavaretta will be Lefty Owens, who led St. Adrian's to the national Catholic championship and was awarded the trophy for being the most valuable man in the tournament. Owens probably will share his duties with Lefty Stevens.

Sub Back Gives Columbia Last Minute Victory, 6-0

Dubuque, Ia., Sept. 30.—Melvin Nicks, substitute sophomore back, intercepted a pass and ran 60 yards for a touchdown in the last minute of play, giving Columbia a 6 to 0 victory over the La Crosse, Wis., Teachers this afternoon.

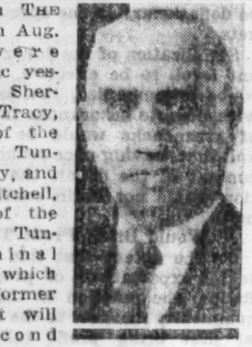
REVEAL DETAILS OF GIANT LOOP HEATING PLANT

Owners Say It Will Cut Smoke Pall.

BY AL CHASE.

Details of the $10,500,000 steam plant project to supply the loop with heat and for process purposes, first announced in THE TRIBUNE on Aug. 5, 1933, were made public yesterday by Sherman W. Tracy, president of the Chicago Tunnel company, and John J. Mitchell, president of the Chicago Tunnel Terminal company, which owns the former concern. It will be the second largest heating plant in the world, being surpassed in size only by the huge establishment of the New York Steam corporation, which has been supplying heat to Manhattan business buildings on a constantly increasing scale since 1879.



SHERMAN W. TRACY.
[U. & U. Photo.]

The proposed big Chicago steam plant, according to Mr. Mitchell, will accomplish among other things, four outstanding benefits to the community at large:

1. Practically eliminate the present smoke nuisance, thus proving of social value as a cleaner of the downtown atmosphere.
2. Provide prompt reëmployment for some 6,000 men, half of whom will be in Chicago.
3. Bring an income to the city, through a share in the profits, without costing the city a dime.
4. Enable Chicago to get a share of federal public works funds without a civic obligation of any sort, as the loan will be self-liquidating and will be negotiated by the Chicago Tunnel company.

Will Use Only Illinois Coal.

President Tracy declared that the big plant will probably use about 400,000 tons of coal annually. All of this, he said, will come from Illinois mines. No gas is to be used.

The first step in the program of supplying heat to downtown Chicago will be confined to the area bounded by the river, the lake and Roosevelt road. Later the territory on the near north side and close in west and south sides reached by the company's tunnels will be serviced with steam.

It is estimated that with 20 per cent of the big loop buildings using the new central heating system the first year, 2,000,000,000 pounds of steam will be sold annually. When about 60 per cent are using the new method of getting heat, a maximum of 6,640,000,000 pounds of steam annually will be sold.

No Torn Up Streets.

One tremendous advantage the Chicago Tunnel company will have over the New York concern will be in not having to tear up the streets and lay steam pipes through the maze of public utility conduits which weave about underground.

The Chicago twenty inch pipes will be laid in shallow trenches dug in the ground between the rails of the tunnel lines, which are forty feet below street level. There will be no disturbance to street pavements or annoyance to the public, and they will be available at all times for repairs. In New York streets were torn up for months at a time while laying the original system and in making extensions, and again when repairs were necessary.

Mr. Mitchell called attention to the Empire State building in Manhattan which buys about 120,000,000 pounds of steam a year, paying the New York Steam corporation $97,000. Had it installed its own steam plant, which would have cost several hundreds of thousands of dollars, its operating costs and fixed charges would have been perhaps $150,000 annually, he said.

Saves Rentable Space.

In addition such a private steam plant would use a large basement area and thousands of cubic feet of rentable space for a huge smokestack running the entire height of the building. Instead it merely uses a few square feet for a steam meter.

Although heating is the principal use the steam will be put to, it is pointed out by Mr. Tracy that the process purposes of a modern skyscraper are numerous and growing constantly. For instance, air conditioning, a coming factor in modern office and apartment building renting, can use steam in its operation.

Steam is used in laundries, in barber shops, in restaurants, tailor shops, Turkish baths, in beauty parlors, and countless other lines of business.

"Last June the Reconstruction Finance corporation authorized a loan to the Chicago Tunnel company of $4,625,000 for a steam distribution system," said Mr. Tracy, "but due to limitations of the act, the financing of

Rubber Dollar a Tight Band on Bankrolls

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With markets stagnant and trading demoralized by the uncertain dollar the financial community is convinced that the only thing that will get prices out of the doldrums is a straightforward announcement by the administration concerning its future monetary policy or a definite move toward either stabilization or inflation.

The very uncertainty about money which sent prices soaring at midsummer now acts as a damper on price movements.

During June and July when the dollar was sliding down from par people were rushing to buy goods and stocks because they expected inflation and were seeking to hedge against it. They had lost confidence in the value of the dollar and were fleeing from it.

Now the dollar has depreciated thirty-five per cent and there is talk of stabilization in some quarters and talk of inflation in other quarters. Nobody knows which to believe, everybody is confused, markets are dead, and speculators have taken to cover.

Having bought goods in July because they lacked confidence in dollars the public has now lost confidence even in its lack of confidence and consequently has taken a middle course by staying out of the market.

The rubber dollar has become a "commodity" dollar and people decline to trade in commodities because they lack faith in both commodities and dollars.

Some of the big fellows have attempted to solve the dilemma by buying British or French securities and exporting their capital to foreign countries either to be held there or to be converted into gold for hoarding.

The September slump in business activity has been blamed by some observers for the setback in the commodity and stock markets, but it is more likely that both are the results of the rubber dollar.

Uncertainty about the future value of the dollar has not only driven traders out of the markets but it has caused business men to decline to make commitments for the future. It has discouraged investors and dried up the capital market. And it has forced bankers to become even more cautious about making loans.

The longer this stalemate continues the more convinced the financial community becomes that the administration will soon be forced to decide on which side of the fence it is to stand.

In one direction lies more drastic currency inflation, soaring commodity and stock prices, radically increased operating costs for business and living costs for the wage earner and salaried man, declining prices for government bonds and other high grade securities and disequilibrium in practically all lines of business.

In the other direction lies a return of confidence in the dollar and in high grade securities, incentive to business men and bankers to make future commitments, low cost of living, a continuation of the somewhat interrupted process of liquidating bad debts and prices again governed to a large extent by supply and demand.

Stabilization would also mean a curtailment of the vast program of government lending and spending, because continued expansion of the public debt in a big way is regarded as just as inflationary as expansion of the currency. In one case the government prints greenbacks and in the other it prints bonds. Where such issuance is in billions of dollars the only appreciable difference is that one type of paper pays interest and the other doesn't.

The word "inflation" is defined in about as many ways as there are definers. It's like the virus that causes sleeping sickness. Nobody can describe the virus, but any one can recognize the results.

The advocates of inflation say that it will result in higher prices. What they want is higher prices, therefore each clamors for a certain procedure for accomplishing higher prices and labels it "inflation."

Some want the government to print greenbacks and pour them into closed banks. Others demand that the gold content of the dollar be arbitrarily reduced. One prominent southern politician has even suggested that the government hire a lot of airplane pilots to sprinkle greenbacks over the countryside. The more conservative advocates of arbitrary price raising call their scheme "credit expansion" and urge wholesale lending.

The nation has already had 50 per cent "inflation," or whatever one may choose to call a rise in the price of gold from $20.67 to $31.46, but it hasn't borne the expected fruit and the demands for more drastic efforts are becoming louder.

In scrutinizing the monetary horizon the financial community keeps in mind the remark made by the President that if and when he should decide to resort to inflation he would do so without talking about it in advance. It also keeps in mind the President's recent promise of a 50 per cent increase in the prices of goods the farmer produces.

These considerations, together with the twelve billion dollar government lending program, served to dampen the effect of recent talk of stabilization.

About the only way the United States can stabilize its currency in terms of other currencies and gold, and at the same time push its price raising program, say the experts, would be to obtain by international agreement a simultaneous reduction of the gold content of the currencies of all major countries.

Senate Again to Quiz Bankers on Stock Deals

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—[U.P.] The senate investigation of stock market and banking methods which accompanied the country's greatest boom and preceded its worst depression will be resumed next week.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, will arrive tomorrow or Monday to confer with Chairman Fletcher and other members of the investigating committee. Fletcher said today he expected Clarence Dillon, investment banker and head of Dillon, Read & Co., to be the first witness.

FERDINAND PECORA.
[Acme Photo.]

Under Dillon's leadership the private bank which bears his name overtook and passed Kuhn, Loeb & Co. in volume and scope of its securities operations. J. P. Morgan & Co. retained its Wall street dominance in the face of Dillon's drive, but his operations in some instances were on a grander scale than his competitors achieved.

May Resume Morgan Inquiry.

If Pecora's investigators have not completed their examination of Dillon-Read records the committee may undertake a cleanup of its inquiry into the affairs of J. P. Morgan & Co., Fletcher said. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. witnesses probably will be recalled some time during the autumn and the investigators plan a thorough inquiry into the boom-time operations of the Chase National bank, as they were related to its security affiliate, the Chase Securities corporation.

Since the committee's exposé of investment banking methods of the National City company, securities affiliate of the National City bank, the Chase set up has been reorganized, reportedly under pressure from the Rockefellers. The Chase is known as a Rockefeller bank.

Senate investigation led to the resignation of Charles E. Mitchell as head of the National City bank and the National City company.

Aldrich Succeeds Wiggin.

Albert H. Wiggin, head of the Chase organization, retired about the same time. He was succeeded by Winthrop W. Aldrich of the Rockefeller family. Aldrich led the Rockefeller interests in what appeared to be a money feud with private banks, headed by Morgan. He proposed that commercial banking be divorced from investment banking.

Over protests of private bankers there was written into the Glass bank bill a stipulation that banks must either engage exclusively in commercial banking operations or in investment banking.

FORD MAY MAKE OWN STEEL AGAIN IF PRICES RISE

Cleveland, O., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Edwin C. Barringer, managing editor of Steel, said today he learned while on a visit to Detroit this week that if steel prices go up much higher Henry Ford may reopen his steel plants and make his own steel.

"Mr. Ford's buyers," Barringer said, "have told the steel men who contact them regularly that if the price of steel goes up much more Mr. Ford may reopen his plant and make his own steel.

"Advances in steel prices due to the new code, including firmer extras and new differentials, will put the price of steel up between $5 to $10 a ton."

Barringer said that Ford shut down his steel plant when he was making about 4,600 new cars each day. Ford now is making between 2,000 and 2,500 cars a day, Barringer said.

ROTOGRAVURE SECTION PICTURES ADVANCES IN RAILS' EQUIPMENT

BY H. A. LAIRD.
Traffic Manager, Chicago Tribune.

Transportation men will be especially interested in page five of today's Rotogravure section in this paper, in which has been inserted a series of photographs showing old and modern types of railway equipment from abroad.

In the first picture of the series there is shown an old train of the London, Midland and Scottish taking water at a speed of 60 miles per hour. It will be recalled that this same railway also developed the practice of delivering passengers at intermediate points without stopping the train by the process of marshalling the train in station order and cutting off the rear car at a designated point while at full speed. The English learned at an early date the importance of eliminating stops to reduce transit time, and appear to have directed their studies along these lines, while American engineers were engaged in a competition of locomotive speeds.

In the second photograph is shown a new British electric rail bus which will make 70 miles per hour, and in the third picture a French auto-rail motor, the first, remarkable for its ability to stop on a short stretch of track without discomfort to the passengers, and the second, for both its flexibility and low cost of operation.

European engineers have been working for years on equipment that will enable the railways to recover a share of the traffic taken from them by private automobiles and buses. American engineers have done practically nothing along these lines, although the light weight, high speed trains now being constructed by the Union Pacific and Burlington are encouraging. The running speed is perhaps no greater than that of many locomotives now in constant use, but they can start and stop in a remarkably short space.

After all, few, if any, people board a train for the pleasure of the trip. The object is to reach a certain destination, and the time in transit should be cut to the minimum. We enjoy the club cars, diners equal to the dining rooms in first class hotels and observation cars, but who would not be willing to dispense with any of these luxuries if the time in transit could be materially reduced.

INDICES REVEAL FURTHER SAG IN BUSINESS TREND

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Statistics appearing during the last week indicated a tendency toward further decline in business activity, according to Moody's index figures for freight car loadings, electric power production, and steel ingot output. These index figures are adjusted for seasonal variation—that is, if the change from the previous week should coincide with the normal seasonal change, the index figure would be unchanged.

Look, Canada! Why Not Tax "Gyp" Broker?

If Canada would place an import tax on sucker lists, it would have a potential source of large income. Houses that find themselves hampered in their dealings by the federal securities law are establishing Canadian offices to do the dirty work.

One circular came through the mails on Sept. 25 offering a stock on which the selling commission is 25 per cent. Yesterday a letter was received from a New York broker specializing in such issues saying: "Under the federal securities act I found it impossible to really express my opinion of certain stocks . . . [so] I decided to open offices in Toronto."

The monument cutters, in formulating a code for submission under the NRA, became embroiled in a serious dispute, which threatened to split the industry. Unlike the coal dispute, however, the question that caused the trouble was not wage rates or hours of labor.

One group contended that the code of ethics should include a provision committing each signer to refrain from soliciting business from the family of the deceased until 30 days after the death. Others opposed the suggestion, declaring that it should be a free for all as soon as the death occurred. The considerate "thirty dayers" carried their point.

Pigs may be pigs, but a La Salle street man who is well versed on comparative fetishes and other interesting phenomena says Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's pig slaughtering campaign is as old as the hills.

It is the only time in recorded history that he can find in which pigs were being sacrificed with the hope of having a smaller crop. Historical data is available, he says, showing that in the past pigs were sacrificed in the belief that the action would bring bigger crops.

CHICAGOAN GETS MEDAL AS JUNIOR COMMERCE BODY

Howard S. Davidson of Chicago, former vice-president of the United States junior chamber of commerce, was given a distinguished service medal last night at a dinner sponsored by the Chicago organization. The medal was in recognition of his work in establishing junior chambers in the middle west.

Directors of the national chamber voted yesterday to establish permanent headquarters in St. Louis. Founded in St. Louis fourteen years ago, the organization heretofore has followed the practice of having its headquarters wherever the president lived. Leslie B. STOCKS DIP, BUT RALLY SHARPLY ON BUYING WAVE

Confusion on Money Plan Is Factor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 30.—Fresh confusion over the administration's monetary plans gave the stock market another trying day. In the early dealings traders took the bear side on reports that stabilization of the dollar is imminent, and selling grew quite heavy in some directions. Many leading issues were borne down to new low levels for the decline, some of them slipping through their so-called resistance points.

Brighter views of the situation prevailed in the last half hour or so, however, and the list snapped back under the impetus of a buying wave that was beginning to look like the real thing when the closing gong snuffed it out for the day. The net result was an irregularly high weekend price table, with the chief trading favorites up a fraction to a point or so.

Turnover Is Larger.

Volume picked up a bit on the rally so that in spite of the Jewish holiday which kept large numbers of traders at home transactions for the two hour session totaled around 1,150,000 shares, or approximately 100,000 more than on last Saturday.

Brokers reported a large proportion of the day's orders for professional account. The selling of the first hour in particular was described as being accentuated by big bear operators.

Silver stocks were prominent on the recovery. The possibility that the forthcoming debt conference at Washington may again, as it did the last time, bring the white metal into renewed prominence was largely the secret of their return to favor.

Most of the other mining issues rose smartly, Homestake Mining, the leader of the gold division, replacing an early loss with a net gain of $10 a share. United States Smelting spurted nearly 8 points.

American Telephone Rebounds.

The utilities had their ups and downs. American Telephone was driven down to 115⅛ at the start but came back with a rush to close at 120¼, up nearly 3 points. A bear driven down to 115⅛ at the start, but was responsible as much as anything else for the unsettlement of yesterday's market. Consolidated Gas went to a new low but likewise closed at a substantial gain.

Rails were generally heavy and at their worst most of them were selling at new lows. Motors and oils got nowhere.

In the liquor group, National Distillers was under fire for much of the session. A good part of the selling in this issue was attributed to traders who had bought two days ago to get the whisky dividend.

DOLLAR RECEDES MODERATELY TO 65.19 CENTS GOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 30.—The dollar was moderately weak during most of today's trading in the foreign exchange market, but recovered most of its early loss in terms of the franc and some other currencies. The dollar showed a net loss of 5 points on gold valuation at 65.19 cents. The treasury's daily gold price, based on the early quotations, rose 13 cents an ounce to $31.46.

The pound sterling retained most of its early gains against the dollar to close at $4.76, up ¼ cent. Belgas were also higher on the day at 21.41 cents. Francs showed a net gain of .005 of a cent at 6.01 cents. Canadian dollars were slightly lower at 97.93¾ cents.

WORLD'S OUTPUT OF GOLD SHOWS GAIN IN AUGUST

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—World gold production increased in August, reports the American bureau of metal statistics. Output totaled 1,994,000 fine ounces as compared with 1,992,000 in July and 1,935,000 in June.

Production in the United States was 181,000 ounces, a gain of 5,000 from July. June output was 143,000 ounces. Canada's August total was 250,000 ounces, the same as in July, but a decrease of 11,000 ounces from June. South African mines turned out 935,000 ounces compared with 930,000 in the previous month.

Vast Supplies of Butter Held in Storage Here

BY PAUL POTTER.

Reserve stocks of butter in Chicago are establishing new high records daily, reports issued yesterday on mounting butter storage indicate.

H. C. DARGER.

While in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, which constitute with Chicago the "big four" butter markets, butter stocks were going out of storage more rapidly than into storage during the last two weeks, each day's holdings in local warehouses have exceeded those of the day before, and each new day sets an all-time record of butter in storage here.

Dairy merchants believe the promise of the government to buy surplus butter and turn it over to relief agencies is causing much of this unusual trend in the industry.

Prepare Butter-Buying Unit.

Latest word from the AAA dairy section in Washington is that legal papers are being drafted for setting up a butter buying corporation, probably to be managed by H. C. Darger, former secretary-manager of the Blue Valley Creamery company in Chicago.

The two factors causing the delay in purchasing of surplus butter were believed by the local tradesmen to be the legal steps necessary to create the buying agency and a wait made necessary while the federal relief commission finds out to whom and how much butter to send to various relief agencies over the nation.

Yesterday the big four markets had 83 million pounds of butter in storage. Of this amount 52½ million pounds are in Chicago's great solid brick-walled and insulated warehouses on the river and along freight yards of the west and south sides. The highest stocks of butter in reserve in Chicago in previous years occurred in 1919 when there was a storage of 33 million pounds reported on Sept. 1.

175,187,000 Lbs. on Sept. 1.

The total visible supply of butter in storage as reported by all warehouses and creameries to the government as of Sept. 1 was 175,187,000 pounds. This compared with stocks of 107,000,000 pounds a year ago and a five-year average at this date of 132,031,000 pounds.

Despite these enormous reserve stocks of the dairy industry wholesale butter prices have remained fairly steady the last week, and consumers are paying 6 to 10 cents a pound more for butter now than they paid last spring before the "snow ball" of butter production started its long roll down hill, gathering reserve supplies month on month from early June until this last week.

1,000,000 TON RAIL ORDER AWAITING CUT IN PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washigton, D. C., Sept. 30.—Orders from railroads for more than 1,000,000 tons of steel rails, tie plates, splice bars, etc., are available to steel companies equipped to supply them, provided the price is sufficiently attractive, R. V. Fletcher, general counsel for the Association of Railway executives, today reported to Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation.

At a conference with the coördinator today, Judge Fletcher laid before Mr. Eastman complete statistics on the total visible demand for steel rails and complementary equipment, marking the second step in the administration's plan to stimulate that branch of industry.

MILWAUKEE BUYS 50,000 TONS.

The government's drive to stimulate the purchase of steel rails was given added impetous yesterday when the Milwaukee system committed itself to buy 50,000 tons if the steel companies agree to accept the recommended price cut.

This is the largest individual order reported to date and makes the total thus far in excess of 200,000 tons. The Milwaukee will also buy 14 tons of rail fasteners. Both orders will involve an outlay of around $200,000.

Silver Futures Register Gains of 30 to 60 Points

Silver futures continued on the upgrade yesterday, closing at net gains of 30 to 60 points. Sales aggregated 1,575,000 ounces. October closed at 40.05 cents; December, 40.45@40.67; March, 41.15@41.25; May, 41.70@41.75; July, 42.20, and September at 42.70.

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The weekly statement of the New York clearing house shows total net demand deposits [avgrage] declined $26,614,000, while time deposits [average] increased $4,851,000.

U. S. WILL POUR VAST SUM INTO NRA INDUSTRIES

Banks and Groups to Make Loans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today ordered full speed ahead in the administration's plan to assist in the financing of the NRA industries.

While the capital continued to buzz with speculation as to the prospect of inflation or stabilization, this credit arm of the government announced the policy and procedure under which hundreds of millions of dollars may be rushed to the aid of industry until better inducements can be offered to private capital.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation outlined in a circular how applicants may proceed at once to obtain financial assistance from the government through mortgage-loan companies and banks and trust companies. The circular, it was understood, is to be followed within twenty-four hours by a move by the R. F. C. to effect universal acceptance of its preferred stock plan for going financial institutions.

Plans Lending Groups.

Under this plan it is contemplated that lending institutions be supplied with new capital dollars for relending to industry by offering their preferred stock for purchase by the corporation.

As these previously laid plans took form the administration obviously was moving for a coördination into one huge program of all the credit schemes with which it has answered the agitation for currency inflation. It is known to be the purpose of officials from President Roosevelt down to so organize the recovery machinery, including its credit auxiliaries, as to make it profitable for billions in idle private capital to reënter the normal channels of business.

As a step in this direction, President Roosevelt has asked Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings Bank of New York, to become a sort of recovery credit coördinator for the government.

Will Unite Credit Agencies.

The New York banker has been asked to suggest a plan whereby the emergency credit activities of the R. F. C., the federal reserve board, the public works administration, the home loan and farm loan administrations, and even the treasury itself may be synchronized for the twofold purpose of meeting the emergency requirements and at the same time enlisting greater aid from private capital.

The plan and policy set forth in detail by the R. F. C. today is said to be the quickest and most direct method of providing short term capital for private industry that has yet been devised by the federal experts. It would utilize all financial institutions eligible to borrow from the corporation as intermediaries and underwriters in the effort to diffuse federal credit to industry generally.

Rate Spread Affords Commission.

For their services the participating financial institutions would be allowed a commisison of 2 per cent on all transactions through the provision for a spread of that amount in the rates at which the corporation's funds are made available to the intermediary banking houses and the actual borrower. The banking firms would guarantee repayment by indorsing the notes of the borrower, but would not have to put up actual collateral, as was required of them by the R. F. C. in former transactions.

Two types of loans are provided. The first is of a short term character, made for any part of six months, for the purpose of providing working capital. The rate is 3 per cent to the underwriting bank and 5 per cent to the ultimate borrower.

The second type is a long term credit running for as long as three years and extendable to the intermediary banking firms at 4 per cent and to the ultimate borrower at 6 per cent. The long term loans are expected to be used for more general purposes than merely working capital.

Fifth Avenue Coach Wages Returned to 1929 Levels

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Frederic T. Wood, president of the Fifth Avenue Coach company, announced today that wages of his company would be returned to the 1929 levels, effective tomorrow. Wood described the raise as "an approximate 10 per cent increase over the present rates of pay."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 30.—Price changes in the bond market were chiefly of a minor character in the two hour trading period today. In general, domestic corporation bonds and United States government long term issues worked irregularly lower and foreign loans irregularly higher.

The volume of dealings amounted to only $4,159,000, compared with $6,211,000 last Saturday. United States government bonds accounted for $483,000 of the total today.

Treasury 3⅜s Lose Most.

Closing prices on these issues were off 10-32ds to 3-32ds of a point, with the major loss being charged to the treasury 3⅜s. The treasury 3⅛s, which were the most active of the group, closed just under par.

Strength in the so-called gold payment issues was a feature of the foreign group. Dutch East Indies loans climbed ⅝ to 2⅛ points, Swiss government 5½s 1½ points, and French government 7½s a point on the day. German loans showed slight irregularities. Latin American issues were dull.

Some Off Point or Two.

In the domestics some speculative issues showed recessions of a point or two. On the average industrial bonds did better than utility or railroad issues. New York City Rapid Transit bonds showed fractional changes.

Curb bonds exhibited no definite trend. The strongest spots among the more or less active issues included the obligations of Associated Gas and Electric, Commonwealth Edison, Cities Service, and Shawinigan Water and Power. Advances and declines in the foreign group were about evenly distributed.

Semi-fixed Investment Trusts.

Many an investor does not like to be bothered with the care and responsibility of looking after his money.

First he went in for real estate bonds. It did not make much difference what sort of a bond he bought, just so the bond certificate looked important.

Then came stocks. What stock? It did not make much difference—whichever one was most in the public eye at the time, or perhaps one with an intriguing name.

Then came the era of management investment trusts. New ones were formed every day. Detailed information concerning many of them was lacking, but that made little difference. The stock crash of 1929 called public attention to the fact that general management investment trusts were not immune to the factors that affect common stocks.

The inexperienced investor decided that if general management trusts were not the safe road to riches then the fixed investment trusts must be. The fixed investment trust holds specified shares of stock which it cannot dispose of unless dividends should be passed or if certain other conditions arise. There can be no short sales or margin trading. It has a reserve fund to keep disbursements at a fixed rate. Coupons are attached to the certificate, which makes it look like a bond.

Dividends, however, were passed and some of the stocks had to be sold at bankrupt prices. The reserve funds soon became exhausted. Sponsorship in some cases disappeared and an active market for many certificates disappeared with it.

A new medium, the semi-fixed investment trust, has recently come into vogue. The general set-up is to have one company that sells its stock to the public. The funds realized from the sale of its shares can be invested only in certain designated stocks. There can be no short sales or margin purchases. The management, however, is permitted to deal in the designated stocks, although the announced purpose is to purchase for long term holdings.

The troublesome question of a market for the shares is supposed to be taken care of by the provision that the company must repurchase outstanding shares on demand at liquidating value or a price close to it.

In considering the purchase of such shares the investor should ponder several important points. First he should make the decision as to whether he wants to invest in common stocks at all.

Second, he should check up on the sponsors of the trust. What success have they had in making profitable investments? What are their previous promotions and did these result in profit?

Third, he should analyze closely the fee that the sponsors charge, not only on the sale of the stock, but for the continued direction. Many purchasers of fixed trust shares found to their sorrow that undisclosed fees brought the load of their purchases up to 15 to 20 per cent.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was dull, with sales of only 6 contracts. Price changes were narrow and irregular, with the market closing 2 points lower to 3 net higher, but mostly lower, influenced by the weakness in lard and the reaction in grains. Bleachable spot and October closed 4.50c; December, 4.75c; January, 4.82c; March, 5.07c; May, 5.17c.

FACTORY JOBS UP 8.6 PCT. IN AUGUST SURVEY REPORTS

Hourly Earnings Show a Gain in Average.

An increase of 8.6 per cent in the number of persons employed and an advance of 9.2 per cent in average hourly earnings, accompanied by a decline of 8.9 per cent in average hours of work per week during August were the outstanding developments in manufacturing industry, according to the regular monthly survey made by the national industrial conference board.

Average hourly earnings of wage earners in 25 manufacturing industries reporting to the conference board rose from 45.5 cents in July to 49.7 cents in August, or 9.2 per cent, while average hours of work per week fell from 42.6 to 38.8, or 8.9 per cent. The net result of these two developments was a slight rise of 10 cents, or 0.5 per cent, in average weekly earnings, which were $19.15 in July and $19.25 in August. Since, however, the cost of living rose relatively more between these two months than did average weekly earnings, real weekly earnings declined 1.8 per cent.

Number of Jobs Increases.

The number of persons employed increased 8.6 per cent in August over July and, since the contents of the average weekly pay envelope increased slightly in August, total pay roll disbursements in the 25 manufacturing industries rose over 9 per cent. Total man hours worked were 1.2 per cent less in August than in July. In the aggregate the changes noted reflect the government's industrial policies rather than increased business activity.

Female labor benefited relatively most from the adoption of minimum rates of pay. The average hourly earnings of women rose from 30.3 cents in July to 36.2 cents in August, or 19.5 per cent. Their average hours of work per week were reduced from 42.8 to 38.1, or 11.0 per cent. Average weekly earnings of female labor rose from $12.93 to $13.83, or 7.0 per cent.

Weekly Average Pay Lower.

Average hourly earnings of unskilled male labor advanced from 37.5 cents in July to 40.9 cents in August, or 9.1 per cent. A reduction of 10.0 per cent in the average hours of work, from 44.2 to 39.8, however, lowered the average weekly earnings in this class from $16.48 in July to $16.17 in August, or 1.9 per cent.

Average hourly earnings of semi-skilled and skilled male workers increased from 51.7 cents in July to 56.0 cents in August, or 8.3 per cent; average hours of work declined from 43.4 to 39.7, or 8.5 per cent, while average weekly earnings increased from $21.99 to $22.16, or 0.8 per cent, during the same period.

SOUTH SHORE, SHORT OF FUNDS, ASKS NEW SETUP

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 30.—[U. P.]—A petition for reorganization was filed today in federal court by the Chicago South Shore and South Bend railroad.

Company officials said they would present a detailed plan to the interstate commerce commission. It will provide, they said, that the maturity date of equipment trust certificates outstanding in the amount of $1,341,000 be extended for a period of three years and that the dividend rate be increased from 5½ to 6 per cent.

The petition set forth the company is without funds to pay $286,810 for rental of equipment under leases becoming due before Dec. 31. Likewise, it said, it is unable to meet dividend payments on equipment trust certificates past due or to become due before Jan. 1, 1934, aggregating a total similar to rental due. It is unable to borrow or otherwise obtain the funds, the petition said.

Officials said the plan was accepted by more than two-thirds of the equipment trust certificate holders. As submitted to stockholders last March, the plan said the only funded debt was to certificate holders.

Officials represented the current position of the company as such that it would require three years of operation to place the railroad in a position to meet the certificate maturities.

REVEAL DETAILS OF GIANT LOOP HEATING PLANT

Builders Say It Will Cut Smoke Pall.

"With the security markets in their present distressed condition, the financing of the steam generating plant has been unavoidably delayed, and an application has been made to the federal administration of public works for a loan of $10,500,000 under the self-liquidating provision of the national industrial recovery act, contemplating the prompt financing and completion of the entire project.

"Such a system would eliminate to a large degree the smoke nuisance Chicago has suffered from for so many years. It has been estimated by experts that 250 tons of soot and ash are daily spread over the city, doing immense damage to merchandise and furnishings and costing Chicagoans $12.00 per capita annually."

Eliminate 85% of Smoke Nuisance.

With the Chicago Tunnel company's big steam plant in operation it is estimated that more than 85 per cent of the city's smoke nuisance would be done away with, Mr. Tracy stated.

"This solution of the city's smoke problem and extensive reëmployment of Chicago workmen will add nothing to the burden of city debt already facing Chicago and which is handicapping the city's rightful participation in the benefits under the provisions of the federal administration of public works," said Mr. Tracy.

"Indeed, the city treasury will benefit directly to the extent of 6 per cent of the Chicago Tunnel company's gross income from the distribution of any steam through its tunnels under an ordinance passed in July, 1932. Under that ordinance the company was permitted for the first time to lay pipes in the sixty-two miles of tunnels or enlargements thereof beneath existing tunnel floors.

"The first unit of the steam generating plant will comprise four boilers of 3,000 h. p. each; this will be increased to six or eight boilers with the necessary additional auxiliary equipment as business develops.

Plan Second Generating Plant.

"The project contains the promise of another generating plant and the development of other districts adjacent to the tunnels which extend as far north as Erie street and as far west as Halsted."

Neiler, Rich & Co., are the engineers on the big project. Graham, Anderson, Probst & White are the architects.

Approximately 60 per cent of the stock of the company is owned equally by Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and the sons of the late E. H. Harriman. The other 40 per cent is distributed among a considerable number of stockholders. Its board of directors comprise Mr. Tracy, Mr. Mitchell, Joseph Harris, and David O. Dunbar, the latter a member of the law firm of Dunbar & Rich.

AMERICANS LOSE FIGHT OVER BIG NEWSPRINT FIRM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 30.—Price Brothers & Co., Ltd., leading independent newsprint producer of the dominion, will remain under British control.

For weeks two interests, one British, the other American, have vied for possession of the company which was declared bankrupt in April, 1933.

The American interest was the Duke Price Power company, which is controlled by the Aluminum Company of America, and which took the initiative in asking that Price be declared bankrupt when it could not meet power payments. The competitor was a combination of Canadian and British interests, R. O. Sweezy, local financier, and Bowaters Paper Mills of England, collaborating in efforts to keep the firm within the empire.

Today it was announced that "the protective committee for the bondholders has concluded an agreement with Bowaters Paper Mills for the reorganization of Price Brothers. The last financial statement showed Price Brothers have assets over $75,000,000.

B. S. Culp, Graybar Electric Service Manager, Retires

Bertram S. Culp, service manager of the Chicago office of the Graybar Electric company since 1914, retired yesterday after more than 44 years of active service, W. P. Hoagland, central district manager, announced yesterday. E. W. Cashman of the company's Philadelphia office will succeed Mr. Culp here.

RUBBER ALONE HOLDS AT HIGHER PRICE LEVEL DURING LAST WEEK

With the exception of rubber all commodities ranged lower during the last week. Uncertainty as to the administration's monetary policy was generally given as the main cause for the weakness. Speculative interest in all markets has declined materially of late. October bellies sold at a new low for the season during the last week, but other commodities well above the low levels reached early in the year. Closing prices the last two weeks and the low for the season to date compare as follows:

BANKERS' VIEWS DIFFER ON DOLLAR STABILIZATION

Removal of Uncertainty Regarded Important.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 30.—The prospects of early stabilization of the dollar at approximately its present foreign exchange value, 65 per cent of its former value, discussed in dispatches from Washington this week, have led to conjecture in Wall street as to what the immediate effect of such a move might be upon the speculative markets.

There is divergence of views upon the subject. Many bankers believe that the removal of uncertainty over the currency could have only favorable effects throughout the economic system. Others, while convinced of the desirability of such a move, think it likely that the first results would be deflationary in the speculative markets.

Stabilization of the dollar at its present level, to be effective, would have to be accompanied, the bankers say, with definite assurances that no issue of greenbacks would be resorted to and that, having once reduced the gold content of the dollar, the administration would not again consider such a move.

Would Bring Profit Taking.

To the extent that this put an end to all expectations of progressive inflation, the reaction of the stock and commodity markets to the move might at first bring profit taking in the belief that all further price advances would have to await the recovery of business. It is argued that many present holders of stocks and commodity contracts have purchased them as a protection against currency depreciation and that, once assured of the stability of the dollar, they would liquidate their positions and return to cash or bonds.

The bond market, it is generally agreed, would benefit greatly from stabilization, particularly in the gilt-edged sections. Recently fears for the future of the dollar have caused a decline in high grade bonds.

In the foreign exchange market rigid control would have to be instituted, bankers believe, not, as at present, to check the export of capital, but to curb the influx of funds from abroad. With the dollar stable once more, capital which has been sent abroad to escape the effects of devaluation would seek to return and, in addition, it is likely that large amounts of foreign capital, frightened for the safety of European currencies, might seek admittance to this market.

Point Out Advantages.

Against the possibility of immediate deflationary influences in the speculative markets, advocates of prompt stabilization of the dollar place the advantages to be achieved through ending the present uncertainty over the currency. They contend that the first largely speculative scramble on the part of business to increase inventories and of consumers to meet present needs at low prices which resulted from the threat of inflation has now passed. The possibility of inflation has ceased to be a stimulating influence on business activity and has become a retarding factor.

Assurance that contracts made would have the same value when complete as when begun would now be a more stimulating factor to business, it is argued, than the promise of rising prices through a progressive fall in the value of the dollar. If this turned out to be the case, the speculative markets would recover with the rise of business more surely than they would through the stimulus of inflation, the bankers contend.

RAIL SURCHARGE EXPIRES; YIELDED UNDER ESTIMATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 30.—The emergency freight surcharges that took effect on Jan. 2, 1932, expired by limitation last midnight. Expected to yield from $100,000,000 to $125,000,000 annually, they provided only $61,625,000 in 1932 and $73,691,000 up to last March 31, when they ceased to be pooled for the benefit of needy railroads and were, instead, retained by the companies that earned them.

The Railroad Credit corporation, managers of the loan pool, made loans of $73,691,000 for the meeting of interest charges. It has repaid $6,232,000 to contributors.

Ending of the surcharges will reduce charges from six cents a ton to two cents a hundred pounds. The largest tonnage affected is coal, which normally makes up about one-third of all freight hauled by railroads. The surcharges on coal was six cents a ton.

Christmann Brewing New Plant Nears Operation

Arthur C. Lueder, former Chicago postmaster and vice president of the Christmann Brewing company, New Lisbon, Wis., announced yesterday that rehabilitation work of the company is going forward on schedule and that the plant is scheduled for completion by Oct. 15 at the latest. At that time the brewery will be producing a minimum of 980 barrels each week. Mr. Lueder's statement was made in a letter to stockholders accompanying the payment of an initial quarterly dividend of 5 cents a share on preferred stock.

WHEAT RALLIES AFTER DECLINE; TRAILS STOCKS

Ends with Slight Gain; Corn Sells Lower.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain markets continue to be unusually easily influenced, and prices change with startling rapidity. Liquidation developed early yesterday, with houses with eastern connections selling wheat futures freely. Prices at the inside were off as much as 1⅞ cents, with the May delivery leading. This option touched 92⅛ cents on the break.

Early weakness in the stock market had considerable influence. However, a rush of buying in stocks toward the close ran prices up sharply and carried grains along with it. At the top May wheat sold at 94⅞ cents, with a reaction toward the finish on week-end evening up. Closing trades were unchanged to ¼ cent higher. Trading in the September deliveries for the season ceased at the close yesterday.

Cash Houses Buy Wheat.

Cash houses bought September wheat and it closed at 86⅜ to 86⅝ cents. December finished at 90 to 90⅛ cents and May at 94 to 94⅛ cents. Corn was off ⅛ to ⅜ cents for the day, with December closing at 50⅛ to 50¼ cents. Oats were ⅛ to 1 cent lower. December oats were 38⅞ to 39 cents at the last. Rye gained ½ to ⅞ cent with December at 70½ cents. Barley was ¾ to 1⅜ cents lower, December being 57⅜ cents.

Rumors regarding prospective developments at home and abroad continue to dominate the action of the grain markets, and supply and demand factors receive scant attention. The department of agriculture issued a formal denial of recent rumors to the effect that the government proposed to establish a fixed price on wheat and compel millers to buy direct from producers.

Report Russia Seeks Recognition.

Reports that Russia had been handed a memorandum giving the United States terms on which recognition should be based had considerable influence on both stocks and grain.

Belief that prohibition is near an end has stimulated buying of rye by distillers. Purchases of 50,000 bushels of cash rye were made here yesterday, making 80,000 bushels taken during the week. In addition, mills took 60,000 bushels yesterday.

The country continues to take advantage of all minor upturns in corn to sell. Local handlers purchased 104,000 bushels to arrive yesterday. Little attention was paid to the forecast for frost overnight in the Dakotas, Minnesota, and parts of Iowa and Nebraska. The crop is now regarded as largely matured, although there is some very late grain in Illinois and Indiana.

VICTIM OF CORN CORNER DEMANDS BROKERS' DATA

A suit for discovery, seeking to examine the books of several Chicago grain traders and commission houses, was filed in federal court yesterday on behalf of E. W. Backus, grain trader and president of the Backus-Brooks Lumber company of Minneapolis.

The suit is in connection with a previous bill of complaint filed by Backus, which seeks damages of $1,000,000 from Gustavus Swift Jr., Allen Moore and Herbert J. Blum, on charges of manipulating and cornering the corn market in July, 1928. In addition to the original defendants, Winthrop, Mitchell & Co., and the Edward Bacon company are named, the petition stating that Backus has been unable to secure access to their books and records.

Backus' suit charges that he lost $289,750 in July, 1928, because he was unable to make delivery on his contracts for 950,000 bushels of corn. It is charged that Backus sold corn at $1.06 a bushel and that the price jumped to $1.15 at delivery time, when he was forced to default. The Board of Trade penalized Backus and he was forced to settle at $1.20 a bushel.

Backus also seeks access to the Grain Futures administration's records, and those of the Chicago Board of Trade Clearing corporation, with respect to details of July corn delivery in 1928 for the purpose of supporting allegations and for court record.

A feature of the Blum-Moore-Swift corn deal, as told by them, was that their losses in handling the cash corn and futures were heavy, as they had to take too much cash corn.

MILLER-BENNETT REPORT RAISES CORN ESTIMATES

Crop estimates of leading Chicago statisticians will be given to the trade tomorrow. Expectations are that there will be little change in government or private returns from September estimates. The Miller-Bennett report increases corn 35,000,000 bushels for the month and raises wheat figures 3,000,000 and oats 4,000,000 bushels over the Sept. 1 estimate.

Miller-Bennett estimates, with last 6 ciphers omitted, are as follows:

COTTON FINISHES HIGHER BUT RANGE IS NARROW

Foreign buyers are said to be taking advantage of the apparent cheapness of the gold dollar at the decline to around 65 cents, and are buying American cotton liberally, which cotton traders say should result in heavy exports later in the season. A moderate amount of this class of buying was under way during the day, with professionals in the south moderate sellers.

The market in all was fairly active, but narrow, fluctuations being within an average range of less than 15 points. The close was around the best prices, with net gains of 4 to 9 points on futues in Chicago, with other markets up 3 to 7 points on futures. New Orleans spots were 10 points higher at 9.70 cents, New York gained 5 points, reaching 9.95 cents, with Houston and Galveston 5 points higher at 9.65 cents. Liverpool closed 8 to 9 points net lower. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS RALLY

Improved buying at the close carried butter and egg futures higher on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, butter gaining ⅜@½c. Eggs closed unchanged to ¼c higher. Eggs were under pressure at the start. Switching was the only feature in the market until the last few minutes with buyers and sellers alike shifted to later months. A spurt in stock and grains brought out new buying and covering as the markets closed. The four markets moved out 7,600 cases more eggs than last year. Butter advanced as a result of light buying at the close. The cash market was moved up on continued heavy buying. The movement of stocks out of storage totalled 110,000 lbs less than last year. Sales: butter, 21 cars; eggs, 282 cars. Prices follow:

LONGS IN LARD SELL SEPTEMBER HOLDINGS

Holders of September lard and bellies were liberal sellers yesterday, liquidating their September contracts and buying deferred deliveries. The result was net losses of 7½ to 17½ cents on lard, while bellies were unchanged for September, 10 cents higher on October, and 15 to 20 cents off on the more deferred deliveries.

Cash lard was 15 cents lower at $5.30. Cash bellies were unchanged at $5.75. Liverpool lard was 3 to 6 pence lower. There were exports of 300,600 pounds, and of bacon 10,000. Packing in Chicago since March 1 aggregates 4,233,000 hogs, as compared with 3,210,000 last year. Prices follow:

FIELD SEED PRICES

Recent government estimates have indicated approximately 40 million acres of land will be removed from cultivated crops, as the result of the program to curtail production. Seed specialists see in this the probability of an immense demand developing for clover and other field and grass seeds early in the spring. Prices of country run field seeds in the local market, in carloads, per 100 lbs. follow: Red clover, $8.50@11.50; alsike, fair, $11.00; good, $12.00; choice, $13.00; fancy, $14.00. Alfalfa, Kansas, $10.00; northwest, $12.50; Grimm, $13.00; sweet clover, $4.00@4.25; red top, 90@95 per cent pure, $7.00@8.50; timothy, $6.15@6.40; buckwheat, $1.70 for dry and sound. Clover, Toledo, per bu of 60 lbs, $6.80.

BRITISH STOCKS MOVE HIGHER ON CHEERFUL NEWS

Railway Securities Rise with Traffic Gains.

BY SIDNEY CAVE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The market enjoyed a favorable week in which the slight tendency to sag, after a hopeful opening Monday, disappeared at the finish with a healthy tone prominent in a number of lists.

Home and Argentine rails, German and Japanese bonds, Kaffirs, rubber and, to some extent, oil, all benefited through favorable news. British funds continued to hold a strong undertone. There was a slight tendency to drop in yesterday's trading, but at the close where prices had changed, they were generally at a slightly higher level.

After watching President Roosevelt's campaign in the last two weeks in which currency fluctuations were a prominent cause of pessimism, the market this week experienced a number of internal influences consistently good.

Borrowing Rate Higher.

One of the features of the week was the sharp increase in the British government's borrowing rate. Treasury bills, having been placed to sell below one-quarter per cent only a week ago, rose sharply to nearly five-eighths. The present rate is the highest since July.

The increase is more remarkable since the applications for the $225,000,000 of bills were more than double that figure. Circumstance ordinarily would have pushed the rate down.

The increase is attributed to a number of factors, the chief being the issue of a $750,000,000 two and one-half per cent conversion loan at 94. Cash applicants for the loan reduced the amount of money available in the market for buying the treasury bills.

One of the features in foreign bonds throughout the week was the consistent gain in German, Dawes and Young loans.

U. S. Views Puzzle Paris.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 30.—French financial circles are more puzzled than ever this week-end as to what will be the American decision on inflation. Early this week the Paris bourse bore up well, seeing things in a new light as a result of rising Wall street quotations despite the higher dollar. It had concluded that rising stocks were dependent on a sinking dollar.

France apparently is slowly abandoning the recent opinion that America is going to the dogs and taking a new attitude—new in France—that the Americans are serious about their economic program and have some chance to succeed with it.

In the meantime reports published in London papers that Americans are swarming to Paris personally or through representatives to change dollars into francs, Swiss francs or Dutch guilders proved through THE TRIBUNE's investigation to be untrue. On the contrary, American residents of Paris are going homeward and the American colony is shrinking.

ENGLISH DEFICIT SHRINKS; INCOME ABOVE ESTIMATE

LONDON, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The possibility appeared tonight that Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, might have a surplus for the next budget provided the revenue position during the next six months has no serious setback.

This view was deduced from the figures for the first half of the financial year, showing the smallest deficit in many years. Treasury revenues for the first half year totaled £275,736,842 [about $1,296,000,000], an increase of £7,208,534 [about $33,953,000]. Expenditures were £324,237,997 [about $1,525,000,000], a decrease of £48,309,776 [about $196,204,000].

Expenditures always exceed revenues in the first half of the year because of the bulk of the revenue from the income tax and the surtax is not collected until the last quarter. Most of the revenue items either equaled or were better than the budget estimates.

The efficiency of the new tariffs as revenue producers was indicated by an increase in customs during the six months of £6,939,000 [$32,683,000 approximately] over last year's figure, whereas the chancellor had budgeted for an increase of less than £1,000,000 for the whole year.

ETTINGER-BRAND, BIG WHEAT FIRM, CLOSE OFFICES

Ettinger & Brand, who were reported to have lost heavily in the collapse of the bull market last July, closed their Chicago office yesterday. They will keep a few offices open in Ohio, as their headquarters are in Cleveland.

Two men in the concern are said to have traded heavily in wheat. The firm came to the front in trading about the time wheat started on its big advance last spring. Orders to buy or sell 1,000,000 bushels of bids or offers around the close of trading hours often were attributed to the firm.

Legion to Be Entertained by Chicago Grain Board

Legionnaires in convention here will be entertained on the trading floor of the Chicago Board of Trade today, and meetings will be held in the general assembly room on the third floor during their visit here. Trading on the exchange will be suspended at noon on Tuesday in honor of the veterans.

U. S. HOG CONTROL PLAN QUESTIONED BY FARM DAILIES

Old Story of Waste and Expense, They Say.

The Corn Belt Farm Dailies yesterday issued a statement which questioned, among other things, the effectiveness of the experiments of the agricultural adjustment administration in trying to control the production and raise the prices of hogs through the recent slaughtering measure, and in planning to reinforce the measure by the fixation of prices including a processing tax.

"It is the old, old story of confusion and uncertainty, waste and expense, invariably arising from attempts to inject artificial influences into production and trade," says the statement. "Farm production in this country is too large and too scattered to be controlled. It can't be driven; it can't be bought.

Against Human Nature.

"It is human nature to seek a profit and to try to dodge a loss. No power on earth can prevent the manifestation of this, in pig production, or in anything else. When the government says it is going to raise hog prices, farmers will raise hogs, and neither promises nor threats can prevail against that determination."

The statement declares that "destroying wealth for the purpose of creating wealth is as new to the country as it is radical; the idea is abhorrent to many people."

"The decrease in the pork supply for the coming winter has been figured in the neighborhood of 1,500,000,000 pounds," says the farm dailies. "It is more likely to prove under than over this figure. The reason is that many of the pigs sold have been 'runty' or emaciated or sick, pigs that could hardly have been expected to make normal growth and gains. And many of the sows, supposed to be carrying unborn pigs, were found on slaughter not to be pregnant at all. . . .

Watch Future Supply.

"The effect of the slaughter will be seen in the number of hogs coming to market immediately after the first of the year, which is when these pigs that have been killed would have started to appear; in the supply of hogs next summer and fall, which is when the pigs from these so-called piggy sows would have reached market size. In itself the plan encourages production, says the statement.

The slaughtering measure has been in vain, however, unless some plan for controlling future corn and hog production is elaborated, in the belief of the AAA.

A premium of $1 per hundredweight on hogs under 220 pounds has been suggested to promote the marketing of hogs at lighter weights. Moreover, a processing tax of $2 per hundredweight on all hogs would be levied to finance a reduction in the corn acreage.

"It is not difficult from this to visualize pork chops at 40 to 50 cents in the retail shops, and the effect on consumption, unless conditions materially improve, is not hard to guess," observes the statement.

U. S. BUYS 6,200,000 PIGS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—The government's parade of pigs to market was over today with approximately 6,200,000 weighing 100 pounds and less sent to premature slaughter along with about 200,000 sows.

George N. Peek, farm administrator, estimated farmers will receive in excess of $30,000,000 for the swine marketed during the campaign, which lasted more than a month. More than $5,000,000 will be realized by packers, who slaughtered the animals.

ASK ROOSEVELT TO ASSURE FAIR TOBACCO PRICES

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Gov. Ehringhaus today asked President Roosevelt to intervene "personally" in the tobacco price situation and insist upon immediate action to accomplish parity prices "to avoid results which it is difficult to forecast." The North Carolina governor appealed to the President in a telegram which asserted "the situation challenges the power of the national government."

Ehringhaus said that tobacco growers had been promised a parity price in return for crop reduction contracts signed for 1934 and 1935, and that "fulfillment of the government promise of parity means easy success in other government activities along this line."

"While representatives of buyers and manufacturers haggle over details of [a price] agreement, prices continue to slump, their agents continue to acquire more and more of the crop at these prices, and unrest, distrust, and indignation increase," the telegram declared.

ALL LIVE STOCK PRICES WIND UP LOWER ON WEEK

Cheaper Meats, Larger Supplies Blamed.

Live stock markets were hard pressed during the week. Some species sank to the lowest price levels in several months near the close. Declining wholesale markets for meat, a lighter eastern demand and heavier receipts were the outstanding depressing factors. The average price of hogs during the first five days tumbled 50 cents.

On the week-end session further losses were recorded in swine, with the average at $4.10, comparing with $4.80 ten days ago. The class of lightweight hogs that established a new high mark for the year at $5.45 ten days ago was slow to sell at $4.75 and $4.80 yesterday. Some hogs were being held off the market in hopes that with the pig killing program out of the way packing houses might be more willing to operate normally in the commercial hogs next week.

Bonus Pig Slaughter Figures.

Chicago packers have killed off 720,004 light pigs, 167,550 heavy pigs, and 57,138 piggy sows for the account of the government. The first consignment of government meat was shipped from St. Paul to Montana relief agencies yesterday for distribution to to the unemployed.

Current hog quotations are 35 to 50 cents above a year ago, but prices at this time in 1932 were lowest for the season in 35 years. Most pressure in hogs lately has been on the heavy lard type stock. This has resulted in the widest spread in prices for this time of year since 1930. The extreme range from common rough packing sows to top selected light showed a spread of $2.60 near the end of the week. Less than two months ago all classes were selling within a range of $1.20.

Cattle Make Poor Showing.

The cattle market made a very poor showing during the week. Prices averaged only $5.75, or within 20 cents of the lowest weekly average since May. This price, compared with $7.80 a year ago and with $8.40 two years ago, being lower than any corresponding period in 27 years. Jewish holidays, cheaper pork and lamb, and the bearish reports from the hide trade worked against the market.

There has been some violent fluctuations in the market for calves on the hoof. From a $7.50 top early in September calves soared to $9.50, but closed last week with all of the advance lost.

Lambs also ran into some tough sledding. The average price dropped to $6.35, within 15 cents of the lowest weekly average since early in May. However, this price was 80 cents above a year ago and 5 cents higher than in 1931. Wholesale markets for dressed lamb carcasses declined 1 to 2 cents per pound, closing at the lowest point since last March, and 3 to 5 cents under the high point of the season in July.

ICKES ORDERS OIL REFINERS TO REPORT STOCKS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Periodic reports on the status of the petroleum industry were called for today by Secretary Ickes in furtherance of the government's effort to stabilize the industry. The order requires all companies processing oil to report not later than the fifteenth of every month crude petroleum stocks helds on the last day of the preceding month.

Weekly reports were asked of those east of California holding more than 100,000 barrels. California is to report to the United States bureau of mines at San Francisco. The general reports will be sent to the bureau of mines here.

Refineries were required to report supplies of crude petroleum received together with a statement of supply and demand. All companies operating or controlling pipelines and those holding petroleum on leases or tank farms must report stocks not later than 25 days after the end of the month.

The secretary made no comment regarding the reported reluctance of some groups to furnish figures.

DEPOSIT DEBITS CUT IN SEVENTH RESERVE AREA

Debits to individual deposit account reported to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago for the week ended Sept. 27, 1933, by 134 banks in 38 leading clearing house cities in the seventh federal reserve district, aggregated $758,167,000, a decrease of 4.4 per cent compared with a week ago.

An aggregate for 37 cities of $757,905,000 in the current week compared with $647,930,000 for the corresponding week of last year, an increase of 17.0 per cent.

Debits to individual deposit account for Chicago for the week ended Sept. 27, 1933, were $488,080,000, contrasting sharply with $380,790,000 for the week ended Sept. 28, 1932.

ONE WAY TRAFFIC SEEMS ONLY HOPE FOR WEST SIDERS

Elevated Highway Plan Is Still Far Off.

BY HAL FOUST.

With another mile of north side outer drive formally dedicated last week, west siders feel more acutely the neglect of their traffic facilities as contrasted with the development of the lake shore boulevards for the other two sections of the city.

The west siders, and residents of western suburbs and northern Illinois cities, have long pinned their hopes on the construction of an elevated highway for safe and fast motor transportation from the periphery of the built up area to the loop, but with state and local public finances continuing in the red, hopes of obtaining this improvement in the near future are fading. Even the federal government, splashing its billions of easy money, has overlooked this project of economic merit in preference for a program of developing more farm land in the south and far west while spending millions to eliminate surplus products of existing tilled acres.

One Way System Successful.

So the west siders are turning their hopes for immediate congestion relief upon an extension of their one way traffic system pending the ultimate construction of an elevated highway. The one way system in Washington and Warren boulevards for the two and a half miles between Garfield park and Union park has proved the efficiency of this type of traffic arrangement.

East of Union park and west of Garfield park, two way traffic in Washington boulevard is slow and hazardous by comparison. The more acute need, due to the heavier volume of traffic, is on the end of the one way system closer to the loop.

Engineers are looking to Monroe street and to Randolph street for possible pavement that might be coupled with Washington boulevard for a one way system east from Union park. Monroe, from Canal street to Western avenue, two and a third miles, has a smooth surface, a rare asset in Chicago today.

Connection at Wood Street.

It has been suggested that Monroe be used for east bound traffic only, east of Union park, leaving Washington for west bound only. The Warren one way traffic extends east across Ashland boulevard, but a heavy turning movement on this boulevard would impede traffic on this north and south artery. So Wood street, two blocks farther west, is looked upon as a more favorable connection between Warren and Monroe. Wood street, for the two blocks of this connection, could be reserved for one way traffic, south bound only, without interrupting any existing routes of travel.

A weakness to the Monroe street proposal, however, is that new brick pavement between Canal and Morgan streets, five-eighths of a mile, carries street car tracks and is so narrow that an automobile cannot pass between a parked car and the rails. George Barto engineer for the Chicago Motor club, suggested that Monroe might better be converted into a through street, protected by stop signs, with parking prohibited in the section with street cars, and that the Randolph street alternate be used for the one way combination with Washington boulevard east of Union park.

Cluttered with Wagons.

Randolph street is one hundred feet wide from Des Plaines street to Union park. It is now cluttered with vegetable wagons for produce houses that could well be moved to the new market district at 14th street and Racine avenue. East of Des Plaines to Canal, Randolph is forty-five feet wide and carries two car tracks. It is bordered by old buildings, so the expense of widening these three blocks would not be excessive.

A link through Union park to connect Randolph street with Washington boulevard could be built at nominal cost. Then, with the three blocks of widening, Randolph street from Canal street to Union park and Washington boulevard from Union park to Garfield park, could be used for west bound traffic only while Washington boulevard from Canal street to Union park and Warren boulevard from Union park to Garfield park could be used for east bound traffic only.

West of Garfield park, the state highway department is surveying a combination of West End avenue, Maypole avenue and Randolph street for a west bound one way traffic artery to use in combination with Washington for east bound only between Garfield park and Harlem avenue.

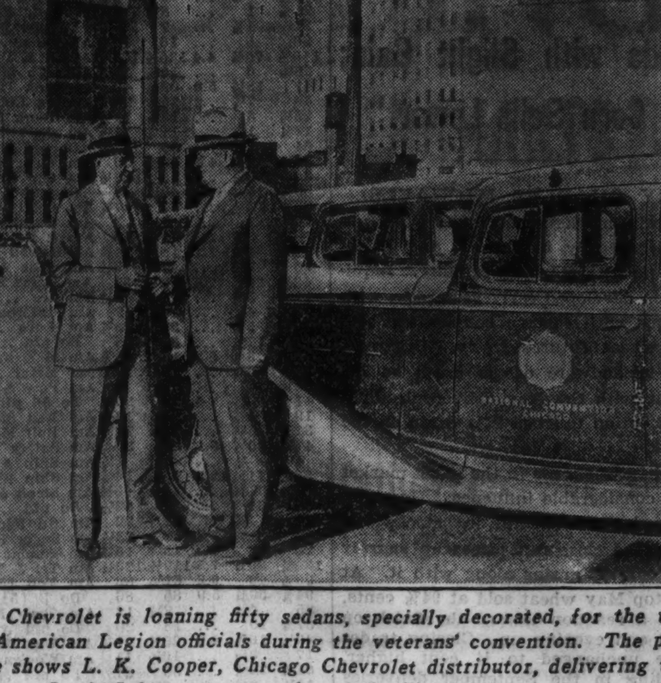
CHEVROLETS FOR LEGION USE



Chevrolet is loaning fifty sedans, specially decorated, for the use of American Legion officials during the veterans' convention. The picture shows L. K. Cooper, Chicago Chevrolet distributor, delivering the keys to Louis Johnson, commander of the legion.

NEWS AND VIEWS

The new 1934 Studebaker motor cars were announced throughout America yesterday. The new models will be exhibited late this week at the showrooms of the Studebaker Sales company of Chicago, located at 26th street and Michigan avenue.

During the preview showing a summarized diagnosis of the cars, which are produced in three complete lines, was made by Henry R. Levy, president of the local Studebaker organization. "Studebaker," said Mr. Levy, "has produced new models that exceed in both high performance and long life any previous Studebaker automobiles, and their prices are $200 less than ever before.

"Motorists who inspected the new cars today were impressed by three distinctive features—their low prices, their ultra-modern skyway styling, and the ensemble of devices and designs which make for safety, ease of handling, and long, quiet operation."

Nash's 1934 models were to be placed on exhibition today in the company's tower of glass at A Century of Progress. This will be the only public display of the cars prior to their formal announcement in a few weeks. Production of the new line has just started at the Kenosha, Wis., plant, and the dealers have not been furnished with show room models.

The cars, of entirely new design, are larger in appearance than the current models. The styles are youthful and dashing in lines and colors.

When the American Legion convention gets under way here this week, leading officials of the organization will find at their disposal fifty special automobiles provided by Chevrolet.

The cars will be Master Six sedans finished in dark Baker blue with gold wheels and appropriate lettering. Each car will be provided with its own driver wearing a white uniform and sailor cap.

Cars will be dispatched from a central point at the call of designated Legion officials and will transport them to any points within reasonable limits of the city for the duration of the convention.

As a special tieup with the Graham-Paige Motors corporatin's safety theme, the Bird-Sykes company, distributors in the Chicago territory, is staging a display at its headquarters, 2215-25 South Michigan avenue.

In addition to showing a Graham chassis, cut away in such a manner as to reveal particularly the various safety features, the display stresses the car's low center of gravity, the fact that it is wider than it is high, the use of "banjo" type frame and outboard springs.

In a check just completed by the research department of a nationally known advertising agency, it was revealed that 58 per cent of the people who attend A Century of Progress visit the Chrysler Motors exhibit and witness the demonstrations on the quarter mile track and the miniature death valley sand pit, which forms a part of this exhibit.

Thus far more than 300,000 people have ridden in Plymouth, Dodge, De Sota, and Chrysler cars on the exhibit track. There are six track demonstrations each day, beginning at 11:30 a. m., and there is an average of 4,000 people who watch each demonstration, it is estimated.

CHICAGO P. O. ASKS FOR TRUCKS WITH PNEUMATIC TIRES

Chicago's new postmaster, Ernest Kruetgen, is appealing to Washington, D. C., for truck equipment that will enable the federal government to obey the Illinois statute that requires pneumatic tires on vehicles driven faster than ten miles an hour.

Since THE TRIBUNE months ago began calling attention to the mail trucks' violation of this state law, the government has junked scores of its hard tired vans. However, there are still eighty-one of these carriers pounding Chicago's pavements in violation of the motor vehicle code. When the law was passed by the 1931 legislature, to become effective on Jan. 1, 1933, there were 240 mail trucks in Chicago with hard tires.

Get New Trucks.

Mr. Kruetgen said he was too new in his office to be familiar with this detail of his duties, but a first assistant, a superintendent, and an assistant superintendent all agreed that the department's 697 pneumatic tired trucks were not able to handle Chicago's postoffice business. In 1931 the department had 457 vehicles with pneumatic tires.

"We received some new trucks, all with pneumatic tires, and some of the old trucks were rebuilt to replace the hard tires with pneumatics," said a superintendent. He requested that his name should not be published, following a department rule that only the postmaster can speak for the press.

"The remaining hard tired trucks have been assigned to the short hauls between the postoffice and the railway stations," he continued.

"Do they violate the speed regulation for hard tired vehicles?" he was asked.

Don't Blame Us.

"Their average time is not over ten miles an hour," he replied. "They can't go very fast because of the lights."

"But isn't the ten miles an hour speed the maximum limit rather than the average trip speed limit under the state code?" the reporter inquired.

"Well," he concluded, "the mail trucks have schedules that they must keep, just like a railroad train. Don't blame the Chicago office if the Illinois law is broken; we're asking Washington for new equipment."

The legislature enacted the tire law after hearing testimony from engineers that trucks without pneumatic tires driven faster than ten miles an hour were destructive of the public's pavements.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

BARRIER TO TRUCKING.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—I wonder if the people of Chicago realize that there is a mile stretch, practically in the center of the city, through which no truck can pass going north or south. This stretch is from Kedzie avenue to Crawford avenue between Madison and Lake streets.

Garfield park covers part of this strip and the only two streets, Homan and Hamlin, both through streets, are boulevards for the two blocks from Madison to Lake only.

This means that if a truck is at Central Park avenue at Madison and the driver wishes to go north he must make a detour of one mile to stay within the law. If he does as hundreds of trucks do, he speeds through the alley alongside of Homan avenue, shooting out of the alley onto the streets, thus endangering life and property. The same is true of a truck going south through this section.

For people desiring a boulevard through this strip Garfield park is on one side and Sacramento boulevard on the other. Why should the only two through streets be made boulevards?

It must be remembered that trucks pay for the upkeep of the streets as well as passenger cars. Also that the trucks are the lifeblood of Chicago's business, and anything that impedes these trucks unnecessarily slows up the business of Chicago.

TRUCK DRIVER.

KIMBALL AVENUE PARKING.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Kimball avenue, the first block south of Milwaukee avenue, has twelve signs, "No parking at any time," within one block, and has thirty cars parked there all the time. Three police officers on the corner who don't seem to see anything, department store buses parking on one side of the street, car buses trying to get through, and we suckers that pay vehicle tax have to take chances to get our fenders torn off trying to get through. Isn't it about time that the suckers get a break?

F. O. S.

TIRE LAW VIOLATOR.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Today I passed a very large truck and trailer, license No. 5009, belonging to the Continental Trucking company. Both truck and trailer were on hard tires.

BOOST BUSINESS IN GRAND CROSSING

A RAY OF HOPE SEEN IN BAIN'S SMALLER BANKS

Analysis Ends with Three "Possibles."

BY HERBERT VEDDER.

[This is the fifth of a series of articles on the condition of closed banks on the south side. It concludes analysis of members of the Bain chain.]

Out of the welter of confusion and entanglement which characterizes affairs of the defunct Bain banks certain rays of hope shine out for depositors of some smaller members.

The Brainerd State bank, 8646 South Ashland avenue, has paid one 10 per cent dividend and has $11,484.67 in cash, almost enough for another 5 per cent. $198,364.21 is owed.

The West Lawn State bank has all bills paid, reserves set up against preferred claims, and a balance of $2,506.33. The balance due creditors is $245,155.84.

Future income of the Ridge State bank also will go to funds for dividends, bills being paid and reserves set up almost equal to preferred claims.

BRAINERD STATE BANK

Total book resources of $483,798.16 remain against the $198,364.21 due creditors of the Brainerd bank. Including $11,484.67 in cash for dividends, this figure presents a comparatively rosy picture on its face. It permits a "writing down" of nearly 40 per cent of the bloated book value figure, even after deducting two admittedly worthless listings.

These are the $100,000 at which the banking house is carried and $44,359.91 set against furniture and fixtures. A $200,000 mortgage on the bank building will dissipate any depositor equities; no furniture remains.

Examination of the remaining $325,000 listed resources reveals some $155,000 in loans to Bain and associates, Bain stocks and bonds, and loans on inflated Bain real estate promotions. If this were charged off in its entirety, the balance listed still would be $170,000, 90 per cent of the cash needed to pay creditors in full.

Realty Fly in Ointment.

Unfortunately, however, liquidation expenses and a real estate market violently depressed from the level at which the assets were booked will cut heavily into dividends. How much depends on how favorable a disposition of assets Receiver Irwin T. Gilruth finds possible. One thing is certain, though, Brainerd depositors stand to receive double the 15 per cent estimated as the return to Bain bank depositors by a man close to the affairs of the defunct chain—if they have any luck at all. Ten per cent has been paid: another five per cent is within easy striking distance.

Expenses of the two year receivership are $20,258.89. Adding this to the conversion loss puts the cost of liquidation at 22 per cent. This means a minimum of 25 per cent loss—probably twice this much—on liquidating the $170,000 listed resources remaining aside from Bain tainted items. None of these calculations consider monies to be collected on assessments against the $200,000 in capital stock—which to date has netted only $3,326.79.

Conversion Cost Low.

The negligible amount of $3,161.90 has been lost in converting notes, bonds, and real estate loans into $102,000 cash. Total receipts have been $110,161.08. Bills payable of $37,500, collections owed of $4,472.75, preferred and secured claims of $14,400.27, have been wiped off the books and $22,044.50 paid in dividends. There are reserves against all possible preferred claims, and $11,484.67 in cash remains.

The largest items on the books, $149,340.33 in notes and discounts, includes some $90,000 dished out in the Bain circle. Eight loans to Bain total $33,821.79; three to John Bain, Inc., amount to $17,500; another $4,898.50 is sunk in John Bain, Inc., gold notes; the Lews company got $11,800; there is a judgment of $6,758.15 against John H. Bain; another of $1,978.20 against Anna Eunson, a Bain dummy signer. Other loans in the Bain circle: Dr. W. H. Buhlig, $4,300; Frank Mulholland, $5,865; E. F. Wiegel, $5,941.87; Hugh M. Leslie, $2,741.71; Otto K. Jelinek, $2,400.

$45,000 Tied Up.

Some $45,000 of the $130,738 in real estate loans is tied up in bloated properties where there was a Bain interest. In these loans: Stony Island Trust 131, $9,000; West Englewood Trust 687, $4,000; Brainerd building, $8,500; West Lawn Bank building, $4,500; West Lawn Building corporation, $10,500; Beverly Cemetery company, $5,000.

John Bain, Inc., shares are listed at $10,000 of the $38,211 in stocks and bonds. Principal outside investments: Buncombe county, N. C., $8,238.40; Northeastern Public Service company, $9,700; Niles Center, Ill., $5,000; Towanda, N. Y., $5,000. One $5,000 investment in Towanda has been retired.

Other items on the balance sheet are assets discovered of $9,906.71, accounts receivable of $1,684.41, and other assets of $851.94.

WEST LAWN STATE

The plight of this institution at 63d street and Crawford avenue is neither as sad as the run of the Bain banks nor as hopeful as the Brainerd situation.

Total resources of $545,636.52 are listed against the $245,155.84 due creditors. Examination of the books indi-

TEA AFTER P.-T. A. LEADERS OF FIRST DISTRICT PLAN FOR YEAR

PLANS BENEFIT

MRS. H. G. KURZ.

The South Chicago Community Hospital guild will hold a benefit luncheon and bridge party at 1 o'clock Wednesday at the South Side Swedish club, 7330 Ridgeland avenue. Mrs. H. G. Kurz, 7523 Jeffery avenue, is president of the guild, and Mrs. Michael Steindler is chairman of the party. On the committee are Mrs. Thomas J. Daley, Mrs. Samuel Cresswell, Mrs. Harry McDonald, Mrs. J. H. McLaughlin, Mrs. Fred E. Hewitt, and Mrs. Walter Spencer.

PLAYCRAFTERS TO PRESENT THREE ONE ACT SHOWS

The Playcrafters will present three one act plays for West Englewood chapter, 894, Order of the Eastern Star, at 8 o'clock Friday evening at 64th street and Loomis boulevard. The players are directed by Miss Gertrude Payette. "The Undercurrent" will include in its cast George Wesley, Miss Bernice Nitter, Miss Blanche Piper, Albert Teed Jr., Miss Lolita Claussen, and Miss Gloria Hunt. "Stuck Up" is a domestic comedy with just two characters, husband and wife, played by Miss Dorothy Laskey and Robert Snyder. The third presentation, "Joint Owners in Spain," has Miss Barbara Woldd, Miss Vivienne Stewart, Miss Bernice Widemeyer, and Miss Charlotte Marrettick as players.

Old Time Dance Club Stages a Mardi Gras

The South Side Old Time Dance club opened its sixth successful year last night with a mardi gras and carnival at 6932 South Halsted street. Music for the dancing was furnished by Rube Anderson and his Minnesota Lumberjacks. Mrs. Isabel Lamb, 7728 East End avenue, is vice president of the organization.

Boosters Open Season.

The 13th Ward West End Improvement club opened the fall season with a card party recently at its clubhouse, 6188 Archer avenue. Proceeds went to the association's treasury.

SEEK BACKING OF U. S. FOR WIDER PERSHING ROAD

Oakland Business Men for Plan.

Unconditional indorsement of the proposal to make the widening of Pershing road between South Park way and Archer avenue a national reconstruction project has been voted by the directorate of the Oakland Business Men's association. The directors also went on record unanimously in favor of local option laws in respect to licensing saloons in the old village of Hyde Park territory.

The Pershing road widening is a project urged for years by the association, and the directors instructed Michael Montague, legislative chairman, to spare no effort in having this project retained in the public works program over "improvements in other parts of the city of less importance."

"Although we now are known as Oakland," said A. P. Dippold, president of the business men, "it must be remembered that the original village of Hyde Park had for its northern boundary what is now known as Pershing road. Therefore the Oakland community is vitally interested in the original laws of the village of Hyde Park."

The decision of the board on local option, it was pointed out, is not to be construed as a stand either for or against saloons or prohibition in general. But the directorate is of the opinion that the people of Hyde Park alone should continue to have the right to speak for itself on the question rather than have the entire city or state dictate what it should or should not have."

Schnackenberg to Speak at Bryn Mawr Church

State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [13th], minority leader of the legislature, will speak before the Round Table of the Bryn Mawr Community church, 7000 Jeffery avenue, at 7:30 o'clock this evening. Mr. Schnackenberg will speak on problems confronting special sessions of the legislature, which is to assemble this week. Liquor control and unemployment measures will be included in Mr. Schnackenberg's talk. Clifford Hull, president of the Round Table group, will be in the chair. The meeting is open to any persons interested in state problems.

Delta Omega Pi Juniors to Seat Officers Friday

Miss Eleanor Hansen, new president, and other officers of Delta Omega Pi Junior auxiliary of the South Shore, will be installed at 8 o'clock Friday evening at the home of Miss Ethel Kilpatrick, 5009 Dorchester avenue. Miss Kilpatrick is publicity and program chairman. Other officers are Miss Marjorie Krauel, vice president, and Miss Hazel Hughes, secretary-treasurer.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

"AND HOW!" was Arthur Glatt's reply when we asked him if he had paid off his youngsters yet. The popular, sprightly real estate scion and South Shore "Y" chief made the colossal mistake of betting his offspring $10 apiece that they couldn't walk downtown from the 6907 Constance avenue domicile. To Morris, 8, and Barbara, 11, those ten spots looked mighty good, so last Sunday they just showed their dad. They walked down to Roosevelt road and Michigan avenue in two hours and forty-five minutes, taking just seven minutes out for one rest.

O. O. Fellows! Be warned that the Gotta Koppa Poppa club down in Sheldon Heights is planning on a busy fall and winter season.

TWO men whose careers have run parallel since youth in Tipperary, Ireland, returned together to Englewood from a European trip which included an audience with Pope Pius XI. That St. Sabina and St. Bernard parishioners were glad to see their respective pastors, Msgr. Thomas F. Egan and Msgr. John F. Ryan, goes without saying. Reared together, in the priesthood together, they left Ireland together for this country 34 years ago—now they are still together, ministers of neighboring churches.

LINCOLN CENTRE TO AID CHILDREN FROM SIX TO 16

Opens Its 28th Season This Week.

A dolls' club for children 6 to 10 years old, a child care class for girls between the ages of 12 and 16, and a folk dancing group for children of all ages are among the new activities which will be featured when Abraham Lincoln centre, 700 Oakwood boulevard, opens its 28th season this week.

Registration will take place tomorrow and Tuesday, with Dr. Curtis Reese again heading the centre as dean. The activities on the program include gymnasium work, art, music, dancing, and dramatics. The social service work will continue under the supervision of Mrs. Anna Ayres.

All Souls-at-Lincoln Centre will resume Sunday morning services at 11 o'clock next Sunday morning with Dr. Reese as minister. The unique feature of an after service discussion of the morning topic, when "the pew talks back to the pulpit," will be continued under Dr. Reese's ministry.

Enters 13th Year.

The Friday morning forum will enter its 13th year on Oct. 20, with a series of 20 lecture-discussion meetings on cultural, economic, and religious topics.

In the dramatic department a junior group will be conducted by Melville Hosch, who has had six years of experience in Little Theater work. Mr. Hosch also will have charge of boys' work, being assisted by John Greene. He is a graduate of the University of Louisville, Ky., and a former playground instructor in that city. The Workers' theater, directed by Mrs. Louise Loeb Hamburger, will continue its presentation of plays dealing with political and economic conditions. The Oakland players will continue at the centre under the leadership of Miss M. Olive Patier.

Mr. Greene, well known bass-baritone, will assist Mrs. Meda Z. Steele, chairman of the centre's music committee for many years. There will be provision for private violin, piano, and voice lessons in addition to group work. The second annual series of Sunday afternoon concerts will begin Nov. 5, under the direction of Mr. Greene.

Directs Girls' Work.

Girls' work will be directed by Miss Elizabeth Baker, a Michigan State college graduate specializing in sociology. She has been in charge of girls' work this summer at Eli Bates house. The Better Housewives club will have its first meeting Oct. 11 and the Mothers' club will have its first session Oct. 10 under the leadership of Mrs. Ayres.

Morris Topchevsky will begin his second year as art director, and will give a course in history and appreciation of art as well as the regular work in paints, charcoal, and clay.

BEVERLY HEAD

MRS. A. H. SWETT.

"The Gentlemen of the Club" will be special guests Wednesday evening to hear Frederic Snyder talk on "Our Age and the Front Page" at the Beverly Hills Woman's club. Music will be by the "Ten Troubadors" male chorus at this first meeting of the year. Mrs. A. H. Swett, president of the club, also will be in the receiving line at the opening meeting of the Junior auxiliary of the Beverly Hills Woman's club tomorrow evening.

JUNIOR GROUP WILL HOLD PLAY TRYOUTS TODAY

The Junior assembly of South Side Hebrew congregation, 7359 Chappel avenue, will have a short business meeting and hold tryouts for parts in the annual cabaret and revue at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Sol A. Segal, who has written and produced the assembly's revues for the last five years, will conduct the tryouts. Mr. Segal is vice president of the organization.

Succoth services of the congregation will be at 5:15 o'clock Thursday and Friday afternoons, with Rabbi Morris Teller speaking on "The Tabernacle of Peace" and "Jewish Weapons." Registrations are being made now in the Hebrew and Sunday schools.

Hyde Park Kiwanis Will Honor Florida Wednesday

The Hyde Park Kiwanis club will have a Florida day at its Wednesday noon luncheon in the Windermere-East hotel. Charles P. Hammerstein, a Kiwanian and director of the Florida exhibit at A Century of Progress, will speak on his state and present the Orange Blossom quartet in a group of southern songs. There also will be an exhibit of fruit and flowers. Last Wednesday a similar program was given for the Woodlawn Kiwanis club. Both clubs joined in the Kiwanis party last Friday evening in the Florida exhibit at the Fair.

MERCHANTS TO SHARE PROFITS IN FALL DRIVE

Halloween Set for Big Campaign.

A plan of community profit sharing stamps to benefit customers and stimulate business for merchants of the district has been set up by the Grand Crossing Chamber of Commerce. It will be put in operation Oct. 25, when the annual fall Halloween week sale begins.

The chamber will back the plan, keeping a separate fund for this account. Hopes are held out that $1,000 revolving fund may be set up, representing a total of 500,000 stamps. A stamp will be given to each customer for each 10 cent purchase.

How Plan Works.

Briefly, the plan works as follows: [1] the chamber buys the stamps, merchants buy the stamps from the chamber in books of 5,000 at $10 each. Of this $10, one-fourth goes for promotion and advertising and the remainder goes into a fund for redemption; the merchants give a stamp with each 10 cent purchase, also giving the customer a book in which to paste stamps; when the customer has a book pasted full of stamps [representing $72 in purchases] he may turn the book in to any of the coöperating business houses and receive $1.25 in trade. The chamber then redeems the book, paying the merchant $1.

In order to participate in the plan a merchant must be a member of the Grand Crossing chamber.

Bud Singman, chairman of the business promotion committee which developed the plan, sees in it the creating of a better community spirit, binding the local merchants of various businesses into a closer union, and retaining business in the community. He said that two-thirds of the local business houses have signed to participate in the program.

Members of Group.

Other members of the business promotion committee are Max Frank, treasurer of the chamber, who will have charge of the fund, Sidney Stone, Jack Olewicki, George Wilson, George Thorp, Max Ornstein, and Sam Levy. Milford Henkel, president of the organization, is attorney and ex-officio member of the committee.

Mr. Henkel announced last week, at his formal installation as president, that 29 new members have been taken into the organization since his election and the institution of a membership campaign. Other new members are expected, some as a result of the stamp-buying stimulant plan which is restricted to members only.

Form Two Teams.

Two teams have been formed out of the organization for the membership drive, with Fred Nielsen and Dr. A. M. Sorensen, vice president, as the other respective captains. The losing side is to treat the winners to banquet at the South Side Swedish club the last of this month.

The officers and directors officially installed Monday, aside from Mr. Hankel, Mr. Sorensen, and Mrs. Frank, secretary, Ambrose J. Burke, chairman of the board, Carl J. Adams, directors, Harry E. Dorigan, Adam Geringer, Eugene J. Mooney, Thomas W. Moore, Mr. Nielsen, Max Rees, Mr. Singman, William Sneed, Mr. Stone, Mr. Thorp, and Dr. F. C. Warne.

TAXPAYERS IN PARK MANOR TO MEET TOMORROW

All property owners in the Park Manor district have been invited to the first fall meeting of the Park Manor Improvement association at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at 7105 South Park avenue whether they are members of the association or not.

Two speakers, one from the City club and the other from the state's attorney's office, will speak on taxes and other allied subjects of interest to property owners. The association is fighting for the 1 per cent maximum tax limitation on realty.

A report also will be given on the proposal to connect Michigan avenue at 63d street with Vincennes avenue at 67th street by a diagonal state highway project. F. W. Schroeder is the new president of the Park Manor association.

East Hamilton Park Home Owners Meet Tomorrow

The East Hamilton Park Home Owners' association will open its fall season tomorrow evening at 7339 Vincennes avenue, when a representative of the Home Owners Loan corporation is expected to explain the workings of that federal organization. Horseshoe court and lights have been installed in the new playground, a project of the association located on the west side of State street between 74th and 75th streets. Richard Hammond, 7427 Lafayette avenue, is in charge of horseshoe tourneys which are being planned.

South Shore Sisterhood Plans Party Saturday

The South Shore Temple Sisterhood will have its first card party of the season at 8 o'clock Saturday evening in the community house, 7215 Jeffery avenue. The committee in charge: Mrs. Edward Hellinger, Mrs. A. A. Van Ronkel, Mrs. Carl Stricker, Mrs. Anna Morris, Mrs. David Lefler, and Mrs. Walter Nochumson.

PRECEDENTS TO BE BROKEN AT M. E. CONFERENCE

Lutheran, Baptist, Jewish Speakers Slated.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The 94th session of the Rock River annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which convenes at Joliet on Tuesday, not only will break many Methodist precedents, but will also mark the 100th anniversary of the establishment of that church at Joliet. Among the precedents to be broken, Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf, president of the conference, announced, will be the inclusion of speakers on the program representing Judaism, and the Southern Methodist Lutheran and Baptist churches.

BISHOP ERNEST LYNN WALDORF.

The theme of the conference will be "The Contribution of the Church in the Life of Today." Each night during the sessions representative leaders will discuss the various angles of this subject. Bishop Waldorf will open the series Tuesday night. On Friday night Rabbi Louis L. Mann of Sinai temple will discuss the influence of the church on international relations. Dr. Albert W. Beaven, Baptist leader and president of the Federal Council of Churches, will conclude the series on Sunday. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt of St. Louis, leader in the Southern Methodist church; Dr. Joshua Oden, pastor of Irving Park Lutheran church, and Dr. Merton S. Rice of Detroit will also appear in the series.

Laity to Get Voting Right.

The second precedent to be broken at the Joliet conference will be the admission of laity to full voting rights of the conference. This constitutional change in Methodist polity was effected two years ago at the Atlantic City general conference after battles of many years. While the Rock River admitted laity last year at its Dixon sessions, there were still organizational problems to be ironed out. Thus the new lay group will be able to function with full power for the first time this year.

It is predicted that the influence of the laity will bring many changes in general Methodist emphasis in the direction, some think, of freer interdenominational coöperation on the one hand and greater conservatism of pronouncement on social issues on the other.

Until this change had been made, Methodism had been entirely dominated by the clergy. The annual conference limited its membership solely to "traveling elders," clergymen who in their ordination vows promised to labor in whatever field the conference, speaking through the voice of the bishop, should send them.

Last Function to Yield.

Inasmuch as this function of the placement of pastors rests solely in the annual conference, it was the last governmental unit in Methodism's intricate system of conferences to give way to the laity. The quarterly conference, the local church unit, of course, has always been composed of laity with an elder as president.

Joliet's first Methodist society was founded just 100 years ago when the Rev. S. R. Beggs, circuit rider in charge of the Des Plaines charge, made Joliet a part of his itinerary. In 1833 George West, a Methodist local preacher, moved to Joliet and founded a "class" and established a Sunday school. The church was formerly organized with elected trustees in 1837 and was the first of any denomination to be organized there. A church was built that year, the first in the village. It is now known as the Ottawa Street church, the fourth in the line from Joliet's first church edifice.

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB

Clifford W. Barnes, president of the Chicago Sunday Evening club, will return to his place on the platform after a year of absence due to illness. He will preside at the opening service of the 27th season in Orchestra hall tonight. The theme of the meeting will be "International Goodwill," with Jane Addams as the principal speaker. Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president, Chicago Theological seminary, will take part in the program. George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will read the scripture selection, a part always taken by a business man.

A leading feature will be the first symphony program of the season by the Chicago Business Men's orchestra at 7 o'clock, under the direction of Clarence Evans.

The club's choir of 125 voices will participate in a music program at the main meeting beginning at 8, under the direction of Edgar Nelson. Daniel Protheroe's "We Praise Thee, O, Creator God," which this well known Chicago musician has written and dedicated to the Chicago Sunday Evening club, will have its premiere.

The list of speakers for the season includes several to be heard from the club platform for the first time: Dr. Allan A. Stockdale, formerly of the Rogers Park church, now pastor of the First Congregational church, Washington, D. C.; Dr. Russell H. Stafford, Old South church, Boston, Mass.; Dr. M. H. Lichliter, First Congregational church, Columbus, O.

LEADERS OF WEST LAWN WOMEN

All set for a big year, say these leaders of the West Lawn Woman's club which opens its season at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at 6348 South Karlov avenue. Left to right, seated: Mrs. George Kennedy, vice president, and Mrs. Edward Havice, corresponding secretary. Standing: Mrs. Martin Malloy, recording secretary; Mrs. Eric Marks, second vice president; Mrs. Edna Smith, president, and Mrs. Oscar J. Bergman, treasurer.

HOLY NAME NOON MASS

The celebration of solemn mass at noon will be resumed at the Holy Name cathedral today. The music will be given by the Holy Name Cathedral Men's choir, and the Cardinal's Cathedral choristers. Rosary devotions will be held in Holy Name cathedral at 8 o'clock every evening in October, commencing tonight. The devotions will include the recitation of the rosary and litany, with the prayer to St. Joseph, followed by benediction of the blessed sacrament.

MISSIONERS TO MEET

The annual meeting of the Chicago Christian Missionary society will be held tomorrow night at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street. The Rev. Perry J. Rice, executive secretary of the society, will give his 16th annual report. Dr. Rice announced that radical changes in the constitution of the society will be considered.

LEADERS TO MEET

Clergy and laity of the Episcopal church, representing some twenty-five south side churches, will assemble at St. Paul's church, 50th and Dorchester avenue tomorrow evening to consider important phases of church work.

The meeting is called by the Chicago south deanery of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, of which Dr. George H. Thomas, rector of St. Paul's, is leader. Bishop George Craig Stewart, head of the local diocese, will be the principal speaker. The Venerable Frederick G. Deis and the Venerable W. H. Ziegler, archdeacons of Chicago, will be present.

The whole program of Episcopal church work locally and nationally will be discussed at the meeting. A subject to come up for consideration is the "bishop's pence," a novel saving plan inaugurated by the Episcopal church in Chicago.

PARISH GROUP TO GIVE 3 ACT COMEDY DRAMA

"College Cutups" is the three act comedy drama to be given by the Catholic Youth Organization club of Immaculate Conception parish this afternoon and evening in the school hall, 1039 West 31st street. George J. Grant is director of the play. Bernard Breier is president and the Rev. John Sprengel is spiritual director of the club. The committee in charge of the entertainment includes Albert Schuh, chairman, and John Surane, Miss Gertrude Biggins, Miss Bernice Downs, Miss Catherine Hough, Bernie Antowiak, and Jacob Burger.

JOHN SURANE.

Greater Garden Group Opens Season Saturday

The Greater Garden group of the south side will have its first fall meeting Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wilz, 9141 Loomis street. James Burdette will speak on "Proper Pruning." This group of men and women made a tour of TRIBUNE honor gardens Sunday.

cates a reduction of these assets by $380,000 in worthless or dubious holdings to be reasonable for hard practical consideration. This leaves a theoretical balance of $165,000 to pay depositors—and this will be slashed by loss in conversion of assets to cash and by receivership expenses.

The deduction for dubious or worthless holdings includes nearly $265,000 in notes, stocks, and real estate loans plagued by the Bain taint. Collection may be enforced on a portion of them. Another $84,841.68 is the banking house equity, considered most remote in view of a mortgage of $150,000 on the building. There is nothing left to realize $30,962.92, the book value on furniture and fixtures.

Most to Bain and Pals.

Nearly nine-tenths of the $127,008.01 in notes and discounts is soured by the touch of Bain and associates. A fifth, or $24,865.67, is in unsecured notes of Bain. Another $15,050 went to the Lews Co., and $14,750 to John Bain, Inc. Other notes in the Bain category include: Edward C. Barry, $6,049.62; Dr. W. H. Buhlig, $7,100; E. F. Wiegel, $7,863.55; Frank Mulholland, $6,100; Robert A. Bain, $8,939.79; John H. Bain, $5,192; W. G. McDonald, $6,685.62; Leslie L. Bain, $1,544.82; G. F. Larkin, $2,969.50; William H. Fisher, $1,448.06. What security there was of value has been disposed of and accounts credited.

Loans on real estate in which there was a Bain interest total $120,000 of this $210,940 figure. Listings of these include: Troy Street building, $30,100; West Lawn Building Corp., $29,300; Victoria Apts., $13,500; West Lawn Trust and Savings bank, $12,200; John Bain, $10,000; 63d and Albany building, $9,400; Sheehan building, $6,000. Larger loans not in this category: Beverly Glen Apts., $28,300; Dixon building, $20,900, and Reiner Coal Co., $10,500.

$30,000 in Bain Bonds.

The $54,405.85 in stocks and bonds includes $30,000 in Bain securities; West Englewood Trust 1006, $15,000; Beverly Cemetery Co., $10,140.85; West Englewood Trusts 687 and 1202, $5,500. Other investments include: Commonwealth of Australia, $4,912.50; City of Sydney, N. S. W., $2,707.50; Pearl River Valley Co., $5,970; American States Public Service, $4,875.

Accounts receivable of $3,385.55, assets discovered of $8,069.41, and other assets of $2,501.64 complete the resources listed.

A cash balance of $2,506.33 and reserves of $21,015.13 against claims filed for preference remain after payment of $14,500 in secured and preferred claims, $9,750 in bills payable, $5,306.60 to collections, and $17,995.43 for expenses of receivership. There was a conversion loss of $5,768.30 in realizing $60,000 on notes, stocks, and real estate loans. Receipts total $71,073.49—revealing the West Lawn liquidation as most sluggish.

RIDGE STATE BANK

Opened in 1930 as the last of the chain, the Ridge State bank, 7048 South Western avenue, became surprisingly enmeshed in Bain promotions in the short time before Bain's house of cards fell on June 9, 1931.

Were it not for this entanglement the affairs of the bank might be considered really favorable, for the book value of resources is $494,925.48, more than double the present liabilities of $213,472.45. This is a better balance than any other Bain institution except the Brainerd State bank,

Some $149,000 of the listed resources is tied up in Bain stocks and ventures which may or may not have any value. The $115,530.21 at which the banking house is carried is a vague asset—it is doubtful if there will be much if any equity for depositors after bondholders are paid for the $100,000 mortgage on the building. Another item of no value is furniture and fixtures, $32,289.39.

This would leave less than $200,000 to pay $213,472.45 due creditors—and meet receivership costs, and increasing loss in liquidation of some dubious loans and much slow real estate, shrunken from peak values.

Stocks and bonds, listed at $66,140.42, contain $44,000 in Bain interests. There is $10,000 in John Bain, Inc., stock and $5,070.42 in the Beverly Cemetery company. Collateral trust notes for the rest of the $44,000: West Englewood Trust, 687, $5,500, signed by Bain; Chicago Lawn trust 1, $10,000, per William MacAskill [Bain dummy]; West Englewood trust 1202, $6,800, per H. S. Hertel; Chicago Lawn trust 59, $5,000, per Joseph Radnick; Chicago Lawn trust 51, $1,500, per W. H. Buhlig.

Notes and discounts of $84,642.42—all good collateral disposed of and accounts credited—includes some $60,000 to Bain and associates. Five loans to Bain total $22,811, while $20,000 is owed by the Lews company, and $10,000 by John Bain, Inc. Others are $4,500 to E. F. Wiegel and $3,750 to H. W. Elmore.

$44,000 in Bain Projects.

Real estate loans of $167,885 involve but $44,000 on Bain projects. A majority of the other properties, on which loans are held are in default, however. Real estate recovery, then, is the principal hope of Ridge depositors.

Liquidation has been sluggish. Receipts have been $76,723.53. Included in this is $20,226.94 from notes, discounts, and real estate loans, and $45,832.79 from bonds and cash items, representing a loss of only $3,385 on conversion. Bills payable of $20,000 have been removed, and $10,099.87 disbursed to collections, while $12,500 in secured claims have been paid and offsets of $1,846 allowed. Expenses of the receivership have been $17,500 in two years, against an ordinary income of $7,250 [included in receipts above].

There is $16,620.29 in cash on hand, but this is held in reserve, pending settlement of claims for preference totaling $24,200. Of this, $21,100 is represented by tax money deposits for which County Treasurer McDonough is asking preference and which is being contested by the receiver.

No dividends have been paid, but future income will go largely to depositors. Only $2,550 in stockholders' liability has been paid, as against $200,000 capitalization.

CHICAGOWOMAN'S AID TO LAUNCH SECOND 50 YEARS

Symphony to Give Concert at Tuesday Opening.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

With a half century of cultural and civic achievement to its credit the Chicago Woman's aid is launching its second 50 years Tuesday as it introduces its 1933-'34 season. At 2 o'clock the Woman's Symphony orchestra is to give its members a program in the spacious clubrooms at 185 North Wabash avenue.

"This season's activities are important not only because they start the second 50 years of club work but also because they coincide and coöperate with the 'new deal' and the spirit of the NRA," Mrs. Charles P. Schwartz, president of the aid, pointed out yesterday. "Not only is the club doing its part under the Blue Eagle but in its work afield its characteristic pioneering spirit is helping to make successful the new technique and the theories of the present day.

Equal to Emergencies.

"Always in the past the club has stepped into emergencies, national and local. In the world war there was the model canteen. For emergency relief the Chicago Woman's aid collected $15,000, part of which is still functioning in a food service fund. During the trying winters of 1931 and 1932 the club organized and supervised the occupational therapy project at the Woman's Municipal shelter. The American Red Cross speaks gratefully of the hundreds of hours of work given by the Chicago Woman's aid volunteers in its work rooms last winter. The slogan 'We Do Our Part' is not a new one for the Woman's aid."

Mrs. Schwartz might speak quite as glowingly of the program carried forward during her term in the president's chair. Besides continuing all of its projects of civic, philanthropic, and educational benefit it is concentrating on important new enterprises. Last year, in recognition of its 50th anniversary, the club equipped a model eyesight saving division in the Volta school. A picture of this division, together with pictures of several of the other club projects, is now on exhibit in the Hall of Social Science at A Century of Progress. As the result of the eight saving divisions a dozen children, who without proper care would lose their sight, will this year have a chance for education under ideal conditions.

Other Contributions.

The aid's committee for the hard of hearing has been just as strenuously at work. It has already made possible a city-wide examination of hearing in the public schools and this year it hopes to provide special care for all of those found imperfect. Still another contribution of the aid to Chicago's school children are the 500 gallons of milk provided daily for undernourished boys and girls.

Withal the increasing responsibility of civic obligations more and varied programs are being given the club members each year in their downtown headquarters. Luncheons and afternoon meetings are almost daily occurrences. There are classes in music and art appreciation, in civic problems, current topics, and child study.

Chicago Woman's Club.

The annual president's reception, with Mrs. Ozora S. Davis heading the receiving line, will open the new year of the Chicago Woman's club Wednesday afternoon in its handsome clubhouse at 72 East 11th street.

Receiving with Mrs. Davis will be Mrs. John R. Bensley, chairman of hospitality, and the following officers: Mrs. Frederic D. Porter, Mrs. R. Maynard Reed, Mrs. Ralph W. Webster, Mrs. John L. Pfaff, Mrs. John D. Hoefels, Miss Florence Brigham, and Miss Nell Hirschberg, president of the Junior auxiliary.

Presiding at the tea tables to be decorated with flowers from the Glencoe gardens of Mrs. Andrew MacLeish will be the past presidents of the club. They include Mrs. Harvey Fox, Mrs. Henry Hozt Hilton, Mrs. MacLeish, Miss Grace E. Temple, Mrs. Edwin Theodore Johnson, Mrs. Harlan Ward Cooley, and Mrs. George Bass.

First District President's Tea.

In introduction of its fall and winter season the first district of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, representing 50 clubs meeting in the loop area, will observe its annual Presidents' day tomorrow at the Bal Tabarin in the Hotel Sherman. Mrs. William Franklin Farrell, president of the Illinois federation, will attend as a special guest.

After a morning session devoted to an outline of the coming year's plans of the member organizations, luncheon will be served at 12:30 o'clock. During this hour a musical program will be given by a braille orchestra.

Mrs. James G. Davidson, first district president, will open the afternoon meeting by introducing Mrs. Farrell. Then Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of forestry in Cook county, will discuss "Conservation." Mrs. C. M. Dargin, a federation officer, will speak on "American Citizenship" and Mrs. Leona Malek will discuss "The American Home."

Hostess clubs tomorrow will include the Andoka Philanthropic club, the Braille Musical club, Friends of American Writers, the Medical Woman's club, the Prairie State club, and the Woman's Progressive club.

Medical Society Auxiliary.

Dr. Austin Hayden, president of the Chicago Medical society, and Dr. P. H. Kreuscher, president of the Illinois State Medical society, will speak before a meeting of the Woman's auxiliary to the Chicago Medical society Wednesday afternoon in the clubrooms of the Medical and Dental Arts building, 185 North Wabash avenue.

"Good Hospital Care," a motion picture with sound, will be shown under the direction of Dr. M. T. MacEachern. Luncheon will be served to the group at 12:30 o'clock.

AID PRESIDENT

Mrs. Charles P. Schwartz, president of the Chicago Woman's Aid, will preside tomorrow over a meeting of that organization, which will open its 51st year in the clubrooms at 185 North Wabash.

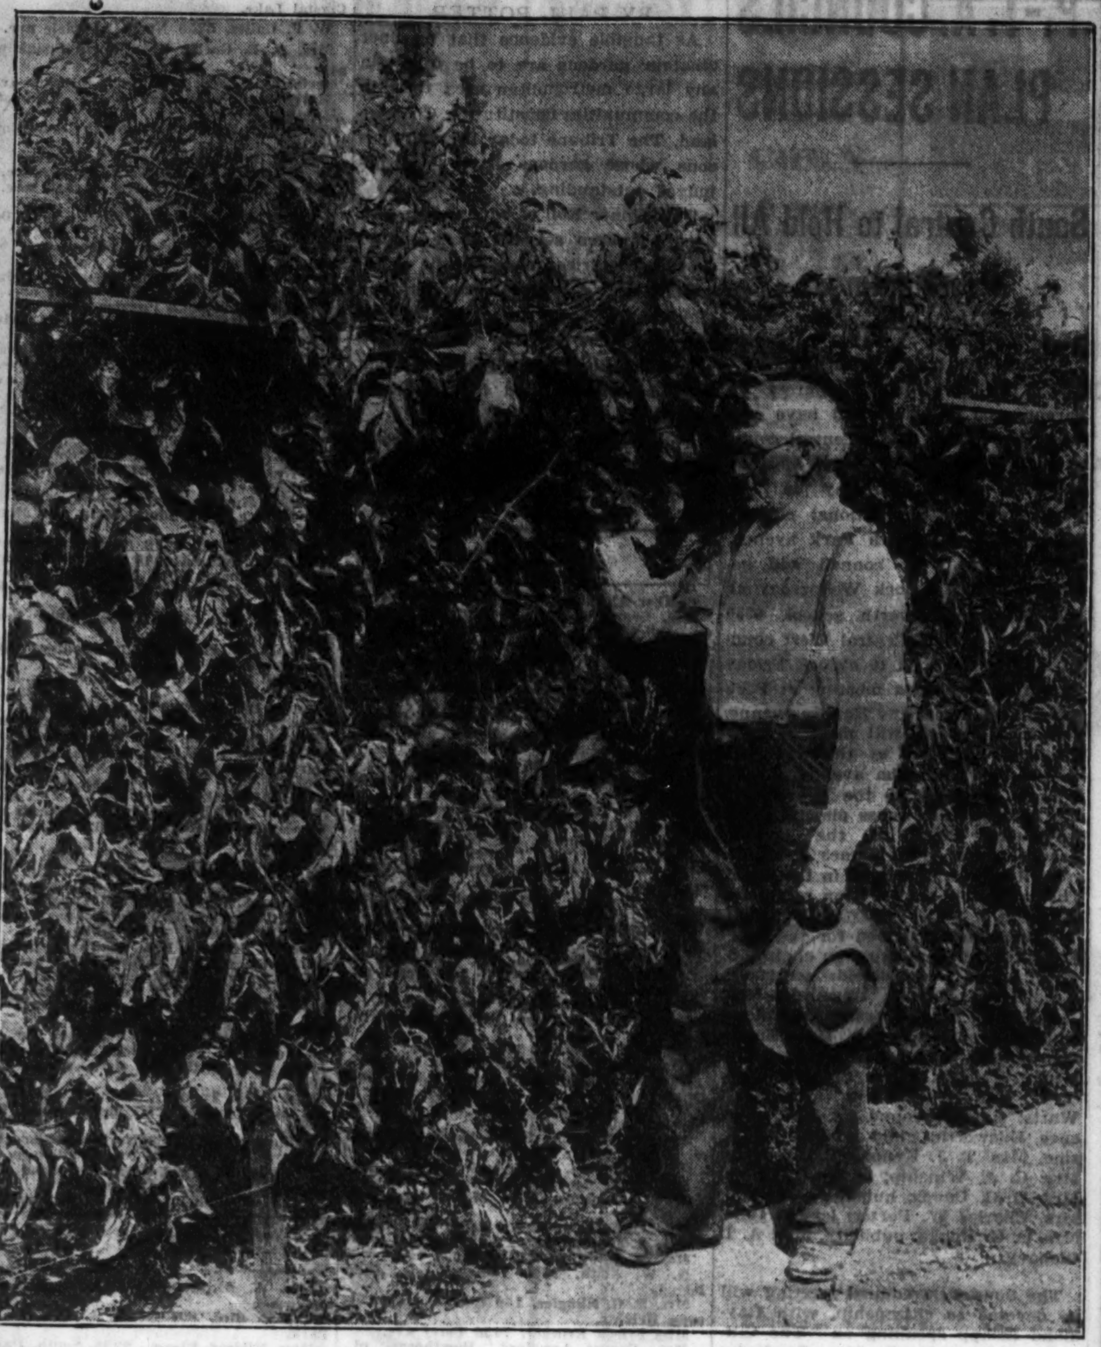
TOMATOES—BUSHEL TO A PLANT



For 17 years Daniel J. Brumley, 911 Bruce avenue, Flossmoor, has developed a system of growing tomato plants. They reach a height of nine feet on trellis supports and produce fruit weighing nearly two pounds each.

[Tribune Photo.]

ENGINEERS VIE AT TOMATO AND DAHLIA CULTURE

Huge Fruit and Prize Flowers Result.

Two neighboring home gardeners, engineers for the Illinois Central railroad, have developed a competition in Flossmoor that has led to a reputation for each of them in the growing of huge tomatoes and prize dahlias, respectively.

For seventeen years Daniel J. Brumley, 11 Bruce avenue, chief engineer, has experimented and improved his intensive cultivation of tomato plants which grow higher than his head on trellis supports and produce as much as a bushel of fruit per plant. He finds recreation in developing a neat but productive vegetable garden and an attractive yard with lawn, trees, shrubs and flowers on the rest of the two and one-half acre homestead.

Grows Flowers Same Way.

The neighbor who has won laurels in dahlia growing is Frank Soothill, who has adopted the Brumley plan of a trench and tile system by which water filters through a layer of compost and sand into a trench where the roots take on extensive growth.

In the Brumley garden tomatoes grow slowly but surely to such weights as a pound and fourteen ounces for a single fruit. This year 45 plants will produce about 40 bushels of ripened tomatoes, while last year the yield was greater, in that sixteen bushels were picked in addition at frost time and placed in a tool room to ripen.

Pinching Forces Blooms.

With dahlias, Mr. Soothill has developed a system of pinching the growth when they are six inches above the ground, forcing laterals which provide exhibition blooms. In the recent Central States Dahlia society competition at the Century of Progress his 20 blooms entered in competition with more than 2,000 others yielded a blue ribbon, three red ribbons and one white ribbon award. One entry from the 50 selected varieties was a Monmouth champion which had a spread of eleven and one-half inches.

DISTRICT LEADER

Mrs. James G. Davidson, first district president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, will open the district's annual presidents' day tomorrow at the Bal Tabarin in the Hotel Sherman. Representatives of 50 clubs meeting in the loop will be present.

MT. CARMEL TILT WITH ST. RITA TO HELP HOSPITAL

Leading Teams Will Meet Next Sunday.

The football game next Sunday at Soldiers' field for the benefit of St. Bernard's hospital, 6337 Harvard avenue, will bring together two of the leading Catholic high school elevens in the city in a tilt which may go far toward deciding south side parochial grid supremacy before the season is really under way.

Mount Carmel has captured both the south side and city Catholic league grid championship for the last two years. St. Rita won the south side title in 1930 and is traditionally dangerous on the gridiron. The charity game will constitute the regular fall battle of the two south side rivals.

St. Rita is being watched closely this fall, owing to the acquisition of a new coach and the return of several of its 1932 stars. Dan Lamont, former star end and head coach at Loyola university, is the new tutor. He also has been line coach at the University of Washington.

Barrett Is General Chairman.

Harold [Hod] Ofstie, who took the reins at Mount Carmel two years ago and immediately led his team to a title, has several of his 1932 stars. These include Capt. John Fogel, who won all state honors at center, and E Lesinski, guard.

The general chairman of the benefit game is Edward J. Barrett, state auditor. Peter B. Carey, president of the board of trade, is south side chairman. Martin H. Kennelly, vice president of the Lincoln park board, and Bailiff Albert J. Horan are north and west side chairmen, respectively.

Proceeds to St. Bernard's.

All proceeds above actual expenses of the game will go to St. Bernard's hospital to enable it to carry on its charity work. In addition to Mother Superior Mary Kelly and the general committees announced in last Sunday's Metropolitan section, the following committee of hospital women's organizations were named yesterday:

St. Bernard Nurses Alumnae association: Miss Ellen Cardin, Miss Margaret Barry, Miss A. Calkins, Miss Emily Desknis, Miss Sara Halligan, Miss Celia Mackin, Miss Anna McAleer, Miss Alice McAlister, Miss Rose McCormick, Miss Mary McGarr, Miss Anne Nagel, and Miss Gertrude Stanton.

St. Bernard school of nursing: Miss M. C. Looby, assistant dean, chairman; Alice Corbin, Esther Johnson, Elizabeth Kinder, Rita Marlaire, Rita Meaney, Marian A. Raphael, Leontiva Vighi, and Catherine Wingfield.

St. Bernard auxiliary: Mrs. L. D. Farney, chairman; Mrs. Frank Acker, Mrs. E. Cody, Mrs. D. Coughlin, Mrs. M. E. Creighton, Mrs. M. Dorgan, Mrs John Enright, Mrs. Mary B. Finan, Mrs. Edward Hayes, Mrs. Alice Hyman, Mrs. T. O'Leary, Mrs. Thomas Maroney, Mrs. Joseph Meyer, Mrs. John Parker, Mrs. M. D. Price, and Mrs. Edward Ryan.

Longwood Mothers' Club to Give a Card Party

The annual card party of the Longwood Mothers' club of the Academy of Our Lady will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the school gymnasium, 95th and Throop streets. The affair is under the direction of Sister Francis Xavier, chairman; Mrs. Frank O. Hill, co-chairman, and Mrs. Michael Normoyle, treasurer. Among these on the committee are Mrs. Thomas Whalen, Mrs. J. F. McNamara, and Mrs. J. E. Stevens. The club had its first fall meeting last Tuesday. Mrs. John J. Calnan is in her second year as president.

HEADS BENEFIT BRIDGE

MRS. WILLIAM R. BOYER.

The Hyde Park Infant Welfare group will begin its fall activities with a benefit luncheon and bridge at 12:30 o'clock Friday at the South Shore Country club. There will be a style show of new fall clothes and furs by Aurel Burtis Kuhn in connection with the luncheon. The committee in charge: Mrs. William R. Boyer, Mrs. George N. West, Mrs. L. J. Quillin, Mrs. William Van Houten, Mrs. G. Y. Bonus, Mrs. R. S. Mowry, Mrs. Homer Martin, Mrs. George P. Edmunds, Mrs. John Kopf, and Mrs. Albert J. Peyraud.

BEG YOUR PARDON

The McKinley Park Community council was referred to erroneously in last Sunday's Metropolitan section as the St. Maurice council.

River Forest College to Mark Rosary Sunday

Rosary Sunday, patronal feast of Rosary college in River Forest, will be observed with a program to begin at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the college, 7900 Division street. The Rev. Francis Magner of St. Mary's church in Evanston will speak. All members of the college auxiliary and friends of the college have been invited to attend.

Clamage Juniors Begin Big Autumn Season

The Esther Clamage Juniors of the South Side Woman's club for the Marks Nathan Orphan home opened their fall season recently at the Covenant club. There was a fashion revue after the meeting. Mrs. Walter Klein, president of the Juniors, presided.

LEGIONNAIRES TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE UNTIL SATURDAY

Hagamann Post Band to Play for Dancing.

Carrying out its plans for hospitality during the national convention, Raymond J. Hagamann post, No. 495, of the American Legion, will hold open house every evening until Saturday.

The entertainment program will include dancing and refreshments every night. During the week the post's band of 30 pieces, under the direction of Fred Laverty, will present dance music. Open house arrangements are in charge of Joseph DeMass, commander; Elmer Holmgren, and Paul Dearham.

Mrs. Ruth Gahlbeck was recently installed president of Chesterfield unit, No. 695. Other new officers are Mrs. Elizabeth Lee, vice president; Mrs. Josephine O'Connor, second vice president; Mrs. Agnes Danahue, secretary; Mrs. Pansy Jensen, treasurer; Mrs. Mary Ludlow, chaplain; Mrs. Naomi Hibbard, historian, and Mrs. Helen Pearson, sergeant at arms.

New officers of the junior auxiliary are Vivian Jensen, president; Marjorie Lee, vice president; Frances Tilican, treasurer; Laverne Austgen, secretary; Beatrice Tufo, sergeant at arms, and Charlotte Tilican, historian.

Russell C. Smith was elected commander of Square post, No. 232, at the annual meeting of the organization Monday night. Other newly elected officers are Emery G. Coldrey, senior vice commander; Thomas E. Doonan, junior vice commander; George W. Johnson, adjutant; Fred J. Nelson, finance officer; E. A. Zoellner, service officer; Robert O. Shaw, sergeant at arms; Elmer Linuden, sentinel; Charles R. De Bow, recording adjutant; Harold Peterson, property officer; the Rev. Olin C. Jones, chaplain; Elmer C. Nation, employment officer, and Charles J. Schipplock, historian.

Chicago legionnaires will make the Pantheon de la Guerre on the Midway at the World's Fair unofficial headquarters on the fairgrounds for visitors this week. Among the activities arranged for the period are concerts by the leading bugle corps of the country, representing legion posts in many sections.

Scheduled for tonight at nine o'clock is a concert by the All-American drum and bugle corps consisting of 100 of the leading drummers and buglers in the United States, under the direction of Caesar La Monaca of Miami, Fla., and assisted by the Frankford post of Philadelphia, and the Slingerland bugle band of Chicago.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon a concert will be given by the Harvey W. Seeds post drum and bugle corps of Miami.

Concerts will be given tomorrow afternoon by the drum and bugle corps of the Buffalo post, and by the "Boys of '76" of Racine, Wis. Tuesday afternoon a concert will be given by the national champion legion drum and bugle corps of Capital post, No. 9 of Salem, Ore.

The bugle band of Frankford post will be heard Wednesday afternoon. Thursday afternoon will bring the champion girls' drum and bugle corps of Crookston, Minn., and the drum and bugle corps of the Tucson, Ariz post.

Headquarters will be opened this morning at the Pantheon for the registration of members of the All-American drum and bugle corps of which C. Russell Murphy of Frankford post, is commander. The Philadelphia corps will be featured at the All-American banquet to be held on the grounds this evening.

Lady legionnaires will march in the big parade during the American Legion convention. Chicago has three women's posts of the legion—Jane A. Delano, No. 185; the Mars—sur-Allier, and Sig Yeo. These women legionnaires were regularly enlisted during the war and served with the military forces of the army, navy, and marine corps.

Some of the women legionnaires are outstanding figures in the professional life of Chicago. During the convention they will serve in the various hotels and railroad stations as hostesses for the visiting women Legionnaires. Each first aid station along the line of march of the parade will have an American Legion nurse in attendance.

Ed-So-At Club Will Give Big Dance Sunday

The annual dance of the Ed-So-At club of the Jewish People's institute will be held next Sunday evening in the Medinah-Michigan Avenue club, 505 North Michigan avenue. The committee on arrangements consists of Jack B. Slutsky, Joseph Shulman, Miss Marcella Michell, Aaron Michel, Miss Cele Wagner, Harry Pick, Irving Kessler, Max Lettvin, Bobbie Brown, and Miss Tillie Reiter.

WOOD CARVERS IN "FRILLS SCHOOL"

PASTOR STARTS A NEIGHBORHOOD LEISURE SCHOOL

Open to Youngsters of Every Age.

A school of "fads and frills"—to provide leisure time activity for neighborhood youngsters from kindergarten age up—is being formed at Holy Cross-Immanuel Episcopal church, 5843 South Morgan street.

THE REV. JOHN STRACHAN.

The Rev. John Strachan, rector of the church, who is responsible for inauguration of the program of weekday classes, was ordained six months ago and has a lay world background particularly fitting him for the enterprise. Before entering the ministry he was an instructor in the Ford Trade school at Dearborn, Mich., demonstrating his abilities in mechanics and instruction. During the world war he was in the British navy.

Open to All Children.

The school will be strictly nonsectarian, open to children of any or no creed or denomination. The Rev. Mr. Strachan will undertake personal supervision of all classes, and hopes the neighborhood may have practical benefit from his experiences.

All classes will be directed by Mr. Strachan and his assistants, including leaders of Boy Scouts with headquarters at the church. The first class to be begun is one in handicraft, where there will be carving both in wood and metal.

Other groups will be formed in basketry, leather craft, brass tapping, silhouette and lamp shade making.

Kindergarten Class Planned.

A kindergarten class is on the program for the younger children. This is expected to draw from the tots under five who were eliminated from public school kindergartens.

All classes will be held in the parish hall of the church, and there will be no tuition charge. Tools and other equipment are being supplied by the parish. The only cost to pupils will be for materials used.

BOHEMIAN CLUB AID PLANS PARTY FOR THURSDAY

The Ladies' auxiliary of Ceska Beseda [Bohemian club] will open its season with a meeting at 8:15 o'clock Thursday evening at the clubhouse, 3659 Douglas boulevard. A one act comedy, "About Face," will be presented in which Mrs. Otto Kerner, Mrs. Joseph Nadherny, and Mrs. Henry Novotny will take part.

Officers of the auxiliary for the coming year are Mrs. Harry Smejkal, president; Mrs. Anton Zahrobsky, vice president; Mrs. Anna Saibert, treasurer; and Miss Olga Podlesak, secretary. Committee chairmen are Mrs. Arthur Hurt, program; Mrs. Louis Dvorak, social; Mrs. Joseph Dvorak, house; Mrs. M. C. Talman, courtesy; Mrs. Edward Silha, guest book; Mrs. Allan Hruby, reception; Miss Pauline Storkan, junior dramatics; and Mrs. Frank Krajic, publicity.

Neighborhood Theaters

"One Sunday Afternoon" — an eventful one it is—gives us Gary Cooper in a humdinger of a rôle again. This time he's a dentist, a fine, slow moving and slow thinking person. In his youth we see two girls and a wealthy, handsome chap with him. The latter, Neil Hamilton, wins Gary's beloved [Fay Wray] so he takes the other gal [Frances Fuller] because there doesn't seem much else to do. And it is not until this Sunday, when the pompous Hamilton comes into his office, that he appreciates how he got the best of the bargain. The cast is at tops—Miss Fuller scores as a newcomer, and Roscoe Karns contributes his inimitable humor. Now at the Southtown.

One of the Best.

Better trot right over to the Capital because today is to be the last for "Three Cornered Moon." One of Mae Tinee's "August bests," it brings a real humor treat in the story of the Rimplegar family and its financial troubles. Mary Boland is a screech as mama. The youngsters—Claudette Colbert, Wallace Ford, William Bakewell, and Tom Brown—click in their different character rôles. Same for Hardie Albright, impractical "artiste." And to Richard Arlen many posies for his physician-savior-romancer rôle. Starting tomorrow for four days is "Her First Mate." Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville do the amusing.

"Yard" Yells for Help.

"Midnight Club," adapted from a swell novel by E. Phillips Oppenheim, concerns a band of London thieves so smart that Scotland Yard calls in a smart American detective [George Raft] to help. He alone works without a double, said doubles making for differentness. Acting plums go to Raft, Clive Brook, Sir Guy Standing, Helen Vinson, and Alison Skipworth. It is at the Tower, plays Friday and Saturday at the Jeffery, today and tomorrow at the Grove and Highland, and a day longer at the West Englewood.

Sex-Appealer Intrigues.

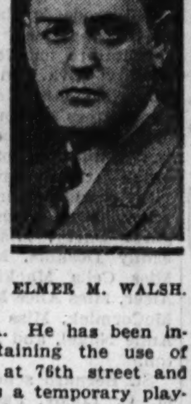
The Clark Gable-Jean Harlow sex-appealer, "Hold Your Man," is on a south side rampage this week. It is playing at the Lexington, Frolic, and Oakland Square today and tomorrow, a day longer at the Boulevard and Atlantic, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Cosmo, and Wednesday and Thursday at the Shore.

Officers of East High School, Aurora, Picked

Officers of the senior class of East High school in Aurora were announced last week. They are Jules Barnat, president; Bob Oester, vice president; Miss Betty McLallen, secretary, and Manley Perry, finance chairman, who is assisted by Miss Ruth Brinkman, Miss Virginia Reavell, Miss Betty Trimble, Miss Connie Clare, Robert Trimble, and Robert Richards.

ELMER M. WALSH TO OPEN S. SIDE LEGAL OFFICES

Elmer M. Walsh, president of the South Bryn Mawr Improvement association for four years and attorney for as well as one of the organizers of the East 79th Street Business Men's association, will open a neighborhood law office this week. He will be associated on the far south side with the Marshall Finance company, 1820 East 79th street, a firm which has operated in the district for 20 years. Mr. Walsh now is vice president of the South Shore Y. M. C. A. He has been instrumental in obtaining the use of the vacant block at 76th street and Bennett avenue as a temporary playground, and is chairman of the parks committee of the South Bryn Mawr Improvement association. He finished 13th, just out of the running in the last election of municipal judges. He also is a member of South Shore post of the American Legion and district commander of the Citizens' Military Training Corps organization. His loop office is at 134 South La Salle street.



ELMER M. WALSH.

CHURCH STARTS SERIES OF FOUR DINNERS TODAY

A series of four fortnightly Wednesday Evening Family Night dinners will be started at 6:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the South Shore Community church, 74th street and Yates avenue. There will be two outside speakers, while the minister, the Rev. Chester Fisk, will speak at the other two gatherings.

The Rev. Mr. Fisk will present an illustrated travelogue on the Holy Land this week. There will be movies and slides.

Dr. James Mullenbach will speak on "The Church and the NRA" Oct. 18. On Nov. 1 Dr. A. W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary, will speak on "Behind the Oriental Man." The Rev. Mr. Fisk will present another travelogue Nov. 15.

"Front Page News" to Be Given by Bible Class

"Front Page News," a three act comedy, will be presented by the Collegiate Christian class of the Austin Baptist church at 8 o'clock Thursday and Friday evenings in Thomas Memorial hall, Pine avenue and Race street. Members of the cast are Miss Jane Wilhelm, Howard Tench, Atwood Weaver, Miss Jeanette Voase, Miss Roberta Schwartz, Wendell Mangus, John Stanley, Lawrence Warder, Miss Alice Whitfield, Miss Ruth Gerdes, and John Clouse.

ALL SOUTH SIDE P.-T. A. COUNCILS PLAN SESSIONS

South Central to Hold All Day Meeting.

All four south side councils of District 1 of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will have sessions this week. South Central council will open an all day meeting at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday in the Park Manor Congregational church, 70th street and South Park avenue, while South West council will assemble at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday at the D. S. Wentworth school, 6950 Sangamon street. Central West council will assemble at 10 o'clock Friday for an all day open meeting at Peck school, 58th street and Hamlin avenue. Southeast council will meet at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday at the Sheridan school, 9035 Escanaba avenue.

Each chairman in the South Central council will discuss plans for her particular phase of the Parent-Teacher work. Mrs. James E. Grant, council president, will be in the chair. The group will take a noon recess for luncheon.

Officers and chairmen for the year: Vice president and program chairman, Mrs. L. E. Northshield; secretary, Mrs. B. F. Schaub; treasurer, Mrs. J. J. Szatunas; membership, Mrs. John Duffin; parent education, Mrs. Emanuel Molber; ways and means, Mrs. Henry Kellogg; home making, Mrs. O. W. Kalter; hospitality, Mrs. H. C. Watts; summer round up, Mrs. Clarence Ellsworth; child welfare magazine, Mrs. T. J. Kennedy; citizenship, Mrs. C. A. Winship; motion pictures, Mrs. C. C. Dacus; humane education, Mrs. Charles W. Porter; leisure time, Mrs. O. G. Rogge; publicity, Mrs. A. I. Olchovy.

The Southwest council meeting will be devoted to citizenship, with Raymond Knapp speaking on "The Citizens of Tomorrow." Mrs. Sandusky Williams, president, will conduct the business session. Mrs. Ralph Schaaf, vice president, will extend greetings. The council's educational convention has been postponed to Oct. 17.

Mrs. Clark Reed, president, will be in charge of the Central West council business session Friday, while greetings will be given by Mrs. G. H. Kasang, president of Peck association, the hostess group. Plans will be announced by officers and chairmen in a panel discussion. Mrs. Arthur Lustgarten, budget and finance chairman, will outline means of money raising and budgeting, while Mrs. Arthur Radnik will reveal membership plans, and Mrs. George H. Kennedy will speak on publicity methods.

"What it Means to Be a Good Citizen" is the subject of a talk to be given in the afternoon by Mrs. Arling H. Lunde, state education chairman of the Illinois League of Women Voters and citizenship chairman of the Woman's City club. Mrs. Dan Pagenta, state child welfare magazine chairman, will speak on "Committees and Committee Work." Other speakers include Mrs. C. B. Smith, assistant director of District 1, and Mrs. H. C. Warren, council poster chairman.

Mrs. George Morgan is in charge of the program. Those attending are to bring box lunches, and the afternoon session will begin with community singing. The council's parliamentary law class will open Wednesday at the Sawyer school, 5428 South Sawyer avenue.

Members of the Morrill Parent-teacher association board and their families today will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Fisher, 6113 Campbell avenue, at their St. Charles summer home. The party is in compliment to Mrs. J. H. O'Neil, pianist of the Morrill Kitchen band. Final plans for the year's work were made at an informal get-together tea Wednesday at the home of Mrs. J. L. Alexander, association president. The year's theme is "Adequate education for every home in our community."

Tribune's Complete Garden Honor Roll

BY PAUL POTTER.

As tangible evidence that no finer amateur gardens are to be found in any large metropolitan area than in the communities constituting Chicagoland, The Tribune today lists 257 persons whose gardens have been adjudged outstanding.

This Honor Roll of outstanding gardens has been selected from several thousand entries made in the semi-annual spring and fall competitions which have been conducted by this newspaper the last four years. There are in addition many gardens which have been recognized for honorable mention.

The area from which the gardens were selected extends to a distance of 40 miles from Tribune Tower. The roll:

'U' SETTLEMENT CLUB TO STAGE BIG RECEPTION

Mark Homecoming Day Thursday.

One of the major events of the blooming club season will be the Homecoming day reception of the University of Chicago Settlement Woman's club at 2 p. m. Thursday at 4630 Gross avenue. Miss Mary E. McDowell, founder and honorary president, will be the speaker. Mrs. Josephine Chaloupka, president of the fourth district of the Illinois Federation of Woman's clubs, will be a special guest.

The new officers, headed by Mrs. T. H. Blackman, president, are Mrs. W. S. Wheeler, Mrs. Clara Carr, Mrs. Emma Chaloupka, Mrs. Evan Anderson, Mrs. Louise Krueger, and Mrs. Ma. Janis.

Beverly Junior Auxiliary.

The Junior Auxiliary of the Beverly Hills Woman's club will open its year with a fashion show presented through Bertha E. Celi Shoppe at 8 o'clock tomorrow in Ridge Park fieldhouse, 96th street and Longwood avenue. Edna Mae Harmon will be piano-accompanist. Members of the Beverly Hills Woman's club will be guests and more than 300 persons are expected. In the reception line will be Mrs. A. H. Swett, president of the senior group, and three auxiliary leaders, Mrs. John A. Morgan, president ,and Miss Rachel Arneman and Miss Martha Skinner, vice presidents. Miss Katherine Brubaker is chairman.

Hamilton Park Opening.

The Hamilton Park Woman's club also will vary the seasonal opening with an evening meeting at 8 o'clock Tuesday in the park fieldhouse. William Bennett, lecturer and humorist, will be the speaker. Music will be by Matio Fiorella, tenor, and Emperor Jones, young entertainer. Officers, headed by Mrs. Edward L. Cornell, will be in the receiving line to welcome members, husbands, and families expected to turn out for the evening gathering. Registration was held yesterday for children's dancing classes under Miss Florence Reid. Mrs. P. L. McGhee is chairman of this activity.

Morgan Park Reception.

The forty-fourth season of the Morgan Park Woman's club will be launched with a reception at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow when Mrs. Milton Cruse will begin her second year as president. The program arranged by Mrs. H. S. Campbell will be by the American quartet of Helen Bickerton, Esther Muenstermann, B. Fred Wise, Raymond Koch, and Edwin Stanley Seder, director. Refreshments are in charge of Mrs. Arthur B. Chadwick and Mrs. Walter A. Dunnett.

Mrs. H. F. Harris, 2264 West 115th street, has been elected third vice president to replace Mrs. James V. Smock, who has moved from Chicago.

West Pullman Meeting.

"Our Fairs" is the subject of a paper to be given by Mrs. Evan Evans at the West Pullman Woman's club's first fall meeting at 2 o'clock Friday in West Pullman park fieldhouse. Members are asked to bring World's Fair souvenirs. Mrs. Lewis Howes will sing a soprano solo.

Chicago Lawn Lecture.

Frank Balthius, horticulturist, will give an illustrated garden talk, "Plant for the Future," at the first fall meeting of the Chicago Lawn Woman's club, which will begin with a 12:30 o'clock luncheon Tuesday. Mrs. Thomas Kaufmann is garden chairmen. Mrs. A. H. Lassman, district garden chairman, will be a special guest. The club chorus will sing under the direction of Mrs. Estelle Pershing. Mrs. I. S. Turley, vice president, will be in the chair owing to the illness of Mrs. W. A. Cunnea, president of the club. Mrs. Hannah Gray is luncheon chairman.

Clearing Club Program.

An evening program will open the Clearing Woman's club year Tuesday when an illustrated travelogue, "Know Illinois," will be presented through the Commonwealth Edison company. The club quartet of Mrs. Brinton Baugher, Mrs. Frank West, Mrs. Clarence Coleman, and Mrs. Arthur Dahlberg will entertain. An informal reception after the program will find Mrs. R. R. Henderson, president, at the head of the reception line. Mrs. Thomas Linn, motion picture chairman, is in charge of the program.

Gresham Reception.

The Gresham Woman's club will have an opening day reception at 2 o'clock Wednesday in the Gresham Methodist Episcopal church. The line will be headed by Mrs. O. O. Ouderkirk, president. Mrs. Roy W. Bixler is to be guest speaker and Miss Cecelia Tooey will play violin solos. Mrs. Fred W. Waterman, third district president, will be special guest.

Marquette Manor.

The 15th fall reception of the Marquette Manor Woman's club will be held at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday. Venita Rich McBurney will entertain with dramatic readings. Mrs. Edward Kalley, president, and Mrs. William D. Mackie, vice president and program chairman, will head the receiving line. Mrs. Fred W. Waterman will be a special guest. Mrs. Charles Lovell is chairman of the day.

Brainerd Opening.

Mrs. Frank Fulton, past president of the Woman's Ideal club, will be guest speaker at the fall opening of the Brainerd Woman's club at 2 o'clock Tuesday in Ridge Park fieldhouse. Mrs. Edward M. Tocatlian, president, will give an address of welcome. Tea will be in charge of Mrs. F. H. Whiteside.

Church to Celebrate 20th Birthday Today

St. Phillipus Evangelical Lutheran church will celebrate its 20th anniversary today, at the same time observing St. Phillipus Men's Club day. The Rev. August Fleer has been leader of the church during its entire existence. The men's club, formed in January, has grown to a membership of more than 100. The members will join in an anthem today.

HEADS CLUB

[Moffett Photo.]

Mrs. Quentin Johnstone Jr., 5809 Blackstone avenue, will begin her term as president of the Bryn Mawr Woman's club tomorrow.

LA GRANGE CLUB LISTS STARS FOR SUNDAY NIGHTS

With talent already listed that promises one of the best entertainment programs by a similar group in any part of the country, the La Grange Sunday Evening club announces the opening date of its seventh season for Oct. 29.

Among the attractions booked in the incompleted program are Efrem Zimbalist, violinist; the Don Cossack Russian male chorus; David Seabury, psychologist and writer; Burton Holmes, travel lecturer; Norman Hapgood, editor; Helen Wills Moody, tennis star, and Dr. Lloyd Douglas, minister and author.

Charles H. Vial is chairman of the club's executive committee; Marshall L. Mathews is president of the club; Walter N. Curtis, Edward J. Farrell, Frank W. Gale, and Henry D. Livezey, vice presidents; John D. Wilson, secretary; and Fred F. Lovell, treasurer.

SPECIAL FEE IN BERWYN TO SELL FOREIGN GOODS

Prompted by the NRA campaign, which has been carried on with intensity in Berwyn, Ald. Benedict Anderson has introduced an ordinance providing for the licensing of all merchants selling merchandise not manufactured in the United States.

The new ordinance provides that every merchant who sells foreign made goods must take out a special license of one dollar per year for the purpose. In addition to this fee, such merchants must conspicuously display a sign reading "Foreign merchandise sold here."

The idea of the ordinance, it is explained, is to place American goods in a preferred position in the matter of sales over Berwyn counters.

W. Englewood Ramblers to Honor John E. Conroy

The West Englewood Ramblers A. C. will compliment John E. Conroy, clerk of the Circuit court, in the club's second annual smoker at 8 o'clock Saturday evening in Father Perez clubhouse, 6708 South May street. Proceeds will go to defray expenses of the football team. Dr. George A. Klein, 1537 West 61st street, is honorary chairman of the affair. James Griffin, newly elected president of the Ramblers, is in general charge, and William Gall is social chairman. State Representative Michael Hannigan [4th] and Ald. Terence Moran [16th] are to be guests.

Young People to Mark Church 3d Anniversary

The Young People's society of St. John the Divine Evangelical Lutheran church, 105th street and Oakley avenue, will celebrate its third anniversary at 7:45 o'clock this evening in the newly dedicated church. The Rev. R. C. Hohenstein of Redeemer Lutheran church in Park Ridge will be the speaker. The St. John parish choir will sing and there will be a young people's reunion in the church basement after the services. The society has forty members and its president is Miss Dorothy Sengstock, 10735 Longwood drive.

Englewood Kiwanis Plans First Ladies' Day Tuesday

The Englewood Kiwanis club will have its first Ladies Day program Tuesday noon at the Englewood Y. M. C. A. A feature will be the presentation of the club quartet, Don Tobin, Emil Erickson, Herman Nibbe, and Ray Blunt. The club also held a Kiwanette bridge party yesterday afternoon. President Harry Himmel reported last week two consecutive 100 per cent meetings in the attendance contest now in progress in all Kiwanis clubs. The contest will extend to Nov. 30, and Englewood is gunning for 10 straight perfect attendances.

Isaiah Israel Sisterhood to Meet on Wednesday

The Sisterhood of Temple Isaiah Isreal will have its first meeting of the season at 2 o'clock Wednesday in the community house, 5035 Greenwood avenue. Mrs. Max Bretzfeld is the new president. Dr. Gerson B. Levi, rabbi of the temple, will speak on "The Present Situation of the Jew in Germany."

Col. Story to Address Business Men's Group

Col. Sidney Story will address the Woodlawn Business Men's association Tuesday noon at the Hayes hotel on "The St. Lawrence Seaway." The association's speaker for Oct. 10 will be James T. Nicholson, manager of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross.

Due to additional tax expense approximately 3% will be added to all quoted prices above 25c.

AUTUMN BRINGS PREMIERES-GOOD, BAD, INDIFFERENT

Helen Morgan, Reisman Win Applause.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Cuff notes on the new programs:

Helen Morgan hopped off the piano top into the front rank of radio entertainers last Sunday afternoon. Of course, some credit is due Jerome Kern for the songs, and Al Bartlett's grand orchestra.

As children's programs go nowadays the "Wizard of Oz" started out modestly enough, riding in last Monday afternoon on a Kansas cyclone.

The setting and setup are just right for the new program, "Songs My Mother Taught Me"—twilight on Sunday, with Jacques Renard's full stringed orchestra, Muriel Wilson and Oliver Smith. Even Dvorak would have liked it.

With Myrt and Marge turning to South America as the locale for their sketch we aim to follow the show girl serial this season. As they start their third season we recall predicting a short life for the sketch when it made its debut two years ago. But now they look as if they might run on and on as Amos 'n' Andy have and will. Their choral work is great. Harriet Cruise and the Norsemen join the M. & M. cast in the singing.

There's a good idea in that NRA reporter stunt Floyd Gibbons is doing, but for those who saw him in his first broadcast there was an incongruous note in the breathless, hat-still-on pose of the reporter reading long handouts from Washington officials. This show ought to improve. Vic Young's music was first rate as usual.

Champion Gabber.

Anent the first broadcast of "The Big Show," it looks like we are in for a Lulu McConnell vogue this fall. For rapid gabbing she makes gasping Floyd Gibbons look like molasses in January. She sounds like a buzz saw. Gertrude Niessen's dusky voice is well suited to the microphone, and Isham Jones' music is all right. His "Wooden Soldier and the China Doll" is a classic.

Wendell Hall demonstrated that "The Last Roundup" is tailor made for him in his new Sunday night show. [And Alice Joy is to be commended for refusing to sing it, despite the sponsor's request. The song is not suited for a woman's voice, no matter though it be deep and mellow.]

Heart to Heart Club is turning out to be one of the most realistic dramatizations on the air. And it has ideal orchestral background. Adolphe Dumont captures every mood.

Sophisticated Rhythm.

Leo Reisman's cigaret program: Smart, suave music with sophisticated dialogue blended to make a brilliant half-hour. The commercial continuity is seductive. This program is not for Lum and Abner fans.

Fred Waring's version of "The Big Bad Wolf" as presented last Wednesday is one of the cleverest things he has done. His choral work continues the best on the air. Harry Richman was in the pink of condition doing "One Minute to One." Berle also improved—a fraction of 1 per cent. Waring's band will be in Chicago the week of Oct. 13.

There's conjury in that Clyde Lucas music at the La Salle. Lucas will be a favorite of the air lanes before long. Tuning him in the other evening brought back the sensation of stumbling onto the Lombardos about five years ago. But Lucas doesn't suggest the Royal Canadians in any way. He has a swing that's different. And he handles such diverse things as Grainger's "Country Gardens" and rhumbas equally deftly. Listen to him once, then drop him if you can.

Radio Roundup.

The mail brought us a canned sample of what the sponsors of the Contented hour call the "moo" of a bossy which has long served to identify the program. Sorry, but we have never heard a contented cow moo that way. Sounds more like a doggie, which all you "Last Roundup" fans must know by now is a motherless calf. Incidentally Winston O'Keefe, Northwestern's cowboy balladeer, who was born and has lived on a ranch near Amarillo, Tex., most of his life, insists that it is pronounced "doagie" not "doggie." And he's talked it over lately with the oldest range men he knows and they've never heard the puppy pronunciation you hear on the air. . . . The Sisters of the Skillet have a parrot that has learned two words, "stupendous" and "colossal." Ben Bernie would call that "terrific." . . . Jane Froman, the sky lark, and Don Ross, her husband, have started rehearsals for the new Ziegfeld Follies. . . . And James Melton is to step into the lead of a Broadway musical show soon.

Donna Damerel, who is Marge of "Myrt and Marge,' confessed last Monday that she was tickled to be back on the air again after five months on the coast. . . . Myrtle Vail [Myrt], her mother, learned Spanish in a hurry on her long South American trip. She traveled 26,000 miles during the summer. Their picture, also entitled "Myrt and Marge," will be released soon. . . . Bernie Cummins and Mrs. Ted Weems discovered that they grew up around the corner from each other in Akron at Ted's birthday party at the Aragon. . . . Lincoln tavern management has an option on Hal Kemp, it's reported. He may be pitted against the Lombardos at the Dells next summer.

Helen Hayes on the Air.

Helen Hayes may try for a radio career next. She will be featured as a guest artist with the Troubadours at 8 p. m. next Wednesday. . . . That bull frog harmonica in the Minnevitch band weighs two pounds. . . . The Dope is that "Dark Cloud" is to be the successor to "Stormy Weather." It will take more than that title to do it. . . . Paul Whiteman and Rudy Vallee, good friends, will play this season at the Paradise and Hollywood cabarets, Broadway's bitterest rivals. . . . They had a hard time getting Paul to talk on the air, but now he goes for it. [First time we heard him was New Year's day, 1932.] . . . Amos 'n' Andy reported booked for a vaudeville tour of the east.

"College Inn" comedy sketch, featuring Charlotte Learn and Virginia Ware, is looking for a voice to replace Jackie Heller. Send your qualifications to WENR. Public will designate favorites, radio editors judge the finalists. Last Inn contest resulted in discovery of Dixie Lee, who later married Bing Crosby. . . . Vocalists are singing within a cellophane hood in Paramount studios. Has an effect on the voice similar to the mute on the cornet. . . . That's Diana Stewart singing with Drs. Pratt and Sherman.

Editors' Wives Favorites.

Eardropping on a couple of radio editors' wives the other evening I learned that they get so many programs out of the loudspeakers when their husbands are around they seldom tune in when alone. Among those mentioned as their favorites were Phil Baker, Tom, Dick, and Harry, Ralph Ginsbergh's Palmer House ensemble, Fred Waring, Ben Bernie, Pat Kennedy, and Paul Whiteman.

Radio orchestra leaders and music publishers gathered with Danny Russo at the Oriental Gardens Tuesday afternoon to bid farewell and wish good luck to Al Beilin, late of Kennaway, who goes to Los Angeles to run a music office.

When Clyde McCoy returns to the Drake Oct. 20, Don Carlos and his marimba orchestra will be co-featured with the "Sugar Blues" batoneer. The marimba unit performs well over the air, and we are glad to hear that it is to stay. . . . Ben Bernie will wind up his four month appearance at the Casino and three seasons in Chicago next Wednesday evening. Then it will be "A Lonesome Old Town" for a lot of listeners.

Music Weavers to Give Liszt Program Tomorrow

The Blackstone Music Weavers, under the direction of Armand Buisseret, will give a special 15 minute Liszt program over W-G-N at 12:45 tomorrow afternoon. The first number will be the Second Hungarian Rhapsody, featuring a piano solo by Leon Banditzky. The concluding number will be "Dreams of Love."

HELEN TRENT AND HER FRIENDS

Here are Helen Trent and her friends. Four of the principals of W-G-N's dramatic sketch, "The Romance of Helen Trent," broadcast at 2:30 o'clock week days. Left to right: Lester Tremayne as Grant Douglas, Virginia Clark as Helen Trent, Dolores Gillen as Helen Trent's niece, Nina Perry, and Gene O'Connor as Dickie Mason, young lawyer and Nina's boy friend. DAVID FILERMAN IS SOLOIST WITH DUMONT TONIGHT

Delibes Program to Be Given Tuesday.

David Filerman, 'cellist with the W-G-N concert orchestra, will be the featured soloist on the regular Sunday evening concert from 6:45 to 7:30 p. m. tonight, with Adolphe Dumont directing.

Mr. Filerman, born in Chicago, studied at Curtis institute in Philadelphia under Felix Salmond. He joined Mr. Dumont's W-G-N orchestra when that organization took over the studio work on THE TRIBUNE station last spring. This is his first appearance as a featured soloist with the W-G-N orchestra.

Other Featured Numbers.

For his solo, Mr. Filerman has selected "Minuet In Olden Style," a spritely composition by J. B. Sewaille. This work has been specially orchestrated for the program tonight by Mr. Dumont.

Other featured number on the program by the orchestra will be "Finlandia" by Sibelius; Liszt's "First Hungarian Rhapsody," "Fruhlingstimmen Waltzes" by Johann Strauss, and the "Coronation March" from the "Prophet."

Tomorrow night at 7:30 p. m. on the "Bouquet of Melodies" program a special orchestration of Liszt's "Dream of Love" will be the featured presentation along with "Danse Espagnole" from "La Vie Breve" by Manuel de Falla.

Delibes Program Tuesday.

The music of the famous French composer, Clement Philibert Leo Délibês, will be presented by the orchestra on its "Great Composers" program at 7 Tuesday evening. Délibês wrote nearly 20 operas and operettas, his better known works being popular ballet music. The feature offerings on this program are to be excerpts from the opera "Lakme" and the introduction and mazurka from the ballet suite "La Source."

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO TALK ON AIR FROM NEW YORK WEDNESDAY

President Roosevelt will be heard in one of his infrequent visits to the microphone when he speaks at the opening dinner of the Catholic Charities Drive in New York on Wednesday from 8:30 to 9 p. m. Speaking in the Grand Ballroom of the hotel Waldorf-Astoria, the President will address the nation from coast-to-coast over both major networks.

W-G-N TO CARRY MARCONI DINNER PROGRAM AT 9:30

Speeches by leading citizens and governmental officials and an address by Signor Guglielmo Marconi, Italy's great electrical and radio wizard, to be given at the banquet for Signor Marconi at the Drake hotel tonight, will be broadcast by W-G-N from 9:30 to 10 o'clock. Signor Marconi is in Chicago to attend the World's Fair.

Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, Brig. Gen. Frank D. Parker, Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, Dr. Guisseppe Castruccio, the Italian consul general; Gen. James G. Harbord, and Joshua D'Esposito of the government engineering division, will deliver short talks before the guest of honor speaks.

Leonard Salvo, organist whose music is heard each day over W-G-N, has been engaged to provide music during the banquet. This musical part of the program will not be broadcast, however.

White and Grant to Give Olie Speaks' Songs Today

Lewis White, baritone, and Allan Grant, pianist, will do a program of Olie Speaks' songs on their joint recital at 10:30 this morning on W-G-N. Mr. White will sing "On the Road to Mandalay," "Sylvia," "Morning," and "Shepherd, See Thy Horse's Foaming Mane." Mr. Grant will play several of his own compositions.

W-G-N TO CARRY WORLD AND CITY BASEBALL SERIES

Forces Time Change for 3 Other Programs.

W-G-N will broadcast both the world's series and the city series for baseball fans of the vast W-G-N listening area. The championship series, which will be played in New York and Washington, will be broadcast through the facilities of the Columbia broadcasting system, while the city series, which will bring together the White Sox and the Cubs, will be handled by W-G-N's own baseball announcer, Bob Elson, on an independent broadcast.

The opening game broadcast from New York will be started at 12:15 p. m. Chicago time. The city series will not open until Wednesday and the broadcasts of these contests will be started immediately after the world's series broadcasts are completed.

3 Changes in Time.

The baseball broadcasts involve the shifting of times of three important featured programs on W-G-N. The "Story of Helen Trent," dramatic sketch, which has regularly been heard at 2:30 p. m. week days, will be heard immediately at the conclusion of the city series broadcast. "Just Plain Bill," dramatic sketch heard week days at 1 p. m., will be presented immediately following the "Trent" broadcasts. The "Beauty School of the Air," which features V. E. Meadows, regularly scheduled at 1:15 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays each week, will follow the "Bill" broadcasts on the days the "Beauty School" is on the air.

Should rain force postponements of either of both baseball games, these sketches and school broadcasts will take place at their regularly scheduled times.

Bob Elson will be the only broadcaster on a major Chicago station who has broadcast the games of both the Cubs and Sox all season to present the city series.

Husing Heads CBS Staff.

For the world's series, CBS will have five broadcasters working at various times. They are Ted Husing, Columbia's ace sports announcer, who will give the word picture of the scenes at the ball parks before the contests, Fred Hoey of Boston, Roger Baker of Buffalo, Gunner O. Wiig of Rochester, and France Laux of St. Louis.

Hal Totten, Graham McNamee, and Tom Manning will report the world series for the National Broadcasting company.

3 PRESIDENTS' VOICES WILL BE HEARD ON W-G-N

The voices of Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, and of the late Presidents Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and Warren G. Harding will be heard during the coming week in "Headlines of Other Days" from W-G-N, presented at 9:35 each evening.

President Harding's memorial address at Hoboken on May 23, 1921, will be broadcast by phonograph record at 9:20 tonight along with Quin Ryan's story of the occasion.

Theodore Roosevelt will be heard on the subjects, "The Trusts and the Bosses' Opposition to the Progressives" and "The Farmer and the Business Man." President Wilson will speak on: "Labor," "Address to the Farmers," "The Tariff," "A Third Party," and "The Trusts."

MAIL SWAMPS CAPT. PAUL

Capt. Paul Fogarty, director of W-G-N's Keep Fit club, heard at 9 a. m. except Sundays, has a tough job keeping up with his mail. Capt. Paul receives hundreds of letters each week from members of his exercise class and he tries to answer all. A new batch, which came in while he was vacationing, all but swamped him and it took three office girls to get out the answers. Left to right, Ann Davis, Capt. Paul, Elsie Smalley, and Irene Sweetland. [Acme Photo.]

NOTED ARTISTS FEATURED WITH FAIR ENSEMBLE

A Century of Progress Concert ensemble, heard from 4:15 to 4:45 Monday to Friday, inclusive, and from 6:15 to 6:30 Monday to Thursday on W-G-N, brings to the air the fine musicianship of Edward P. Wurtzebach, director, and a host of noted concert and radio soloists from many countries of the world.

Lino Rossi, concertmeister, is a protégé if the famous conductor, Arturo Toscanini, who brought him to America from Rome. Dimitry Shumklovsky, bass viol, started his career under the direction of the great Tchaikowski. Later with the Imperial Opera, Shumklovsky was decorated by the czar for his work in private concerts. Herbert Johnson, pianist, and George Soellers, flutist, appeared for many years in the W-G-N orchestra. They are veterans of the air.

Conductor Wurtzebach was formerly the musical director of a western radio station. Although broadcasts by A Century of Progress Concert ensemble may originate from a number of places within the Exposition grounds, the ensemble is usually heard from Studio H in the Administration building.

FOOTBALL TO VIE WITH BASEBALL ON SPORT REVIEW

Football will vie with baseball for prominence on the W-G-N sports review this week. John Harrington, the sport reporter, will review the series.

On Tuesday night Rube Appleberry, the hero of Big Leaguers and Bushers, will give his opinion of the contending teams. On Thursday night Pat Hanley, line coach and scout for Northwestern university, will tell sport fans just how a scout secures the information and plays of the opposing football teams.

Richman and Berle Win Extension on Waring Show

Harry Richman, star of stage and screen, and Milton Berle, Broadway gagster, have been engaged for additional performances in the broadcast series presenting Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians over W-G-N and Columbia network every Wednesday night. Under the present arrangement these two performers will be held over through the broadcast of Oct. 11.

Contented Hour Becomes Coast to Coast Tomorrow

"Contented Hour," long a favorite in the midwest and east will expand its broadcast from coast to coast tomorrow evening. The same talent will be heard in the new hook-up: Morgan L. Eastman and 30-piece orchestra, quartet, Isabel Zehr, the Lullaby Lady, Jean Paul King and Gene Arnold.

MISS BARRYMORE TO SPEAK OVER W-G-N TONIGHT

Morton Downey Sings Tomorrow Night.

Ethel Barrymore, "queen of the American stage," will be featured during the broadcast of "The Parade of the Champions" over the W-G-N and Columbia from 9 to 9:15 p. m. this evening.

For her part in this special series of six broadcasts Miss Barrymore has chosen Sir James M. Barrie's noteworthy one act play, "Twelve Pound Look," a vehicle in which she has exhibited her talents many times. The program will originate in the Columbia studios at Detroit, where Miss Barrymore will be appearing in vaudeville.

Morton Downey, popular tenor, will appear on this program at 8:15 tomorrow.

Jacques Renard's orchestra will share the spotlight with the Irish troubadour and will supply the accompaniment for Downey's opening selection, "Moonlight Madonna." Other vocal selections will be "Bless Your Heart" and "Trouble in Paradise." The Renard ensemble, with arrangements by Ray Sinatra, will offer "When Day Is Done" and "Learn to Croon."

OLSEN, JOHNSON PREMIERE NEXT FRIDAY EVENING

Chicago will have its introduction to gala radio premiere at 9 o'clock Friday over WBBM when the new revue, featuring Olsen and Johnson, comedy stars of the legitimate stage, will go on the air from the Civic theater with all the de luxe trappings of a Hollywood first night. It will be the first Chicago radio program to be broadcast regularly from a legitimate theater leased specially for a radio show, and the inaugural audience of 800 will include a long list of stage, radio, and society notables.

The new program will present Olsen and Johnson in the rôles of editors of the Comedy News, a newspaper as comic as the comedians. The musical side of the revue will be handled by Harry Sosnik and his "Printers' Devils," with the King's Jesters and the Doring Sisters furnishing vocal and novelty interludes.

MIDDAY SERVICE GIVES TIME TO WORLD SERIES

Giving up its time in order that W-G-N may broadcast the world's series, the W-G-N Midday Service has scheduled only one speaker this week, who will be heard at noon Monday. Maj. Gen. Frank S. Dickson, retired, will be the speaker tomorrow, and his subject will be "America First." If the world's series is completed before the end of the week, the Midday Service will return to its usual schedule and the speakers will be announced from day to day.

Kate Smith Named Head of NRA Radio Legion

Kate Smith has been appointed chairman of the NRA National Radio Legion, recently organized to mobilize additional radio talent under the banner of NRA, according to Louis J. Alber, chief of the speakers' division of NRA.

1,172 Salerno Songs.

Lawrence Salerno is one singer who keeps track of his songs. Lawrence went through his files this week and found that during the past year he had sung 1,172 songs on W-G-N. 372 of them being numbers of foreign origin.

W-G-N TO REPORT PRO FOOTBALL EXCLUSIVELY

Bob Elson at Mike for First Game Today.

W-G-N will broadcast the professional football games to be played in Chicago this season. The schedule of broadcasts will be inaugurated today when Bob Elson will present a detailed broadcast of the game between the Chicago Bears and the Boston eleven at Soldiers' field.

Through an arrangement with President George Halas, of the Chicago Bears, and President Charles Bidwill of the Cardinals, W-G-N will have the exclusive right to broadcast all of the home games of the two Chicago teams in the National Professional football league. Eleven games, five between the Bears and other teams, four between the Cardinals and out of town opponents and two contests between the Cardinals and the Bears are on the schedule.

Elson to Broadcast.

Bob Elson, who broadcast all of the professional games presented by W-G-N in 1931, the last year that W-G-N had professional football on the air, again will be at the mike.

Today's game will start at 2:30 p. m. and the broadcast will begin about five minutes before the referee's opening whistle is blown. This contest is to be broadcast from Soldiers' field where the Bears have scheduled the contest as an added attraction for the World's Fair. Subsequent games involving both the Cardinals and Bears will be played at and broadcast from Wrigley field.

The decision to return to the air with the popular Sunday afternoon sport was made after a survey of listeners showed thousands who preferred their football on W-G-N.

Schedule of Broadcasts.

The remainder of the schedule follows:

Oct. 15—Bears vs. Cardinals.
Oct. 22—Bears vs. Green Bay.
Oct. 29—Bears vs. New York.
Nov. 5—Cardinals vs. Green Bay.
Nov. 12—Cardinals vs. Cincinnati.
Nov. 19—Cardinals vs. Brooklyn.
Nov. 26—Bears vs. Portsmouth.
Nov. 30—Bears vs. Cardinals.
Dec. 3—Cardinals vs. Boston.
Dec. 10—Bears vs. Green Bay.

SHIRLEY BELL IS BACK AS LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE

The 880th performance of Little Orphan Annie, W-G-N's popular children's radio script, will be presented on W-G-N and NBC tomorrow. This comic strip radio feature has been presented at 5:45 p. m. six days a week on W-G-N for more than three years and for two years on the chain.

Shirley Bell, the girl who played the part of Orphan Annie in the script since its first day on the air, has returned to the cast after a two months' vacation and will be heard in the rôle every day during the winter season.

Little Orphan Annie and Joe Corntassel, who share the leading rôles in the sketch, are in for some interesting adventures during the next few weeks. The story will take the children on a trip around the world. They will visit London, Paris, Rome, the Suez canal, India, China, the Philippine Islands, Hawaii, and many other interesting cities and places.

Trip to Mars Planned by Uncle Quin's Scalawags

A trip to Mars! That should provide some real adventure and excitement for the children who follow Uncle Quin's Scalawags during the next few weeks. The Scalawags, Donnie Dreamer, Jean and Wishbone, broadcast at 6 p. m. week evenings over W-G-N. The Scalawags are to make the trip to Mars in the new space ship invented by Prof. Pluvius.

JOHN! IS THAT ALL IT COST US FOR FUEL OIL LAST MONTH?
YEP...OUR DELCO HEAT IS EVEN MORE ECONOMICAL THAN THE SALESMAN PROMISED

Imagine!.. Delco Heat

BURNS 95% AIR AND ONLY 5% OIL!

Hardly seems possible, does it? Well, it wouldn't be, except for the "Delco Fuel Control!"

This ingenious device, resulting from General Motors' years of experience in carburetion development, eliminates all guesswork on fuel consumption. It is an exclusive Delco Heat feature, and always meters the oil so that only 5% oil is used to 95% air.

Why! everyone can afford Delco Heat's automatic convenience and comfort on that basis! And even Delco's first cost is surprisingly low.

But there's even more to the story than that.

Come in and see how sturdily Delco Heat is built. And how simply ... only one moving part! Listen to Delco Heat's quiet purr ... so quiet that it can't be heard upstairs.

Now that you know how economically and automatically Delco Heat operates don't put off Delco Heat's greater comfort, convenience and cleanliness for another winter. Our factory-trained mechanics can install Delco Heat in your present system, whether it be steam, hot water, or warm air. And if you've already laid in your fuel supply, we'll remove it from your cellar and exchange it for fuel oil. Could anything be fairer than that?

Come in today, and see Delco Heat demonstrated ... or mail the coupon.

PURPOSE OF CONTEST TO INTRODUCE
New, Simplified Way In Baking

Remarkable New-Type Flour and Unique Recipe Service Banish Trouble and Failure

THIS amazingly simple, marvelously fascinating Cake Naming Contest—offering $5,000 in cash money prizes to women—is designed, frankly, for the sole purpose of attracting your attention to GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour as the simplest, easiest and surest way to baking success. Don't say you can't win until you have at least read the instructions for winning at right. It costs nothing to try. So it would be foolish not to. In any event—try GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour. You'll be glad you did.

Ends Baking Disappointments

By the development of a new type of flour—GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour—baking has been remarkably simplified in this way: By banishing the cause of most baking disappointments; that is, lack of uniformity in the flour used; the chance of two sacks of the same brand varying greatly in results.

GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour means flour that has been tested in an oven just like yours, for uniformity of results, before it goes to you. Every batch tested scientifically for baking of cakes, pies, pastries, breads, by a number of experts directed by the noted Gold Medal Cooking Authority, Betty Crocker.

Baking Further Simplified

A new and unique recipe service—consisting of a set of 20 recipes which are given free inside every size sack (new set every 3 months)—further simplifies baking.

Called the Betty Crocker $25,000 "Kitchen-tested" Recipe Set for "Foods That Enchant Men," it cost $25,000 to publish and brings the never before revealed secrets of such internationally famous chefs as Georges Beloeil of the Hotel Crillon, Paris; Henri Bassetti of the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles; and Edgard Kina of Honolulu's famed Royal Hawaiian Hotel. Recipes simplified for home use under the direction of Betty Crocker. (Since the recipe for the cake featured in this advertisement has not been published yet, it is not included in the $25,000 Recipe Set.)

Try GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour. And enter this novel, exciting contest.

A Contest For The Average Woman

Remember—this great $5,000 Cake Naming Contest is based on a subject that any housewife knows more about than even the most expert professional advertising men or literary experts—cake naming. Any woman—with any imagination at all—can easily think up a dozen good names. Send in your name today! Have the thrill of winning! Note directions at right. 1260

RULES! RULES!

DON'T THINK YOU CAN'T WIN

Read This Before You Make Up Your Mind

WHAT'S in a name? Well—there may be $1,000 for you in one name! For we will pay that amount to get a name which we can use to feature this latest, most marvelous Betty Crocker Cake in a new national advertising campaign. Think of the thrill of winning $1,000. Or any one of the other 935 cash prizes. Think what you could buy with this money. A new car. A trip to Paris and the Louvre. A college education for your child.

All this for making up a name. (You do NOT have to make the cake!) All this for doing something that you know you can do. You have named cakes before; have, perhaps, "thought" you would like to enter a contest. But have kept out because you thought you have no chance against "professionals." But you have a fine opportunity to win here!

A Woman Can Win This Contest

The one thing to keep in mind about this contest is that the average woman has a better opportunity to win than a professional advertising man. Or, a literary expert.

Because this contest has to do with something the professional advertising man or literary expert knows little or nothing about. On the contrary, this contest is based on something with which only the average woman is familiar; that is—Cake Naming.

For cake naming calls for a knowledge of cooking, ingredients, flavors, icings—all the things which you know most about.

Hence—the average woman is probably the one person best able to make up a name. And—best able to win.

DIRECTIONS FOR WINNING

First, make up a name for the cake shown here (also look at the big, beautiful full color illustration of this cake on the display card at your grocer's—it will help you win). Print the name you make up on a slip of paper with your name and address, and attach this slip to a Betty Crocker $25,000 Recipe Set Folder* (which comes free INSIDE every size sack of GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour) and send both the slip and recipe folder to GOLD MEDAL CAKE NAMING CONTEST, Minneapolis, Minn.

*(NOTE: You may send just the front cover of the recipe folder if you want to keep the recipes. Or a hand-drawn colored facsimile of the GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour Brand will be accepted in lieu of the recipe folder itself.)

HOW TO MAKE UP A NAME That Will Win A Cash Prize!

The whole "trick" in making up a winning name lies largely in getting a name that describes the cake in some way or another.

First, consider the cake itself. It is a full, rich-flavored chocolate cake with white peppermint-flavored marshmallow icing and a thin allegretti chocolate coating spread over the top in a jig-saw pattern. It is 8 inches square and 3 inches high. It is one of Betty Crocker's famous "Kitchen-tested" cakes. It's made with GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour. And—here are some suggestions:

Now here's a name suggested by the colors of the cake!

"Chocolate Jig-Saw Cake"

Another, suggested because of the creator, is:

"Betty Crocker's Chocolate Delight Cake"

Men love this cake, so here's a name that might fit:

"Husband's Favorite" or "A Man's Man Cake"

Another suggestion, using the name Gold Medal Flour, is:

"Gold Medal Flour Chocolate Cake"

But you will want to make up your own name. The above suggestions simply show you the type of names wanted. BY ALL MEANS SEE THE FULL COLOR PICTURE OF THIS CAKE AT YOUR GROCER'S—It Will Help You Win.

You may send in as many names as you care to. But to be eligible each name must be on a separate slip of paper, with sender's name and address, and each name must be accompanied by a Betty Crocker $25,000 Recipe Set Folder or a reasonably accurate colored drawing of the GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour Brand. Contest closes midnight October 15, 1933. Your entry must be in the mail on or before that date.

The judging of the contest—to select the names most suitable for use in national advertising—will be done by the following: Miss Julia Bliss Joyner of Pictorial Review; Mrs. Christine Frederick, Domestic Science Editor, American Weekly; Ann Batchelder, Food Editor of Delineator.

Decision of the judges in all matters pertaining to the contest is to be considered final by all contestants. No entries will be returned or acknowledged.

Winning contestants hereby give permission to reproduce their winning entry together with their names and addresses in printed advertising or on the radio.

Prize winners will be notified by mail as soon as possible after contest closes.

In case of tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

REMEMBER—ALL YOU DO IS: 1—Make up a name. 2—Send it in with a Gold Medal Recipe Folder.*
CONTEST CLOSES MIDNIGHT, OCT. 15, 1933
Your Entry Must Be In The Mail On Or Before That Date

When you bake at home, by all means use GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour and follow Betty Crocker's famous recipes. Then you are sure to avoid disappointments. : : : A still easier way, however, when you want delicious cakes, pastries, rolls and bread, is to simply order them from your baker direct or through your grocer. With truly professional skill, your baker transforms wheat, our basic cereal food, from nourishing, body-building grain into tasty, appetizing, wholesome, mealtime delights. Get acquainted with your baker and his products. : : : Wheat provides an infinite variety of tempting, delicious baked foods which add health and joy to every meal.

THE BLACK BAND RETURNS— JUST AS CHESTER AND JERRY HAD COME TO THE END OF THE TREASURE TRAIL— HAD FOLLOWED EVERY DIRECTION ON RED RIGGLES' TREASURE CHART— WERE ACTUALLY DIGGING FOR THE GOLD— THEY HEARD AGAIN THE CLATTER OF HORSES' HOOFS— AND TO THEIR DISMAY THEY SAW THE BLACK BAND ONCE MORE RIDING DOWN UPON THEM— THE SAME BLACK BAND THAT TERRORIZED AND CAPTURED RED RIGGLES AND HIS ONCE DREAD GANG— WHOSE MARK WAS THE FEARSOME DAGGER AND HEART— WHAT HAS BEEN THE FATE OF RED RIGGLES? DO THESE MEN KNOW THE SECRET OF THE HIDDEN TREASURE? WHAT WILL THEY DO TO CHESTER AND JERRY?
SIDNEY SMITH
IF THEY EVER CATCH US NOW AFTER THE WAY WE GAVE THEM THE SLIP— WE'RE DONE FOR—SH-H-H— KEEP QUIET AND STAY DOWN LOW— THEY'RE PASSING BY— THEY MAY NOT EVEN STOP— I DON'T THINK THEY'VE SEEN US—
WHITE WITH TERROR— THE TWO BOYS CROUCH IN THE TREASURE HOLE—
THE TWO LITTLE HEADS DUCK DOWN IN THE HOLE— A SHORT DISTANCE AWAY, THE MASKED RIDERS PAUSE, SCAN THE GROUND AND HOLD A CONSULTATION— DO THEY SUSPECT THE LONE TREE? HAVE THEY NOTICED THE CIRCLE ON THE GROUND— OR THE HOLE DUE WEST OF THE STAKE WHERE THE BOYS DUG AND DUG— BUT FOUND NO TREASURE?
WHAT ARE THEY DOING?
THEY'RE GOING AWAY— THEY'VE TURNED AROUND AND STARTED RIDING OFF— THEY NEVER EVEN STOPPED TO LOOK FOR US—
OH, BOY! THEY DIDN'T EVEN LOOK— THEY JUST GALLOPED OFF AS THOUGH THEY DIDN'T THINK WE WERE ANYPLACE FOR MILES— CLIMB UP— YOU CAN SEE FOR YOURSELF—
THEY PROBABLY WEREN'T AFTER US AT ALL— I'LL BET THEY DIDN'T EVEN KNOW WE WERE HERE—
THEY'VE GONE AROUND THAT CLIFF ALL RIGHT— ALL YOU CAN SEE NOW IS A CLOUD OF DUST—
CHESTER WAS RIGHT— THE MASKED RIDERS HAD GONE AROUND THE CLIFF— BUT QUICKLY THEY CIRCLE BACK TO THE OTHER SIDE—
WITHOUT WARNING THE BLACK BAND REAPPEARS AT THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF THE HOLE— CUTTING OFF ALL HOPE OF ESCAPE—
SUDDENLY A BLACK FIGURE LOOMS OVER THE EDGE— THE TWO BOYS ARE PETRIFIED— THEIR BLOOD FREEZES IN THEIR VEINS—
THERE IS NO CHANCE EVEN TO THINK OF ESCAPE— A PAIR OF STRONG ARMS REACH DOWN INTO THE HOLE— CHESTER AND JERRY ARE GRIPPED BY VISE-LIKE FINGERS— THEY ARE IN THE HANDS OF THE BLACK BAND—

TO BE CONTINUED—

Little Orphan Annie
HELLO, CHIZZLER- THIS IS STEVE SWINDELL- YEAH- OUR PLAN IS WORKING OUT GREAT- THEY'RE COMING OVER TO SEE ME- SURE- JUST LEAVE IT TO ME, C.C.-
HURRY UP, "UNCLE" DAN- I TOLD THAT LAWYER, MR. SWINDELL, WE'D BE OVER TO SEE HIM, AND HAVE HIM READ OUR CONTRACT- DON'T WANT TO KEEP HIM WAITING-WASN'T IT FORTUNATE THAT WE SHOULD MEET SUCH A FINE LAWYER?
YES- AND HE'S FOR US, TOO- HE SAID IT WAS A SHAME WE WEREN'T GETTING MORE MONEY FOR OUR ACT- HE'S SURE HE CAN HELP US-
OF COURSE HE DOESN'T KNOW MR. CHIZZLER- BUT I TOLD HIM ALL ABOUT EVERYTHING AND HE SAYS MR. CHIZZLER MUST BE PUTTING OVER SOMETHING ON US-
HOW DO YOU DO, MR. SWINDELL?
HELLO, MR SWINDELL- I HOPE YOU AREN'T TOO BUSY TO SEE US-
WELL- WELL- WELL- COME RIGHT IN- I'D NEVER BE TOO BUSY TO SEE YOU FOLKS-
HERE'S THAT CONTRACT I WAS TELLING YOU ABOUT-
AH, YES- TO BE SURE- THE CONTRACT- I'LL JUST HAVE A LOOK AT THAT DOCUMENT-
HM-M-M----- TCH! TCH! TCH! THAT'S BAD---- HM-HM-HM--- I WAS AFRAID OF THAT--- HM-M--- "FIFTY PER CENT AND EXPENSES" TCH! TCH! VERY BAD- VERY BAD INDEED- AN IRON-CLAD CONTRACT, I FEAR-- NOT A HOLE IN IT-
THEN ISN'T THERE ANYTHING WE CAN DO ABOUT IT?
NO- IT'S TOO LATE NOW- I'M SORRY, BUT THE LAW IS THE LAW- THIS CONTRACT IS ABSOLUTELY UNBREAKABLE
GEE- THAT'S SURE TOUGH- WHAT DO WE OWE YOU FOR YOUR ADVICE?
OH, I WOULDN'T THINK OF CHARGING YOU, UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES- I'M AS DISAPPOINTED AS YOU ARE, THAT THERE IS NO WAY TO BREAK YOUR CONTRACT WITH THIS MAN CHIZZLER-
THAT'S TERRIBLY DISAPPOINTING NEWS, ANNIE- IT DOESN'T SEEM JUST-
NO- BUT IT MUST BE THE LAW- THIS MAN SWINDELL IS A SMART LAWYER- IF THERE WAS ANY WAY TO GET OUT O' GIVIN' ALL WE MAKE TO CHIZZLER, THIS BIRD WOULD HAVE TOLD US-
YES- HE SEEMS TO BE A FINE MAN- HE TOOK A REAL INTEREST IN US- HE WANTED TO HELP US-
SURE- I GUESS IT'S NO USE- WE'RE JUST STUCK- THAT'S ALL- GEE- I WISH WE'D NEVER MET THAT GUY, CHIZZLER-
HA! HA! THEY FELL FOR IT! THAT WAS A GREAT IDEA OF YOURS, C.C.- I'VE GOTTA HAND IT TO YOU- THEY'LL GIVE YOU NO MORE TROUBLE-
GOOD WORK- GOT TO KEEP MY TRAINED SEALS IN LINE, YOU KNOW- HERE'S THE FIFTY I PROMISED YOU-CAN I GO WITH YOU ON YOUR SOLOS?

ER-ULP!
-SO REMEMBER-JUST KEEP A COOL HEAD AN' FORGET THE FACT THAT ITS YOUR FIRST SOLO.
HOLD ON A MINUTE
DIDJA SAY, I CAN GO TOO?
LISSEN, STEVE, HOW DOES IT HAPPEN YOU'RE LETTIN' THESE TWO SQUABS SOLO? YOU WON'T LET ME AN' I'VE HAD A LOT MORE INSTRUCTION THAN THEY'VE HAD!
WELL, BRUCE, IF YOU MUST KNOW, YOU'RE TOO DARN COCKSURE AND RECKLESS FOR A BEGINNER-BUT IF YOU'LL PROMISE TO LAY OFF THAT SPECTACULAR FLYIN'--WELL OKAY!
TWO MINUTES LATER, BRUCE TAKES OFF-
LOOK AT THAT CLIMBIN' TAKE OFF! AFTER ALL MY CAUTIONIN' --IF HE GETS DOWN ALIVE IT'LL BE A MIRACLE
EVEN IF THIS IS MY FIRST SOLO, I'M GONNA SHOW THOSE GUYS SOME REAL FLYIN' OR MY NAME ISN'T BRUCE MILBURN!
I WAS AFRAID OF THAT! LOOK AT HIM----STUNTIN' LIKE A WAR ACE!!
-WELL, HE SURE PULLED OUT OF THAT ONE NICE!
THIS SIDE-SLIPPIN' IN FOR A LANDIN' WILL CONVINCE STEVE I'M NOT JUST AN ORDINARY STUDENT----NOW I'LL LEVEL OFF-
--BUT HE WAS TOO NEAR THE GROUND TO STRAIGHTEN OUT-CRASH
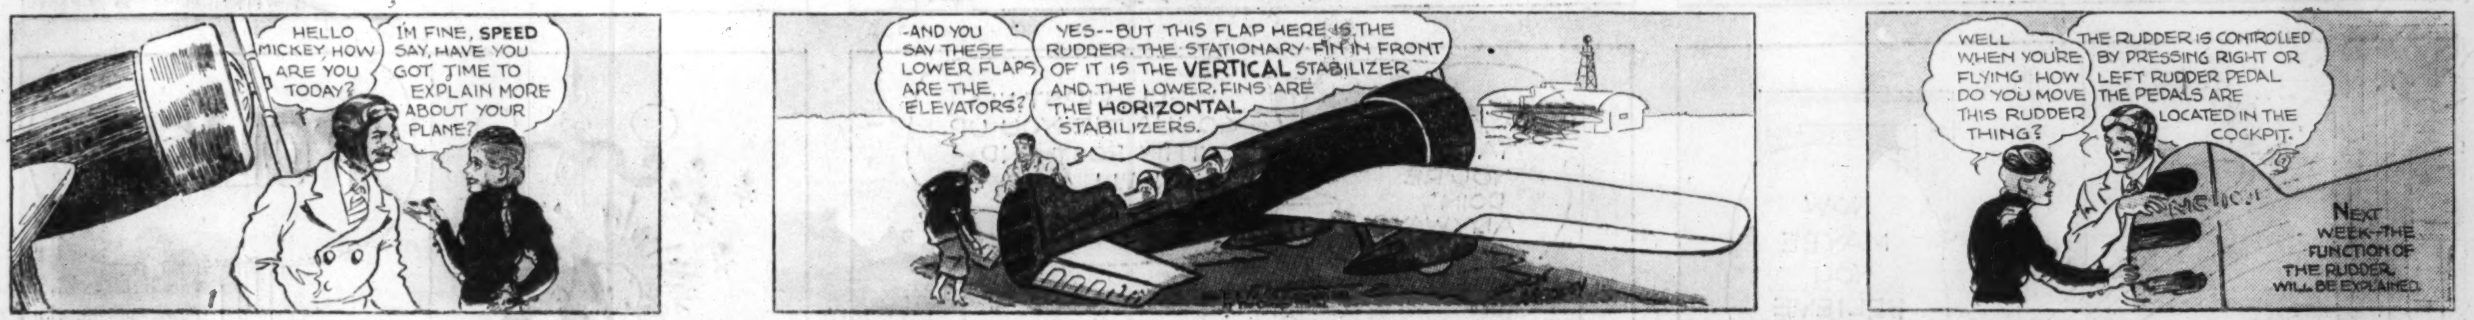
I SEE HE CUT THE SWITCH-LUCKY HE DID OR HE MIGHT BE IN FLAMES NOW!
H-HE'S UNCONSCIOUS-POOR FELLOW-
AN HOUR LATER-
CITY EMERGENCY HOSPITAL
IS HE HURT BAD?
HE'S PRETTY BAD OFF-IT MAY BE A LONG TIME BEFORE HE CAN FLY AGAIN.
IT'S TOO BAD-HE'D HAVE MADE A GOOD PILOT IF HE JUST HADN'T BEEN SO RECKLESS!
IT'S [illegible] THIS CRACK-UP HAD TO HAPPEN JUST WHEN YOU BOYS WERE ABOUT TO MAKE YOUR FIRST SOLOS----
---BUT THE LONGER YOU PUT IT OFF, THE HARDER IT WILL BE FOR YOU TO DO, SO MY ADVICE IS TO GO AHEAD AND SOLO RIGHT NOW!!--------WHICH ONE OF YOU WANTS TO GO FIRST?
CONTINUED NEXT WEEK-

AIR FACTS



HELLO MICKEY, HOW ARE YOU TODAY?
I'M FINE, SPEED SAY, HAVE YOU GOT TIME TO EXPLAIN MORE ABOUT YOUR PLANE?
-AND YOU SAY THESE LOWER FLAPS ARE THE ELEVATORS?
YES--BUT THIS FLAP HERE IS THE RUDDER. THE STATIONARY FIN IN FRONT OF IT IS THE VERTICAL STABILIZER AND THE LOWER FINS ARE THE HORIZONTAL STABILIZERS.
WELL WHEN YOU'RE FLYING HOW DO YOU MOVE THIS RUDDER THING?
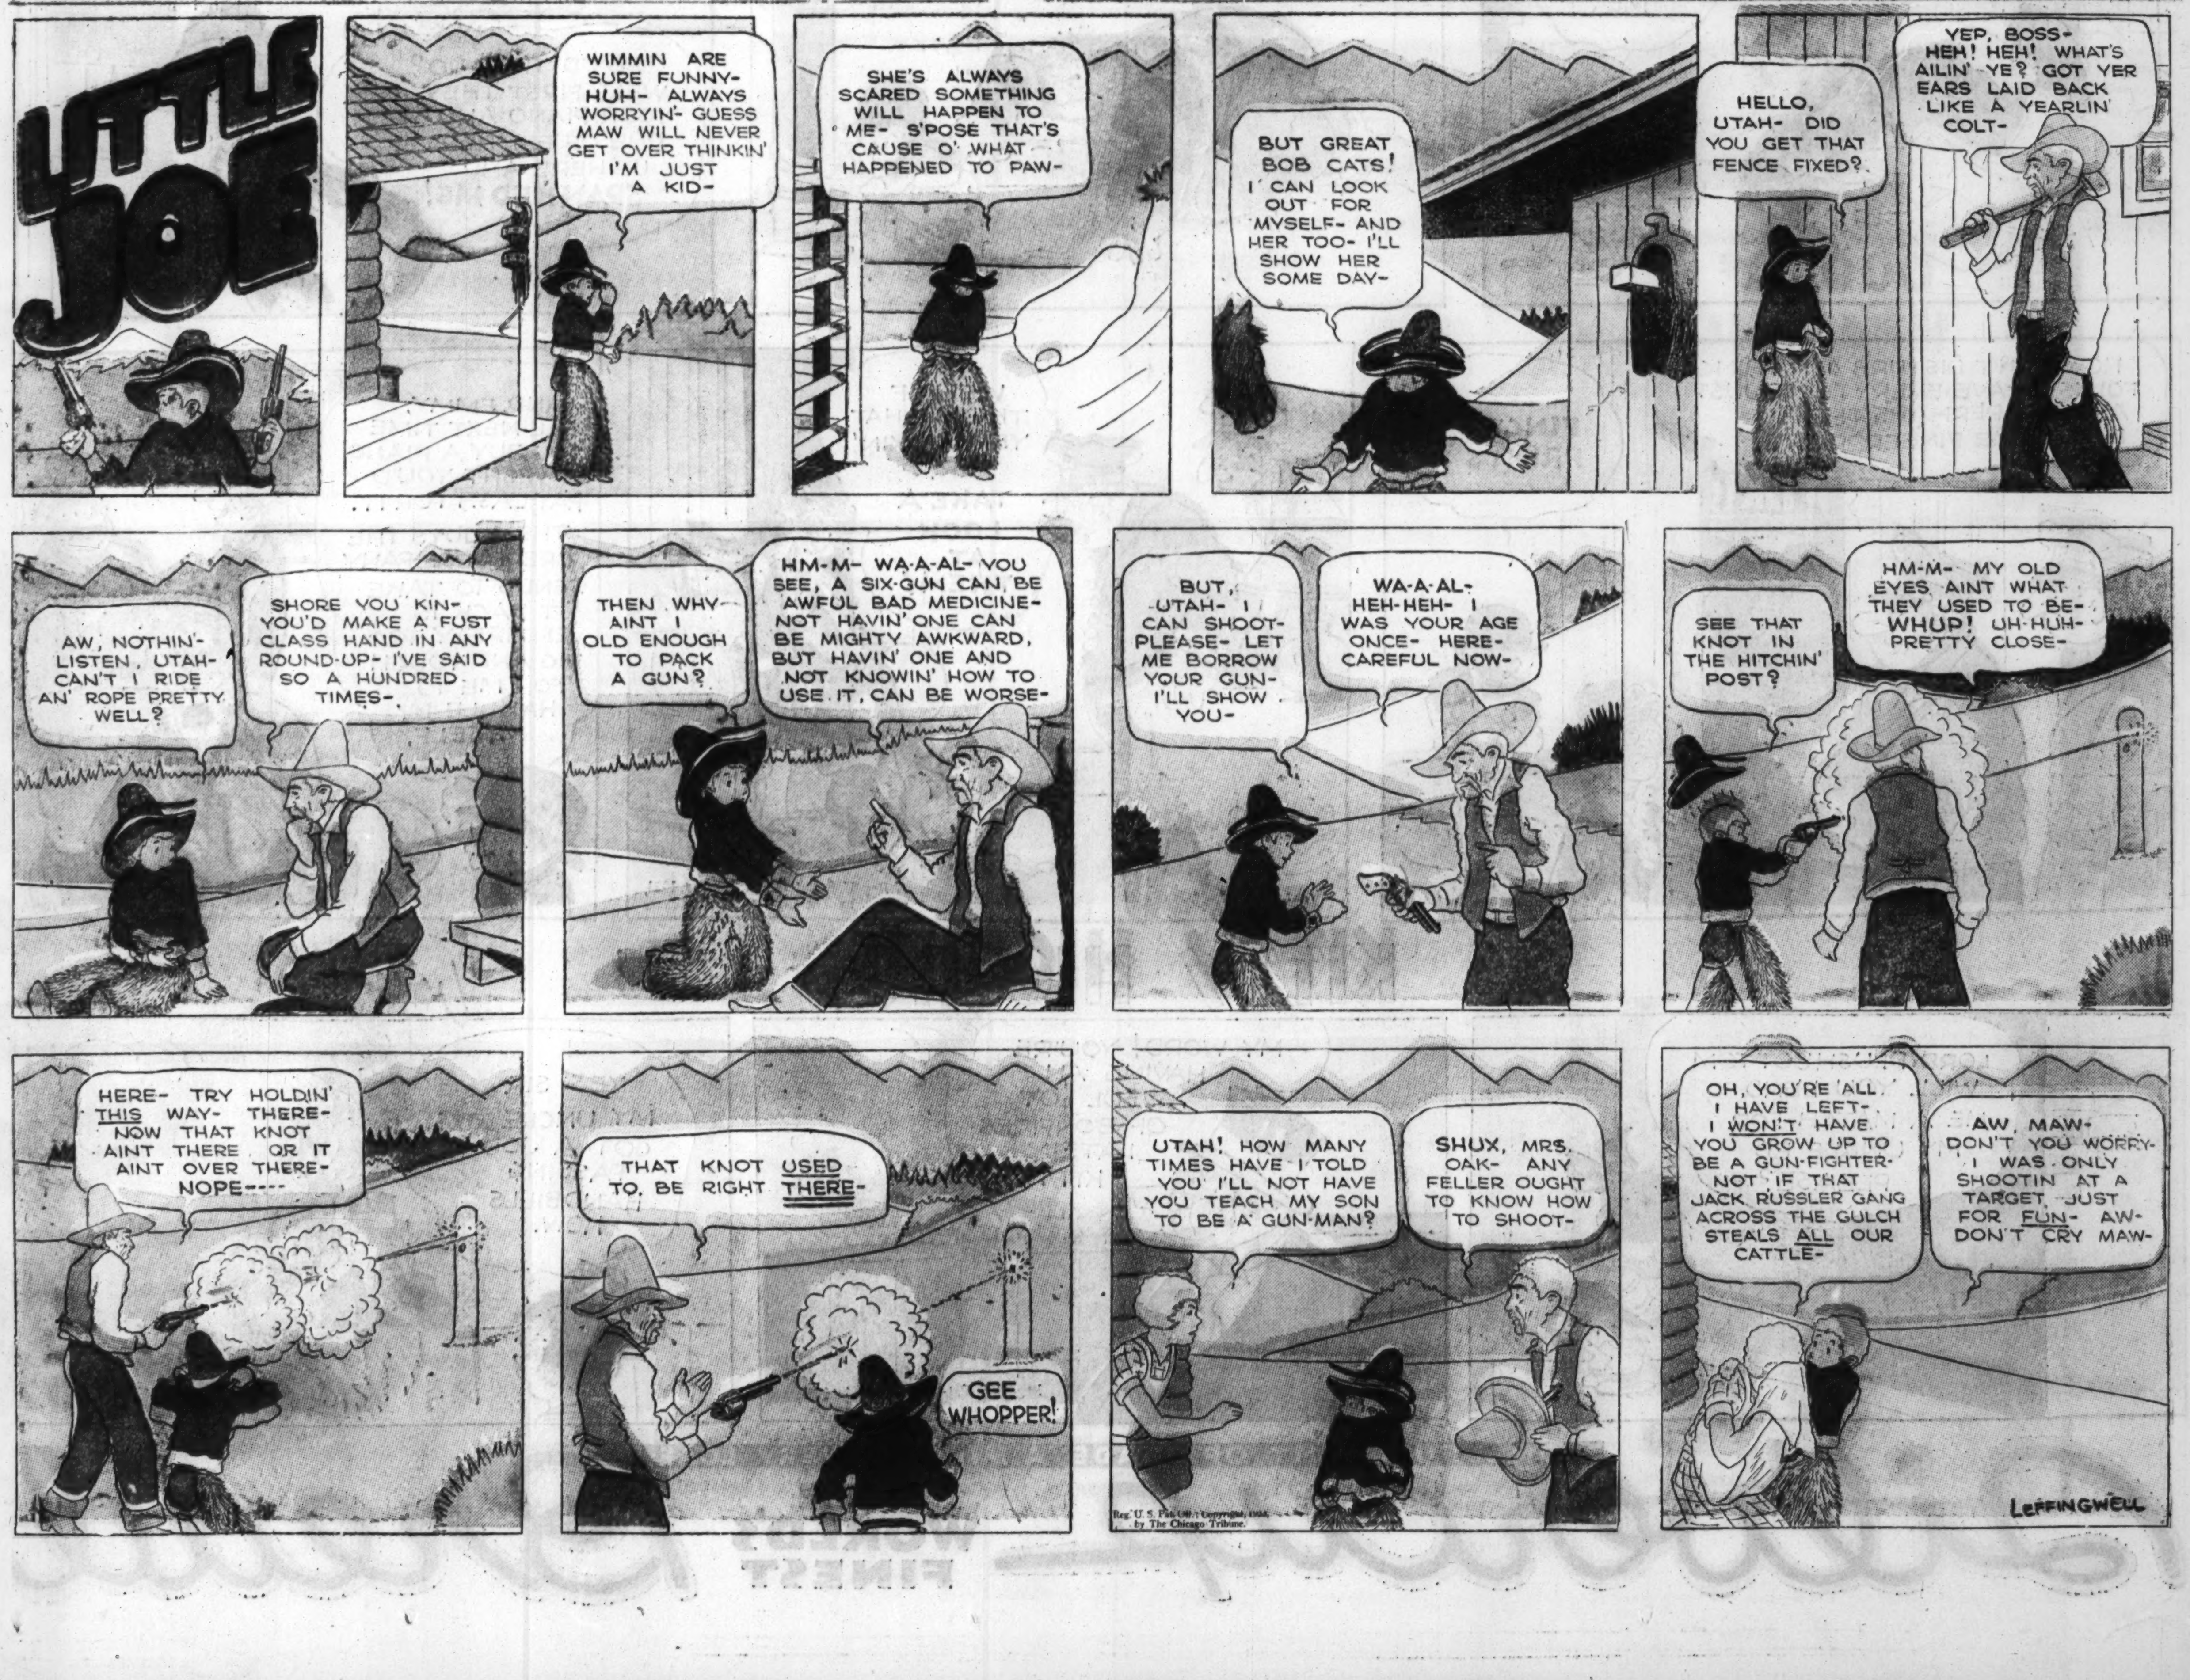
NEXT WEEK-THE FUNCTION OF THE RUDDER WILL BE EXPLAINED.



LITTLE JOE
WIMMIN ARE SURE FUNNY-HUH-ALWAYS WORRYIN'-GUESS MAW WILL NEVER GET OVER THINKIN' I'M JUST A KID-
SHE'S ALWAYS SCARED SOMETHING WILL HAPPEN TO ME-S'POSE THAT'S CAUSE O' WHAT HAPPENED TO PAW-
BUT GREAT BOB CATS! I CAN LOOK OUT FOR MYSELF-AND HER TOO-I'LL SHOW HER SOME DAY-
HELLO, UTAH-DID YOU GET THAT FENCE FIXED?
YEP, BOSS-HEH! HEH! WHAT'S AILIN' YE? GOT YER EARS LAID BACK LIKE A YEARLIN' COLT-AW, NOTHIN'-LISTEN, UTAH-CAN'T I RIDE AN' ROPE PRETTY WELL?
SHORE YOU KIN-YOU'D MAKE A FUST CLASS HAND IN ANY ROUND-UP-I'VE SAID SO A HUNDRED TIMES-.
THEN WHY AINT I OLD ENOUGH TO PACK A GUN?
HM-M-WA-A-AL-YOU SEE, A SIX-GUN CAN BE AWFUL BAD MEDICINE-NOT HAVIN' ONE CAN BE MIGHTY AWKWARD, BUT HAVIN' ONE AND NOT KNOWIN' HOW TO USE IT, CAN BE WORSE-
BUT, UTAH-I CAN SHOOT-PLEASE-LET ME BORROW YOUR GUN-I'LL SHOW YOU-
WA-A-AL-HEH-HEH-I WAS YOUR AGE ONCE-HERE-CAREFUL NOW-SEE THAT KNOT IN THE HITCHIN' POST?
HM-M-MY OLD EYES AINT WHAT THEY USED TO BE-WHUP! UH-HUH-PRETTY CLOSE-

You May Win $1,000 In Cash Or Any One Of 487 Other Cash Prizes Just For Answering This One Simple Question

"What Do You Think Is The Biggest Reason So Many Women Are Changing From Old-Style Granulated, Bar and Flake Soaps to OXYDOL?"

Why This Amazing Cash Prize Offer:

This is the second $10,000 cash prize contest on Oxydol Soap. Its sole purpose is to induce still more women to learn about Oxydol and try it without delay! For Oxydol is the latest improved Laundry Soap Discovery of Procter & Gamble, famous soap makers to the homes of America. New improved Oxydol! Without question, it washes clothes FASTER, SAFER and gets them WHITER than any laundry soap now or ever known!

HOW would you like to open your mail box some morning and find a check for $1,000? Enough for a glorious trip to Europe; enough for a brand-new car—with cash left over for a new fur coat, or a lovely rug for the living room!

HERE'S HOW TO WIN

Winning is just as simple as ABC! You don't need a dictionary; you don't need a word book; you don't need to study and wrack your brains to win this contest! Here are the kind of statements that'll win the money. Read them over—see how simple they are! Five minutes at your own desk in your own home—a few words just as simple as these—and you may easily win any one of the cash prizes! Enough for a glorious European trip—a four-figure bank balance—an education for your child—new clothes; new furnishings for your home, or an automobile to enjoy for years. Now read the statements which will guide you in what to say to win any one of the 488 big cash prizes!

What Is The Biggest Reason So Many Women Are Changing to OXYDOL?

1. "Because Oxydol's the one soap that soaks clothes clean and yet is really easy on them — and on your hands, too."

2. "Because I found Oxydol is even faster than the granulated soap I'd been using. My wash is 50% whiter, too."

3. "Oxydol's the only soap that will hold its suds in my machine straight through washing time."

4. "My pretty cotton and gingham dresses are washed clean in 15 minutes — and in more than 30 washings not one has faded."

5. "Oxydol is easier than bar soaps—faster than flakes—and never fades things like other granulated soaps will do."

6. "Quick, long-lasting suds that work fast in hard water—and won't harm colored things! At least, that's why I changed to Oxydol."

Or, if you prefer, real cash money to put your child through school, or to fatten your own bank balance into four figures.

Well then, just write a few simple words telling us what you think is the biggest reason so many women are changing from other kinds of laundry soaps to Oxydol. You may win a thousand dollars in cash or any one of 487 other big cash prizes!

Five minutes at your desk may do this for you. For this is a new and simple and Amazingly Different kind of contest. You don't have to pore over the dictionary; you don't have to make up words; you don't have to wrack your brains for trick advertising slogans. The women who win prizes in this contest will win just by stating, in their own words, the simple facts about the subject of washing clothes and what the world's fastest, finest laundry soap does to make that work quicker, easier and safer!

If you ever washed clothes, you have a perfect chance to win money in this contest. Writing, spelling, grammar are not important—as a matter of fact they don't count at all! To win, just tell us in your own words what you think is the biggest reason for so many thousands of women discarding bar soaps, flakes, chips and old-style granulated soaps in favor of Oxydol!

Here is a description of Oxydol which may help you a lot in working out a phrase. Study it. Then write us in your own words, what there is about Oxydol that makes women change to it from laundry soaps they've used for years.

What Oxydol Is

Oxydol is a new-type granulated soap. The latest improved scientific discovery of Procter & Gamble experts. A discovery that gives sparkling white wash every time—that stops wash-tub fading—cuts washing time in half—and gives bland, mild suds that are gentle to your hands. This is how it acts.

It takes the harshness out of so-called "hard" water; the hardness that makes boiling, extra rubbing and strong soap necessary to get things white and clean.

Then, due to bland cleansing qualities available in no other soap, flake or powder made, Oxydol DISSOLVES all dirt and grime; breaks it up—loosens it, and "suds" it away with rich, creamy suds that last throughout washing time.

You do your wash in water soft and gentle as rain-water. With a bland, mild cleanser, NOT with skin eating, harsh, strong soap. With gentle, long-lasting suds that DISSOLVE grease, dirt and grime. It's made by the makers of Ivory Soap, so you know it's kind to hands. You cut washing time, too—either on board or in washing machine—50% or more.

And, along with its quick-cleansing properties, Oxydol contains unique color-protecting elements. So it's really safe—Oxydol can't fade anything clear water won't!

Consider what this means in saving rubbing and scrubbing, in saving your hands, in saving fine fabrics from soap fade and ruin.

Rules of The Contest

Nothing could be simpler or easier than this Oxydol Soap Contest. This is all you do.

Just tear the top off a box of Oxydol. Write your name and address, and your grocer's name and address on this box top. (If you can't easily obtain Oxydol, a reasonably exact facsimile of the box top will do. You don't have to buy to enter this contest.)

Then write, in your own words, your answer to the question: "What do you think is the biggest reason so many women are changing from bars, flakes, chips and old-style granulated soaps to Oxydol?"

Send your letter, and the box top or facsimile with your own and your grocer's name and address written on it, to Oxydol, P. O. Box 1801, Cincinnati, O. Send it as soon as you can—this contest closes midnight, October 14th.

Enter Contest Now —Wash With Oxydol

Enter this $10,000 contest now. Remember, a housewife who knows wash day work and good washing results is the one who will win. Society women and college professors won't know how. A phrase written in lead pencil on tablet paper is just as good as one that's typewritten or on dollar stationery. So write without delay. You may win $1,000 in CASH. Or—one of 487 other CASH prizes.

And—you'll find in Oxydol a far easier, far safer and far surer way of getting perfect laundry results. Its sudsing action in any kind of water, hard or soft, will amaze you. And when your wash is on the line and you see how fresh and white it looks, that alone will make you feel it's worth while asking for Oxydol every time. 33-B1

BUT THE MAYOR EXPECTS US—
LET HIM WAIT... UNTIL WE'VE SEEN WHAT'S GOING ON AT THIS STORE. WELL, HERE WE ARE. PAT, ATTORNEY KING AND I WILL GO INSIDE.. YOU WAIT HERE.
HELLO, MISS HAVING ANY TROUBLE HERE?
KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT-
WHY THAT IS NO. WHO ARE YOU?
I'M FROM THE PLAIN-CLOTHES DEPARTMENT TRACY'S THE NAME - AND THIS IS STATE'S ATTORNEY KING. WERE THESE MEN BOTHERING YOU?
WHY, OF COURSE NOT, MISTER. WE JUST DROPPED IN TO BUY SOME FISH WE AIN'T BOTHERIN' NOBODY.

You can get a copy of this book FREE. Just fill out the coupon and mail it to us with the top cut from a package of Wheatena. If you haven't a Wheatena package in your home—ask your mother to get one from her grocer the first thing tomorrow morning.

MOTHERS: Wheatena is NOT a "miracle" food. It won't make your children "big and strong" over night. But it is the cereal for building strong, sturdy bodies. That's because it is a hot, brown, wheat cereal—full of body-building elements. Most children—and grown-ups, too—like Wheatena's rich, toasty flavor. Cooking directions on package.

All That's Good in a Course of Beauty Culture and Barbering is embodied in Moler's New—Short—Concise Private Lesson Training

A Far Superior Method.

A plan that will qualify you with knowledge and skill for the guaranteed salaries and shorter hours of the NRA long before the other methods now in use.

You save useless weeks of hard drilling, but you must act quickly to get the rate before the raise compelled by the government.

It is a peculiar fact that employing Beauty Operators and Barbers petition the Government in the Code of the Recovery Act that they may pay higher salaries than any other like profession.

They possibly want to eliminate cheap competition. Whatever its purpose—you profit by it as a Graduate.

Enroll now and be the first to get the good wages and the easy hours.

THE HALF RATE can be saved by making reservations NOW. There has never been a similar situation in the entire History of Beauty and Barber activities.

"Operators Wanted"

PREPARE AT De LEE WITH MME. LOUISE

Exclusive beauty shops want operators who have been trained the DeLEE way under Mme. Louise. Madame Louise, internationally famous hairdressing and beauty culture expert, will aid personally in training you for a BETTER POSITION and a larger income.

At DeLEE you will find the ideal "set-up" — capable instructors who have had years of teaching experience and up to date 100% equipment. Classrooms are colorful, light, and airy.

A Recognized School.

The DeLEE University of Cosmetology is the only beauty school which has been permitted to incorporate as a University in Illinois. DeLEE meets all requirements of the Department of Education and Registration. Why be satisfied with an old-fashioned "trade-school" training when the DeLEE "university type" of schooling is available at no greater cost? Previous experience or a high school education NOT necessary. Day and evening classes. Tuition reasonable and payments can be arranged to suit your convenience.

Visit DeLEE First

A visit to DeLEE won't obligate you. It will open your eyes. Come in and talk with the DeLEE dean, Miss Ruby Lorrain Stevens, and let her explain just how DeLEE prepares you for a BETTER POSITION AND MORE PAY.

WANTED—MALE HELP.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

As members of the NRA—and a business increase of over 500% as against the corresponding period of 1932, again we are forced to expand our organization in Chicago and the Middle West. We will place six men to represent our products. INVESTIGATE IMMEDIATELY.

Three new inventions have added to our sales volume tremendously, and because of the exclusiveness of these products and our unique method of merchandising, our sales are comparing favorably with 1929 figures.

Cash being paid to our representatives is almost unbelievable—you must see and analyze the following CASH paid to a few men LAST WEEK HERE IN CHICAGO.

S. V. P.	$250.32	E. P.	$131.10
W. R.	$212.10	D. M.	$115.20
H. C. H.	$190.00	C. E. E.	$91.37
W. P. E.	$187.55	F. B. L.	$78.20

The men selected will establish themselves in a BUSINESS OF THEIR OWN using our money. You won't make a fortune, but you should net from $38 to $71 a week after a short period of training.

ABSOLUTELY NO INVESTMENT.

We pay the rent, light, heat, stenographer, etc., place you where the business is, and pay you weekly.

We can only spare time to interview men of good appearance and who have a sincere desire to locate a permanent connection. This is no stop-over proposition. Make up your mind to investigate this profitable business immediately.

Monday A. M., 9 to 12 ONLY. No interviews after noon. Apply Room 601, Mather Tower, 75 E. Wacker-dr.

Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

Salary and Commission

No Cash Investment Required.

Bona fide positions for aggressive men. An international organization with a new co-operative sales plan that is hurdling all obstacles.

MAKE MONEY NOW.

If you are the right type of man—of good appearance, possessed of executive ability and desire to advance to a key position; can show an unassailable record for trustworthiness, and if you can discern a real winner then only will we grant you a full interview. If, in this interview, we find that you meet our requirements, you can be assured of highly remunerative earnings. You will not be merely one of a crowd, but will have a permanent position with definite territory and responsibilities. Those selected will be given thorough training both in a school and on territory. Sharp departure from old, routine methods is responsible for our phenomenal success.

Old, Strong Company; New, Live Co-operation

This is not a promotion and promoters are not wanted. The organization tolerates no misrepresentation and expects its salespeople to be guided accordingly. The cooperation is unusual and the backing exceptional. Local and national radio is used extensively for your direct benefit. The territories are local and near suburban.

MEN.

IF THESE INCOMES INTEREST YOU AND IF YOU BELIEVE YOU CAN LEARN TO FOLLOW SUCCESSFUL PROCEDURE APPLY MONDAY MORNING; WE HAVE POSITIONS OF SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY FOR MEN WHO CAN LEARN HOW TO SUCCESSFULLY CONDUCT OUR BUSINESS.

These positions are permanent, immediate, substantial. Men selected will have to take time to learn, and during this time may have to be satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $125 to $200 per month, if necessary. Amazingly saleability of our newest mechanical invention makes possible the addition of a few more men to our organization, and after the right ways of working and thinking are learned and applied, makes possible substantial increases in weekly pay checks.

Some idea of how powerfully saleable our product is, of how well it meets present day demands, may be gathered from these facts: In the past 4 days, T. E. D. made $92, R. B., $71 in 1 day, H. H. T. made over $41, O. D., $71.50, and R. H. over $100. A former auto salesman made $115 that same week, one of our experienced men made slightly over $250 for the week, a former merchant had earnings of $140 that same week.

At no time during the entire period our company has been in business has it been so successful as at present. This is true of our local branch, of our national business from coast to coast, and likewise of our world business. But such progress has been the history of our business since the invention of this wonderful product.

The first model of this product was introduced in Europe and captured one market after another as fast as organizations could be employed and manufacturing extended. Today we have five great European factories and our sales there are greater than the combined sales of all other companies attempting to compete in those markets. Less than three years ago, the present model of this product was introduced in the United States and the results to date are of most astonishing success. 1933 will be our fourth consecutive record sales year!

No previous sales experience required. We teach you how to sell this product in this tremendous market. Even though you have never sold anything before or have had no idea that you have sales ability, this may mean your opportunity. We advise you to come in and take a look at this wonderful product and we will talk with you as to the possibilities of your learning the business. No charge is made for instruction and there is no expense of any kind in taking up the work.

Weare interested in getting good men who are honest, ambitious, industrious, and who really want a genuine opportunity to make something of themselves and to make real money regularly and honestly for their families. To such men this opportunity will mean great happiness and success.

If you feel qualified and really want something permanent, come in for a personal interview Monday morning, Oct. 2, from 9 to 1, Room 910, at 222 North Wells-st.

PORPOISE GROWS HIS OWN "ZIPPERS"

A zipper just like mine—so thinks Miles Overholt Jr. as he examines the teeth in the odd shaped mouth of a porpoise caught off Catalina island, California. The duck-like bill and minute teeth distinguish the species.

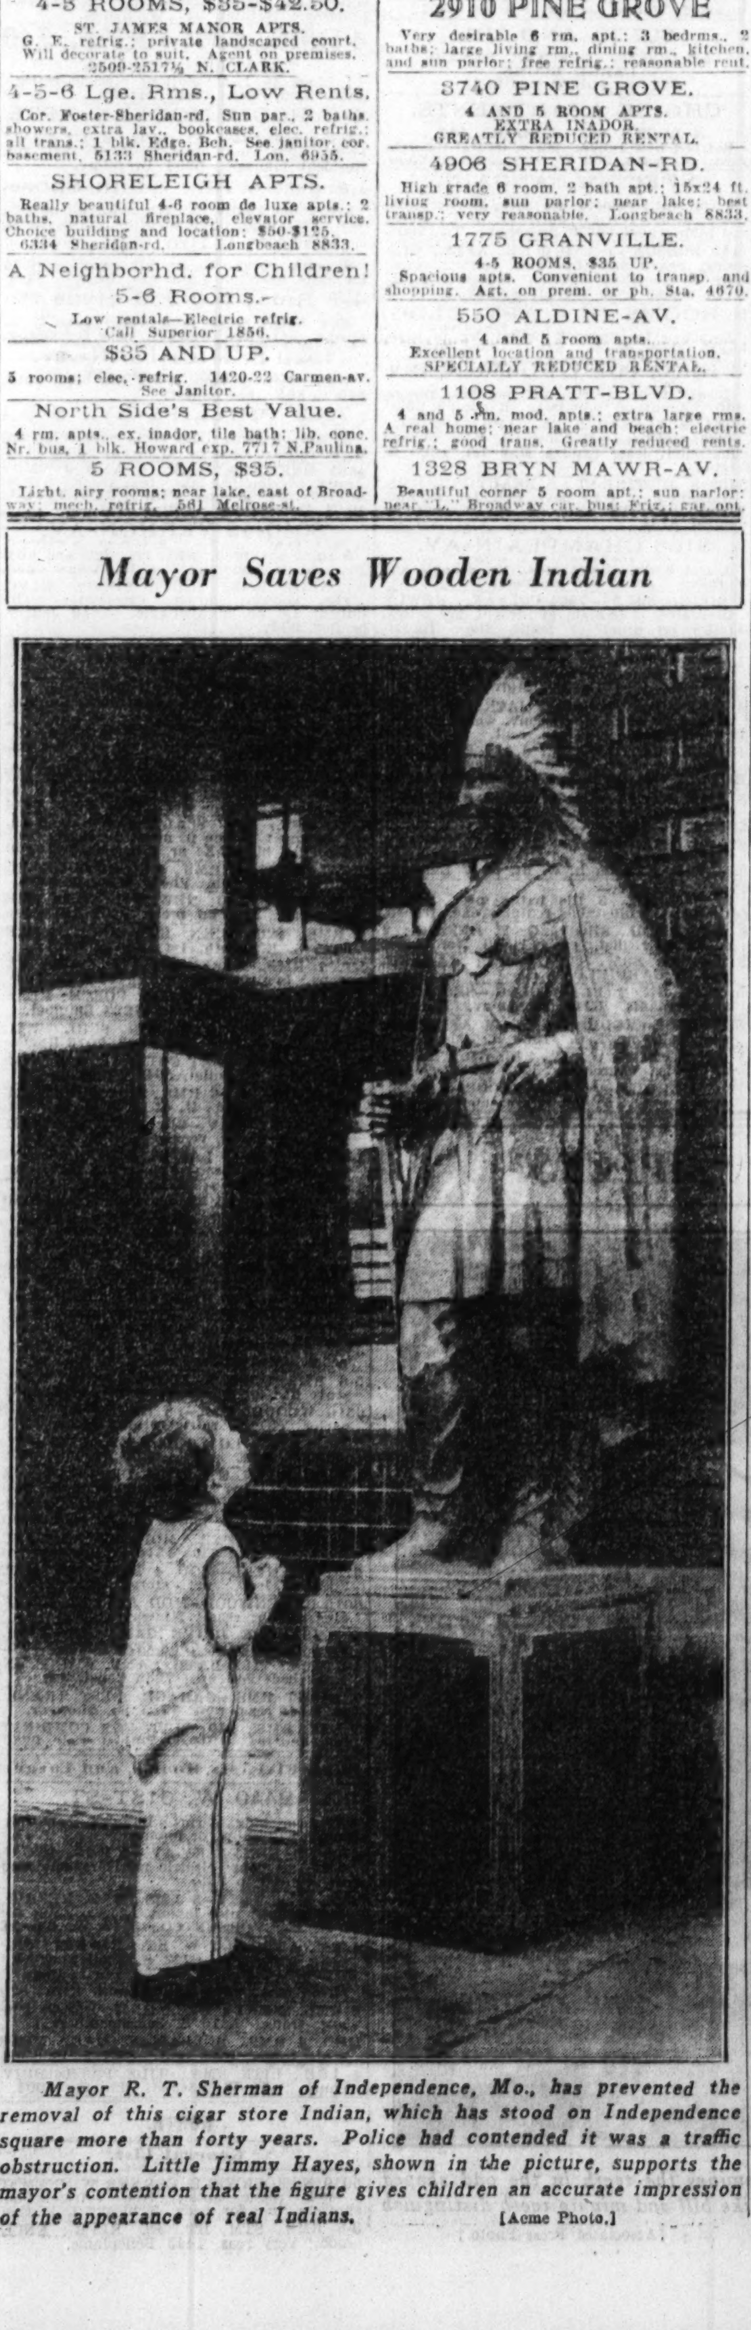
Mayor Saves Wooden Indian



Mayor R. T. Sherman of Independence, Mo., has prevented the removal of this cigar store Indian, which has stood on Independence square more than forty years. Police had contended it was a traffic obstruction. Little Jimmy Hayes, in the picture, supports the mayor's contention that the figure gives children an accurate impression of the appearance of real Indians.

ESTATES PROPERTY.

$13,500

will buy this magnificent estate on the outskirts of Paw Paw, Mich., midway between Detroit and Chicago and bordering on beautiful Maple lake (Highway M-40). The 2 story white frame home of 13 rooms, including ideal service apartment, is strictly modern, in excellent repair and finished in exquisite taste. It nestles invitingly in the center of 5 acres of perfectly appointed grounds, with just the proper number of large, old shade trees, shubs and flowers. There are also 2 garages, one 1 car and one 3 car. A prominent builder has estimated that it would cost approximately $24,000 to reproduce this estate. By all means investigate, for the price represents a truly unquestionable investment.

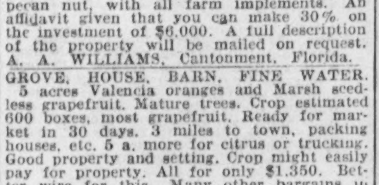
REAL ESTATE—FARM LANDS.



Alabama.

BALDWIN COUNTY, ALABAMA, HAS UNusual advantages for farmers who wish new locations, either for truck or general farming. Present year has been prosperous one. Gulf tempers climate summer and winter. Productive lands are reasonably priced. Many northern farmers have profitable, pleasant homes there. We send our publication, The Southland, giving full information free on request. E. J. Hoddy, General Development Agent, Dept. B-92, L. & N. Railroad, Louisville, Ky.

California.

IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA SMALL farm homes near established communities yield good income; ideal climate for fruit and poultry; moderate priced lands; easy terms; paved roads and good schools. Only ten years ago life on the farm meant an almost primitive existence. Today widespread distribution of modern conveniences make pleasant and profitable the hours that used to be tedious and difficult. The Santa Fe railway has no land to sell but offers free information service to help you get right location. Low fares to California. Write for illustrated Southern California folder and our farm paper "The Earth" free for six months. C. L. SEAGRAVES, General Colonization Agent, Santa Fe Railway, 900A Railway Exchange, Chicago.

An Unusual Business Opportunity

Because of the serious illness and recent market losses of the owner, one of the country's foremost financial advertising agencies and direct mail concerns, 14 years old, offers an unusual partnership opportunity or outright sale of the business at a small fraction of its $50,000 inventory valuation. . . . Reputation of the firm in banking field is unusually high, and value of name and good will alone are worth thousands of dollars. . . . Owner's inability to finance completion and marketing of certain products and services now badly needed by banks generally for immediately increasing their banking income, which products have unusual profit possibilities for our business, is also a factor in this decision. . . . Equipped with an experienced staff of writers and artists, with printing, mailing departments, etc., this business offers an unusual opportunity for quick development into a profitable and expanding general advertising agency, direct mail or mail order business. . . . Present owner will remain with business until new owners become adjusted. . . . An outstanding proposition that will stand the strictest investigation. . . . Complete information will be given to parties seriously interested. . . . Address N S 304, Tribune.

$150 Buys This Complete Business

I have a complete business, something good that any man or woman or husband and wife working together can set up in their kitchen at home on which you can make up to $25 to $30 a day. For $150 you get absolutely everything you need to start out and make a good profit the first week. This is no "scheme" or "slick proposition," but a legitimate staple business. You manufacture at home an absolutely new food product. Looks and tastes like nothing you ever saw or heard of. Put it up in sacks and leave it with grocers, delicatessens, beer taverns, etc. They sell it for you at a big profit per dozen and it sells like wild fire. Derry now selling 600 dozen a week. Lambert sold 1,896 dozen first 6 weeks. Took in $1,011.20 in cash. No experience needed, as I show you how and start you off right. Call in person at Room 812 Boyce Bldg., 54 W. Illinois-st., or write. Ask for Mr. Bennett.

OPENS
SUNDAY

For the past weeks FELZ Motors has remained closed on Sunday in an endeavor to co-operate with all dealers, but the new Retail NRA Code does not ask for Sunday closing, and taking this fact into consideration and the fact that local dealers were not closed 100%, we think it unfair to close and not allow our customers the benefit of our Sunday bargains. Until all dealers agree to close 100%.

F-E-L-Z OPENS SUNDAY.

DAILY Savings UNDONE BY ONE HURRIED DECISION!

A HASTY selection of an apartment may set at naught all the savings of household buying for a year.

HALF the fun of entertaining is [illegible]

IT is a pretty tedious job climbing stairs to look at an apartment which may not possibly interest you.

YOU CAN feel sure that your apartment will be [illegible] when you choose it from Tribune want ads.

Watching pennies in your daily shopping is apt to be wasted effort if you do not shop carefully for your next apartment. One month's rent on a hastily signed lease can undo all your household savings of many months.

If you plan to move soon, bring to the task of locating an apartment the same thought you use in shopping at the department stores. You wouldn't start out to buy a dress or new curtains until you had read the ads and become familiar with prices. A few minutes reading the want ads in the Tribune each day will help you make the most advantageous selection of an apartment.

It is a serious matter to pick an apartment. So much depends on getting the right one. If you could visit in person all those in the neighborhoods you like, it would be fine. Of course, that is next to impossible. It takes too much time. Also, it is tiresome to look at apartments which are not suitable.

The Tribune want ads save you this bother. They include a comprehensive selection from $15 up. Begin today to read them. You will certainly find it will be worth your while.

Landlords!

Chicago's department stores who cater almost exclusively to women place more advertising in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

Women are the deciding factor in renting. To have them consider your advertising, use the newspaper that produces best results for department stores—The Tribune.

Great Lakes Mortgage Corporation to Represent Metropolitan Life

WILL OCCUPY BANKING FLOOR AT LAKE-WELLS

Plans Four Additional Branch Offices.

BY AL CHASE.

[Real Estate Editor.]

Metropolitan Life Insurance company yesterday appointed the Great Lakes Mortgage corporation, of which Robert F. Wingard is president, its mortgage loan correspondent for the entire state of Illinois and the Calumet region of Indiana. The mortgage business of the Metropolitan is now being handled by the City National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, which has elected to terminate the arrangement in keeping with its policy of confining its activities to those strictly of a banking nature.

The entire banking floor of the building at the northeast corner of Lake and Wells street, formerly occupied by the Trustees System, will be used by the Great Lakes Mortgage corporation, beginning Monday, Oct. 9.

To Open Four Branches.

On the same date the corporation announces that it will open branch offices at the following cities for the convenience of home owners in those areas: Gary, in the Gary State Bank building; Hammond, Ind., in the First Trust building; Bloomington, in the Peoples Bank building, and Waukegan, at 28 North Genesee street.

The officers of the Great Lakes Mortgage corporation, in addition to Mr. Wingard, president, are: Howard E. Hilton, vice president and treasurer; Howard E. Green, secretary, and G. Henry Olson, assistant treasurer.

Mr. Wingard has been prominently identified with the real estate mortgage business in Chicago for many years and at present is vice president of the City National Bank and Trust company, in charge of the Metropolitan account there. Mr. Hilton was for many years connected with the Chicago Trust company as vice president of its real estate loan department and at present is with the Chicago Title and Trust company, in charge of the mortgage servicing division. Both of them will sever their connections with these institutions on Oct. 7 to take up their work with the Great Lakes corporation, all of the stock of which is owned by the directors and officers of the corporation.

Will Negotiate New Loans.

"The City National Bank and Trust company has lent its full assistance and support to me and my associates in connection with the transfer of the account and the staff," said Mr. Wingard, "feeling that those who have been engaged in this work in the bank's organization would be the logical successors to carry on the business.

"While I deeply regret leaving my associates in the bank, we will carry on our banking connection with them and in other ways also, maintain the friendly and pleasant relationship which exists between all concerned in the change."

According to Mr. Wingard, his corporation will devote itself exclusively to the Metropolitan interests and will attend to all fiscal matters pertaining to Metropolitan mortgage investments in this area, including property management, collection of mortgage interest and principal, tax matters, extensions of maturing loans, placing of insurance on properties. It will also negotiate new mortgage loans on properties in Illinois and the Calumet region.

Staff of More Than Fifty.

Mr. Wingard stated that in working out the details of transferring the account, the Great Lakes Mortgage corporation has been assisted by the bank in order that there will be no inconvenience to the Metropolitan mortgage clientèle, who will continue to have uninterrupted and complete service.

Practically all of the employés now engaged in this particular work in the bank will be released to the new corporation, which will have a working staff of more than half a hundred men and women.

Racine Executive to Have an Air Conditioned Home

John R. Ramsay, an official of the Johnson Floor Wax company, has let contracts and work has started on a residence to cost in the neighborhood of $30,000 on Michigan boulevard, near Lombard avenue, in Racine, Wis. Milman & Morphett of Chicago are the architects. Walls will be common brick, painted white, with slate roof and plate glass windows. It will have twelve rooms and be air conditioned.

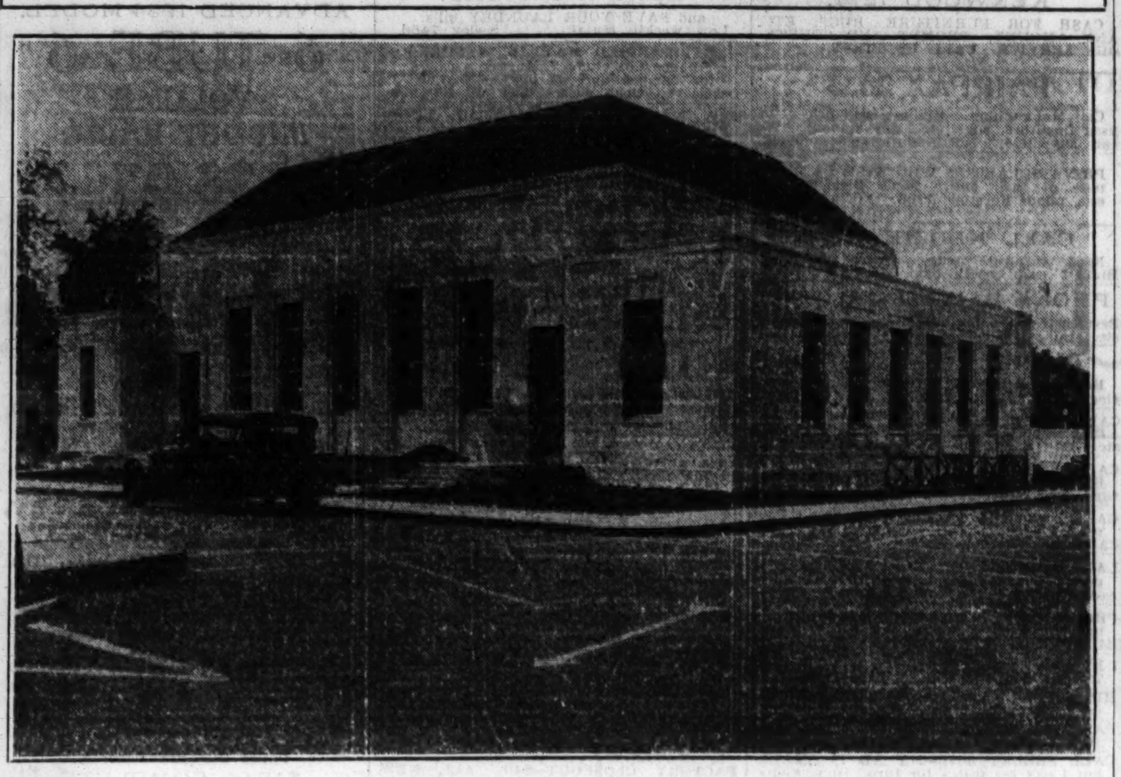
Two Three Apartment Buildings Change Hands

Mrs. Emma Elg has sold the three flat building at 1351 Rosedale avenue to Edith Fyefer for an undisclosed cash consideration. Vincent J. Duggan has sold the three flats at 7410 Barton avenue to Helen M. Woodruff of New York City for a reported $17,500. John J. Kern & Co. represented all parties and will continue to manage these properties.

Mrs. M. L. Jaffe to Direct Hotels' Social Activities

Mrs. Mildred Loeb Jaffe has been appointed director of social promotion and activities for the following hotels operated by Trustees Management Service Lake Shore Drive, Belmont, Sovereign, Plaisance, Sherry, Southmoor and Allerton.

LAKE FOREST'S NEW POSTOFFICE



Above is the new Lake Forest postoffice, designed by Milman & Morphett of Chicago and erected by the Blauner Construction company of this city. The building is practically completed, and Uncle Sam will take possession on Oct. 15. The structure is of limestone, with terrazzo floor in the public lobby; marble pilasters and wainscoting and twenty-two foot ceiling. The entire cost of the project is placed at $100,000.

Robert F. Wingard is president of the Great Lakes Mortgage corporation, which has just been appointed exclusive representative of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company in the entire state of Illinois and also in the Calumet steel belt cities.

STEVENSON HAS WORD OF PRAISE FOR H.O.L.C. HEAD

During his recent visit to Chicago to address the building and loan convention at the Stevens hotel, William F. Stevenson of Washington, D. C., chairman of the board of directors of the Federal Home Loan bank and Home Owners' Loan corporation, complimented William G. Donne on the progress attained in Illinois toward the relief of distressed home owners. He stated that more actual good had been accomplished in this state than in any other commonwealth.

Almost half a million people have been interviewed in the Chicago and downstate offices during their six weeks' existence, it was stated. Approximately 250,000 applications have been given out. More than 300 already have been approved for loans, with an average of ten new loans being made daily. Eighteen thousand formal applications are now on file awaiting final attention.

Within the next ninety days, Mr. Donne announced, he hoped that less distressed cases also can be taken up and the number of loans stepped up. All loans made to date have been to home owners actually in dire distress, Mr. Donne said.

90 Year Old Evanstonian Tells of Suburb's Founding

Miss Cornelia Gray Lunt, 90 year old daughter of the late Orrington Lunt, one of the founders of Evanston, yesterday told how her father selected the site of Northwestern university and the Garrett Biblical institute 80 years ago. He bought the 379 acres, that includes the present campus and what is now business property, for $25,000. This land is now worth millions. Miss Lunt's uncle, Dr. John Evans, for whom the suburb was named, also was one of the founders of Evanston.

MISS CORNELIA GRAY LUNT.

Miss Lunt, who now lives at 1742 Judson avenue, Evanston, was born on Michigan avenue, Chicago, between Lake and Randolph streets, in 1843. Through her father and uncle she became intimately acquainted with the details of the beginning of the north shore suburb that will be described in the next of a series of studies on the trend of real estate values in greater Chicago during the last century sponsored by the Chicago Title and Trust company.

Tells of Site Selection.

In an interview with Homer Hoyt, author of the book "One Hundred Years of Land Values in Chicago" that is being published by the University of Chicago Press under the auspices of the trust company, she told how the site of Evanston came to be selected.

Her uncle, Dr. John Evans, and her father, Orrington Lunt, had driven out along Ridge avenue, then a poor dirt road, in search of a location for the university and institute. That was in 1853.

The land near Ridge road was a morass, and after looking over the swampy ground and clumps of bushes, they turned back to Chicago discouraged.

"My father, however, was determined to find a spot in which an educational institution might be established, so he drove out again alone," said Miss Lunt. "This time, looking through the thick grove that hid the lake from view, he finally caught a glimpse of the lake, and making his way to the shore he was delighted with the prospect.

Makes Prompt Decision.

"The decision was made at once. The land was bought from a Mr. Foster and Northwestern university and the Garrett Biblical institute were launched. It was suggested naming the new town Orrington, after my father, but he insisted that it be named Evanston, after my Uncle John Evans."

Dr. Evans didn't remain long in the village named in his honor, however, but went to Colorado, where he became governor of the state. Mr. Lunt long played a leading part in the town's affairs, and although the town wasn't named after him one of its leading thoroughfares, Orrington avenue, bears his Christian name and one of the largest hotels also bears his name—the Orrington hotel.

Miss Lunt herself was a trustee of Northwestern university for many years and the first president of the University guild. Although close to the century mark, she is still active and was about to leave for New York and Washington when interviewed.

Believes in Activity.

She attributes her long life to her constant activity. "Life is a falling and getting up again," she said. "One should run. If one can't run, then walk or creep. To be still is to be stagnant—to die. Age has nothing to do with the world within us. I've lived because I've loved life and my friends so much."

Evanston remained merely a hamlet occupied by "pious professors" and students, with only one train a day to the city, until after the Chicago fire of '71, which brought an exodus of people from Chicago and caused a great land boom in Evanston.

Three thousand trees were planted along the streets in the early seventies. Miss Lunt came to Evanston to live in 1875. It was not until the last few decades that the elevated road and branches of loop stores made Evanston's down town section a large business center.

CANADIAN FAIR VISITOR BUYS $15,000 FLAT

Charles A. Chapman, a resident of Alberta, Canada, visited the World's Fair last week. He glanced through THE TRIBUNE want ads and as a result paid $15,000 cash for the six flat building at 5424-26 North Campbell avenue. It was purchased from the Builders and Merchants Bondholders' Protective committee. John J. Kern was broker and will continue to manage the property for the new owner.

REAL ESTATE EDITOR: The distressed home owners should thank the press for the publicity given to the case of the hard boiled mortgage holder which was aired in THE TRIBUNE of Sept. 19 and 20. The hard work of the Home Owners' Loan corporation is just beginning. There will be a lot more of the same variety uncovered.

The writer finds himself up against the same sort of a man. His place of business displays the Blue Eagle of the NRA. He states that his business is getting better. When I asked him to coöperate with the H. O. L. C., a unit of the NRA, in adjusting the mortgage on my home, he stated, in words not easily misunderstood, that the benefits of the NRA are not for me if he has to sacrifice anything towards those benefits.

Furthermore, he will expect me to appear promptly with the interest [excessive rate] on this mortgage when due. Having reached the limit of my assets, I'll have to be a wizard to comply with his demands.

I'm a veteran and have been unemployed for nearly three years. So let's have more publicity on these "big" business men [self-styled]. Soon to be an ex-home owner.

L. C. D., Oak Park.

REAL ESTATE EDITOR: The comments by George W. Rossetter in last Sunday's real estate section should be illuminating to many who have a misconception of the worthwhile work performed by responsible bondholders' committees. Let's have more light on the subject.—Ralph B. Kraetsen.

ANNOUNCE COURSE IN AIR CONDITIONING AT LEWIS INSTITUTE

A course in air conditioning is to be offered among other engineering courses in the evening classes at Lewis institute at West Madison street and Damen avenue. It will be in charge of V. L. Sherman. The classes will meet over a period of fifteen weeks on Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6:20 to 8 o'clock. The first lecture will be on Monday evening, Oct. 9.

"While the evening course in air conditioning is based on the regular course required of engineering graduates," said Prof. Sherman, "it should prove attractive to those engaged in the industry and to those in the allied branches."

Dentists Lease Offices in Lake-Michigan Bldg.

Three more medical specialists have taken space in the Lake-Michigan building. According to S. M. Becker Jr., manager, the following leases have been negotiated: Dr. Martin M. Block, a major in the dental corps during the war; Dr. David Barmack, a graduate of Northwestern university dental school, and Dr. E. Mary Lohman, a specialist in surgical extraction.

Aurel Burtis Kuhn Leases Store in Palmolive Bldg.

Aurel Burtis Kuhn has leased the store at 153 East Walton place, in the Palmolive building, for a term of years beginning Oct. 1 for a women's ready to wear shop. C. E. Olin of Ross & Browne, agents for the building, represented all parties.

German Cafe Planned for the Rialto

Chicago's rialto is to have a new restaurant. Harry and Julius Greengard, identified with loop eating places for three decades, yesterday leased 7,000 square feet of space in the basement of the Woods Theater building at the northwest corner of Randolph and Dearborn streets.

About the middle of November they will open a German type restaurant, with entrances on both Randolph and Dearborn. It will have a square bar for the service of beverages and tables for diners.

According to Norman Field, manager of the building, the space will be remodeled and fitted at a cost of approximately $30,000. C. L. Hawker, real estate broker, represented the lessees.

A. & P. LEASES SPACE IN FIELD GARDEN FLATS

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company has leased two stores in the Marshall Field Garden apartments, on the near north side. The A. & P. has taken space at 1408 and 1410 Sedgwick street, with a 61 foot frontage, for five years, according to A. J. Parkin, manager of the apartments. Remodeling of the space is being rushed so the lessee can open for business by Nov. 1.

A. J. PARKIN.

Other business concerns on the ground floor of the apartment building include a drug store, bakery, cleaners and dyers, meat market, vegetable store, beauty parlor, barber shop, delicatessen, and a laundry.

"The Garden apartments are unique in many respects," said Mr. Parkin. "It's the only apartment building in the United States, I believe, which has its own school for the benefit of the tenants and the children of the neighborhood, solving a problem in education brought about by the public school situation in Chicago. Pre-kindergarten, kindergarten, and the three primary grades compose the curriculum.

"Then there are the two and a half acres of gardens. The entire project covers 5 1-3 acres. Fifty-one per cent of the ground is occupied by the 628 apartments and 49 per cent by the gardens and terrace."

SON OF ARTHUR LEVY IS MADE A MEMBER OF FIRM

In anticipation of a renewed activity in real estate, Mark Levy & Brother have added two more salesmen to their organization. In addition, Arthur Garfield Levy Jr., son of Arthur G. Levy, brother of Mark Levy, has been taken into the organization. The two salesmen are William Jenson and A. B. Cunningham. Mr. Jenson has been in the real estate business for more than thirty years and formerly was a member of the Chicago real estate firm of Ragelin & Jenson. Mr. Cunningham formerly was manager of the real estate department of the Farley Clothing Stores of New York City, which operates a chain of 105 stores.

NEDWICK'S BOOK STORE TO MOVE ACROSS THE LOOP

Nedwick's book store, now at 179 West Monroe street, and prior to that on North Clark, just north of the river, is to move to 16 North Dearborn street, in the Covenant Club building. This is space formerly occupied by the Golde Clothes shop. It is 15x73. Jerrold Nedwick and Nathaniel L. Cowen leased the space for four and a half years beginning Nov. 1, at an undisclosed rental. Mark Levy & Brother represented the lessor and Arthur Rubloff & Co. the lessees.

Mr. Nedwick, who several years ago was a part owner of the Argus book shop, said that he would open his new store on Monday, Oct. 16.

Percy Wilson & Co. Erect Two Gas Station Taverns

Percy Wilson & Co., subdividers and developers, have just completed two gasoline stations and tavern buildings. One is at the northwest corner of Green Bay road and 22d street, North Chicago. The other is on the east side of Halsted street, at the intersection of Broadway and the Dixie highway cutoff, in Chicago Heights. The latter was designed by Morris Hobbs and is of modern design, with a 34 foot tower. This is the ninth building Percy Wilson & Co. have erected in their developments this year.

URGES CITY TO GET EASY MONEY FOR SLUM AREAS

Chicago's a Piker, Says E. M. Craig.

Listing the slum reclamation activities now being financed with federal easy money in seven municipalities—all in other states — E. M. Craig, president of the American Construction council, yesterday urged Chicago to act. He declared that "cities infested with slums will have no alibis to offer if they don't assume the initiative by appealing for federal aid." He points out that one of the important factors of the public works program will be the replacement of blighted areas by low cost housing.

E. M. CRAIG.
[Loubell Photo.]

"These nonfederal projects will furnish maximum reëmployment to building mechanics and raise the production status of the downtrodden building industry, the hardest hit of any major industry during this depression," said Mr. Craig.

Will Help Real Estate.

"Consumer purchasing power will increase without augmenting consumers' goods. It means the enhancement of real estate and building values in urban centers, correction of congested city areas, and sanitary housing facilities."

In a review of slum reclamation activities in other cities Robert D. Steele, builders' statistician, yesterday made public the following data:

"New York City—This city has fared better on governmental housing loans than any other. An estimated twenty-five million dollars has been allocated to them for slum purposes and they are losing no time putting their house in order.

"Cleveland—A tentative twelve million dollar loan has been allowed for construction of housing facilities on sites comprising 100 acres in the heart of its slum area; 4,000 family residences are involved.

"Boston—$3,500,000 is allocated for 700 residential units, consisting of two story brick houses, two family dwellings, and three story apartments.

"Indianapolis—Preparations are in the making for the dismantling of 750 dwellings to be replaced by 200 modern structures. Pending formation of a limited dividend corporation $4,460,000 is held in escrow for this need by the public administrator.

Another Million for Ohio.

"Euclid, O.—One million dollars has been awarded for the erection of 300 homes in groups of not less than fifty.

"Philadelphia—This city gets $845,000 for its Kensington district. Three story semi-fireproof buildings of 292 apartments and 1,070 rooms are to be erected.

"St. Louis—$500,000 has been authorized for the building of three story fireproof apartments in the downtown blighted district."

"Basing an opinion on these figures of Mr. Steele on what is being done in other cities, both large and small, to rid themselves of slum areas, we'd say Chicago is a piker," said Mr. Craig.

REALTY BOARD TICKET WILL BE TOLD WEDNESDAY

The nominating committee of the Chicago Real Estate board will announce its slate of officers for 1934 at the next monthly meeting of the organization on Wednesday, Oct. 4. Election takes place at the November meeting of the board. Installation follows at the December meeting.

John O. Reese, director of the Chicago Committee on Public Expenditures, will speak on "The Prospects for Reduced Government Costs and Lower Taxes," at Wednesday's meeting. J. Soule Warterfield, Chicago representative on the national real estate code committee, will discuss the proposed NRA lineup of realty.

Will Wreck Building for Open Air Parking Space

Morris M. Horwitz has leased the 44x140 lot at 426-28 South Canal street, across from the United States postoffice, from Mary E. Bostock of Philadelphia for five years. The present three story building is to be wrecked and the lessee will open an open air parking station, which will be his third in this neighborhood. Hooker & Slosson were brokers.

Chicago, Ill.

Gentlemen:

Our hotel has been running classified advertising with you, seven times a week, for some period of time, and I thought you would be interested in a recent check-up which we made in connection with this and other advertising used.

In brief it showed that practically 80 percent of our business has come from our Tribune "Room" ads, which have kept us filled to capacity. We are, therefore, giving up all other advertising and intend to use the Tribune alone from now on.

We have noticed, too, that in addition to our regular Chicago returns from the Tribune we received this year, in connection with the Century of Progress, replies from every state in the Union -- a large number of them being definite reservations, which certainly showed their confidence in Tribune advertisers.

I want to thank you for your co-operation in making this advertising so successful.

Very truly yours,

H. Achor.
Manager, Clayton Hotel
2026 North Clark Street

MR. ACHOR'S experience is typical of the successful results which Tribune advertisers are securing. You can keep your rooms or apartments filled if you go after business with want ads in the Tribune.

When you advertise in the Tribune you reach far more people in Chicago and suburbs than read any other Chicago newspaper—and, in addition, thousands of live prospects outside of the metropolitan area.

Why not order a low-cost want ad for tomorrow's Tribune?

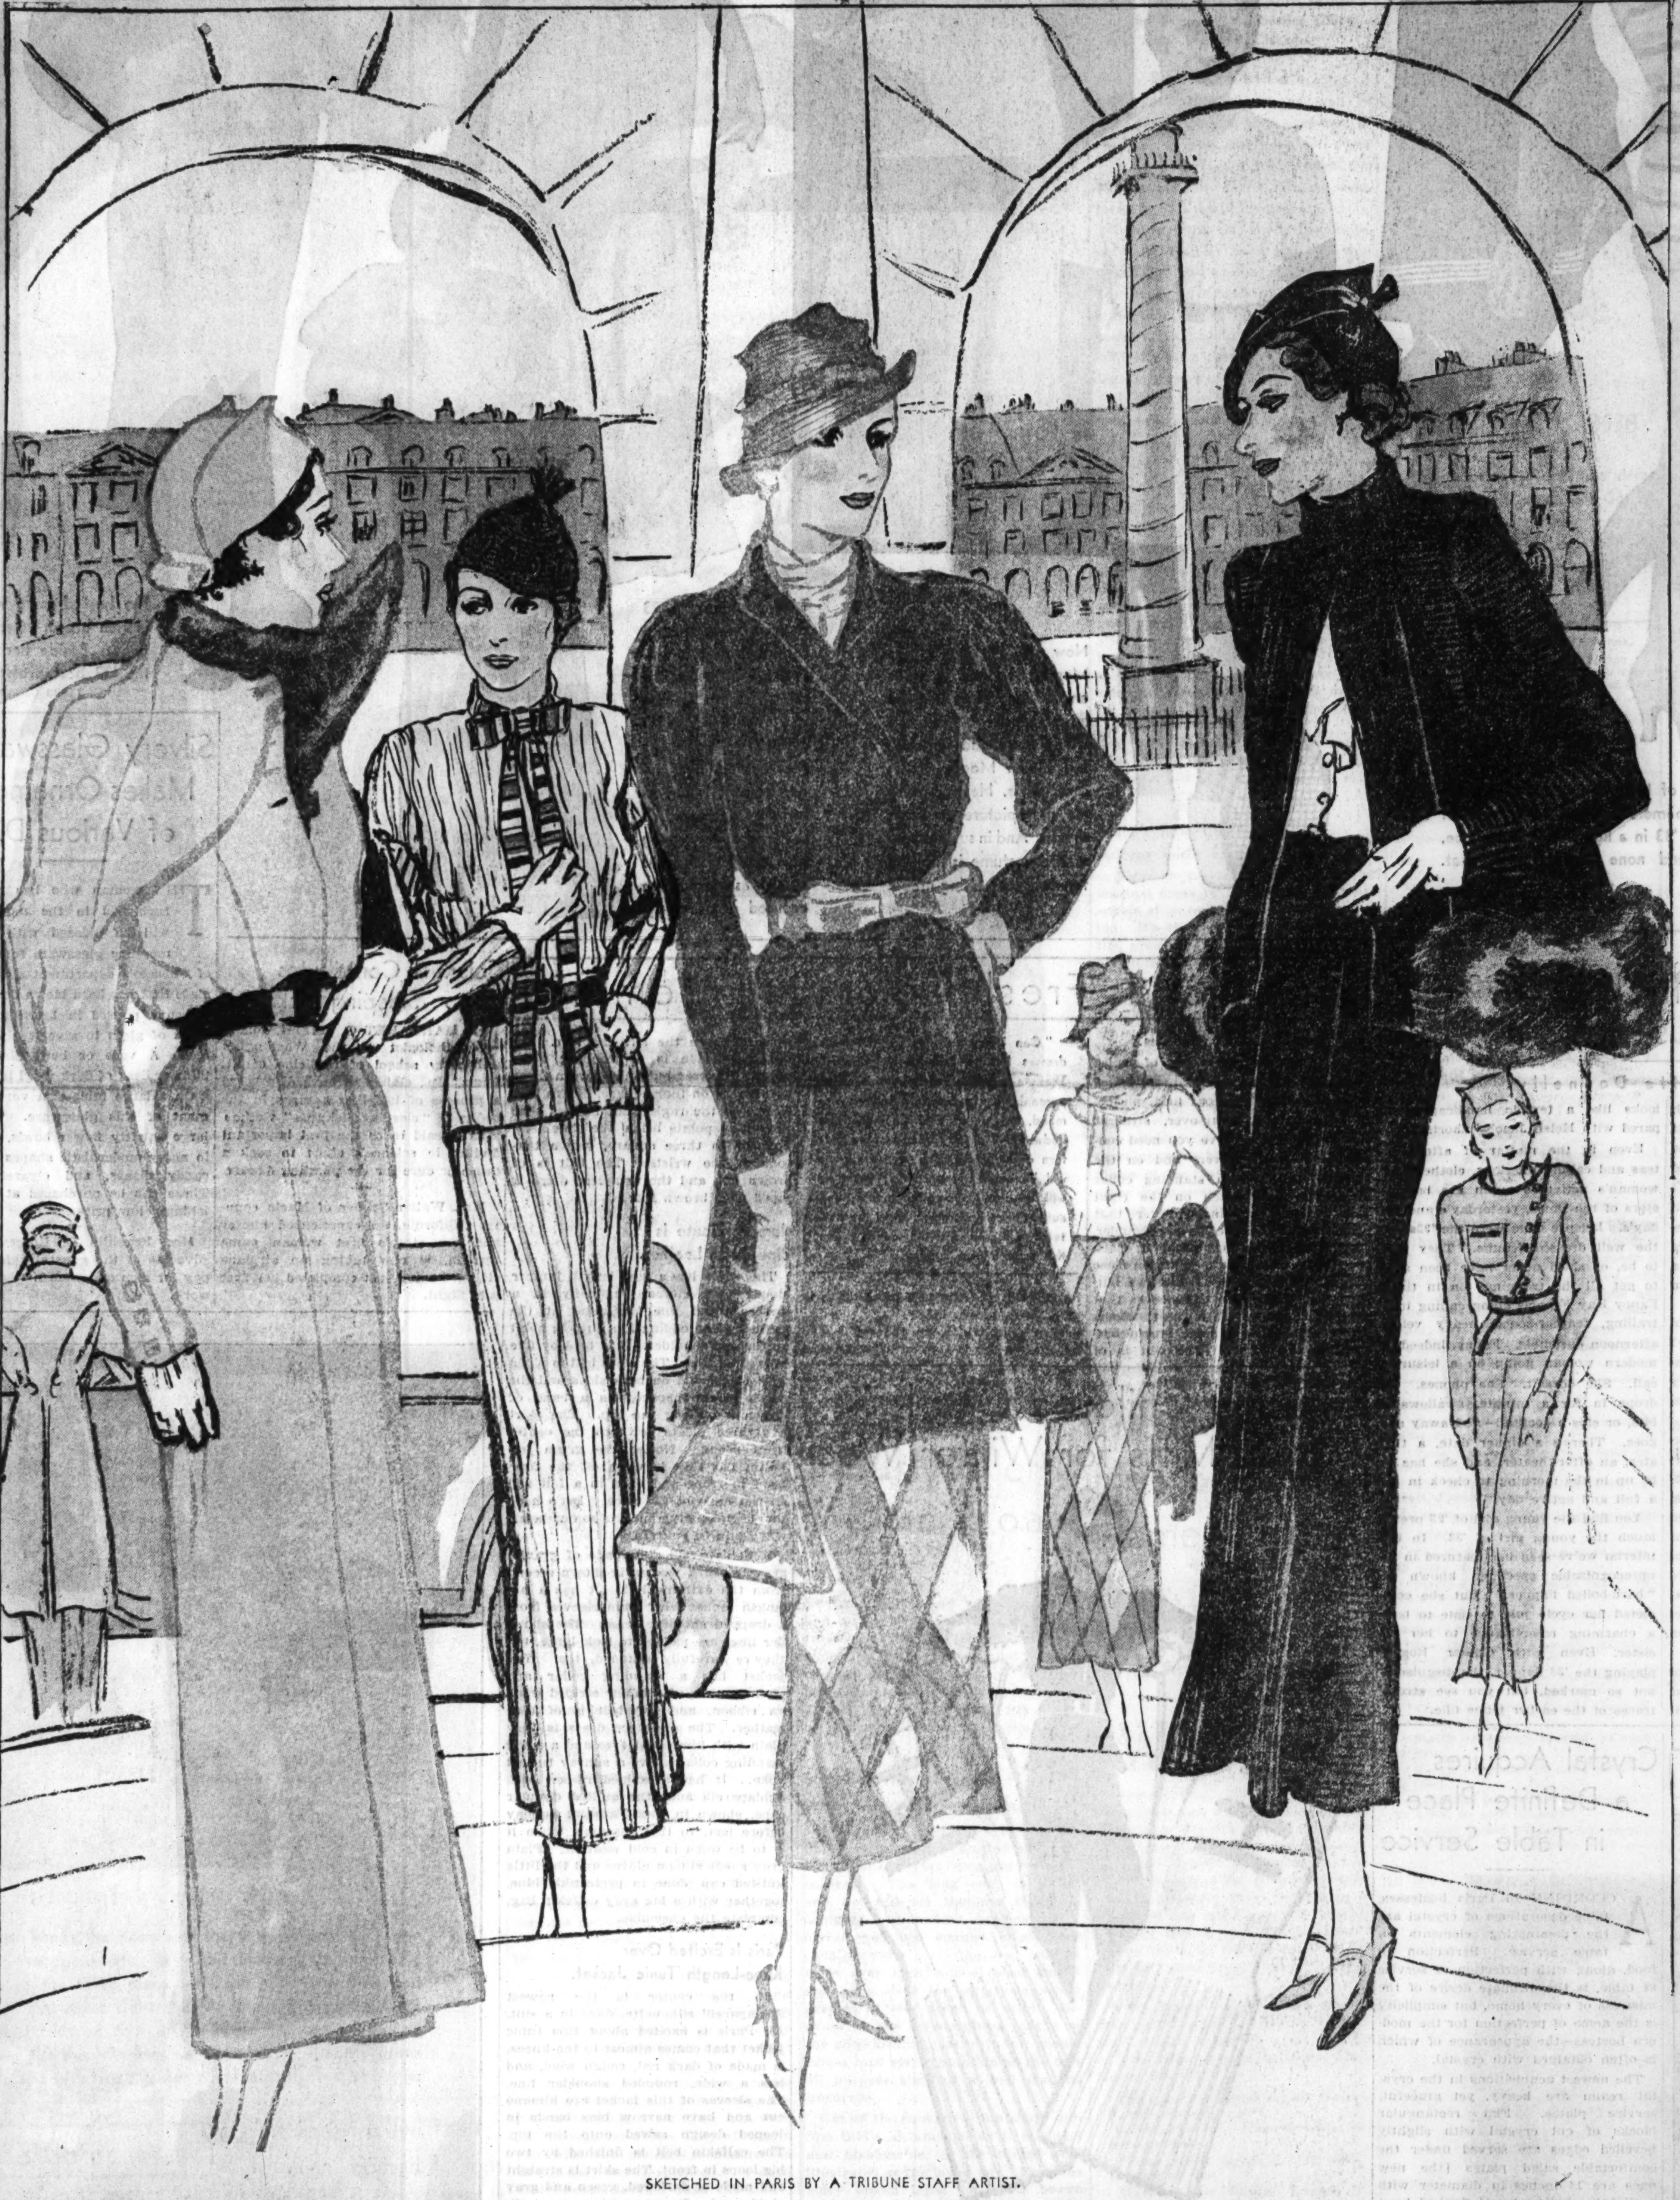
Paris Blends New Color Harmonies



SKETCHED IN PARIS BY A TRIBUNE STAFF ARTIST.

● The chic of this Patou coat at the extreme left is hidden in the sleeves and in the revers. One of the revers is a golden seal and the other cloth. It is made of golden-green wool. ●Next we see a suit by Schiaparelli made of granite gray tree-bark wool. The collar and streamer-ties are of rainbow striped woolen ribbon. ● The center and rear center figures show another Schiaparelli suit with a dark red, knee-length tunic jacket and a straight plaid skirt. ● The large figure at right shows a Patou suit of ribbed angora wool with a swagger-backed jacket trimmed with silver fox and pale pink blouse. ● At the rear to the extreme right, a green and brown checkered two-piece frock by Patou. It is piped with brown kid and closed on square buttons.

Gingerbread Pushed Its Way Into Party Class

Grandmother's Favorite Goes Modern; Dresses Up in Modish Style.

By MARY MEADE.

WHAT a shock our great-grandmothers would experience if they could come into our kitchens some day and see the things we're doing—broiling icings, "baking" cakes in refrigerators, frying fruits to be served with meats, freezing chicken salads, and now, conjuring up a whole battalion of aristocratic party desserts out of that homeliest of old favorites, gingerbread!

For these days, with a good imagination, a leaning toward new and different things, and a good, dependable recipe for soft gingerbread, we may fashion endless numbers of delicious dishes inexpensively, speedily, and enjoyably.

Foundation Cake.

So let's start with the foundation for them all:

SOFT GINGERBREAD.
1-3 cup sugar.
1-3 cup shortening.
1 egg.
1-3 cup molasses.
1-3 cup buttermilk.
¼ teaspoon ginger.
¼ teaspoon salt.
½ teaspoon soda.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
1 1-3 cups flour.
½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Cream together the sugar and shortening. Add the egg, molasses, and buttermilk, which have been beaten together, and the dry ingredients, which have been sifted together. Bake in a square cake pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for forty-five minutes.

For the most entrancing results serve this fluffy gingerbread warm with a hot chocolate sauce, or with frozen whipped cream. To prepare the latter, whip cream until stiff, sweeten and pile by spoonfuls into mounds in freezing trays which have been lined with waxed paper. Freeze for several hours, remove from the trays, and top each serving of gingerbread with a mound of frozen cream.

Vary the Filling.

Or bake the above recipe of gingerbread in two layers and put together with apple snow, also spreading it over the top.

APPLE SNOW FILLING FOR GINGERBREAD.
2 large apples.
2 cups sugar.
2 egg whites.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Grate the apple and add the sugar and unbeaten egg white. Beat thoroughly until stiff and creamy. Add flavoring.

Gingerbread squares are delicious substitutes for fudge squares and are made by spreading the gingerbread mixture out especially thin on a greased cookie sheet. Bake and cut into squares while hot.

PINEAPPLE GINGERBREAD.
1½ tablespoons butter.
½ cup brown sugar.
2 cups drained, crushed pineapple.
1 recipe soft gingerbread.

Melt the butter, add sugar, and when smooth and sirupy stir in the pineapple. Let stand in a warm place while a recipe of gingerbread is mixed.

Spread the fruit mixture in a square greased pan or spread ¼ inch thick in the botton of muffin tins, pour the gingerbread batter over the fruit, and bake 30 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Remove from the pan while hot and serve bottomside up, with or without whipped cream.

Or what could be more appropriate for flattering gingerbread than molasses whipped cream? Simply fold three tablespoons of molasses into the whipped cream (two-thirds cup of cream before whipping) and pile generously atop gingerbread.

Another possibility for a different topping is plump fresh marshmallows, split and laid over steaming gingerbread just from the oven. Marshmallows are especially good with chocolate gingerbread, which, by the way, is fashioned by simply adding a one ounce square of chocolate, melted, to the batter just before baking.

Try It in Pie.

Then there is a gingerbread flavored pie filling for the pastry loving family.

GINGERBREAD CRUMB PIE.
½ cup molasses.
1 egg yolk.
½ teaspoon soda dissolved in
2-3 cup boiling water.
¾ cup flour.
2 tablespoons butter.
½ teaspoon cinnamon.
¼ teaspoon ginger.
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg.
½ cup brown sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
1 unbaked pastry shell.

Beat together the molasses, egg yolk, soda, and hot water. Next combine the flour, sugar, salt, and spices, and work in the butter with the fingers until the dry ingredients have a crumby texture. In a pan lined with pastry, alternate layers of the liquid ingredients and crumbs, topping with crumbs. Bake in a hot hoven (450 degrees F.) until the edges of the crust begin to brown. Reduce the heat to 375 degrees F. and bake 20 minutes, or until firm.

Women Reject Ensembles in Single Shade

Patou Suggests a Union of Golden Green and Rich, Spicy Brown.

By BETTINA BEDWELL

PARIS.—(Special.)—A slave trade that flourishes in our free-and-equal times is that of being smart. The slave driver in this trade is the woman herself. Parisiennes earn their medals for supremacy in dress by the hardest of hard labor at the beginning of each new season. The new fall and winter season, now at the door, is cracking the whip of necessity over fashionable women, who are working like mad to get their new clothes ready. Grooming an ensemble this autumn is one big job of hard labor. It's not monotonous, although it's perhaps harder because of the variety of choice.

The ensemble that is made up of coat and frock has lots of adherents in Paris. So has the ensemble made of jacket, or shortish cape, and dress. So has the three-piece suit. The Parisienne, first off, decides which of these versions of the ensemble she will have. Then she has the terrible labor of getting her color scheme in working order, and after that of picking all the accessories to fit both line and color.

The Paris dressmakers are helping the ensemble compiler along nowadays by showing their clothes with hats, and in some cases with bags, gloves, and even shoes. All of these small items make or break the chic of the ensemble. That's why the dressmakers have taken a hand in showing women what to choose to back up the actual clothes.

The style moguls try to make the work easier by showing ensembles in one color, and one alone, but the ultra-smart woman is such a gourmand for punishment that she often picks a coat in one shade and a dress in another, which lets her in for the momentous problem of two-color accessories, or maybe three. You have to be a real expert to mix colors and do it perfectly, and that's not all of it either. To match up accessories means running around on your "poor old feet" for days on end. But the result in harmony, and charm of appearance usually justifies the pain involved in achieving it.

Rough Fabrics Contrast.

Patou's two color ensemble that involves mixing a golden-green with a rich, spicy brown, has been ordered by some of the Parisiennes in the top layer of chic for the whole world. Others have picked out Schiaparelli's dark red combined with gray, or gray united to a rich periwinkle blue. Vionnet's tawny red and brown combination is one of the smartest, and Lelong's dark green with grape is very difficult but simply stunning.

There is one rule that helps in getting colors together in peace and harmony. When the Paris dressmakers use shiny silks or wools, they stick to one major, rich, dark shade with supplementary black, gray or brown, but where rough or downy materials are used the color contrast can be striking.

Revers Give Dash.

The Jean Patou ensemble shown at the extreme left and extreme right of the drawing is one of sharp color contrasts. The coat, at the left, is made of downy woolen in a golden-green

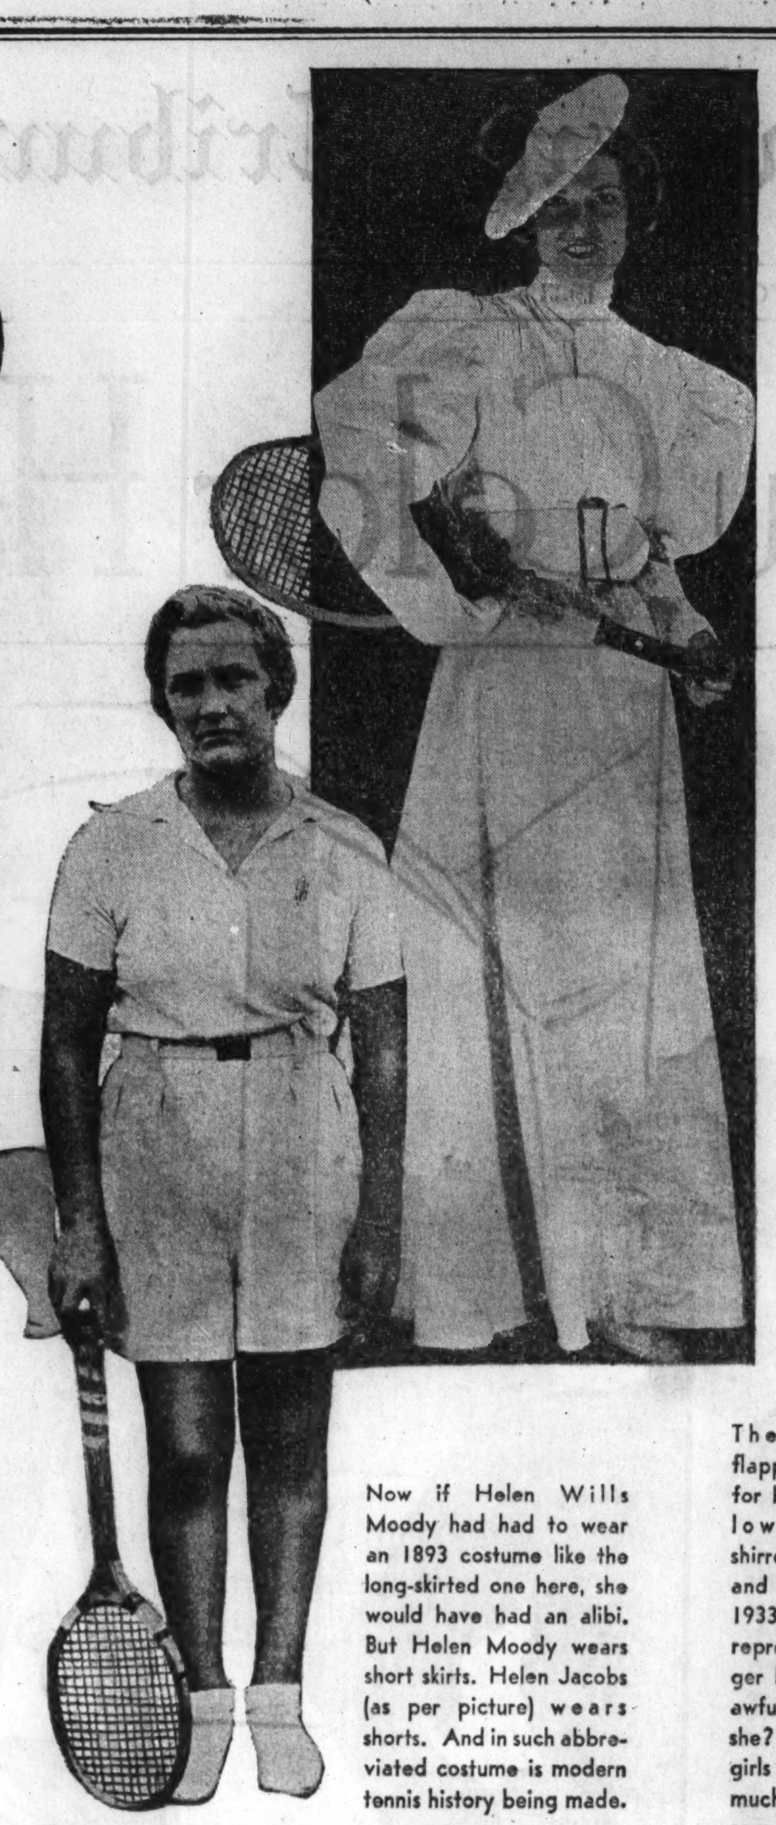
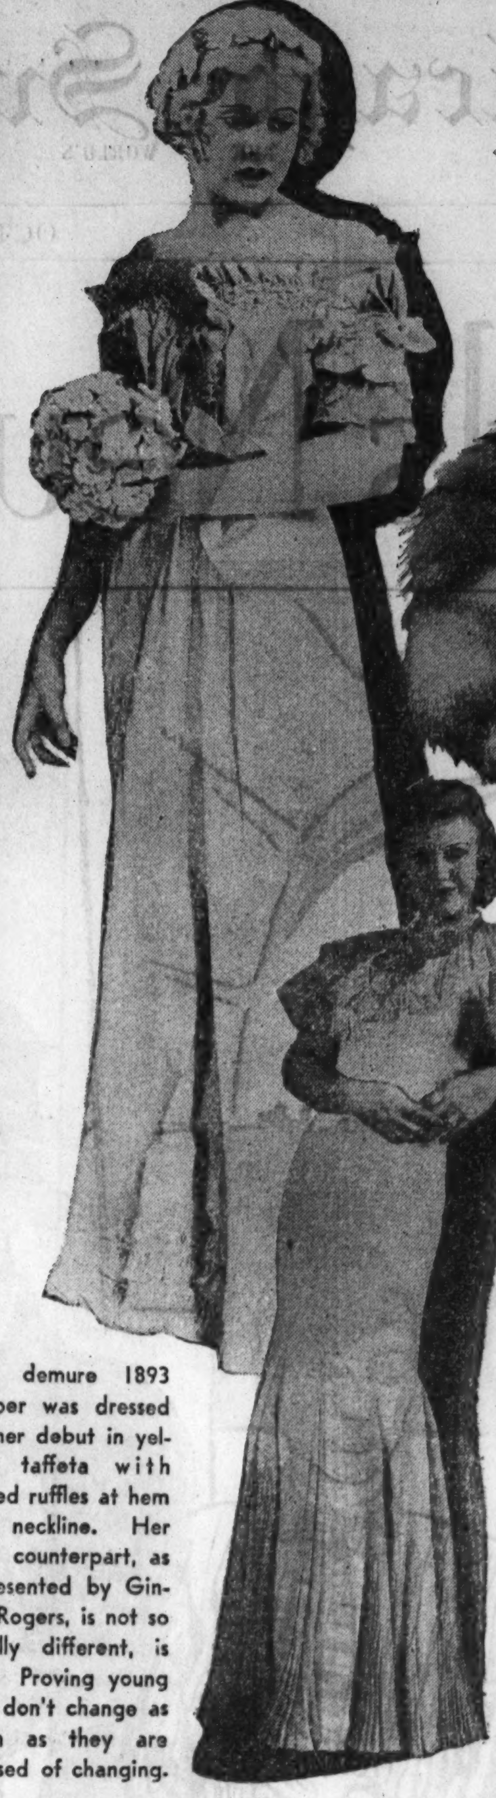
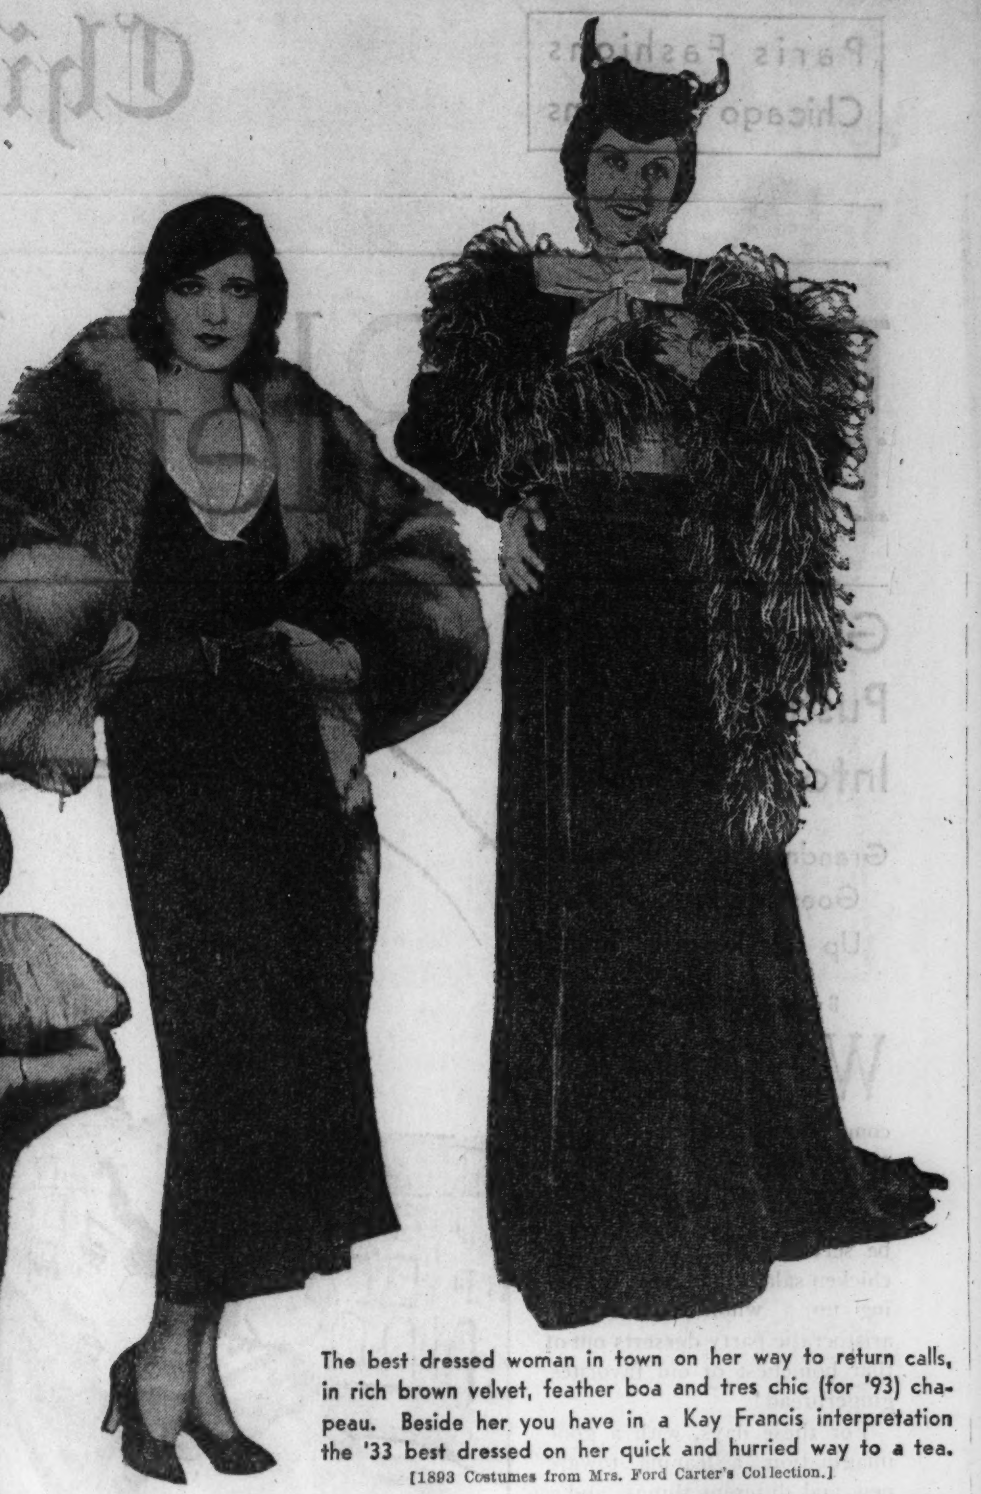
The daring water baby of 1893 wore stout blue serge and lots of it—and bloomers and lots of them. But lookit Eleanor Holm of '33 in a lightweight one piece, gaudily striped suit and none too much of that.



Now if Helen Wills Moody had had to wear an 1893 costume like the long-skirted one here, she would have had an alibi. But Helen Moody wears short skirts. Helen Jacobs (as per picture) wears shorts. And in such abbreviated costume is modern tennis history being made.



The demure 1893 flapper was dressed for her debut in yellow taffeta with shirred ruffles at hem and neckline. Her 1933 counterpart, as represented by Ginger Rogers, is not so awfully different, is she? Proving young girls don't change as much as they are accused of changing.



The best dressed woman in town on her way to return calls, in rich brown velvet, feather boa and tres chic (for '93) chapeau. Beside her you have in a Kay Francis interpretation the '33 best dressed on her quick and hurried way to a tea.

[1893 Costumes from Mrs. Ford Carter's Collection.]

A "Fair" Comparison Presents '93 Styles Versus Modern Vogue

By Antoinette Donnelly.

COMPARE the styles of '93 with those of '33—and ask yourself which year you'd rather be dressed in. But don't be too "snooty" about the other World's Fair fashions—for when the next Fair rolls around your children and mine, your grandchildren and mine, are going to be saying, "Weren't they a perfect scream!" And that'll mean you and you and me!

They were pretty cute at that in their '93 styles, now weren't they? Ours for speed and comfort and simplicity, of course! Ours for our day and our times and our activities. Theirs for theirs!

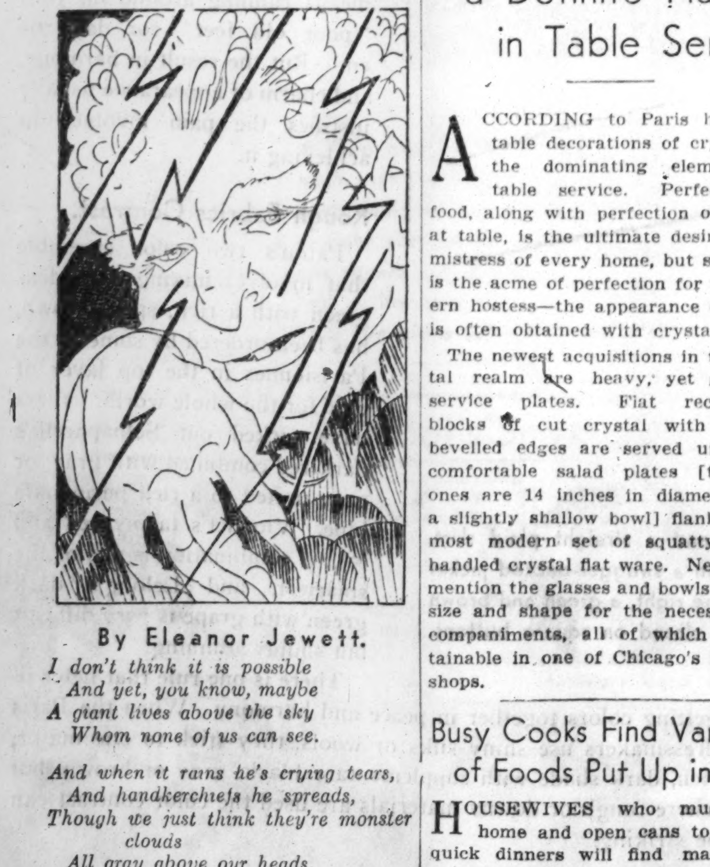
Interesting is the study of yesterday's fashions as compared with current ones. Changes in women's activities are always reflected in dress. Women weren't channel swimmers in those bygone days. Imagine one of the heavily garbed water babies of '93 making an Eleanor Holm record or a Jane Fauntz dive! Looking at the costume, one would hardly expect a '93 water sprite ever to be seen again once she struck the water.

Not so many women went in for tennis in '93. Maybe the reason for this was the long skirt. Anyway, it looks like a terrific handicap compared with Helen Jacobs' shorts.

Even in the matter of afternoon teas and calling missions, clothes and woman's activities again are barometers of the times, yesterday's and today's. Leisure days were the '93s for the well dressed femme. They had to be, or she'd never have been able to get all the trappings on in time. Fancy Kay Francis going calling in a trailing, feather-boaed, heavy velvet afternoon ensemble. Fancy, indeed, a modern woman going on a leisurely call. She doesn't. She phones. Or drops in for a minute, swallows a bite, or sips a cocktail—and away she goes. There's a dinner date, a theater, an after-theater, and she has to be up in the morning to check in for a full and active day.

You find the young girl of '93 pretty much the young girl of '33. In the interim we've seen her featured in an unrecognizable specimen known as "hard-boiled flapper." But she completed her cycle just in time to bear a charming resemblance to her '93 sister. Even with Ginger Rogers playing the '33 flapper, the disguise is not so marked, but you see strong traces of the earlier jeune fille.

The Storm King



By Eleanor Jewett.

I don't think it is possible
And yet, you know, maybe
A giant lives above the sky
Whom none of us can see.

And when it rains he's crying tears,
And handkerchiefs he spreads,
Though we just think they're monster clouds
All gray above our heads.

And when he sneezes, as he must,
We think the thunder roars;
And lightning's just the gleam of lamps
Through cracks in his great floors!

Crystal Acquires a Definite Place in Table Service

ACCORDING to Paris hostesses, table decorations of crystal are the dominating elements in table service. Perfection in food, along with perfection of service at table, is the ultimate desire of the mistress of every home, but simplicity is the acme of perfection for the modern hostess—the appearance of which is often obtained with crystal.

The newest acquisitions in the crystal realm are heavy, yet graceful, service plates. Flat rectangular blocks of cut crystal with slightly bevelled edges are served under the comfortable salad plates [the new ones are 14 inches in diameter with a slightly shallow bowl] flanked by a most modern set of squatty square handled crystal flat ware. Needless to mention the glasses and bowls of every size and shape for the necessary accompaniments, all of which are obtainable in one of Chicago's specialty shops.

"Can I buy patterns for the Paris dresses Bettina Bedwell describes?" That's a question The Tribune is asked perennially. In response to this demand, beginning next Sunday, Miss Bedwell will present each week a pattern of a Paris model. The coat buttons b tween these two revers on four square, brown buttons, and the raglan cut sleeves that jut out in points below the shoulders, finish with three square, brown buttons at the wrists. The belt is of brown kid, and the two-piece dress is piped with brown kid.

Jumper Blouse Is Piped with Leather.

This dress has a high length jumper blouse that closes diagonally in a leather piped line beginning at the right hip and ending in a jutting point on the left shoulder. It is held by five square buttons. The cloth belt is piped with brown kid on both sides and the patch breast pocket has a band of brown kid along the top. The skirt has three pleats set into the center front seam. Notice the green felt Patou hat that is worn off the forehead in front and ends in a felt roll on the nape of the neck. Let's hope this begins a style in hats so our heads will again be covered.

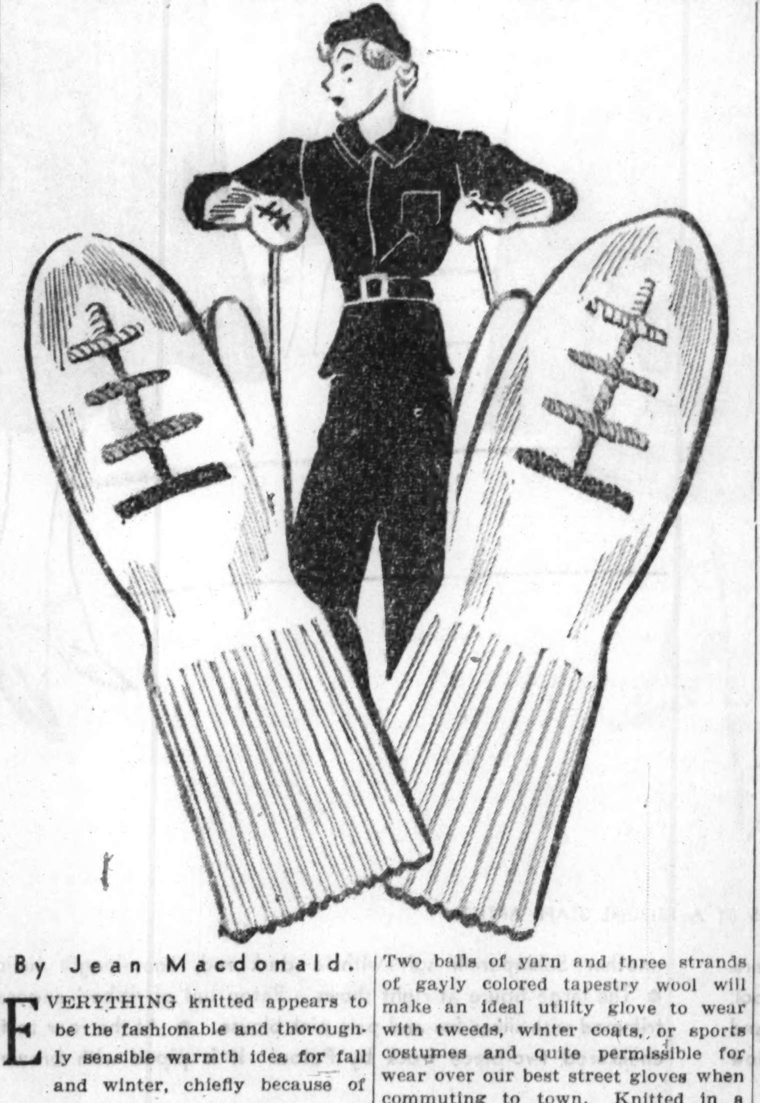
A Schiaparelli suit made of granite gray treebark woolen is shown second from the extreme left. It has a hip length jacket with plain sleeves from a dropped shoulder seam. The shoulder lines are padded to look large, but they're carefully rounded, too. The jacket has a standing collar and streamer ties of rainbow striped woolen ribbon, and the belt is of blue leather. The one-piece dress is very plain with kimono sleeves and a small standing collar above a sunray tucked yoke. It has a striped ribbon belt. Schiaparelli adds the quilted circular cape, shown in THE TRIBUNE Sunday before last, to this ensemble when it is to be worn in cold weather. Plain gray suede slip-on gloves and the little knitted cap, done in periwinkle blue, together with a big gray calfskin bag, complete the ensemble.

Paris Is Excited Over Knee-Length Tunic Jacket.

In the center is the newest Schiaparelli silhouette, done in a suit. All Paris is excited about this tunic jacket that comes almost to the knees, is made of dark red, rough wool, and has a wide, rounded shoulder line. The sleeves of this jacket are kimono cut and have narrow bias bands in looped design sewed onto the top. The calfskin belt is finished by two big loops in front. The skirt is straight and made of dark red, green and gray plaid wool. It goes with a gray silk jersey blouse, with a round shoulder yoke that becomes a scarf to muffle up the throat. The big calfskin bag is from Schiaparelli and is dark red. The knitted slouch hat is also red. Plain dark gray gloves and slippers make this ensemble perfect.

At the extreme right is pictured a dressy suit from Jean Patou. The swagger backed jacket and the skirt are made of wild blackberry colored, ribbed, angora wool. The jacket has a silver fox hem and fastens with one button at the standing collar. The skirt has a front panel with the ribs vertical and flared below the knees, while at sides and back the ribs are horizontal. The pale pink blouse has a stock collar. The Patou hat is of beaver and covers the back of the head, combining a beret and a bonnet.

Even the Children Can Knit Swiss Mitts for Winter Wear



By Jean Macdonald.

EVERYTHING knitted appears to be the fashionable and thoroughly sensible warmth idea for fall and winter, chiefly because of the style, comfort, and wearing qualities of these garments.

When it speaks of mittens fashion calls for the continental type which are in such vogue and sold at top prices by the smartest shops. Formerly worn only by sports lovers who were fortunate to winter in St. Moritz, these Swiss mitts, with the embroidery on the backs, have now crossed the ocean and are available to all who wish to make them.

They are easily and quickly knitted. Two balls of yarn and three strands of gayly colored tapestry wool will make an ideal utility glove to wear with tweeds, winter coats, or sports costumes and quite permissible for wear over our best street gloves when commuting to town. Knitted in a light color, they may even be worn over evening gloves.

Children love them and may easily knit their own. Fascination lies in the fact that they may be tried on as the work progresses, thereby insuring perfect fit.

HOW TO ORDER.

If you wish instructions for making the Swiss mittens illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Jean Macdonald, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago. Be sure to send name and address with your letter.

Scientist Contributes to "Sleeping Sickness"

DR. MARGARET G. SMITH, woman pathologist of the Washington university school of medicine of St. Louis, Mo., claims to have discovered a process of isolating a virus in the bodies of "sleeping sickness" victims. This is said to be the first important finding in science's effort to seek a cause or cure for the puzzling disease.

Silvery Glassware Makes Ornaments of Various Design

THE woman who has her home furnished in the modern style will be pleased with the new mercury glassware found in one of Chicago's department stores. It is glass that has been blown double, with mercury poured in between the two walls of glass to give it a silvery effect. A vase or bowl placed on a table or desk of dark wood is startling.

On a large table is a varied assortment of this glassware. There are large squatty flower bowls, tall vases in many modernistic shapes and sizes, candy dishes, and cigarette boxes. These can be purchased at an astonishingly low price.

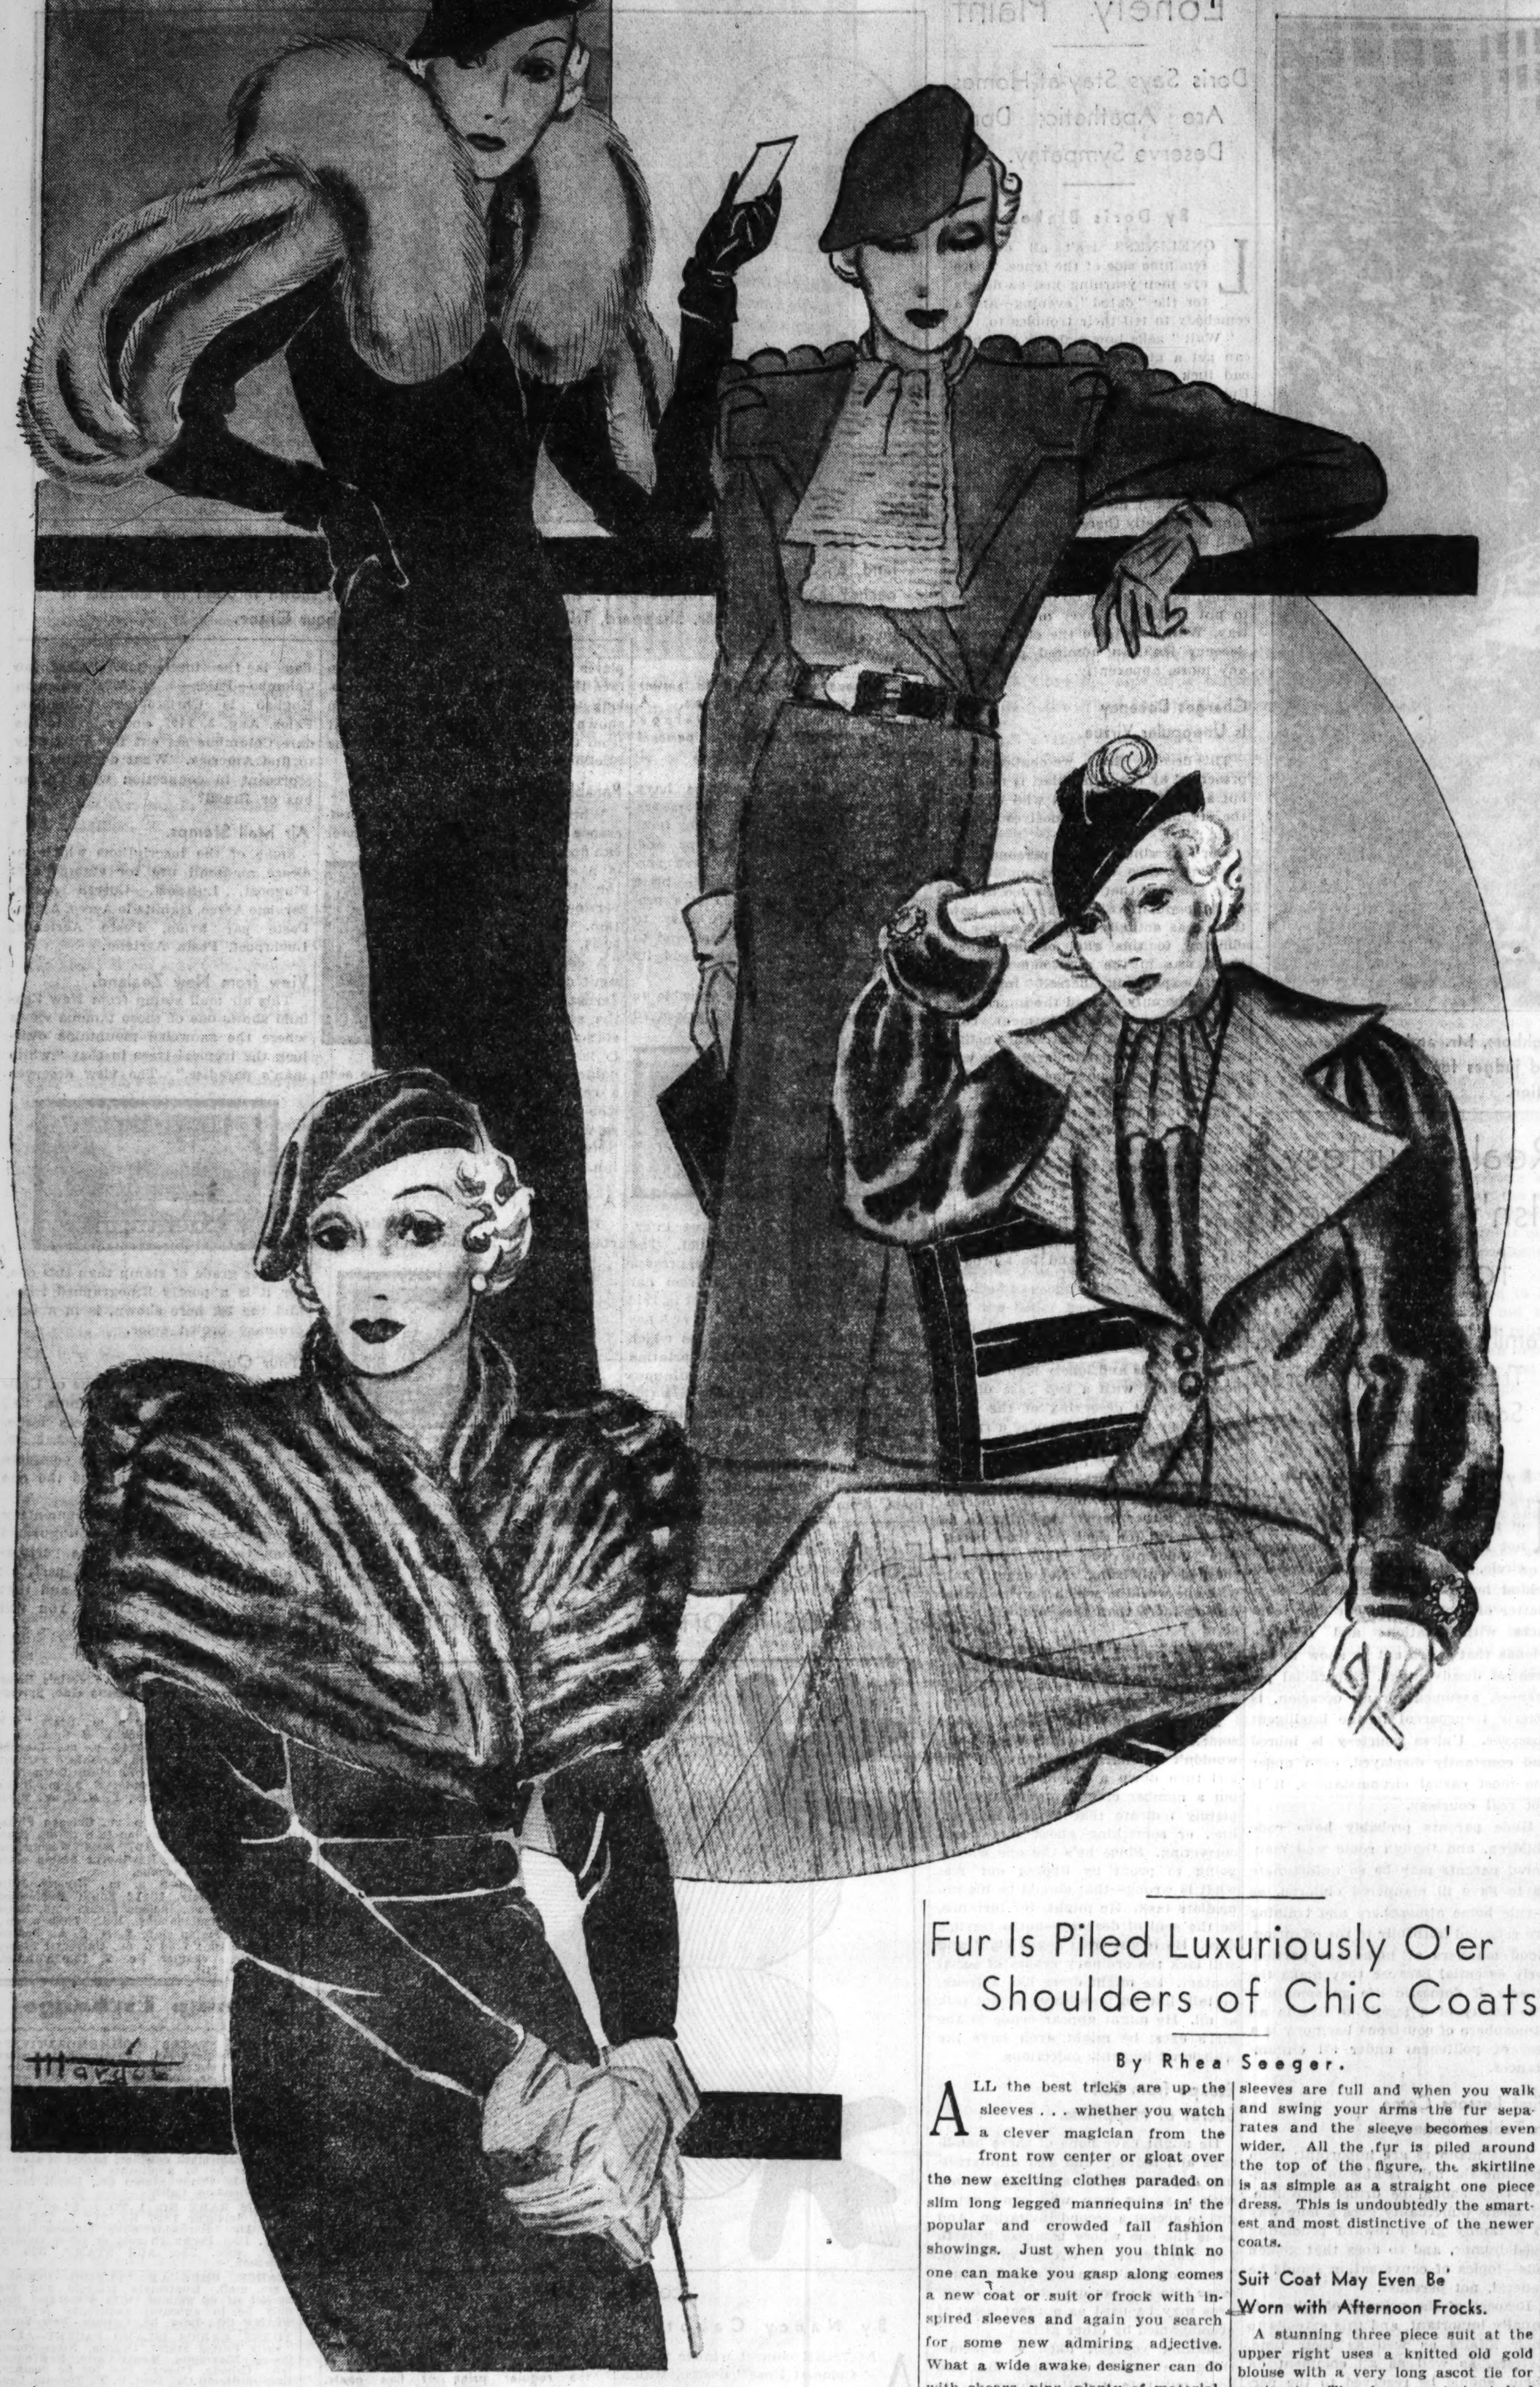
GONE ARE THE DAYS OF BLOWN FUSES!

The modern home appears now—fuseless! Gone is the old fashioned fuse box with all its blown fuse troubles. In its place is a composition housing in the wall containing a load center, and while the wiring is fully protected there is no delay in restoring service. A flip of a handle and service is immediately restored. So easy that a child can work it and yet factory sealed and tested to insure safety and service. The resetting process is as simple as operating a wall switch.

Fashion's Tricks Are Up the Sleeve



SKETCHED IN A CHICAGO SHOP.

Fur Is Piled Luxuriously O'er Shoulders of Chic Coats

By Rhea Seeger.

ALL the best tricks are up the sleeves . . . whether you watch a clever magician from the front row center or gloat over the new exciting clothes paraded on slim long legged mannequins in the popular and crowded fall fashion showings. Just when you think no one can make you gasp along comes a new coat or suit or frock with inspired sleeves and again you search for some new admiring adjective. What a wide awake designer can do with shears, pins, plenty of material, and an abandoned idea of what fur does for decoration, is something that will really shock the most blasé shopper this fall.

New things are arriving every day . . . they are quickly unpacked, hung about for an hour or two, after which they are whisked away by the early bird buyer that inevitably acquires the best.

This season the designers are more versatile than ever. The clothes are just as thrilling every time you wander through the shops. They all charm you with the distinctive manner in which they are fashioned . . . each model seems lovelier than the last.

Fur on Sleeves Opens, Closes Like Accordion.

Two suits and new coats have been sketched . . . outstanding models with all the exciting details that mark the newest clothes featured in all the fall collections. The sleeves and fur trimmings, the long sleek silhouettes, the dash and flair of something distinctive and most unusual, illustrate what the fashion conscious shopper will find any of these crisp cool days in town.

If you are tired of fur festooned in an aimless manner you will cheer for the new coat shown at the upper left. The flattering bands of blue fox are attached to the tucks in the wool of the sleeve to look like an accordion. When you stand still your sleeves are full and when you walk and swing your arms the fur separates and the sleeve becomes even wider. All the fur is piled around the top of the figure, the skirtline is as simple as a straight one piece dress. This is undoubtedly the smartest and most distinctive of the newer coats.

Suit Coat May Even Be Worn with Afternoon Frocks.

A stunning three piece suit at the upper right uses a knitted old gold blouse with a very long ascot tie for contrast. The long coat is belted and the widened shoulder theme is achieved with padded sections and a clever scalloped epaulet effect over each shoulder . . . the coat can be worn over high colored wool frocks and even used for afternoon street dresses of silk crêpe or satin. Because of the seven-eighths length of the good looking coat, this suit should rate a four star reputation as the best all purpose suit for a well planned wardrobe.

Cut on the square, with a sharp outline that's as unusual as it is smart and fashionable, is the furred coat illustrated at the lower left. Lustrous spicy brown mink tops this brown wool coat made with a belt. The collar can be puffed and twisted and pushed high or low over the shoulders. The two piece suit sketched at the lower right is fashioned of deep bottle green wool . . . the skirt is straight, simple and smartly severe . . . the coat fits suavely over the long hipline accentuating the slender silhouette, while the swanky sleeves are made entirely of thick brown nutria and fasten snugly at the wristline. Tucked cozily in at the neckline is a matching fur trimmed ascot tie of the green wool of the suit.

By Clotilde.

EVERY college girl, as well as every woman who lives out of town, will need one of these tweed jacket suits, pattern No. 3309. They are smart looking, comfortable and really indispensable.

Today's suit is up-to-the-minute, with its shoulder caps and two way neckline. The fronts of the jacket are underfaced, and rolled with the attache collar to form revers. Patch pockets, long, plain sleeves and a belt complete the jacket. The skirt is slightly circular.

Have your material shrunken where you buy it, and follow the cutting and making chart exactly when putting together. When the coat sleeves are finished and ready for the lining, seam the sleeve lining and press the seam open. Then, having both sleeve and lining wrong side out, lay the pressed open seams over one another, and tack the two outside seam edges together. Of course, you must be sure you have the lining for the right sleeve. After this tacking is done, turn the lining right side out over the sleeve. Then turn the sleeve right side out. The lining should be basted to the outside, several inches below the top.

A brown tweed mixture with brown bone button trim will be smart, so also a grey tweed, or a blue monotone mixture.

Artist's Bow Tie Adorns Girl's Frock.

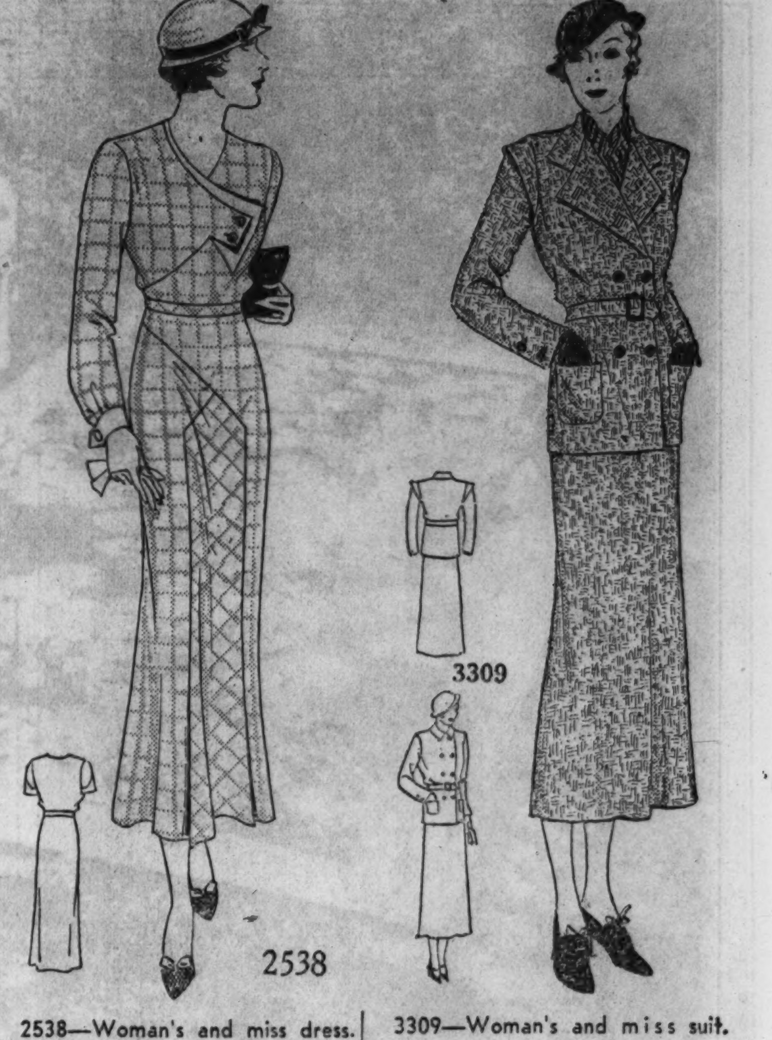
A brown plaided woolen made the original dress in pattern No. 3180 for school girls, and it's smart and pretty, too. It's the new coat type, just like the grownups, and has a big collar of white pique. The little artist's tie is made of a vivid red crêpe de chine, matching the color of the leather belt. It isn't difficult to make, and is cut in one piece, with an inset inverted plait at the front to give ample hem fullness.

It buttons down the front part way, with bound buttonholes. Keep the underfacing or front hem free from the outside and run a basting thread marking each buttonhole. Cut small pieces of the material, and baste each piece down over a buttonhole. Stitch around the basting thread that marks the buttonhole, and across the corners, keeping about an eighth inch distance from the thread.

Clip carefully at the corners and turn this piece to the wrong side. Baste down all around, then baste the dress hem in place, and cut a slit exactly over each buttonhole. Turn in the edges and hem down. Baste each buttonhole together, and do not remove until the dress is finished.

Simple Woolen Has Many Uses.

A woolen dress that is simply cut, perfectly made, and smart in design will give great satisfaction. Such a one is the dress made by pattern No. 2538. It will be just the thing to wear all through the fall, often without a coat. The original dress was made of a navy blue checked thin woolen, with white trimming for the neckline and white cuffs. The effect was decidedly smart. It would also be wonderful in a black wool crêpe, or the two surfaces of satin crêpe.



2538—Woman's and miss dress. Sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inch bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material, with 1/2 yard of 35 inch contrasting.

3309—Woman's and miss suit. Sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2 7/8 yards of 54 inch material with 1 1/2 yards of 39 inch lining for the jacket and 7/8 yard of 1 1/4 inch wide belting for the skirt.

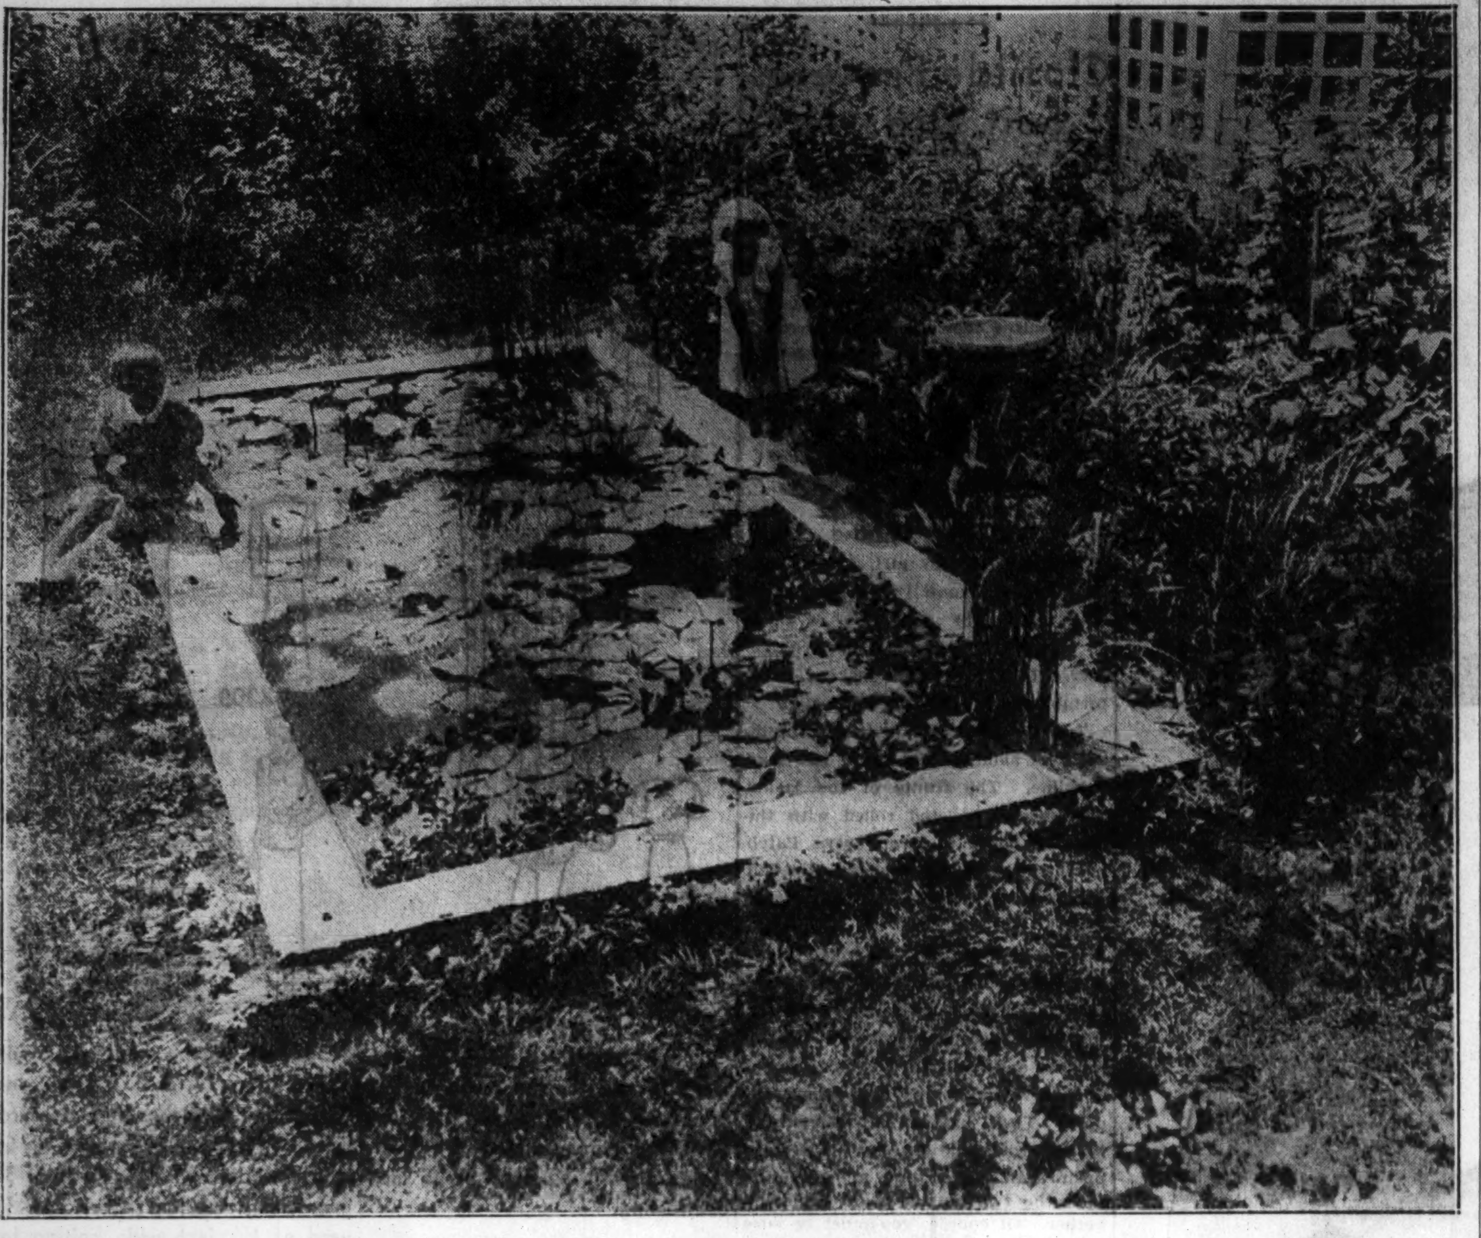
Plants and Fish from the Shallow Garden Pool Must Come Indoors for the Winter Months



The Misses Betty Florence and Janice Esther Sorenson have paused in the attractive garden of their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Schueler, 5268 North Langlade avenue, to admire the lily pool which is one of the features that caused judges for The Tribune to place the garden on its Honor Roll of Outstanding Gardens in a recent competition.

Deeper Ponds Offer Adequate Shelter

By Paul Potter.

LASTING late into the fall, the ornamental pool for aquatic plants and various forms of the finny tribe will require some care as the first frosts signal approach of cold weather. Most of the plants which thrive in the pools of the Chicago region are hardy and may be kept in the pool all winter, but others will need to be safely housed in the basement in the next few weeks.

Two types of lily pools are most popular: Those which are rather shallow and irregular in contour, and the deeper, more formal designs. From the shallow pools, which freeze up completely during the late winter months, must be taken the lily boxes and the fish. But most types of deeper pools permit the gardener to keep his plant and fish life in the same quarters all the year.

Tropical Fish Must Be Removed from Any Pool.

Tropical fish must be removed from any pool during the dormant season. Cold weather brings disaster to them if they are not removed to a tub or giant bowl indoors. Gold fish, however, may be kept in the pool the year around if it is deep enough so that the entire water supply is not frozen. Little feed is needed by the gold fish during the cold weather, but it is advisable to cut a hole through the ice for aerating the water supply.

The hardy lilies whose roots are embedded in a box or tub may be moved to one end of the pool. Here they can be covered over with leaves and some waterproof cover which will prevent them from freezing. With such care the same plants live for many years in the same pool.

Properly Built Basin Will Not Crack.

Tender lilies and most other types of water plants must be moved indoors after the first frost and before ice forms on the water surface. Draining of the pool is also advisable.

Properly constructed pools will last a lifetime. The walls should be five or six inches thick and contain reinforcing such as woven or welded wire to prevent cracking when the earth freezes and thaws on the outside. Cracks which appear in improperly constructed pools in the summer time usually are due to drying of the earth about the pool.

These cracks are difficult to patch and the best treatment is to lay woven wire or chicken wire over the inside of the pool and plaster over it with about an inch of mortar.

THIS WEEK IN THE GARDEN

Monday, Oct. 2.

Tender plants should be under cover. Many will require lifting, cutting back, and potting. Cannas and other bulbous stock will stand a slight frost before lifting. Gladiolis may be dug when ready. Narcissus, hyacinth, and crocus should be planted just as soon as they can be obtained. Tulips may wait until later and will do as well as the early planted bulbs. Bring cacti and other succulents into the house, because few are hardy.

Tuesday, Oct. 3.

Plant a few madonna lily bulbs for flowering in the small conservatory. Lilium formosum may also be planted. After potting, place in the coldframe, cover the pots with a layer of sand, followed with four to six inches of soil, and leave until wanted for forcing. Plant all hardy lilies as soon as they can be procured. Unless already completed, pot chrysanthemums for indoor use. Tie the stems up and keep well watered. Do not cut the new lawn short.

Wednesday, Oct. 4.

Plant the bulbs that have been home cured, because the longer they are left out of the ground the more likely are they to lose their vitality. New bulbs will naturally do well, and especially useful is Narcissus King Alfred, Emperor, Sir Watkins, and others of a similar type. The poets narcissus makes a large number of bulbils which should be replanted about every four years.

Clean up the old vegetables, for they are likely to breed insects and disease. Get ready for storing the winter vegetables.

Thursday, Oct. 5.

Make all changes in the perennial garden before freezing weather comes. The earlier perennials are planted the better established they will be. It is best to transplant late flowering kinds in spring because they will not have time to become set before freezing weather.

The planting of peonies may begin now. Plants bought at the nursery have from three to five eyes, requiring a longer time to make a good display, but they are cheaper. The old peony clumps should be cut up into small sections, each containing several eyes. A good, sharp spade may be used to make the cuts, with hand work to separate the mutilated parts.

Friday, Oct. 6.

Geraniums may be kept through the winter by digging, shaking the soil from the roots, and hanging in bundles, roots upward, until spring. However, they are likely to wither up if the atmosphere is too dry. Another method of keeping them is to pack them close together in soil, permitting it to become almost dry—just damp enough to keep them in a plump condition and yet not moist enough to cause growth.

Saturday, Oct. 7.

All transplanting of small trees and shrubs should be done early. It is not necessary to wait until the leaves fall. When transplanting shrubs or trees be sure to cut back all mutilated roots to sound wood, and reduce the head proportionately to place the head and root system in balance.

All fall planted stock should be mulched to prevent heaving in spring time. Stake newly planted trees to prevent loosening by the wind. Raspberries and blackberries should be cared for by cutting out the old canes and shortening the extra long growths of the new. The fruit appears next year on the wood formed this season.

Real Courtesy Isn't Reserved for Company

Family Circle Manners a True Test of Inbred Social Attributes.

By Helen Bartlett.

IT'S depressing to realize how many of us feel that good manners are not for the home or the business circle, that they're to be dropped behind home and office doors. As a matter of fact, it is in our daily contacts with relations and intimate friends that we're apt to show to the greatest disadvantage. Superficial politeness, assumed for an occasion, is utterly transparent to the intelligent observer. Unless courtesy is inbred and constantly displayed, even under the most casual circumstances, it is not real courtesy.

Rude parents probably have rude children, and though some well mannered parents may be so unfortunate as to have ill mannered children, as a rule home atmosphere and training are reflected faithfully in the offspring. Good manners at home are particularly essential because they make the wheels of domestic life go smoothly. The ability of a family to live in an atmosphere of courteous harmony is a test of politeness under all circumstances.

First Lessons Come in Table Manners.

Table manners are important; from the time the baby is able to feed himself they should be drilled into him. At meals punctuality goes a long way in a family group toward promoting good humor, and so does that golden rule—topics of conversation should be general, not personal.

Respect of the privacy of others is equally important, and this extends to their affairs as well as their time. Letters, as well as all comment on them, should be reserved to the person who receives them.

Closed doors should be respected. Knock if you must enter. The little sister sitting in when the older sisters entertain their beaux is awfully funny in the comic strip, but far from humorous in one's own drawing room.

Borrowing Habits Result in Friction.

A respect of other people's possessions should be inculcated in every member of the family. Among growing children this can be a point of friction that brews violent storms. The civility of asking before appropriating even the most trifling of others' possessions should be strongly advocated in homes, even where the most easy going companionship prevails.

Bickering or quarreling in a family is uncivilized. Husbands and wives should be extremely careful, both at home and when out together, but they should be doubly careful in the presence of their children. Neither parents nor children should be funny at the expense of each other, or take or borrow belongings. Fair play, self-control, and unselfishness practiced at all times will create an enviable atmosphere of peace in the family circle.

Brandy Flavors Fruits.

Canned fruits with brandy flavoring are the makings of swanky company salads. A special assortment of fruits for cocktails are also flavored with brandy.

"Dateless" Men Add Voices to "Lonely" Plaint

Doris Says Stay-at-Homes Are Apathetic; Don't Deserve Sympathy.

By Doris Blake.

LONELINESS isn't all on the feminine side of the fence. There are men yearning just as deeply for the "dated" evening—and a somebody to tell their troubles to.

"Walt" asks how a fellow like him can get a girl. He's 25 and has had bad luck with girls. Takes one out. But she doesn't seem to welcome a second invitation. "I always treat them right, but still I never see them again," he says.

The reason, Walt thinks, is that he's not good looking enough. The fellows kid him about his looks, although he admits modestly there's nothing wrong with them so far as he can see. "Yet," he says, "I sit home nights with a bad case of the blues."

And, like girls who do not learn how to put themselves over in a popular way, Walt resorts to the charge that decency isn't an admired possession any more, apparently.

Charges Decency Is Unpopular Virtue.

This decency thing, we challenge, as presented by the unpopular, is nothing but a weak alibi for folk who haven't the stamina to lift themselves out of their rut.

Not long since we had personally in hand the case of a girl embittered with the idea that she was too decent to be popular. She was shown how there was actually more indecency in clinging to this alibi of hers than there was in the girls she accused. How, expressing herself in these terms, she only created the impression of sourness and disappointment. Getting an entirely different slant on life, on herself more particularly, she was up and doing in no time and having a perfectly grand time for herself.

The whole thing is that you, man or girl, have to bring something more to the popularity mart than just a figure, head and feet. You have to be a person and, in the competitive age in which we live, a person is some one who can do things, who can talk, dance, take a hand at bridge, play in play hours—and be all-round sociable.

Lonely People Often Indolent, Self-Centered.

Lonely girls and lonely men who sit home nights with a bad case of the blues are not deserving of the sympathy they plead for. They're a ridiculous picture in a world full of so many things, so many opportunities—yes, and advantages! They're inert people in a world too busy for inertia. They're self-centered, expecting to be ferreted out for their real true worth. And indolent, too, they may be charged with being. Not exactly fair with the world in which they're living. Asking more than they are willing to give!

"Walt" says he always treats a girl right when he takes her out—but she doesn't want to go out with him again.

Now, it stands to reason there's something wrong with Walt. We wouldn't so charge him did only one girl turn down a second invitation—but a number of girls doing it would plainly indicate that Walt's manner, line, or something about him needs correcting. Since he's the one who is going to profit by finding out just what is wrong—that should be his immediate task. He might, for instance, be the soul of decency—but a terrible bore. He might treat a girl right and still lack the ordinary graces of social contact. He might dress like a freak, or talk like an ignoramus or not talk at all. He might appear crude in the girl's eyes; he might even have the whispered hygienic objections.

Escape from Self Secret of Happiness.

He might have none of these handicaps and be only dull and uninteresting. Anyway, there's something wrong with a young man who can't get a girl to accept a second invitation. And he is the one whose business it is to find out what is wrong with him. True, you can't change a quiet character into a noisy one—but the quietness may be used as a great asset if accompanied by other gifts.

Making yourself liked is a something that can be cultivated. But you don't cultivate it sitting down nights mooning about how people of lesser personal worth get all the cherries. You have to take life in its stride, people as they are, and be up and doing in the manner of your generation.

Most of all you "lonelies" need escape from yourselves, not being your sole entertainer evenings. Get out and get around and talk to somebody, to as many people as you can get in touch with. Even though they may not seem exciting contacts, at least you're broadening your experiences, making yourself easier with people and picking up a surprising lot of tips on how to get something more than you are now getting out of life.

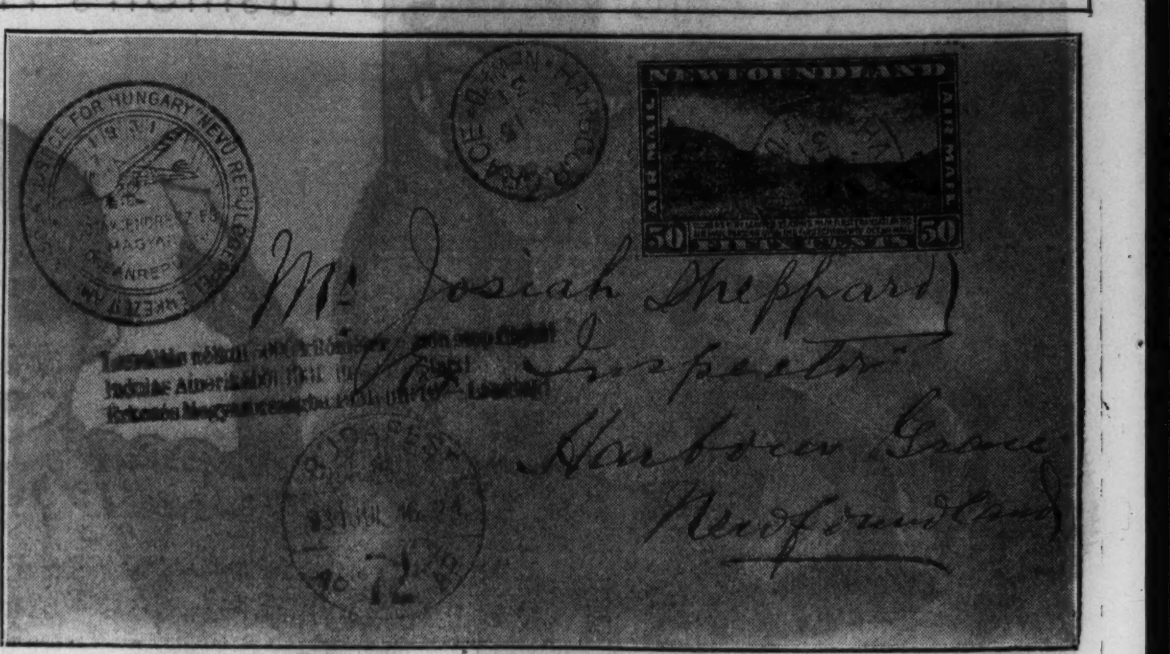
THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen



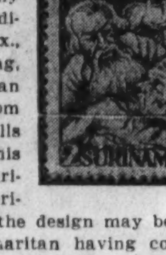
This cover was carried on a nonstop airplane flight beginning in Harbour Grace, Newfoundland, on July 15, 1931, and ending in Hungary, 5,800 kilometers distant, on July 16. The main cachet reads "Justice for Hungary" at the top of the circle. It is shown through the kindness of Mr. Sheppard, Tribune representative at Harbour Grace.

Mr. Cabeen will be glad to answer questions concerning stamps. A stamped, self-addressed envelope should be inclosed in case a personal reply is desired.

UNITED STATES stamps have always been the pacemakers for line engraving. In fact, were it not for stamps and banknotes, the art would have perished when photo-mechanical plate making was introduced. Plates produced by photography are easy to duplicate by the same means, and to check fraud engraving has held its place in this line.

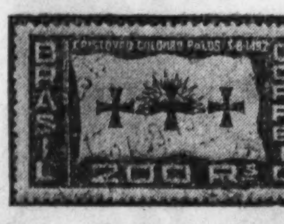
For many years it was possible to use the hand press for all engraved stamps, but in 1879 the printers were forced to resort to steam presses using softer paper with a resulting inferior product. The first power presses printed from flat plates, but in 1912 Benj. Stickney was detailed to design a press which would operate at high speed, printing intaglio engravings on a continuous web of paper. Within two years this press began to deliver stamps in coils and now furnishes the bulk of all stamps in use. Collectors call the product of the Stickney press "rotary press" stamps to distinguish them from those printed on "flat plates." Recent practice has been to face the plates with chromium to prolong their life. The Canadian stamp shown is from a flat plate, while that from Czechoslovakia is printed on the Stickney press.

Parable in Stamp.



When in the neighborhood of a reference library the studious collector can find the story of a stamp in the Bible, any version, any edition. Luke x., 30-34, beginning, "A certain man went down from Jerusalem," tells the story. This stamp is a charity issue of Suriname, and in the design may be seen a certain Samaritan having compassion on the certain man from Jerusalem, while in the background his beast is waiting to bring him to the inn.

A Strange Flag.



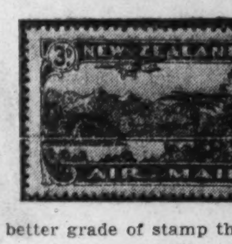
Brazil has just issued this new stamp, and it is printed in a bright red color. The feature of the design is a white flag showing three crosses in red, behind the center one of which appears a sunrise. Above the flag is the inscription, "Cristovao Colombo—Palos—3, 8, 1492," which in English is Christopher Columbus, Palos, Aug. 3, 1492, and refers to the date Columbus set out for India only to find America. What does this flag represent in connection with Columbus or Brazil?

Air Mail Stamps.

Some of the inscriptions which indicate air mail use for stamps are: Flugpost, Luftpost, Correo Aereo, Servicio Aereo, Habilitado Aereo, Avion, Poste par avion, Poste Aerienne, Luchtpost, Posta Aeriana.

View from New Zealand.

This air mail stamp from New Zealand shows one of those famous views where the snowclad mountains overlook the tropical trees in that "white man's paradise." The view deserves a better grade of stamp than this one, for it is a poorly lithographed issue, and the 3d, here shown, is in a very ordinary brown color.



Your Questions.

C. O. S.—The current issue of United States postage due stamps, i.e., unwatermarked, rotary press issue, have been chronicled in 1, 2, 3, 5, 10, 30, and 50 cent values. To complete the set are the ½ cent and the one and five dollar stamps.

The later issues of documentary revenue stamps can be distinguished from the 1917 issue by the perforations. The issue of 1917 is perf. 11; that of 1928-'29 is perf. 10, and that of 1929-'30 is perf. 11x10. You will need a perforation gauge.

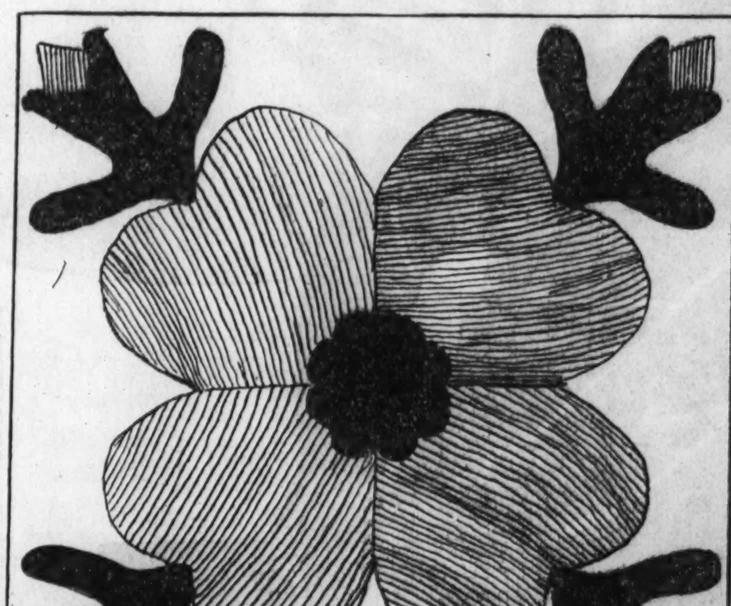
Early Colonial Quilt Favorite Takes Honors in Competition



COLONIAL ROSE.

By Nancy Cabot.

ANOTHER contest winner is this "Colonial Rose" design, which was awarded second prize in a recent showing.

As its name implies, this rose design was a favorite of the early colonies. Since that time its popularity has grown with each succeeding year. And now with a prize-winning ribbon added to its laurels, there will be an added impetus.

Each Sunday for a limited period, Nancy Cabot is offering her readers an unusual value in quilt patterns at the regular price of five cents. These patterns, like the one offered today, will include instructions for making the border as well as the block design. All are of exceptional quality. Send five cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, the Chicago Tribune, printing the name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

White Shades of Cellulose Are Smart

A NEW LAMP features a shiny, creamy white shade made of cellulose. It looks like a glorified celluloid and is as practical as it is distinctive, for it may be wiped off with a damp cloth when it becomes soiled. It was seen in a loop store recently in two styles. One was a plain, round shade; the other, a plaited one with a decorative bow and tassel of white silk cord.

Did you know that some of the smartest new lamps are wearing their cellophane protective coverings as permanent [more or less] decorations? The wrappers are now made in two inch wide strips so that if one gets torn it is easy to put on another without renewing the whole covering. Some people like to keep the cellophane on their lamp shades as it adds a decorative quality to dull fabrics, and is it is not noticeable when the bulb is lighted.

Thousands of Mothers See Sons' Graves in France

A TOTAL of 6,369 Gold Star American mothers visited their sons' graves in France during the last four years. The last group of 166 recently returned home after a tour of the war cemeteries.

Mrs. Hugh Johnson, wife of the NRA administrator, is the third member of her family to do her bit to aid President Roosevelt's reëmployment cause. She receives no compensation. Her son, Kailbourne, is also enrolled.

Absorb blemishes and discolorations using Mercolized Wax daily as directed. Invisible particles of aged skin are freed and all defects such as blackheads, tan, freckles and large pores disappear. Skin is then beautifully clear, velvety and so soft—face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out your hidden beauty. At all leading druggists.

Powdered Saxolite

Reduces wrinkles and other age-signs. Simply dissolve one ounce Saxolite in half-pint witch hazel and use daily as face lotion.

Furnaces Must Be Overhauled in Early Fall

Cleanliness Is First Requisite of Efficiency in Home Heating System.

By Louise Bargelt.

A GOOD "forgettery" is a comfortable asset—sometimes! To be able to forget the unpleasant things which happened last year and remember only the happy ones is to be recommended; excepting only those cases where by keen remembrance we can prevent those same disagreeable episodes from occurring again.

There's the heating system, for example. If we can call to mind any defects or deficiencies it betrayed when the weather was zero minded last winter we are the better able, by consultation with an expert, to find out what we can do about remedying them.

We are often absorbed by "getting back into things" in September, that October is on us before we realize that another season is about to start and that it is high time to check up on our boilers and furnaces and make sure that they are in first class working condition.

Soot Keeps Heat Away from Radiator Pipes.

Well—there is still time to put our heating plant in good condition before the heavy firing season commences.

First of all, a heating plant must be clean to approximate at all a 100 per cent efficiency.

If one has a radiator heating system soot covered surfaces keep the heat away from the heat pipes. Soot and ashes have an insulating effect—which is precisely what we don't want when it comes to extracting the maximum of heat from our pipes!

Chimney inspection should be automatic every fall. The mortar between the bricks of a chimney and around the smoke pipe often becomes completely corroded by the weather. This condition will cause a leakage of cold air into the chimney and interfere with proper drafts. Again, chimney cleaning, by bringing to light any defects in smoke pipe, boiler, furnace, or chimney, will reveal any fire hazards which may exist.

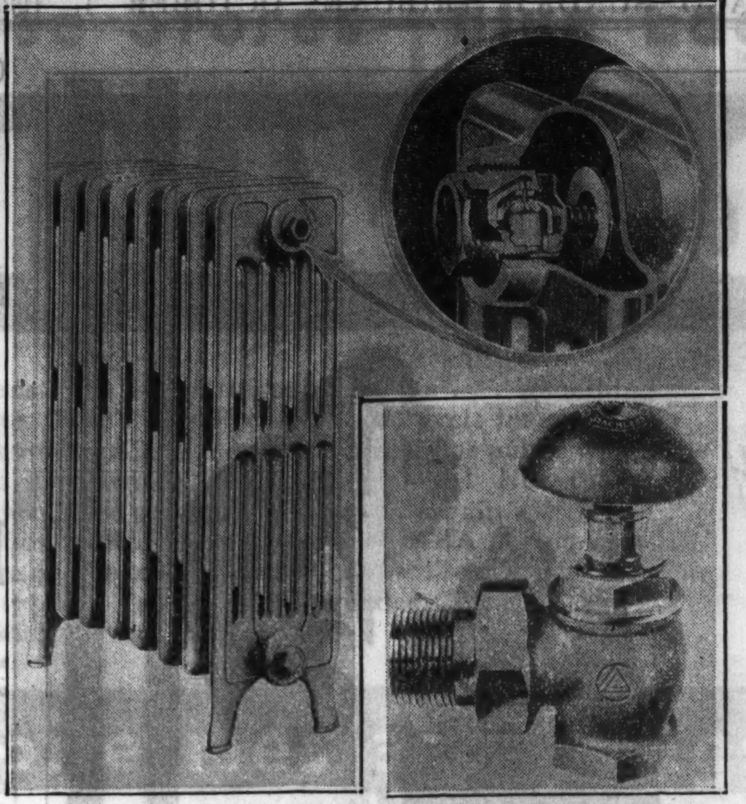
Warped or Broken Grates Makes for Fuel Waste.

In any system fired by coal attention should be given to the grates, as warped or broken grates are a bad fuel waste. If the system is fired by gas or oil the thermostat, aquastat, motor, pilot, and other devices should be checked over thoroughly and tested.

A boiler door which is cracked should be replaced. Inability to control the fire and loss of valuable draft will result from a poorly closed door. Hinge pines should be in good shape, damper chains should be adjusted, pulleys oiled, gauges cleaned, covering repaired, and castings painted.

Air valves must breathe freely if they are to function properly. A radiator may heat up slowly or may even refuse to heat at all because these valves have become partly or entirely clogged.

Thorough cleaning and intelligent inspection of a heating system are not jobs for an amateur, but demand an expert's attention, and proper machinery. Done well, they insure the home owner against too high fuel bills, fire hazards, sluggishly running plant, and future big repair costs.



The packless type of radiator supply valve, at lower right, is a recent improvement and small way of bringing a radiator up to more efficient functioning. It does away with the trouble of re-packing and offers a protection against annoying leaks. A close up view of a concealed air valve, left, shows once again the trend toward the inconspicuous and practical.

A radiator heating system of the hot water type which has grown sluggish and slack can be quickened into better service by the use of a small impeller.

Proper damper regulation and thermostatic control results in more even heat and less fuel waste, incidental to the peaks and valleys in the firing period.

An old one pipe steam heating plant will function more efficiently if the supply valves are changed to the packless type and the air valves are replaced with vacuum air valves.

These air valves should be kept in a state where they can "breathe freely." If their delicate parts become partly clogged uneven heating results and the radiator will refuse to warm up readily. If these valves become completely clogged the radiator will not heat at all.

If an air valve is of the old "carbon post" type it can be replaced with the newer float type. If the valve which is sticking is a float valve it should be thoroughly cleaned.

There is now possible individual thermostatic control of the steam supply for each radiator in homes heated by a two pipe steam system. This effects automatic, independent temperature control for each room. If an older person likes a bedroom ten degrees warmer than a younger person each may have the temperature he prefers by the use of this individual radiator regulator.

New Sections Add to Efficiency of Radiators.

Radiators may be modernized and made more effective by adding sections to them. This is a comparatively simple job. Extra radiators may be added to rooms which are hard to heat if the boiler has a sufficient capacity to carry the extra load. Or again, where a radiator is aging, it can be replaced by one of the new tube radiators of slender proportions, or may be handsomely inclosed in a radiator cabinet.

If it is necessary to buy a new boiler it can be a very good looking affair, as well as embodying the most modern improvements.

Surveys taken in thousands of homes to discover why heating systems do not always give the satisfaction they should show that remedial condition of the equipment was responsible for some 62 per cent of the trouble.

The greatest single factor was neglect of soot deposits on heating surfaces, and smoke pipe trouble was the next. Leaks and obstructions in the chimneys were found in many instances and so were "air-bound" radiators. In a considerable number of cases the thermostat was defective, or the boiler was undersized for the load of radiation which it had to carry.

Contractor Should Inspect Heating System Yearly.

Where coal is burned frequent sources of trouble are: Incorrect methods of firing, wrong size of fuel, disturbing of fuel bed, operation of grates, improper maintenance of water line in steam boilers, and accumulation of ashes.

Hence it is easy to see not only how important it is to understand one's heating plant but how important also is the need of employing a good heating contractor at least once a year for a thorough cleaning and inspection of the system.

No less attention should be given to a warm air heating system than to a radiator heating plant; the service given and the economy with which it can be run are so dependent on its proper cleaning, careful maintenance and intelligent handling.

If a house has not seemed to heat properly the furnace may not have enough heat pipes or cold air returns. A poorly arranged chain or an improperly adjusted draft will waste fuel and make a system hard to manage.

Electric Fan Helps Old Style Hot Air Plant.

Trained men will come with powerful suction machines and not only clean cold air pipes, registers and remove the accumulated dust of the year, but will inspect and make necessary adjustments and check up on existing machinery and devices to see that they are in tiptop shape.

An "old style gravity" hot air heating plant with ducts and registers serving separate rooms can have a specially constructed electric fan installed in the cold air duct near the furnace. This will force the circulation of air into hard to heat rooms.

Glass Curtains Shed Light on Many Problems of Interior Decoration

Practical and Pretty, They Add Softness and Beauty to a Room.

By Claire Winslow.

A booklet by Claire Winslow, "New Curtains and Draperies," is now on sale at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn, for 3 cents. Five cents by mail.

ALL of us like plenty of light in the rooms in which we spend our days, but few, indeed, are the souls who enjoy pure, unadulterated glare. Glass curtains are the attractive means by which brilliant outdoor light is tempered for the modern interior.

Made of charming sheer or opaque materials, when correctly hung, they never fail to add softness and beauty to a window. A point that bothers a lot of women who are about to make their first pair is, How long should they be? Should they hang to the sill or to the apron below it?

The answer depends on the window. Where the latter is recessed the glass curtains should be hung close to the panes, and should be flush with the sill. If, however, they are hung on the outside window casing they should hang to the lower edge of the apron—that is, about three or four inches below the sill.

Many women purposely make their glass curtains long, to allow for shrinkage. Others prefer them sill length and make special hems that can be let out, thus lengthening the material if it shrinks in washing.

Materials for Every Type of Interior.

The stores everywhere are showing such a wide variety of glass curtain fabrics that a person with the most fastidious taste will not find it difficult to select just what she wants. For formal rooms there are the laces: shadow, Brussels, Point de Venise, and Swiss or Irish Point. For less formal interiors there are the members of the net family: filet [having a square mesh], bobbinet [coarse], and point d'esprit [fine]. Casement cloth is an old standby, as are voiles, silk, and cotton; gauzes, also silk and cotton; scrims, pongee and marquisettes. Dotted grenadine is popular for bedroom use, as are the pastel colored organdies, and ninon.

Have you seen the lovely, shimmering, opalescent Korean silks? They come in all the colors of the rainbow and look good enough to eat. If you use them for your glass curtains it is not necessary to have overdraperies unless you wish.

Cottons for cottages are both practical and clever these days. Remember to hunt for them in the dress goods sections of the stores, not the drapery department, for they include dotted Swiss, gingham, calico, sateen, percale, and—yes, seersucker. Can you imagine anything prettier for a bedroom than coral pink seersucker glass curtains, edged with white cotton ball trimming and made up as draw curtains?

Draw Curtains No Longer a Problem.

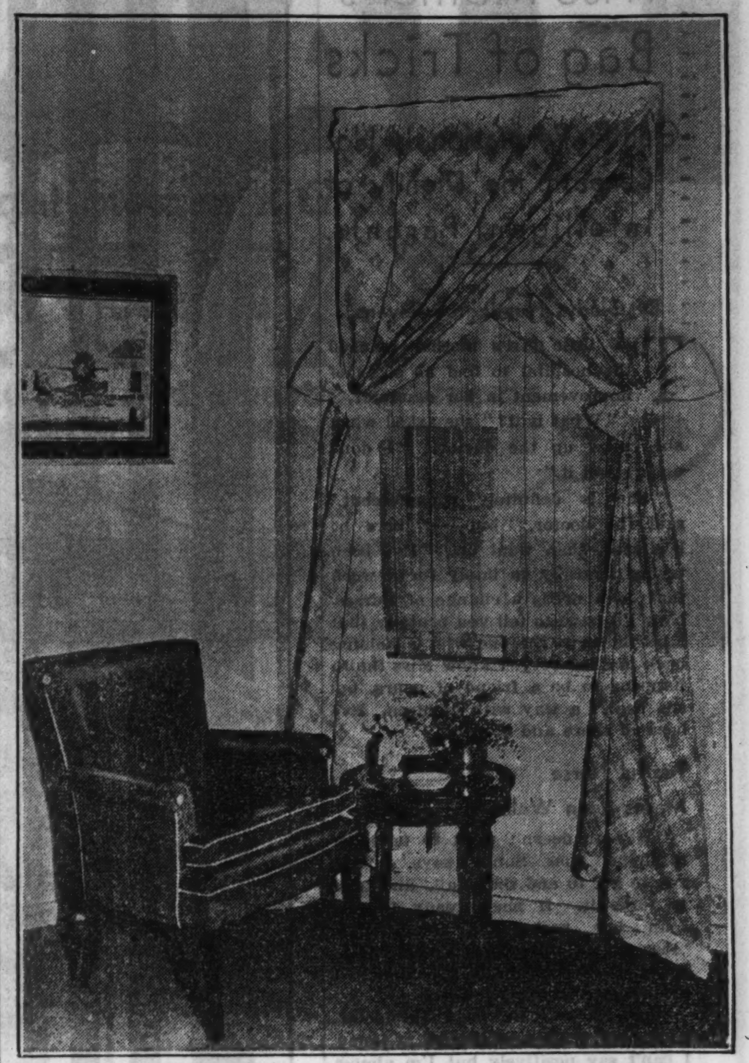
And by the way, it is now possible to have draw curtains without any fuss or bother. No longer is it necessary to have your windows measured and the curtains made to order and then hung by a specialist who understands all the little pulleys, cords, and gadgets. You can now get the popularly priced extension traverse drapery rods which come completely assembled, ready to put up. After the hardware is in place all the amateur decorator has to do is to attach her draw curtains, and there you are!

And they are ever so simple to attach because the rods are equipped with small slides, each slide having a little hole into which the hook of the curtains slips. The curtain heading conceals these slides, so that all the observer sees is the rod, and this, too, may be hidden, if desired, by making the heading a bit deeper. All the gadgets are within the rod; no complicated mechanism is seen. And it is as easy to operate as falling off a log.

These traverse rods provide not only for drawing the curtains [either glass curtains or draperies] together, but insure an overlapping. Also, being extension rods, they will fit any window of average proportions. They come in three sizes: 18 to 28 inches extension, 28 to 48, and 48 to 86.

It is not necessary to learn any new tricks to make these draw curtains. You do just as you have always done, i. e., sew a heading and casing at the top and a hem at the bottom of the fabric. Then, all that is needed is to pin on patent drapery hooks. With these hooks pinch plaits may be made, if desired, so they serve a double purpose.

The picture today shows a window in an informal bedroom. Silk voile glass curtains are made to hang even with the sill, and overdraperies of plaid dimity, trimmed with cotton ball edging, are caught back with large white organdy bows.



For informal rooms it is both practical and clever to make the draperies of dress goods. Here a red and white plaid dimity is used, with crisp bows of white organdy as tie-backs. The glass curtains, made sill length, are of cream colored silk voile.

Cocktail Glasses Show What Contents Are

THE newest cocktail glasses are decorated with pictures so there'll be no question in any one's mind as to what he's drinking. Crystal glasses for tomato juice cocktail are adorned with a red rim around the top and fat, red tomatoes on each side. Oranges and an etched orange rim decorate glasses for serving orange juice.

Towels Acquire Delicate Tints for Bath Use

TOWELS in the bride's trousseau today are fundamentally the same as their grandmothers' and great grandmothers'. Always included in their hope chests were the dozen or two bath towels, wash cloths, as well as guest and hand towels. These hand and guest towels were of snowy white, neatly monogrammed with an Old English or script initial.

Towels have passed through the stage of just being towels. Now, mayhap, maternal ancestors would question the sense of refinement, or perhaps fitness, in using the clear, delicately colored linen and bath towels to harmonize or contrast with the bathroom color scheme. Nevertheless, these color changes signify the strides made in toweling as in other household accessories.

The generous sized soft thick bath towels and bath sheets of pinkish peach, soft, delicate greens, and heavenly clear blues are more popular than the good old rough surfaced white towels of years ago that were guaranteed to make the skin glow.

A specialty in one of the smart Chicago linen shops is proving exceptionally popular by reason of being inexpensive and affording a choice of color combinations. It is a nine piece bath set, consisting of two guest towels, two hand towels, two bath towels, two wash cloths, and a reversible chenille bath mat with three block initials.

They also feature men's bath sets of beige, ecru, or yellow with shades of cedar, tobacco, and rust brown. These are really handsome pieces and the monogram on the reversible bath mat comes in two colors, both light and dark. These sets come in a plain and a basket weave.

The very young bride is always allowed a bit of leeway in furnishing her home and for her cunning sets of diagonally striped bath towels of white and green, with the direction of the stripes cunningly reversed on the guest and hand towels. These sets are also suitable for types of country homes, as well as the strikingly unusual plaid bath sets. These are lovely but not inexpensive.

One dozen white and a dozen colored hand and guest towels will care for the immediate needs of the bride, or the woman who is replenishing her linen shelves. Monograms for these are distinctly modern, simple, and streamlined.

A Century of Sinks, Stoves Shown at Fair

Efficiency, Compactness Are Keynotes in Evolution of Home Kitchen.

"New Curtains and Draperies," a booklet on the smartest window styles for fall and winter, has been written by Miss Winslow for the woman who wants her rooms to look as well groomed as she is, herself, and at reasonable cost. All the fabrics mentioned in the pamphlet may be bought in Chicago. Price 5 cents by mail, 3 cents at the Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn.

By Edith Weigle.

SIX miniature kitchens exhibited by a well known stove company at the World's Fair tell the story of the evolution of this important domestic workshop in our country in the last one hundred years, and if you think the extremely convenient room in which the average American woman now prepares three meals a day was always "that way" it will be educational and amusing to pay a visit to this display.

The kitchens were designed by Mrs. Eleanor McMillen, interior architect and designer of New York City. Mrs. McMillen is the creator of the charming miniature rooms made to forecast the mode in American interiors and shown to aid charity funds in New York, Boston, Toronto, St. Louis and Kansas City recently.

The little kitchens are built on a scale of two inches to the foot. Although measuring four feet or less across they are made with such great accuracy as to scale and detail that they scarcely seem like miniatures. They make history come alive in a vivid way.

The first room goes back to the days of our grandmothers—1833. It might be called a model in inefficiency and inconvenience. There is complete absence of a stove such as we know. The cooking is done in an iron kettle which hangs in the open fireplace. The pump which supplies the water may be seen through the open door. There is no sink in the kitchen, of course.

An open cupboard is filled with some earthenware and pewter dishes; there are a spinning wheel and rush bottom chair, and candles furnish illumination in the evening.

A New York basement kitchen of 1860 is the next unit. Near the stove, which is built into the fireplace and uses the chimney for a flue, is seen the Negro mammy cook, wearing a bandana turban. The woodwork in the room is black walnut. The crude sink is of zinc. Signs of progress are the gas jet, a speaking tube on the wall, and a small copper boiler beside the fireplace. The floor is the kind that has to be scrubbed daily, for it is of white pine.

One of the illustrations today shows the kitchen of the year 1888. Here the gas jet marks advancement, as does the new gas stove. However, we see the good old coal stove, set in the chimney—just "in case."

The sink is of iron, painted black. The walls are sealed with pine and oilcloth covers the floor.

True to the period is the little figure of the mistress of the house, wearing trailing ruffles even in the kitchen, and a most luxuriant coiffure.

Now, jump to 1900 and an amusing kitchen in a suburban home where we see white tile being used for the first time as a wainscoting. It runs four feet up from the floor. The trim is the ubiquitous golden oak, which is also used in the furniture.

As seen in the picture, a kitchen cabinet is making its appearance—a note of progress. And the work table is equipped with tin flour bins. A handsome [for those days] stove is seen in the rear of the room. It uses gas, not coal or wood. Also, the white sink and drainboard are improvements that came with the new century.

One sees interior decoration creeping into the fancy kitchen dated 1920. One corner forms a dining alcove for the servants and the furniture is French provincial. White ruffled marquisette curtains are at the windows and the floor is blue and white tile.

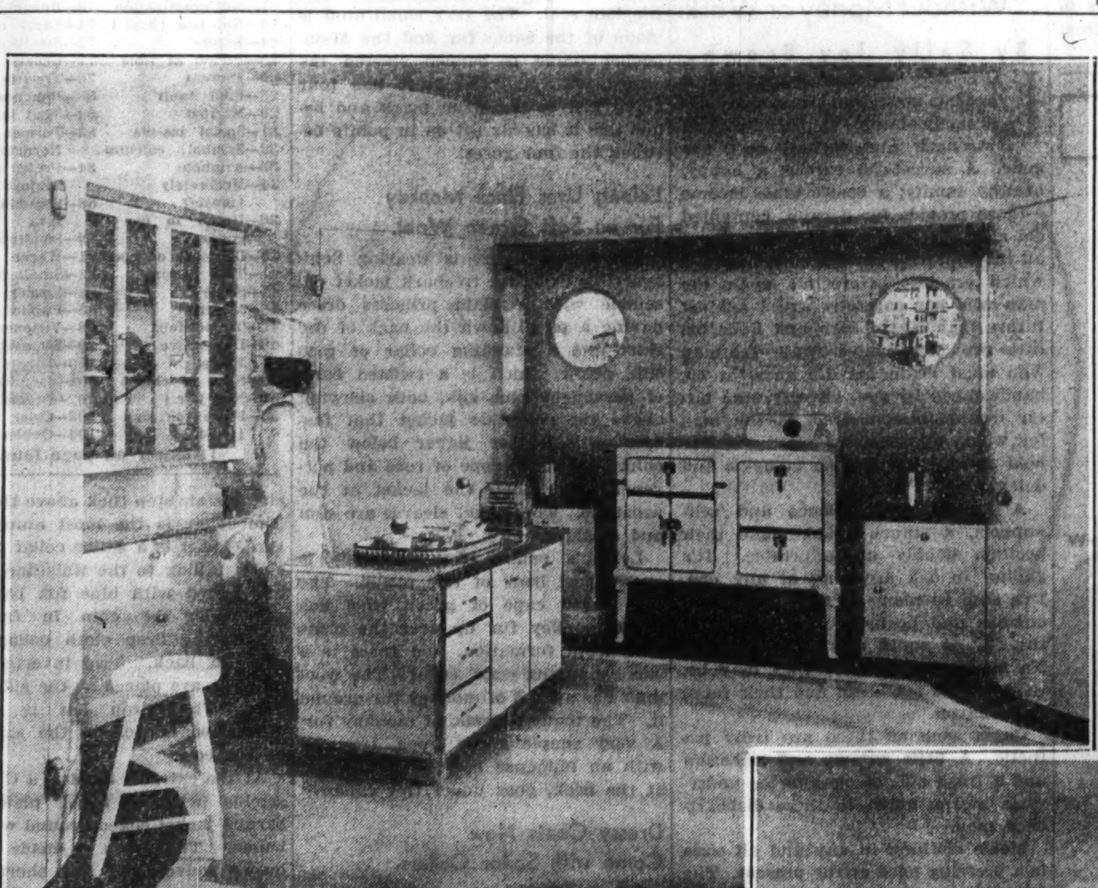
The third picture today shows the modern, 100 per cent efficient kitchen of 1933. It is, indeed, a contrast to the other five rooms, for it looks more like a scientific laboratory than anything else. It dispenses with every unnecessary detail. The furnishings are so placed as to avoid waste steps, thus conserving energy.

Rounded corners and convex doors add to the architectural interest. The doors lead to the iceroom, the butler's pantry and the supply and storage closet. Rubber tile flooring is designed especially for the room.

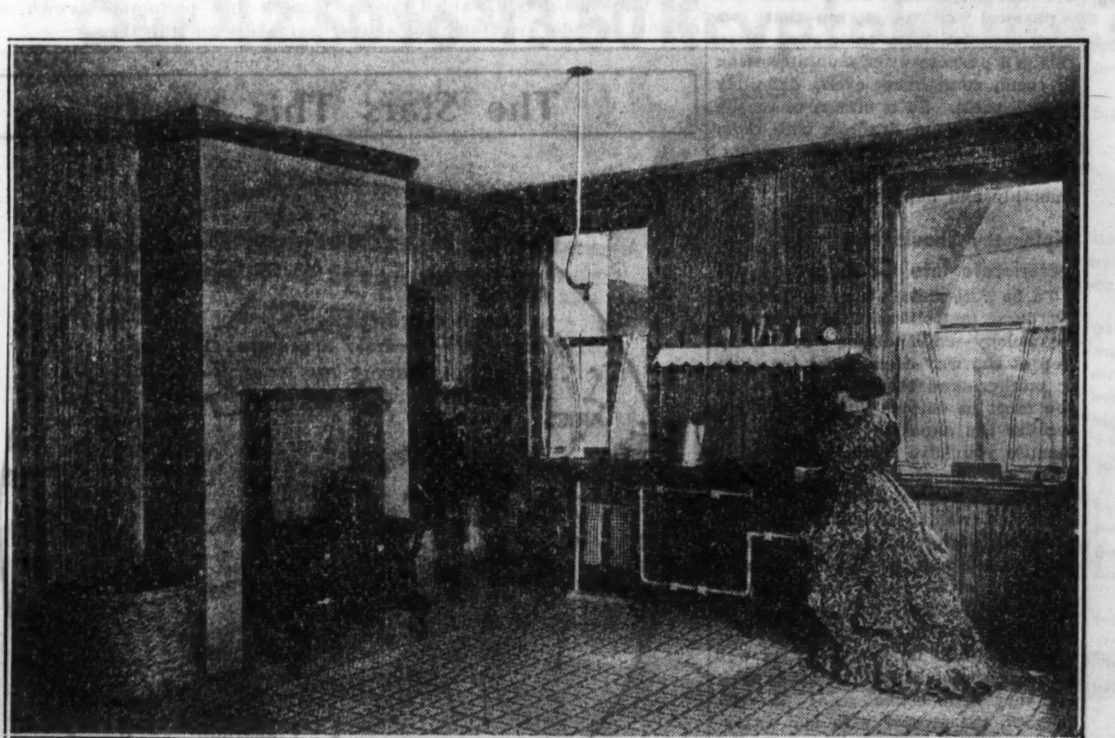
An amusing little touch is the pair of porthole windows at the rear through which may be seen the tops of neighboring city skyscrapers. The electric light comes through translucent glass panels built into the walls on either side of the little alcove in which the stove is placed.

And this stove is, of course, the last word in culinary equipment. It has an oven insulated with mineral wool so that the kitchen keeps reasonably cool. It has, also, all manner of safety devices: thermostatic control and an electric clock for cooking time control. And when not in use it may be entirely covered.

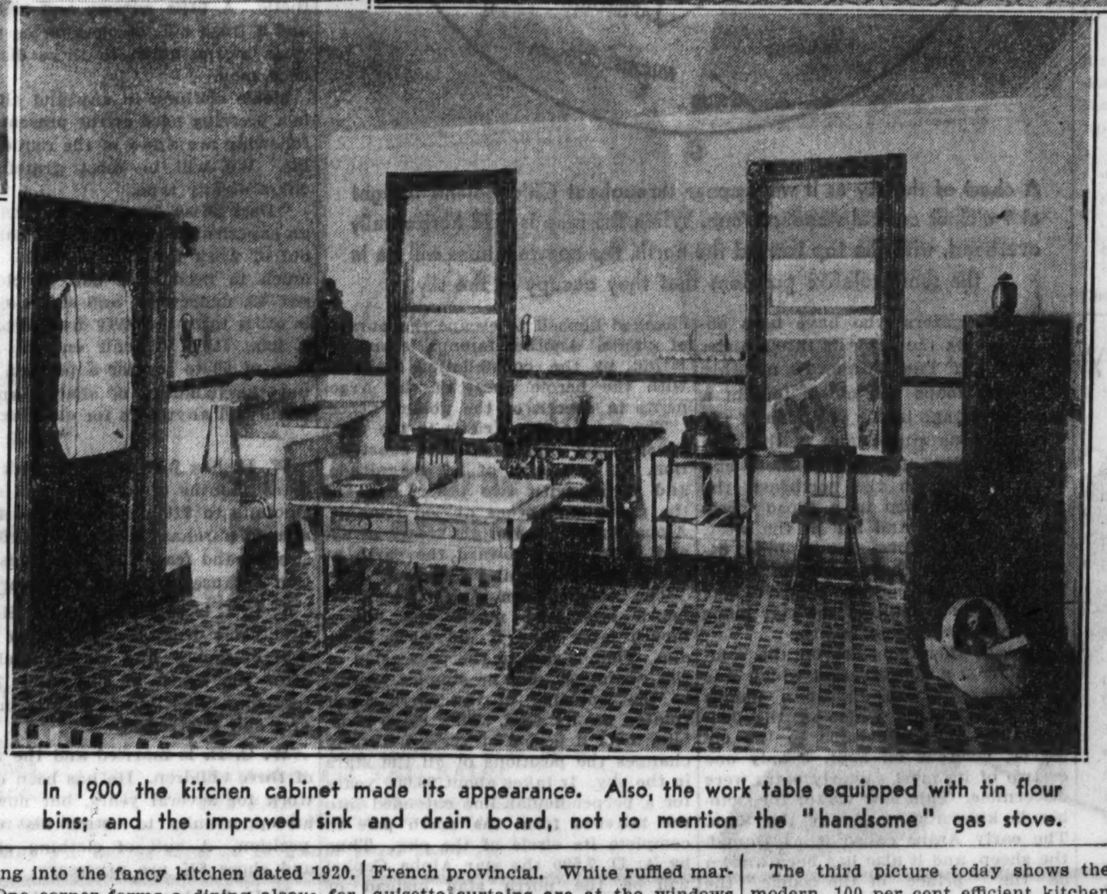
A long step, indeed, from the kitchen of 1833 to that of today!



The 1933 kitchen looks like a scientific laboratory, doesn't it? Gleaming white walls, rounded; white rubber tile floor, modern stove with thermostatic control, and up to date serving table banded in chromium. Doors lead to ice, supply rooms.



In 1888 a kitchen looked like this: Gas jet, iron sink, oilcloth floor and all. Even to the lady with the voluminous ruffles and the fetching pompadour.



In 1900 the kitchen cabinet made its appearance. Also, the work table equipped with tin flour bins; and the improved sink and drain board, not to mention the "handsome" gas stove.

Tact Found in Wise Mother's Bag of Tricks

Gentle Persuasion Is Not Beneath the Dignity of Intelligent Parents.

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

THE little girl's mother reached the hospital to find no signs of improvement in her daughter.

"What is it?" she asked when she called up the doctor. "I don't understand it."

"She is definitely convalescent," said the doctor, "but——" here he hesitated, then went on. "I've been trying tactfully to imply for a week that Jean needs a change of nurses. Now I'll have to tell you brutally that Miss Smith is the one who is holding back her recovery. I know Miss Smith happens to be a friend of yours, but she hasn't a way with children. I've been in there and seen it.

Tactful Nurse Makes Jean Well.

"If Jean doesn't want to take her medicine Miss Smith says, 'Well, you've got to and that's all,' and tries to force it. If she's ready to give Jean her bath, and Jean says, 'Please wait till I finish coloring this Little Bo-Peep,' the nurse says, 'I can't wait. It's bath time.'

"You know Jean," said the doctor, "and how she's been treated at home. I can't say positively but I'm almost sure that that's what is holding her back."

A new nurse was engaged that night—a nurse who knew children—who could give medicine without making an issue of it, who could let bathing wait until a little girl who had been very sick could finish painting Bo-Peep's gayly colored costume. From that time the child's recovery went forward by leaps and bounds.

Then there was—well, we'll call him for the sake of anonymity—Bill.

Bill had been in bed for a week with a stubborn cold, that was at last giving signs of disappearing. Well past his lunch time due to a lingering visitor, hunger was adding to his other discomforts.

"I'll have your luncheon ready in a jiffy," announced his mother.

"I'm not going to eat any lunch How could I have any appetite stuck in bed for a week? I'm not going to eat a bit of lunch—and that's that."

Orange Mountain Aroused a Flicker of Enthusiasm.

"That's nonsense," said his mother, "of course you've got to eat your lunch" . . . only she didn't! Instead, she looked at the bored, weary young face. She sighed a little—she was pretty tired—and went into the kitchen, thinking. After a while she emerged, saying:

"I made the vegetable man—you know, that fat one with the big black mustaches—hunt around this morning until he found two of those lovely white peaches you like, with red centers. I'll peel those and halve them and fill each half with brown sugar. Then I've got a nice French lamb chop and some fresh whole wheat bread and . . . a little orange mountain."

A flicker of interest came into the eyes with their circles of fatigue—a moment of weakening, then:

"Orange mountain?" . . . I said I'm not going to eat any lunch."

A Dainty Meal, Gayly Served, Changed Bill's Mind.

His mother went into the kitchen and, being a very speedy person when she needed to be, in ten minutes reappeared with a tray.

A freshly broiled buttery chop with a paper ruffle on its bone, an orange mound of riced carrots, long thin strips of buttered bread criss-crossed on each other in a pattern, two little fat glasses of milk and the juicy peaches completed the appetizing display.

"Suppose," said the purveyor of these goodies, "I sit here and feed you the way I used to do when you were little. Here' let me fix your pillows."

Hunger couldn't resist that food and cheerful voice and not being a stubborn child at all, a cozy luncheon followed, the platters being all licked clean.

There are tricks in every trade and there are many tricks in a wise mother's bag. If you wanted to call some of them names you could say they were examples of applied psychology. Or just tact. Or clever management. Many a mother who has never heard of psychology knows how to get around difficult situations.

"I won't" doesn't often call for "You must," whether a child is sick or well, though the sick child calls forth more of our ingenuity than the well one. In managing a sick child a mother needs to dig further down into her bag of tricks—or to invent new ones.

There are many people who are very much annoyed when one talks about using tact in managing children. They think, "Why all this nonsense about managing children without a fuss? Teach children to do as they're told and be respectful to their elders and behave themselves. All this coaxing is ridiculous."

Tact a Golden Asset in All Human Relationships.

Well, tact and considerateness aren't coaxing. They're tools we have to use in our dealings with other grownups. See how wife keeps an eye on her husband's mood—how the husband avoids certain topics of discussion or diplomatically breaks the news of two unexpected friends for dinner. See how carefully the daughter-in-law avoids clashing with her husband's mother, or how tactful the mother-in-law is with her son's wife.

People who live agreeably with other grownups—whether they are married or simply kin—know that there are times to be silent, times to avoid the mention of certain subjects, and habits to be avoided or condoned. We don't think it beneath us to use tact with grownups—why so with children? Using tact is only taking into consideration human nature plus a certain situation plus some end that we want to gain. Why shouldn't we use it even more with children than with grownups?

For we not only have to live with them amicably as we do with grownups but we always have some aim—physical or otherwise—that we must accomplish for their good. Often this is a purpose utterly uninteresting to them, sometimes even definitely objectionable. So it stands to reason that often in our dealings with them we must use clever management patience, and tact to gain our ends smoothly and happily.

Diplomacy Should Not Deteriorate Into Coaxing.

To be sure there's such a thing as overdoing tactfulness. Coaxing is poor psychology—explanations at every step of the way aren't good for child or mother—and there's a time when you must be obeyed without question because the situation requires it and because you have inspired your child with faith enough in your wisdom and affection to render obedience to you. But aside from these extremes, in the whole picture of childhood from babyhood on, the need of tact looms large. This kind of tact may embody many things—gentleness, patience, ingenuity, and a love of and feeling for human nature in its difficulties as well as its easy moments. The nurse with her very little convalescent in the hospital, the mother with her weary half-sick young son, gave examples of tact in the sense that I mean.

Weave tact into the fabric of your days with your children—small children, medium or big—and your days and theirs will have a different color.

BLUE AND WHITE AND BLACK AND WHITE FOR DAYTIME WEAR

Irene Bentley, a more than pretty newcomer to Fox films, has a clothes-sense that should help her in her upward climb. Her new fall suit, shown left, is a knitted affair in marine blue with diagonal pin stripes in white, and wide white lapels. The jersey beret, the trim purse, and the high heeled pumps are navy blue—an exact match to the buttons of her suit coat. At the right she is wearing a deceptively demure frock of black marocaine, its ultra- feminine trimming a white organdy lei that crosses high at the neck.

Here's a Dictionary for the Cook

HOW is your vocabulary—culinarily speaking? Can you nonchalantly order petits fours, brioche, compotes, ragouts, and rissoles and know what they will be before you get them? When you run into such terms as lardon, truffle, chiffonade, lyonnaise, or bisque in your cooking adventures, do you know what it's all about or turn to the next recipe? Whether you prepare meals or dine out, you're going to feel a lot more sure of yourself with Mary Meade's new booklet, "The Culinary Dictionary," at hand. The price of the booklet is 3 cents at the Public Service office, One South Dearborn street. Princess Heads 200,000 Women Fascists in Italy

THE highest political post a woman can attain in Italy is held by Princess Bianca Poi di Savola. She is head of the Fasci Femminilli, an organization of 200,000 Fascist women.

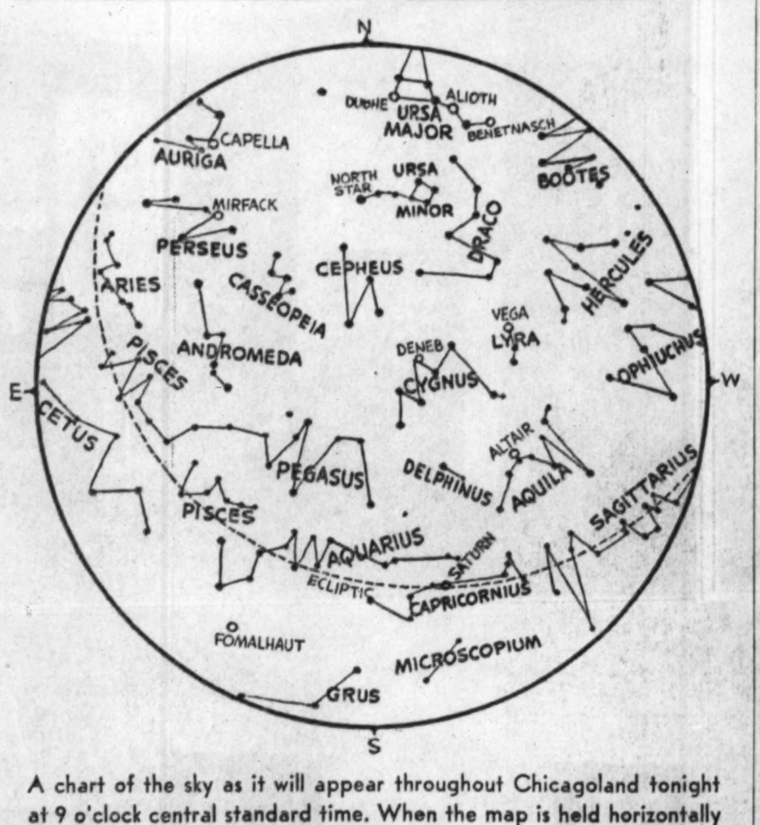
More than 900 non-Jewish women are protesting the persecution of Jews in Germany.

Mexico's feminine bull fighter, Matilde Cardenas, has discarded the traditional toreador's costume for skirts.

Crocheted Gloves on Winter Style Horizon

CROCHETED gloves, almost exactly like those worn all spring and summer, will be important fall and winter accessories. They'll be more closely knit and in heavier wool, and their colors will be brown, blue, and black. Cuffs will be quite fancy, with perforations particularly smart. One pair in brown has perforated cuffs to match the perforated brown street oxfords worn with them.

The Stars This Month



A chart of the sky as it will appear throughout Chicagoland tonight at 9 o'clock central standard time. When the map is held horizontally overhead, with the top toward the north, the constellations will be in the same relative positions that they occupy in the sky.

STAR gazers who have been observing the heavens through the aid of THE TRIBUNE'S monthly star maps will notice tonight a marked change in the positions of the constellations since Sept. 3, the date of publication of the September sky chart. Rising in the northeast, the star groups sweep in a broad circle across the sky and set in the west. This general movement is only detected, however, by a constant watch upon the heavens on a particular night, or by consulting the star maps as they appear each month.

Tonight there appears on the eastern horizon a constellation which was only beginning to appear a month ago. Tonight the whole of the constellation Aries is visible to the observer, whereas on Sept. 3 only one or two of its most easterly stars were discernible. This new visitor for October is known to many as the Ram. The early Arabs called it Al Hamal, the sheep, and it also has been known as the "prince of the zodiac," the "prince of the celestial signs," and the "leader of the host of the zodiac." According to an ancient legend, this is the ram into which Zeus, the most powerful of the gods, changed himself to escape the pursuit of giants. Another famous legend relating to the constellation links it with the heroic quest of the Argonauts in search of the golden fleece.

The star Alpha Arietis is the most conspicuous object of the constellation. It is a star of 2.7 magnitude, and forms with two other stars of the group an obtuse angled triangle. Alpha Arietis is 40 light years away, and is traveling toward the earth at the rate of nine miles a second.

The constellation Aries rises two hours later and meets the sun a month later than it did 2,000 years ago. That is due to the precession of the equinoxes, or, in simpler words, to the wobbling of the earth as it rotates on its axis. This same wobbling over a period of years naturally changes the positions of all the stars in the sky. It takes about 26,000 years for a perpendicular line extended into the heavens from the north pole to complete its circle of the sky. Thus by A. D. 7,500 the star Alpha Cephei will be the north star instead of Polaris, which now has that distinction. In A. D. 13,500 Vega will be the north star, and in A. D. 21,000 Draconis will occupy the position of the polar star.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Clothes Represent Crying Need of Men Who Have to Make New Start in Life at Age of Sixty Without Money or Work.

By Sally Joy Brown.

LIFE may begin at 40, as per a recent book, but it can be extremely bitter at 60. Physical strength and mental zest are gone. A successful career; a happy, healthy family; a comfortable income—these provide for a calm, contented old age. But the man who has spent all his time and energy on a business which crashes before his eyes, the man who has carefully saved against future inability to earn and finds his little provision melted away—the man who must begin his life anew at 60, handicapped by age, poverty, and bitter disappointment—this is the man for whom approaching years seem to hold nothing but further struggle and defeat.

A life of independence and self-support, a stanch pride, make their position doubly uncomfortable. It's galling to ask anything of any one. I've seen so many of them, respected citizens and business men, well past the day of youth and easy recovery. No matter how shabby they may be, their collars are clean and their faces well shaven.

Cases such as these are truly pathetic. A little respect and attention and a fresh suit of clothing or underwear means much to these disheartened men.

Men's clothing in any and all sizes is a pressing need at the present. The following are a few of the requests on file. We will be most grateful for offers of any type.

"Dear Miss Brown: The writer is an experienced salesman, but has been out of work for quite a while. I am much in need of a suit of clothing size 42, underwear, and shirts size 16, in order to be properly dressed to seek a job. It is difficult enough for a man of 60 to try for a position without the handicap of shabby apparel. I will call anywhere for clothing.

W. H. has just obtained work after many months of idleness. His salary amounts to $10 per week. He is unable to purchase a much needed suit, size 38, and fears the loss of his position because of his appearance.

T. L. I. is 66 years of age. He is a first class druggist who lost a great deal of money and his store shortly after the death of his wife. He is receiving relief, but is greatly in need of a suit size 38-39.

W. C. D. is married and the father of three children. He has been out of work for several years, but now has an opportunity to obtain his former position. A suit of clothing size 38 and shoes 8½ are necessary.

G. H. has been out of work for two years. He is in need of a suit size 38. Arthritis of the spine makes it extremely difficult for him to obtain a suitable position.

Color Splashes Paris Styles with Gayety

Black Is Shunted to One Side as Luscious Greens, Reds, Browns Appear.

By Bettina Bedwell.

(Pictures in rotogravure section.)

PARISIENNES, back in Paris again, and out in the glory of their new autumn clothes, are a sight that would please the eyes of Rembrandt or any other old master addicted to color and cloth at its most opulent. For once black, in spite of the way the dressmakers gave it first place in their winter collections, is shunted to one side. What you see in the way of clothes color harmonies in smart places are all the somber, luscious shades like Patou's wild blackberry, Vionnet's tawny tones, Schiaparelli's darkest reds, Lelong's shimmering greens, and Chanel's dark and begonia browns.

The materials that are being worn for afternoon, in these colors, are themselves rich and beautiful. Lots of Parisiennes are wearing Schiaparelli's jacket ensembles made of her new treebark material that is almost as thick and quite as deeply corrugated as the bark of an ancient oak tree. Some don coats of Patou's lustrous satin finished broadcloth. Others appear in one of the new downy woolen outfits. Many women are wearing velvet or slipper satin, moire, ottoman and such materials.

Hats No Longer Stark; Muffs Try All Possible Shapes.

Picture these materials done up into coats, capes, and dresses that make a woman look very long and slim, and add to the picture straight haired furs like fox, mink, seal, and monkey, slung over the wrap, and you have the style idea of the Parisienne for the coming months. Don't forget to top it with a trimmed hat, that has, in most cases, either fur or feathers on it. Hats are not an inconsiderable bit of stark material this season. They are made important by rich trimmings and fabrics, though, as yet they remain generally small and snug of shape, softened by the fur or feathers that garnish them.

Muffs are another leading accessory, and women carry them with their afternoon clothes most of the time. They come in all the shapes possible to a muff and in all the furs of the season.

Mainbocher Has Suit in Tawny Red and Rich Brown.

The design in color in the rotogravure section will show you the visual aspect of the Parisian scene in all its glory. At the extreme left is a picture of Mainbocher's new instep length afternoon ensemble done in a tawny red, downy woolen. There is a fitted hiplength jacket with tailored revers, set so the red satin blouse with its frilled neckline and jabot shows.

The jacket has long fitted sleeves, and over these sleeves are two wrist length capelets of logwood brown Alaskan seal. The very small muff is made of the same fur and the Mainbocher toque is banded around the crown with it. The skirt has four gores just to the wrist mark and below this it has six set on in points between the four gores.

Lelong Uses Black Monkey Fur on Soft Green Wool.

The seated figure is wearing Schiaparelli's dark red treebark jacket ensemble with a plain princess dress having a panel down the back of the skirt and a standing collar of rose silk, below which is a twisted band of pervenche blue silk, both showing above the collarless jacket that fastens on a leather jigger below the chin. A twisted rope of rose and pervenche blue holds the jacket at the waistline. The jacket sleeves are slim and straight.

Lelong's smart cape ensemble is shown just back of this model. The hip length cape of green wool has black monkey fur up over the arms in hairpin formation, and there is a small standing scarf collar. The wool muff has a band of monkey fur around it. The toque is made of monkey fur A very simple green frock, trimmed with an immense bow of black satin at the neck, goes under this cape.

Dressy Coats Now Come with Sailor Collars.

One of Jean Patou's smartest dressy coats, done in satin finished broadcloth in his new wild blackberry color, is shown second from the extreme right. This coat is very slim and wrapped over in front, being held at the waistline by a huge bow of broadcloth. The sleeves are long and straight and trimmed only with a single stair step tuck above the wrists. The collar is the most amusing feature, for it is a sailor collar of broadcloth, falling to the waistline in back, and edged with blue fox bands that are under the chin in front, and border the deep cloth collar at the sides in back. Two inverted L's of blue fox are placed at the sides of the coat. The Patou hat is made of glycerined ostrich in the same color as the coat.

At the extreme right is a Chanel ensemble with a fitted plaid velvet basque jacket edged around with mink bands. The dress is made of dark brown velvet and has short sleeves and a deep V neckline. It buttons down the front on brown velvet buttons. Under this dress goes a blouse of plaid velvet with a big bow under the chin and long sleeves. The Chanel hat is made of brown feathers with two triangles of bright red velvet in front.

VEGETABLE BINS RESIST RUST

Here is a practical unit for the kitchen. Four spacious vegetable containers are of metal with rust resisting baked enamel finish. Bins, interchangeable, are easily removed for cleaning and the interior is ventilated through holes in the bin and a grille at the top. The commodious metal bins open with a tilt forward motion which permits quick and handy access.

Now—
A Parisian Costume at Low Cost!

You can now have a dress, suit or coat, styled by Parisian dressmakers—at the price you pay for an ordinary costume.

Beginning next Sunday—Bettina Bedwell, Chicago Tribune Paris fashion authority, offers an up-to-the-minute Paris pattern for a costume you can make yourself. She selects her models from the most exclusive Paris salons, makes a master pattern and rushes it by fast liner to America. You can make the garment yourself. The patterns are so easy to follow you can be sure the finished product is the last word in style and smartness.

Best of all—these new Paris patterns are low priced. Look for the first pattern in the fashion section of

OH DEAR! EVERYTHING I EAT GOES TO FAT
HAVE YOU TRIED MARMOLA? IT'S INTENDED FOR JUST THAT TROUBLE

MILLIONS LEARNED TO FIGHT THIS TYPE OF FAT YEARS AGO

YEARS ago, millions of people learned of a way to combat excess, abnormal fat. Not by rigorous starvation diets. Not by harmfully severe exercises. Instead a simple, easily-used prescription, specifically designed to meet the embarrassing condition of "too much food turning to fat."

Today more than 20 million boxes of Marmola have been furnished people who were not content to sit idly by while excess, abnormal fat mounted. It is demanded by thousands in metropolitan cities and in tiny hamlets. Its demand flourishes in style and theatrical centers like New York City, Hollywood, Miami. It is sold not only in every one of the 48 states, but in England, Australia, New Zealand, Hawaii and remote corners of the world.

Marmola is prepared by one of the world's largest chemical laboratories. It is designed for people, called by doctors the "low metabolism type." Each box carries the simple directions and the complete formula. Marmola was designed to act gently, naturally. Do not expect to lose large numbers of pounds the first week. Instead use Marmola as a treatment—week by week—until you have approached your own normal weight. At drug stores—only $1.

Coma of N. Y. Stage Broken by Melodrama

Do 5th Avenue's Wendels of Gloomy Past Lurk Behind 'Double Doors'?

By BURNS MANTLE.

NEW YORK.—(Special.)—You have heard of the Wendels, those eccentric sisters who lived so long in a gloomy old Fifth avenue house in New York, and died some time back, leaving two or three hundred alleged heirs fighting for their millions.

Elizabeth McFadden, playwright, having been accused, denies that the Wendel ladies furnished the inspiration for a melodrama called "Double Doors," which she has written and which has provided the first legitimate thrill of this backward theater year. Doubtless she is right, but she will have a difficult time convincing a majority of those who see her play. Playgoing folk are ever so eager to tie their drama to life

A Creepy Punitive Vault.

"Double Doors" derives its title, as you might suspect, from two doors that hide a vault in the Fifth avenue home of the Van Brets. A nice, large, creepy vault, in which Victoria Van Bret, the older of the sisters, used to lock her younger sister, Caroline, and leave her to suffer until she promised to do whatever she was told.

When we meet them in the play the Van Bret girls are ageing, Victoria probably in her late fifties, Caroline eight or ten years her junior. Their half brother, young Rip, has just married Anne Darrow, and Victoria is pretty mad about it.

Persecution De Luxe.

From that moment Victoria Van Bret does everything she can to separate Rip and Anne. Takes the Van Bret pearls away from Anne. Has her shadowed and catches her meeting a gentleman friend in the park. Cuts Rip out of her will, leaving him penniless. Finally shuts Anne in the vault to smother and die—which she would surely have done if a way had not been found to break Victoria.

One touch of good, solid melodrama, I think, is strengthening to any theater season. In fact, I am often convinced it is melodrama that really keeps the theater alive. Certainly it is melodrama that accounts most positively for the popularity of the screenies.

Thrills Carry Conviction.

And that is what "Double Doors" stands for—good, solid, intelligently written, capably played, and sanely directed melodrama. By the time it has reached its major excitements, including the luring of Anne into the vault, its audience has accepted its play people as being real, its gloomy old house as solid, its deliberate theatrical buildups as entirely plausible.

"I know it's the wind," said the small boy when the curtains flapped in the darkness, "but I think it's bears." Any play that gets an audience into the way of thinking it's bears has achieved the end for which it was written

Acting Is Skillful.

Miss McFadden took her drama from Prof. George P. Baker at Harvard. Her play was tried first in Easthampton, which is down near the tip of Long Island, and has been brought to Broadway by H. C. Potter and George Haight, who were the importers of last season's "Good-Bye Again." Indicating that the boys are doing quite well with their summer experiments. Potter did the directing.

Mary Morris heads the company, playing a Victoria she understands with an irritating and

NEW IN OPERA

Here is one of the new and distinctive talents uncovered by Fortune Gallo, impresario of the San Carlo Opera company, and transmitted by that company to the public. Ethel Fox has been singing Micaela in "Carmen," Nedda in "Pagliacci," Gretel in "Hansel and Gretel," and Musetta in "La Boheme," and doing a first class job in all of them.

Young "Garbo" Meets Miss Garbo and Finds Her "Very Nice"

By ROSALIND SHAFFER.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—(Special.)—A very thrilled little girl called up the other night so excited she couldn't sleep. She'd just met Greta Garbo and Joan Crawford and Clark Gable and Franchot Tone that afternoon and it was just too, too much.

It was Cora Sue Collins, who has been selected to play the young Garbo in "Queen Christina."

"Miss Garbo is very nice," says Cora Sue. "She was so friendly and liked my new teeth a lot."

The new teeth are a pair of front teeth on a little plate made to replace the two that Cora Sue is shedding in the natural processes of nature at her age. They are a matter of great pride to Cora Sue, who evidently had amused Garbo as she did folks in a Hollywood boulevard store the other day by taking them out and putting them in.

- Seems the time of the year when folks are going places and doing things. Wynne Gibson has departed with a group of friends for Oregon. Object: To go down in the dangerous Rogue river in canoes. Did the party scurry around Hollywood buying heavy undies before they left!

- Bob Armstrong has departed on a freighter bound for Mazatlan, Mexico. Bob intends buying a lot of Mexican stuff to furnish his completed Mexican house out in San Fernando valley.

- Adrienne Ames is planning to sell her pretentious Beverly Hills home, the gift of her husband, Stephen Ames, and content herself to live in future on whatever her expected future husband, Bruce Cabot, makes. It was believed that under the terms of the amicable property settlement Adrienne signed back a large lump of the large marriage settlement that Ames made on her some years ago. A local wag pointed out that when Bruce Cabot went to San Francisco for the week-end it was noticeable to an unbiased observer that the point was halfway between Hollywood and Reno, where Adrienne is now in exile.

- Neil Hamilton, working in "Tarzan" out at M-G-M, can hardly get home fast enough after work to see if the progress for the day on the swimming pool and tennis court in his yard is satisfactory.

- Douglas Montgomery is making the best of things up at Arrowhead, where he is the only male member of the cast of "Eight Girls in a Boat," which has forty gals and thirty movie mamas with them as chaperons as the rest of the the cast. Doug is the guy who remarked that he was looking around for a nice girl. Object: Matrimony. Looks like a big chance for him. He's just completed another "only male" role in "Little Women," with Frances Dee, Joan Bennett, and others. He plays Laurie, a role which he describes as disgustingly sweet.

- Ralph Morgan and his wife have celebrated their twenty-third year of married happiness.

- Dorothy Peterson, who has played nothing but mother roles since her first success in "Mother's Cry," had a funny experience this week. She has repeatedly tried to get away from mother roles, as she is young and attractive. To any casting director she is a mother type, and that's that.

  Then Clarence Brown called on her to do a short part in "Night Flight" as a Spanish senorita. When she came on the set in makeup he stared and afterward when he had seen the "rushes," she was solemnly declared out of the picture. The reason: She looked so like Myrna Loy, also in the film, that it was impossible to use her in the same picture. Dorothy lost the job, but she's glad because she hopes to have broken the mother role pattern for herself.

- Charley Farrell has had no time to play polo or to sail his ship lately. He's had one part after another and now it is in "She Made Her Bed." His new role postpones a planned trip to Europe with Virginia Valli, his wife.

- Wallace Smith is busily writing a bull fight story for Georgie Raft. That's interesting in view of the fact that in the early days of Georgie's contract at Paramount they were planning to remake some of the Valentino pictures with him, notably "Blood and Sand."

- Joseph Schildkraut is back in town. He has in tow a very stunning looking wife whom he married in Vienna and who is half Swedish and half English. She openly wonders to everybody again how ever she happened to marry any guy as screwy as all actors are. However, Joseph seems to like it. There are rumors that he will play leading man with Dietrich in her "Catherine the Great."

- What motion picture executive refuses to give his real name when he calls up the girl stars on his lot to make dates and says, "Just tell her Mike called"?

- Alice White's stock is booming. She is at Universal making singing tests for a rôle in "Shadow Boat." Also she has made up with her old boy friend Sy Bartlett. Nobody knows why except that they surmise Alice still likes him.

LADY FOR A DAY
THE POWER AND THE GLORY
ONE MAN'S JOURNEY

Best Performances in Honorable Mention Pictures: Katharine Hepburn in "Morning Glory," Gary Cooper and Roscoe Karns in "One Sunday Afternoon," Kay Francis and Glenda Farrell in "Mary Stevens, M. D."; Janet Gaynor, Warner Baxter, Ricardo Cortez in "Paddy, the Next Best Thing"; Claudette Colbert in "The Torch Singer," Will Rogers in "Dr. Bull," Tutta Berntzen-Rolf in "Vi Som Gar Koksvagen," Spencer Tracy in "Shanghai Madness."

By MAE TINEE.

Good morning!

31 more days to see the Fair.
85 days till Christmas.
Tch! Tch!

And it seems no time at ALL since we were counting the days till A Century of Progress would OPEN and making payments on last year's Christmas bills! These First Sundays with their Six Bests certainly do chase each other around the calendar at great speed!

September was a good month for movies, wasn't it? Some splendid pictures—and record crowds at the theaters to look at them.

"F. P. 1"—a foreign production—was "different and entertaining melodrama; vastly intriguing because of its new plot idea." This was concerned with the anchoring of a midocean airdrome. "Believe in 'F. P. 1' or not," we said, "here's a piece that gives evidence of brain and imagination behind its writing."

"PILGRIMAGE" was "largely Henrietta Crosman's. This veteran actress, so famous in bygone days, does a notable job in her first screen rôle. . . . 'Pilgrimage' scenes are handled with skill, sympathy, and humor. . . . Director Ford is one of those who know their business. . . ."

"BUREAU OF MISSING PERSONS"—"an engrossing detective drama. You'll like its fiction and be interested in its fact, for, spun in with the tale, is a lot of fascinating lowdown on the workings of that branch of the police department known as the missing persons bureau. . . . The picture has many bright moments . . . is an unusually worthwhile program photoplay."

"LADY FOR A DAY." To quote: "It is certainly the day of the veteran stage actress. . . . Now comes May Robson to tear you to pieces in the title rôle of 'Lady for a Day,' her first big movie part since 'Mother's Millions.' . . . If this picture doesn't get you I won't know what to think. It is a fascinating specimen of screen story telling. . . . Brilliant cast playing. . . . Director Capra deserves a whole paragraph all to himself. . . . The dialogue has sense and sparkle. . . . Just an all around ripsnorting good movie."

"THE POWER AND THE GLORY" was thought to be "a good picture that very nearly deserves the adjective, 'great.' It gives an arresting impression of plot newness and provides Spencer Tracy with a fling at the sort of characterization Lionel Barrymore excels it. Also, it brings Colleen Moore back to the screen after a long absence and reveals her as a dramatic actress of intuition and ability. . . ." The piece was cleverly directed, had excellent cast playing, and is, all said, a photoplay to reckon with.

"ONE MAN'S JOURNEY." "The country doctor cycle is with us. More power to it, if it keeps swinging our way films like 'One Man's Journey!' . . . Lionel Barrymore gives a shrewd and sympathetic portrayal.

See you tomorrow!

A SINGING CHARMER

June Knight, who is one of the leading contributors to the current vaudeville bill at the Palace theater, is known on Broadway as a singing beauty of the recent "Follies" and of "Take a Chance." She is also a Hollywood girl, having had important roles in two film plays.

New Play Has One Plot with Double Ending

'Dangerous Corner' Gives 'Good Companions' Author Stage Debut.

By Charles Collins.

THE dash of philosophy that may be detected in "Dangerous Corner," the play by Priestley, the English novelist, now at the Illinois theater, relates to manners rather than morals. In an ingenious and tightly woven "mystery" plot, Mr. Priestley, chatting in illustration of the maxim, "Let sleeping dogs lie," argues that if one persists in asking embarrassing questions at a dinner party, demanding the truth at all costs, one is likely to make the following discoveries:

1. That one's wife has been unfaithful.

2. That one's brother was the betrayer in the case.

3. That this same brother, now dead, has been a drug fiend, a sex maniac, and an all around limb of Satan, although a charming fellow when in his right mind.

4. That one's brother-in-law, apparently happily married, is a dismal psychopath out of Krafft-Ebing's case book.

5. That one's pretty young sister-in-law, whom one loves as Dante loved Beatrice, is a tawdry, gold digging minx on the loose.

6. That one's business partner is an embezzler, a twister, and a cad.

7. And that life is too ugly a thing to be cherished, so here's for a quick end to it by means of a pistol bullet.

All the Sins in the Catalog.

Thus the sleeping dogs, when aroused, become a pack of werewolves, and Mr. Priestley's pleasant house party in the country would be a depressing affair but for a trick ending which permits the characters to start it all over again, omitting impertinent questions, and thus attain a happy ending. "Dangerous Corner" is one of the few plays on record that can boast of two endings, both used on the same night.

As a pessimistic philosopher, for amusement purposes only, Mr. Priestley has his points. He goes the whole route. The deadly sins pop out of his bag of tricks, one by one, each bigger and more evil than its forerunner, with surprising regularity. One feels that the author was saying to himself, in the throes of invention, "So sin is in style this year, eh? Well, I'll give them the full catalog!"

I believe, however, that this process is not without its dangers. Its pattern is too insistent, and finally it grazes the edge of the ridiculous. Toward the end of the play the ingénue of the cast of characters, who has escaped calumny in the series of exposures, stands up in the family meeting to say, in effect, "I've been a bad girl, too!" At that point one suppresses an ironical laugh to mutter, "Have a heart, Priestley, and give the human race a break."

Drama in Age of Cynicism.

True enough, sin is in fashion in the bewildered drama of the period. Maybe that is one of the reasons why the entire institution of the theater is in economic decadence. Turning away from the high ideal and the noble utterance [they were mere Victorian illusions, of course!] the stage has undertaken to demonstrate its advancement, its emancipation, and its intellectual grasp by depicting humanity as headed towards the dogs. By a striking coincidence it finds itself headed in the same direction.

Nevertheless, in the present state of affairs, "Dangerous Corner" is a decidedly welcome affair. It brightens up a dark spot on Chicago's shattered Rialto; it tells a clever tale divertingly; and in Gavin Muir it possesses a young actor of decided gifts and vibrant personality.

Historical Drama.

Robert Edmond Jones has designed the settings and costumes for "Mary of Scotland," which the Theater Guild has placed in rehearsal with Helen Hayes as heroine.

Anita Page as Film Star and Revue Actress

WHEN the 1933 edition of "Crazy Quilt" comes to the Chicago theater next Friday this tabloid revue will give Anita Page her first stage appearance in this city.

The personality of this blonde beauty is not unknown, for in the last half dozen years she has appeared as a featured player or star of as many motion pictures as any other Hollywood celebrity.

To recall a few of Miss Page's screen productions, there were "Broadway Melody," "Soldiers of the Storm," "Our Blushing Brides," "Skyscraper Souls," "Night Court," "Our Dancing Daughters," among a score of others.

This actress is of Spanish descent, her family name being Pomares. She was born in Flushing, L. I., and before she had finished her schooling had obtained a job as an "extra" with Rudolf Valentino in "Monsieur Beaucaire." An independent producing company was being formed at that time and she was singled out for a leading rôle in their first picture. It was this company that took Miss Page to Hollywood, where her real story began. She soon secured the leading feminine rôle opposite William Haines in "Telling the World."

Her work in that picture earned a long term contract and caused the film magnates to work the youthful star overtime. In rapid succession she appeared with Lon Chaney in "While the City Sleeps," with Joan Crawford, and then opposite Ramon Navarro.

Then came her first starring rôle, when she appeared with Charles King and Bessie Love in the first of the successful musical pictures, "Broadway Melody." That was within a year from the date of her first visit to a movie studio. She was barely 18 when she crashed the gates of Hollywood.

Vaudeville Show as Seen by Backstage Visitor

TO the uninitiated the running of a vaudeville show may seem to be nothing more than the raising and lowering of curtains and adjusting lights as the various acts follow one another through the program. But even a comparatively simple variety program is a complicated structure which must run like clockwork, adjusted to a time schedule of seconds, and calls for high technical skill on the part of experienced workers.

A "big time" vaudeville bill, such at the State-Lake theater offers each week, is timed as accurately as a radio program. The backstage operation depends on the lightning calculations of the chief operator, either Charles Niggemeyer, the producer of the State-Lake shows, or his assistants, bosses of a huge switchboard from which everything is run with silent efficiency.

Blue Prints for Stage Director.

Assisting the switchboard chief is the head stage hand, who supervises the setting of the stage, and the head flyman, who handles the "flying" of the scenery up into the gridiron over the stage. These men then have other helpers.

The department heads have a complete list of acts, with their exact running time, cues, and equipment. After the first day of the new week they know them by heart. Niggemeyer stands silently in the wings by the switchboard, nods his head or whispers a word to the board and instantly, as if by magic, lights change, scenery vanishes, properties are moved, new actors take their places, and a few seconds later the stage is completely transformed.

Four Shows a Day on Schedule.

Ten minutes before the show begins the switchboard man sounds a warning. When the feature picture is finished, the stage hands quickly slide away the sound equipment, the orchestra suddenly appears in the pit, the electrician signals "ready," and lights the annunciator cards in the frames at each side of the proscenium arch. Verne Buck then starts the introductory music for the first act, and the head stage hand pulls the curtain on a direct "cue" from the opening act, communicated through Niggemeyer, who stands in the wings.

While the first act is playing the stage is being silently and quickly set for the next one. Curtains slip into place out of the darkness above, apparatus and furniture suddenly take their places, actors in costumes stand ready, then suddenly take their places while the players of the previous act take curtain calls on the "apron" of the stage. Then another nod from Niggemeyer, the curtains part, and the next act is "on."

At the end of each act the technicians mark on a time schedule the exact running time down to the fraction of a minute. If it runs a little over, or under, schedule time, the act is "warned," and it doesn't happen again.

Four shows a day, five on Saturdays, coming out on schedule each time! From out front it looks simple. Actually a vaudeville bill is a marvel of efficiency, all dependent on the director and his switchboard hidden in a corner on the right side of the stage.

Le Gallienne Starts Tour in 'Romeo,' 'Alice'

EVA LE GALLIENNE and her New York City repertory company will embark next month on a tour that will carry "Romeo and Juliet" and "Alice in Wonderland" over the country until late in March. Chicago is included in the bookings.

Miss Le Gallienne has selected as her Romeo a young actor named Richard Waring, who started his career with the Civic Repertory apprentice group three years ago. His father is Thomas E. Stephens, an English portrait painter now living in New York.

A large company will be needed to carry the two productions on the road. Josephine Hutchinson, Donald Cameron, Walter Beck, Leona Roberts, Charles Ellis, Landon Herrick, Staats Cotsworth, Nelson Welch, Howard da Silva, Harold Moulton, Samuel Colt [Ethel Barrymore's son], and many others will make the trip.

The tour will start in New Haven, Conn., on Oct. 13. The Chicago engagement will begin on Christmas day.

New Operetta.

"Gowns by Roberta," a new musical play by Jerome Kern and Otto Harbach, is now in rehearsal. Adapted from a story by Alice Duer Miller, it will be presented on Broadway this fall by Max Gordon.

Among the performers will be Lyda Roberti, Bob Hope, Fay Templeton, Tamara, George Murphy, Sidney Greenstreet, Julie Johnson, Raymond Middleton, Nayan Pearce, and the California Collegians.

New Man in "Dinner at Eight"

ROBERT MIDDLEMASS, the new Dan Packard in the cast of "Dinner at Eight," at the Grand Opera house, is a playwright as well as actor. He will go down in theatrical history as the author of "The Valiant," a one act play which has been presented by little theaters all over the country, and which has served as an excellent vehicle for stage stars on vaudeville tours. Middlemass is also the author of "The Budget," which was presented on Broadway last season, and is at present working on another play which is near completion.

After four years at Harvard, during which time he was active in amateur dramatics, Middlemass immediately embarked upon a stage career. Chicago has, in recent years, seen him with George M. Cohan in "The Tavern" [Blackstone theater engagement] and in "Gambling," "Gang War," "The Butter and Egg Man," "Buddies," with Peggy Wood, and "For All of Us," with the late William Hodge.

Mr. Middlemass was in the cast of "Criminal at Large" last season, but did not play outside of New York. Broadway has also seen him in "Good Gracious Annabelle."

Play for Nazimova.

A play called "Monica," with Mme. Alla Nazimova in the cast, is announced for staging this fall. It is the work of Marja M. Szczetkowska, and was adapted by Laura Walker.

Royal Favorites.

Cornelia Otis Skinner is preparing a new solo drama for her coming season. She will present "The Loves of Charles II.," a dramatic sequence.

IN INTIMATE OPERA

Here is a member of the new, intimate Operatic Art theater which is just beginning a series of operas at the Goodman. Olga Saga is her name, and she will be heard Wednesday of next week as Charlotte in Massenet's "Werther."

NOTES OF MUSIC AND MUSICIANS

WHAT looks like an uncommonly interesting series of "opera intimes" is announced by Mrs. Howard Linn, chairman, to be given for the benefit of Olivet institute by the New York Music guild, whose director is Karl Krueger. They will be given in the ballroom of the Palmer house on three Tuesday nights, Nov. 21, Dec. 19, and Jan. 23.

All performances will be modeled after similar presentations by the Vienna Opera in the former imperial palace in Vienna. Mr. Krueger describes them as a combination of sophistication and utter simplicity, harking back to the days when operas were given in the drawing rooms of the aristocrats, with stylized mise-en-scene, orchestras of from twenty to thirty players, and the whole seemingly springing out of the floor and becoming part of the surroundings.

A double bill will be given on each of the evenings. The first will be "The Cadi Deceived," by Gluck and Mozart, and "Salieri," by Rimsky-Korsakoff.

Rachel Busbey Kinsolving sends word of her annual series of musical mornings in the Blackstone hotel. All on Thursdays, the attractions and dates are thus summarized: Efrem Zimbalist, violinist, and Mario Chamlee, tenor, Nov. 16; Sophie Braslau, contralto, and Mischa Levitzki, pianist, Nov. 23; Guy Maier and Lee Pattison, duo-pianists, and Stewart Baird, baritone-diseur, Dec. 7; Ninon Vallin, soprano, and the Aguilar Lute quartet, Dec. 28; Maria Jeritza, soprano, Jan. 11.

Edoardo Sacerdote's Operatic Art theater, whose opening date was last night, will give three performances this week. "Don Giovanni," the initial attraction, will be repeated tomorrow and Saturday evenings. "La Traviata" is announced for Wednesday evening.

◆

Adding to the list of major future events, the Boston Symphony orchestra, directed by Serge Koussevitsky, will come to Orchestra hall for a concert on the evening of Monday, Oct. 23. The program has not as yet been received.

◆

Bethuel Gross, 26 year old organist and composer, has been elected general director of the South Shore Music festival, which is held each May in the Memorial auditorium and the City church of Gary. Hammond, Gary, East Chicago, Indiana Harbor, Whiting, Hobart, and Crown Point join in the presentation of this event.

◆

The Chicago Sunday Evening club will begin its twenty-seventh season at Orchestra hall this evening. The Chicago Business Men's orchestra will play a program of Franck and Brahms at 7 o'clock under the direction of Clarence Evans. The choir of 125, directed by Edgar Nelson, will later give the first presentation of "We Praise Thee, O Creator God," a new anthem composed and dedicated to the club by Daniel Protheroe. Mabel Sharp Herdien will sing the soprano solo.

◆

Philip Hale, veteran dramatic and musical critic of the Boston Herald and author of the best set of program notes in America, those of the Boston Symphony orchestra, is, together with Mrs. Hale, paying a visit to Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Hale will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield S. Brainerd, 612 Deming place.

The customary program of Illinois composers at the Illinois Host building will be shifted from this afternoon to tomorrow evening. Works by Florence Lowenberg and Donald Drew will be presented. Mr. Drew will play his own on the piano. Mrs. Lowenberg will be assisted by Mary Krakowski, soprano; Mary Barova, contralto; and Magdalen Massmann, accompanist.

On Tuesday evening there will be a program in the same hall by the Vernon McCune Auxiliary chorus [American Legion of Toledo, O.], assisted by Mae Doelling Schmidt, Chicago pianist.

Bernice Spratler, mezzo-soprano, and Mae Doelling Schmidt, pianist, will appear jointly in the Hall of Social Science lecture room on Wednesday afternoon under the auspices of the musical sorority, Mu Phi Epsilon.

◆

The Deep River quartet, gold medal winner of the first Chicagoland Music Festival, will give a forty minute program of spirituals and Negro work songs in the Hall of Religon on Friday evening at 7 o'clock.

The Chicago Daughters chorus of 400 voices will sing at the Medinah Athletic club this afternoon at 5 o'clock under the direction of Carl Craven.

'TURN BACK THE CLOCK'

Local Orchestra Lives by Merit, Not Ballyhoo

Mr. Stock and His Symphony Players Let Their Music Speak for Itself.

By Edward Moore.

USUALLY one is in the habit of thinking that the Chicago Symphony orchestra formally ushers in the musical season. This year it happened that Mr. Gallo and his San Carlo Grand Opera company performed an opening fanfare of their own. But at that, the orchestra moved up the time of its own start. Its first pair of concerts will be played at Orchestra hall on Thursday evening and Friday afternoon of this week.

Consequently, those who come to visit A Century of Progress this month will find some music of the first class in Chicago, even though they have been obliged to wait until the Exposition's final weeks to make the discovery. It is no profound secret that both organizations arranged their datings with something of the sort in mind.

Quality Music Attracts Steady, Faithful Patrons.

Not that the orchestra is making any particular point of it. It seldom does. In fact this organization goes along its annual course with less ballyhoo and circus-ing than any other in the country. That has been its deliberate policy from the beginning.

There are two ways of looking at it as a policy. Quite possibly more trumpet blaring and burning of red fire would create more surface popularity. There can be no question that ballyhoo has its effect. On the other hand, those who go to the concerts season after season are patrons because they know what a fine organization the orchestra is, how well balanced, how masterfully conducted by Mr. Stock. In other words, they are a musical audience. It was not ballyhoo that created the reputations of Nathan Milstein and Vladimir Horowitz in Chicago. It was the fact that the Chicago Symphony audiences knew great artists when they heard them.

Symphony Groups of Other Cities Find Wolf at Door.

And so the orchestral management promises as brilliant a season as was ever given in Chicago, and this in spite of the economic discouragements of the last several seasons. The Chicago Symphony is not the only orchestra to feel them. Other cities are reporting similar or even worse conditions. Even in Philadelphia subscribers are being warned that unless the box office takes a considerably healthier tone it will be impossible to maintain its orchestra on former standards. It seems quite probable that the loss in patronage here is proportionately less than in any of the other cities, a fact that carries its own comment as to the ability of the orchestra and its standing with the musical public.

Mr. Stock announces a program in midseason form for Thursday and Friday. It will begin with Bach's Third Suite, that in the key of D, and move to Beethoven's Seventh Symphony. The second part of the program belongs to the first few years of the present century. It will consist of Debussy's "Iberia" and the suite made from Stravinsky's ballet, "The Fire Bird."

San Carlo Company to Have Headquarters in Chicago.

Mr. Gallo's determination to move the headquarters of his San Carlo company from New York to Chicago may, and probably will, have a more important effect than is apparent on the surface.

Even the first effect is great enough. An opera company means a small army of employés in addition to those seen on the stage. It means work for all of these, for the orchestra for the stage force, for scenic artists, set builders, costume designers, all those who make it possible for the singers to display their wares and be applauded.

Later results will affect singers, and particularly young singers. One of Mr. Gallo's most potent assets has always been his ability to pick talent out of a group of unknowns. By the side of this fact is the other less agreeable one, the inherent weakness that vocal students find so few outlets for their talents after they leave the studios.

The San Carlo Opera company will provide one. It will not take care of every ambitious student by any means. Were Mr. Gallo's organization twenty times the size that it is, it could not do that. But when, after this season is over, his headquarters are permanently in Chicago, there will be a chance for auditions, and for those who show the right sort of musical and dramatic ability, subsequent debuts. It is going to be a good thing for the cause of music.

The Order of the Eastern Star chorus of Illinois will sing at Medinah temple Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Dwight Edrus Cook is the director.

TWO CHARACTERS IN "DANGEROUS CORNER"

Gavin Muir, able leading man in "Dangerous Corner," the play by J. B. Priestley now at the Illinois theater, is searching for the whole truth about the killing of his bizarre brother, Marty. Eden Gray, as his pretty secretary, is confessing that she is the guilty person. It seems that Marty showed her his collection of obscene etchings, and then——. Apparently Marty got what he rightly deserved.

WHY HOSPITALS USE A LIQUID LAXATIVE

NRA

The dose can be measured to the drop, and the action controlled. Pills and tablets containing drugs of violent action are hard on the bowels, and frequently habit-forming.

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know why?

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it.

Can Constipation be Overcome?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say thousands who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until the bowels are moving regularly without aid.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, used in this way, has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is no "convenience" in any cathartic taken so frequently that you must carry it wherever you go!

How to Choose a Laxative

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it. If you don't know anything about a preparation, ask some doctor about it. The temporary relief you get from some synthetic, habit-forming cathartic may irritate the kidneys.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptional preparation with nothing to conceal. Its ingredients are stated on the label. By using it, you may avoid all danger of bowel strain. You may keep the bowels regular, and comfortable. You may make constipated spells as rare as colds.

How many dimes and quarters are spent on "popular" laxatives! How quickly they count up, as you use more and more of these habit-forming helps! A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin would save you money—and bring you real relief. And it is perfectly harmless, perfectly safe.

A FRANK STATEMENT
by the Makers of
Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

We believe the unwise choice of laxatives is the most common cause of chronic constipation.

We believe the use of crude salts, and powerful drugs in the form of pills or tablets is rapidly giving way to gentle regulation of the bowels with a liquid laxative.

We believe Dr. Caldwell's original prescription of fresh herbs, pure pepsin, and active senna is the ideal family laxative.

And we know it is a safe preparation for children and expectant mothers because it does not cause bowel strain, or irritate the kidneys.

sustained maliciousness that keeps her well in character. Anne Revere is the Caroline, Richard Kendrick the Rip, Aleta Freel the Anne. You may remember them in stock. They are all excellent.

Paul Robeson Interprets "Emperor Jones" for Movie Fans.

The theater deserting me, I took to the pictures again last week and found two of the late ones most interesting. One was Paul Robeson in O'Neill's "The Emperor Jones." The other, Leslie Howard in a screen transcription of John Balderston's "Berkeley Square."

Interesting, too, that the night fourteen years ago that Leslie Howard was making his American debut in a comedy by A. E. Thomas called "Just Suppose," the first performance of "The Emperor Jones" was being given at the Provincetown theater in Greenwich Village. All of what are known as the first string New York critics went to see "Just Suppose." O'Neill had not yet completely emerged in the Village, and the Provincetown players were supported by a subscription list of patrons.

Heywood Broun "Discovered" O'Neil's Play for Critics.

Later that week the critics began drifting into the Village, following an excited report from Heywood Broun that here was to be found the finest drama in town. And from their confirmations the success of "Emperor Jones" and Eugene O'Neill grew apace.

Howard never returned to England for long. Year by year his popularity has grown in America until now he is probably the best liked of the younger men of the theater, as he certainly is one of the finest actors. "Berkeley Square," as a play which he was instrumental in bringing over did much to cement this impression. "Berekeley Square' as a picture will add to that prestige. It brings him a little closer, I think, to the day he will play Hamlet, and that day you are likely to see John Barrymore dethroned as so much of a leader as the classic drama still retains in our shattered theater.

"Berkeley Square" Responds Gracefully to Film Treatment.

"Berkeley Square," being the most sensitive of fantasies, lends itself perfectly to screen treatment. It lacks the human contact, the full bodied charm of the acted play, naturally. In both play and picture there is also a handicap of suggested monotony because the treatment is all in one tone. But there is no discounting the persuasive charm of the picture, particularly in the early scenes.

These include a marvelously atmospheric showing of the old Berkeley Square of the eighteenth century, when the first Peter Standish lived there. So fascinatingly real are these Standish ancestors one feels a sense of loss whenever they are forced to give way to modern sections of the story.

Producers Add Extra Touch of Phantasmagoria.

The picture has added a bit of phantasmagoria in which Helen, the true love of the twentieth century Peter, looks deeply into his eyes and sees into the future as he has seen into the past through the diary of the first Peter. She sees and hates all that wars and inventions have brought us and is glad to be no part of so ugly a world. And we, enveloped in the charm of her world, are also inclined to resent the break in our interest. To me the picture never quite captures again the charm of early episodes after that view of the future.

Howard, looking amazingly like a young Garrick in certain poses, is the same sensitively fine individual he was in the play. His is an art begotten of intelligence and breeding. He is admirably supported by Valerie Taylor and by the Heather Angel who came to play first in "Cavalcade," also a sensitive child of direct appeal, particularly in her suggestion of flowerlike and appealing youth.

Frank Lloyd did the directing. To me, adding "Berkeley Square" to "Cavalcade" places him two up on all those of contemporaries with whose work I am familiar.

Elaborate Detail Mars Subtlety of "Emperor Jones."

In screening "The Emperor Jones," John Krimsky and Gifford Cochran, spending a part of the money they made with "Maedchen in Uniform," and did not lose on "Three Penny Opera," have done their artistic best to preserve the power and majesty of the O'Neill tragedy.

In-so-far as they have stuck to the O'Neill original and the O'Neill intent, they have done well. But in trying to elaborate "Jones" into a full length drama, when it was never intended as more than a sketch, they have not been fortunate.

"The Emperor Jones," as you may or may not remember, opened on an island ruled by the ex-Pullman porter the day his "bush nigger" constituency rose against him and he tried to find his way through the forest to the coast. Becoming lost, he travels in circles, the beat of native tom-toms always in his ears, until he finally succumbs to a panic of fear and is shot down.

Movies Lighten Task of Spectator's Imagination.

The picture version superimposes an added structure of preliminary scenes on the O'Neill foundation, and, to me, this serves to rob the story of its dependence on your imagination. It is one thing to picture Brutus Jones as the type of Pullman porter and adventurous bad man you think he may have been. It is another thing to have him thrown at you in the superior person of Paul Robeson and put through such a series of experiences as do not add up with your conception of Jones.

Robeson is magnificently physical as Brutus and tremendously effective as an actor. I don't quite believe he could have let them dump a steam shovel of broken stone on him, as they do in one sequence, and have lived to file off his leg irons after he got back to his wife, but I am willing to overlook that. DuBose Heyward wrote the added scenes, and they are entirely creditable—to DuBose Heyward. But they just aren't O'Neill. Neither, for that matter, are the island scenes. It was a difficult assignment, trying to make a popular picture of "Jones."

NEW ACTRESS

Ruth Abbott, who has replaced Judith Wood in the role of the sassy little blonde in "Dinner at Eight," at the Grand Opera house, was last seen in Chicago in "The Jazz Singer." She has been active in motion pictures.

Next "Scandals."

George White announces that his affiliation with a motion picture company will not interfere with his activities as a producer in the legitimate theater. Preparations for another stage "Scandals" are already under way, with a premiere scheduled for the early spring. It will be the twelfth in the series.

WHY, CHARLES LAUGHTON—do you really think so? He is quoted as having said: "Jean Harlow is ideal for Alice in 'Alice in Wonderland.' Alice was a very impudent young woman. Talked back to every one. Was always poking her nose in places where she wasn't wanted. Of course they won't give the part to Harlow—but she's the only actress in Hollywood who could do it justice." . . . DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS JR. will make two pictures in England for release by United Artists. In the first—"Symphony in Purple," based on the life of Catherine the Great—his leading woman will be ELIZABETH BERGMER, European star. . . . They do say that MARLENE DIETRICH has turned her back on masculine attire and that, while in Paris, she shopped for feminine flummeries only. . . . MAY ROBSON, approaching the three score year and ten mark, objects to being called old, and here's a little poem she's fond of quoting:

Age is a quality of mind.
If you have left your dreams behind,
If hope is cold,
If you no longer look ahead,
If your ambition's fires are dead—
Then you are old.

But if from life you take the best
And in life you see the jest,
And if love you hold,
Then no matter how the birthdays fly,
No matter how the years roll by—
You are not old.

Bernie Ready to Go on Tour; Cabaret Shows

Last Month of World's Fair Brings Novelties in Cafe Amusements.

LAST call for Ben Bernie at the Casino, where he has contributed to the amusement of the World's Fair crowds for the last four months. He will help to entertain the American Legionnaires until next Thursday and then will start out for the conquest of Hollywood. Next Wednesday night the Old Maestro will be given a farewell party at which there will be a great roundup of cabaret personalities.

● Bernie will take away Jackie Heller, midget singer; Frank Prince, tenor; "Whistling" Pullen, and Stewart Johnson as auxiliaries on his tour. The Five Maxellos, acrobats; Jeanne Goodner, pretty young tap dancer, and the fashion show of thirty mannequins will continue in performance when Buddy Rogers moves his band into the Casino. The afternoon music will be supplied by George Nelidoff and his Volga Boatmen.

● During Bernie's stay at the Fair it is estimated that he has said "Yowsah!" nearly a million times.

● The departure of Veloz and Yolanda from the Empire room in the Palmer house was marked with a farewell dinner given by that gifted dance team to their friends last Wednesday night. On Thursday evening the new program, headed by Medrano and Donna, Argentine dancers of international reputation, was launched with éclat. The suave dance music of Richard Cole's orchestra is a continued feature.

● The Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel is preparing to entertain the visiting Legionnaires to their hearts' content. The Wisconsin branch of the organization has its headquarters in this hostelry, about 500 strong. Bob Nolan, master of ceremonies, steers a floor show that includes Crawford and Caskey, ballroom dancers, and Lynn Canter, a singing girl. Harry Sosnik's orchestra aids the public dancing.

● The College inn had a "gala" night last Thursday to mark the arrival of Phil Harris and his Hollywood orchestra. Leah Ray, prima donna, and the Three Ambassadors are prominent among Harris' entertainers.

● The 225 club springs a surprise by announcing Fannie Brice as its new star, beginning tonight. This marks the famous comedienne's first appearance on a night club program. Other entertainers on the new bill are Sheila Bennett, in her first Chicago appearance after New York successes; Grace and Charlie Herbert, returned favorites; Dario and Diane, ballroom dancers; Sammy Welsh, master of ceremonies, and Jules Stein's orchestra.

● Husk O'Hare's propagandist sends word that his band leader, at the Canton Tea garden, owns 47 shirts, no two of the same shade. His favorite, however, is melon pink.

● Margaret Conrad's concert ensemble, which supplies luncheon music in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel, consists of three violinists, a pianist and soprano soloist, a cellist, and a lady bass singer. . . . Curry, male member of the dance team of Curry and Joy, in the Boulevard room, started on his professional career after winning a Charleston contest as an amateur at the Trianon of Chicago.

● The pretty Chinese girl named Achi who succeeded Sally Rand as the dancer at the Café de la Paix of the Streets of Paris came to this country in 1929 from Soo-Chow, China. She quickly became a featured dancer with the Fanchon and Marco shows in cinema theaters. Then she entered the New York night clubs and also made a European tour. She has also had a fling at the drama in "East Wind," a melodrama that was acted briefly in New York.

● Chez Paree will have a two-star, double-grand opening next Friday evening. Harry Richman, who led the high jinks in this night club for fourteen weeks last spring and summer, is returning, with Vincent Lopez, peerless leader of dance orchestras, as his associate. A seasonal feature of the new show will be an elaborately costumed football song. Marhea Merryfield, red-headed interpretative dancer, will be prominent on the program.

● The Café de Alex, gay restaurant in the Fair grounds opposite the Chrysler building, is celebrating the passing of summer with a new cabaret program called "Autumn Varieties." Among the entertainers are Miss Gene Myles, singer and tap dancer; Gail Gipp, singer and accordionist; the Three Debutantes, pretty young dancing girls; Dorothy Hanford, solo dancer, in classic and jazz numbers, and Dorothy Taggart, operetta prima donna.

● Faith Bacon, featured in the floor show in Hollywood-at-the-Fair, is a fan dancer who can say truthfully, "I did it first and didn't get arrested." She helped Earl Carroll establish the word "Vanities" as a revue trademark. . . . "The Gay Nineties" is now the movie play on view, in the flesh and before the camera, in this concession. Its cast includes Grant Withers, Jane Starr, Vernon Rikard, Frank Delamine, Stanley Carter, and Nick Basil.

● Jennie Quigley, in the show at the Midget village, is a veteran of Lilliputian entertainment. She is 83 years old and can produce old playbills proving that she toured this country with the Royal Midgets in 1891.

● Fritzi Bey, a fan dancer said to be of Turkish origin, has joined the elaborate cabaret show in the Old Mexico café at the Fair and is winning popularity. This entertainment has a long list of performers with exotic names and backgrounds, including Sondrea, a Persian shawl dancer; Inez Gamble, a flame dancer; Tina and Nocha, Ruby Rossina, and Amelia Morales.

● The Frolics café, oldest night club in Chicago, is again in action with a cabaret entertainment containing Al Belasco's orchestra, Irene Park, a new fan dancer; Mary Stone, soubrette; Marie and Elliott, dancers; Diane Quellian, French prima donna, and Cecile Blair, acrobatic dancer. . . . Al Tearney's Playground café is featuring Jack Walsh and Willie Shore, with Dolores Drake as the inevitable fan dancer. . . . The 100 club's cast now consists of Billy Grey, Ray Bourbon, female impersonator; Marion Kingston, dancer; the Royce Trio, Ginger Pearson, and the Three Handkerchief Dancers.

● Wayne King will take his band back to the Aragon ballroom Oct. 7, to stay there for the rest of the season. C. C.

ARGENTINE DANCER

This lovely Spaniard or Argentine is the successor to the lady who is known as Yolanda as danseuse for the entertainment in the Empire room of the Palmer house. Donna is the name she goes by. Her partner is called Medrano. [Maurice Seymour Photo.]

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

By George Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—Charles R. Rogers, producer at Paramount, says the racket of "gag thieves" who attend previews of new films and wire jokes or funny situations to New York vaudeville act brokers is becoming so serious that he is advising producers to hold no more public previews except at out of the way theaters in nearby towns, where the idea robbers may be evaded.

● George Kaufman, playwright and co-author of "Once in a Lifetime"; Gilbert Seldes, writer on international affairs; Marc Connelly, playwright, and Irving Pichel, movie actor-director, all were schoolmates at Central High in Pittsburgh.

● Since Max Baer has sunk a portion of his movie profits from "Prizefighter and the Lady" in down payment on a 16 cylinder cream colored sport phaeton Detroit motor, which the auto salesman guaranteed to "outshow" any other machine in Hollywood, the question seems to be what girl will ride in it? It probably won't be Dorothy Dunbar, his film actress wife, for Max and Dorothy have gone into another of their marital cleavages.

● Cast and technical force on the "Lost Patrol" company were in camp in the Colorado river sand dunes, eating lunch, when a ragged looking hitch hiker collapsed near them and was carried into camp. He told of hitch hiking all the way from Florida to try to get some word of his mother, last heard of in Long Beach, Cal., prior to the March earthquake. The movie troupe took up a collection to send the youth the rest of his journey by bus, but John Ford, the director, decided he looked too weak to travel just then and invited him to spend the night and have breakfast with the gang. That night the stranger became delirious. Becoming alarmed, Ford ordered him sent to the El Centro county hospital by auto, post haste. Hearing this, the lad recovered at once and said he didn't want to bother them to send him to El Centro. The reason became quickly apparent. He had that morning been discharged from El Centro jail.

"Too bad he was a jailbird," Ford commented later. "As good an actor as he was, I'd have been tempted otherwise to sign him."

● A third comedy player, Jim Gleason, has been added to "Once Over Lightly," the Zasu Pitts-Pert Kelton vehicle at Radio.

● Following her current rôle in "Penthouse," M-G-M has rewarded Martha Sleeper with a new term contract.

● "Jumper dresses will be smart this season," says Travis Banton, Paramount style designer. He suggests that jumpers of wool or wool crêpe in navy, brown, or black will be popular because they can be worn with blouses of all sorts of harmonizing shades and styles.

● Three Pawley brothers, William, Edward, and 20 year old Anthony, all of whom played in "Subway Express," are now in movies. Ed, who was with Janet Gaynor in "Tess of the Storm Country," now has a Fox contract and is with El Brendel in "Olsen's Night Out." Bill was in "Bad Girl" with Sally Eilers, and also got a Fox contract. Now Anthony has joined them and is playing minor parts.

● George O'Brien got reminiscent yesterday and admitted one of his first film jobs was that of a $5 slave in "Ten Commandments," in which he lifted the high priestess and set her down on the back of the golden calf. "But I got a little rattled," George confesses, "and lifted her about two feet above the calf's back, setting Miss Taylor down so hard it almost jarred her teeth loose."

O'Brien, who now is one of Hollywood's veteran actors and its "ace" cowboy money maker, says that besides himself those who helped carry the golden calf were Kid McCoy, the old time prize fighter, who has since then been convicted on a manslaughter charge and served his sentence in San Quentin; Mervyn Leroy, the midget director of Warner Brothers' successes; Theodore Von Eltz, leading man and official for last week's series of international tennis matches between Americans, British, Australians, and Japanese here, and Jack Padgen, who was then and still is a great cowboy rider.

● Everett Crosby, Bing's brother and manager, has a new nickname. It originated in the multitude of people who stopped him and then said, annoyedly, "O, you're the wrong Crosby."

● Returning travelers from New Orleans and not a press agent convey the news that Maurice Chevalier, now on his way back to France, endowed the Warrington house in New Orleans, the mansion where King Louis Philippe once stayed, which is now a home for out of luck American boys, with a radio and other donations.

● A locket which his wife, Jobyna Ralston, gave Richard Arlen when he made "Wings"—before they were married—Arlen still wears around his neck.

● Harpo Marx says things are getting so tough that motorists are picking up hitch hikers and robbing them.

● Patsy O'Bryne, enacting Alice's aunt in Paramount's "Alice in Wonderland," has to wear one of those pre-nineties costumes that includes an enormous bustle. After struggling for hours to get her bustle adjusted she finally sewed on buttons and wore it with a pair of men's suspenders.

TWO GREAT ACTORS IN A NEW PHOTOPLAY

B'way Openings

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—[Special.]—The Theater Guild will launch its first production of the new season this week with George M. Cohan and Eugene O'Neill as its features. Here are the new playbills:

"Ah, Wilderness!"—Opens Monday night at the Guild's theater. This is the latest play by Eugene O'Neill and with it the Theater Guild persuaded Broadway's own song and dance man to adopt the toga of a leading actor in a work other than his own. The setting is the New England that Mr. O'Neill has viewed before, but this outlook isn't quite so gloomy. Associated with Mr. Cohan in the cast are Elisha Cook Jr., Eda Heinemann, Marjorie Marquis, Walter Vonnegut, Richard Sterling, Adelaide Bean, Gene Lockhart, Ruth Holden, and Ruth Chorpenning.

"Undesirable Lady."—Opens Tuesday night at the National theater. Leon Gordon, who wrote "White Cargo," is both the author and the producer of this play and Nancy Carroll has temporarily forsaken the cinema to take part in it. Among the others are Lee Baker, Edward Leiter, Leo Kennedy, W. W. Shuttleworth, and Donald Campbell.

New Vaudeville Programs

Lou Holtz—The Broadway comedy star, for his second week, offers new wisecracks and sketches in association with his assistant, H. Leopold Shawowsky.

June Knight—She has enjoyed some acclaim on Broadway as a singing beauty of the last "Follies" and "Take a Chance." She comes to Chicago as the latest music-film star, having performed with credit in two new movies as yet unreleased—"Ladies Must Love" and "Take a Chance."

Lew Pollack—A composer of popular songs, assisted by Evelyn Dean, Sylvia and Bobby, Alice Miller, and Jack Kerr.

Joe Wong—A Chinese boy who croons after the fashion set by Rudy Vallee, Bing Crosby, and Russ Columbo.

Maidie and Ray—They dance and frolic as westerners.

The Chicago theater's current program of stage entertainment includes: Pat Rooney and his son, Frank and Harry Seaman, Raymond Baird, the Evans ballet, and Sally Rand in her final week.

The vaudeville bill at the State-Lake theater this week consists of: Sammy Cohen, comedian, assisted by Doris Roche, singer and dancer of the Chicago cabarets; Mac and Bob, radio singers; Nash and Fately, in a comic skit; the Four O'Connors, a song and dance team; Karre, Le Barron and company, dancers, and Verne Buck's revue orchestra.

Personality of Miss Cornell Behind Scenes

First American Actress Likes Golf, Dogs, Books and a Quiet Life.

KATHARINE CORNELL, the actress-manager, likes to watch crowds. Railroad stations fascinate her. She dramatizes the people she sees, invents stories about them, minor tragedies, major comedies. She enjoys sitting in an automobile at the curb of a street, scanning the faces of passers-by, imagining the lives they lead. Sitting in a theater box office, listening to the comments of ticket buyers, observing their faces, while she is unseen, absorbs her.

But much as she relishes people at a distance, she wants to be outside looking on. She is oppressed when she becomes part of a crowd. Any formal social function with strangers is an ordeal she seldom will consent to endure. She is shy, nervous, unhappy unless she knows well the people about her.

She lives only for the theater and she lives in the theater. Actors who leave the stage behind them when they slam the stage door are not her kind. She carries the theater into her private life so that there scarcely is a distinguishing line where one begins and the other ends. This breaks into evidence in many strange little ways.

Character Governs Her Coiffure.

There is her hair, for instance. It is not the mode of the day which governs the Cornell coiffure, but the character she at the time is acting. If her rôle, as it did in Edith Wharton's "The Age of Innocence," demands bangs, Cornell wears them, on and off stage. When she was acting Elizabeth Barrett, who had to have curls, she had them. This is not affectation. It is a combination of lack of interest or vanity in her offstage appearance and the expediency for makeup.

Miss Cornell likes sports—some sports. She walks with a fine stride. She rarely misses a game of golf when she can get one, and she plays it with zest. She loves the country and during her New York engagements she motors back and forth from the theater to her cottage on the Hudson. She is fond of animals, particularly dogs and horses. Flush, Elizabeth's dog in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," is her constant companion.

But whether she is in the country or in town, she thinks constantly of the theater. She reads innumerable plays. She never tires of talking "shop." When she is rehearsing a new rôle she is in the theater before any one else and is the last to leave it. She never is late for rehearsal.

No Poses or Attitudes.

She strikes no pose and assumes no attitude. Back of the scenes there are no outbursts of temperament, but she can be a martinet where the play and the performance are concerned. She is as exacting of others as she is of herself.

When she is on tour she leases a house or an apartment where she can "keep house." She lives simply, but likes good food. Her home is uncluttered with "things." She dreads possessions in the fear that in the end they will possess her.

She works jig-saw puzzles and plays bridge and backgammon. She likes heat in winter. Backstage must be kept very warm for her. She loathes writing, even notes, but when she gives an autograph it is her own and not her secretary's. Most of her correspondence is dictated. She prefers the telephone for communications.

She never has appeared in a play she did not want to act and she feels that every rôle she has played has contributed to such progress and development as she has made in the theater. She is a keen judge of acting, but she seldom is able to go to any theater except the one she is playing in.

Play for Nancy Carroll.

The scene for "Undesirable Lady," in which Nancy Carroll will return to the stage, runs grimly from Minneapolis to a trapper's cabin in the wilderness. Act 1 is in a law office in the city and Miss Carroll is a murderess. Acts 2 and 3 are in the cabin.

HISTORIETTE

MAE WEST is a Brooklynite. Her birthday is Aug. 17. Miss West's parents were theatrical people and little Mae made her professional debut at the age of 5 years. She spent some years in vaudeville. Her Broadway debut was accomplished at the "Folies Bergere" in New York. She later appeared in "A La Broadway," "Vera Violetta" and "A Winsome Widow."

Back to vaudeville doing imitations of George M. Cohan and Eddie Foy. Later she was featured in Ned Wayburn's "Demi-tasse Revue" and "The Mimic World." She then wrote and appeared in plays of her own, "Sex," "The Wicked Age" and "Diamond Lil." Her next two plays, "The Drag" and "Pleasure Man," proved too sensational for New York and had only brief runs. Miss West did not appear in either of these productions.

The picture "She Done Him Wrong," adapted from "Diamond Lil," proved a big box office success and now Miss West is enjoying quite a vogue. The lady is blonde and weighs 119 pounds. Her hobby she says is "just living."

Cousin Eve Finds World's Fair Center of Social Whirlpool

In Lieu of Sending an Exhibit, France Dispatches Her Ambassador to Pin Red Legion of Honor Ribbons Upon Distinguished Chicagoans.

By COUSIN EVE.

CHICAGO and A Century of Progress, both going strong! Wonderful to be home for the last weeks of the Fair with such a parade of dignitaries, ambassadors, scientists, and such. One is stunned all over again at the crass coloring of the buildings and their wild assault upon the senses.

Instead of a French exhibit at the Fair (the promised Hotel de Sens et Carnavalet) we have the French ambassador, Andre de Laboulaye, and his attractive wife. A slender man, not tall, long featured, and with a weary air, he scatters red ribbons of the Legion d'Honneur. But with a hand of steel under the velvet glove, one opines, he looks so terrifically clever. President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern; Arthur Allais, for many years backbone of the Alliance Française in Chicago, and Chauncey McCormick for gallantry in war service in France, were all honored. I sat in at one of these investitures when Carter H. Harrison did the honors for the alliance in the absence of President Robert Hall McCormick, still in Italy. There was operatic singing of our mutual national anthems, and much handshaking Indeed, far too much.

Brazilian Revolutionist Honored.

Another significant gathering, tea with Brazil in the Federal building at the Fair. Mr. De Lucca, Brazilian consul general, does the honors, and one meets Rufus and Mrs. Dawes, Grant Smith protocoling, the Harry News, and other official people all there to meet a dashing, pretty leader of a successful revolution, Mrs. James Miller of Brazil. In a Joan of Arc voice she apostrophizes us as a people till I almost feel like revoluting myself. She introduced a fellow revolutionary, Senhor Alberto Cavallio, a quiet mousey man, good looking, but quiescent. Probably it takes two to make a good revolution nowadays. But I am, however, all for Mrs. Miller, dressed like a dream in vividest blue, tiny hat on glossy black hair, diamonds, red lips, white skin. We women nowadays don't have to be sans culottes in order to be patriots.

Music at this party was delivered by Pane-Gasser, tenor, and a whole flock of marimba players, this alluring instrument being a first cousin or perhaps the grandmother of the xylophone.

Opera Has Scintillating Cast.

Another surprise was the delightful San Carlo opera now doing at the Auditorium. Going one night early in the season, I was electrified by the small stage, clever as the Opera Comique in Paris; the fresh costumes, splendid orchestra and, above all, by the young and beautiful voices. Not a dull moment.

On Sunday I had lunch in the country, a divine sort of gray day. One guest was Koyke San, sensational guest-artist now singing "Madame Butterfly" with the company. A young and witty person, she is absolutely unique and, according to Isaac

Sauce for the Goose

By D—— D——.

"HELLO, Oklahoma City! How do you like the Fair?" cried a couple of merrymakers in the Oriental village, slapping a quiet little man on the back. But it was the merrymakers' mistake, for the butt of their joke was an undistinguished looking but powerful British shipping man.

● Did you ever wonder why Dr. Julia Strawn always wears mitts in the evening? She explained it once by saying that when she was a very little girl she saw at a dinner table a fat woman with freckled hands, and she thought them so ugly that she determined then and there never to expose her hands at dinner parties.

● "I'm older than you are," said young Scotty to Mary and Haynes, who are a little older. "You're not," they answered in unison. "Anyhow, I'm bigger," retorted Scotty. "You're not," the twosome chorused again. "Well, I look bigger to myself," complacently said Scotty. There'll be no inferiority complex in that young man's makeup.

● "You should be in the movies!" was the praise a distinguished looking elderly gentleman bestowed upon Chauncey McCormick the other night after Mr. McCormick had introduced the French ambassador at the Art institute reception. This was only one of many admiring remarks made to Mr. McCormick extolling the beauty of his diction and the handsome figure he made in his tail coat.

● Apropos this same reception, Charles S. Peterson got a loud round of applause when he said that all the paintings included in A Century of Progress exhibit were owned by Americans except one, and that one was painted by an American. The Louvre museum in Paris lent Whistler's "Portrait of the Artist's Mother," perhaps the most looked for picture in the exhibit. Each day at the institute one overhears naïve remarks about this famous portrait. It remained for a small boy, however, to give the greatest thrill to the armed guard who stands beside the masterpiece. The boy's mother was urging him to hasten. She went on to the next picture, but the child remained in front of Whistler's "Mother," his mouth wide and his eyes never leaving the face of the dignified lady in black and gray. The mother called him and, without taking his eyes from the picture, he answered: "O, mom, wait a minute. I may hear her whistle!"

● So many easterners and foreigners who visit our hospitable city go away and make such ungracious and unpleasant remarks about us that it is nice to hear what a young easterner, here to usher in a large wedding, said. He comes from Delaware's largest city and is a nephew of one of Chicago's meat packers. "I am amazed and surprised to find such lavish hospitality and such a spirit of welcome and cordiality in the middle west. It is either that you have more money to spend on wedding festivities or, as I suspect, you know better how to do it than we do back east."

GLAMOUR

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

The charm, intellect and popularity of Mrs. Frank Parker, wife of Maj. Gen. Parker of the Sixth Corps area, have won her a place on Chicago's roster of its most glamorous women. Mrs. Parker, a distinguished French scholar, who has lived abroad much of her life, is famous for the brilliant salons over which she has presided in various parts of the world. She leaves shortly for the Philippines, where her husband is about to be stationed.

Miss Donnelly Presents Second in Glamour Series

Finds Mrs. Frank Parker's Charm Would Adorn the Most Brilliant Salon; General's Wife Has Rare Intellectual Attainment, Dignity and Modesty.

By ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

IT was a brilliant dinner occasion in Washington. Distinguished representatives from all parts of the globe were present. Lord Balfour spoke. Ex-President Taft spoke. Speech followed upon speech. The hour grew late. The audience began to droop and grow restless from long hours of sitting—and listening. The chairman arose and announced his regret that a certain featured speaker was unable to be present. "But," he added, looking over to the right side of the room, "we have with us this evening one whom I know you will be delighted to hear speak a few words." The one demurred. She shook her head, pleading to be excused. The applause persisted until Lady Nancy Astor had to rise and talk.

"The electrifying effect on that 'wilted' audience was so instantaneous, so positive, every one was so immediately revitalized," said Mrs. Frank Parker, who related the incident, "that that must be what you mean by a glamorous woman."

Personality of Mme. Sze Outshone Jewels.

Another Washington occasion at which the charming wife of Maj. Gen. Frank Parker was present gives a fresh idea of glamour. This was a social event. The great ballroom was crowded with beautiful women beautifully jeweled and beautifully dressed. Presently there arrived the then Chinese ambassador and Mme. Sze. There was a profound hush.

"Mme. Sze was dressed in a magnificent Chinese costume, with jewels of startling beauty. Unusual personal beauty she possessed, too. But it was the woman herself who rose above costume and jewels and entranced those of us present," Mrs. Parker related. "And that, again," she argued, "must be glamour."

Intellectual Attainments Heighten Glamour.

The glamour of rare intellectual attainment, fine dignity, and engaging modesty surrounds the wife of Maj. Gen. Parker, commandant of the Sixth corps area, with headquarters at Chicago. One somehow likes to picture Mrs. Parker, a distinguished French scholar, presiding over a salon patronized by the interesting, the unusual, and the intellectual minds of the day.

She has the charm, the decorative qualities, the mind, and the popularity one associates with glamorous French salon history. Her hostess duties as the wife of a general in an important post keep her in contact with distinguished visitors from all parts of the world. Mrs. Parker has lived abroad much of the time—in Paris, in China, and other countries. Presently the Philippines, to which her husband is being moved, will be favored with this popular woman's presence.

Children Plan Stage Careers.

On Saturday evening the military forces of the Sixth corps area are bidding the Parkers a reluctant farewell with an elaborate military reception at the Army and Navy club here.

Mrs. Parker is the mother of two charming girls. One daughter, Anne, was presented at the Court of St. James's last spring. The other daughter, Kathryn, was voted the most beautiful girl at Smith college last year. Both girls are planning stage careers, lending a further glamorous touch to an unusually glamorous family.

Capital Cluttered Up with Codifiers and Congressmen

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30—(Special.)—Returning reluctantly from our holiday (if you'd give me half a chance I'd boast that we motored the 761 miles from Chicago in one continuous jaunt), I found the capital cluttered with two phenomena: Traffic lights and congressmen.

Come to think of it, both are typical of the new times in Washington.

The many new traffic lights signalize, far more than the automatic change from red to green, the change of the town from a smallish community to a bustling city. Where, not so long ago, diplomats bowed over teacups in hotel restaurants, today business men from Maine to Mexico shout statistics about codes as they guzzle their coffee. Where, a few short months ago, taxi drivers carried sightseers out to Mount Vernon, today the taxis are busy hurrying industrialists over to the NRA headquarters. Even the more elegant hotels have guests who saunter about in shirt sleeves, keep their hats on in the ladies' lounge, and leave their spoon in their cup. So the traffic lights, springing up overnight, indicate the progress, if such it be, to the big city.

● As for the congressmen: The town is full of them. When the last congress passed the lame duck amendment which postpones the opening of congress from the first Monday in December to the first week in January, we all thought, or rather we would have thought, if we had given it a thought, that the boys would stay home until after Christmas. But we overlooked the fact that home is not particularly hospitable these days. For most of the boys are Democrats and therefore their constituents are hounding them for jobs. The jobs aren't forthcoming; so the congressmen find the Washington climate, for all its heat, more mellow than the temperature down on the farm or in the home village.

● The Democratic congressmen are crowding the town just now. Later, along about next spring, it's the Republican congressmen who are going to want to tarry in Washington. Particularly those Republicans who are up for re-election. It will be easier, they reckon, to fight the good fight of a campaign with remote control from Washington. A prominent middle west senator (Republican) told me recently that he hoped the President would keep congress in session all next summer. His argument: "The other fellow can't say nearly such mean things about you if you're away, especially if you

Castruccio Pleaded For an Exhibit.

Italy continues to heap celebrities upon us. Today Marquis Marconi lunches with the Italy-America members at the Casino, also the marchesa, his beautiful young wife. Italy is the only great European power to participate in Chicago's Fair, and this is owing to Consul General Castruccio, who made a special trip to Rome to lay the project before the Duce, who had already declined to take part.

Consul General Castruccio is himself a flying man, a former ace, and it is also owing to him that the Atlantic squadron arrived at the World's Fair in July, bringing hundreds of thousands of people within our gates.

About that—a sidelight, for I was in Rome at the time: I hear now that the petted beauties of Chicago thought the Duce should have sent a flock of tall, slim, aristocratic flyers (gigolos perhaps) and not the sturdy air heroes, air minded, who made the illustrious flight.

English Lad Rendered "I Cover the Waterfront."

This takes me back a fortnight or so to last days in Italy and scattered moments here and there that will stand forth always. At Lake Como were traces of Chicago. Mrs. Richard T. Crane had just gone. We left Como with the full moon—with what pictures of high, enfolding mountains and ever changing lake!—silvery, black depths. The Bellevue, an old fashioned, rather magnificent inn, is on the water, all but a sort of high road running under its august nose.

Every morning a man's voice from the water wakened me singing "I Cover the Waterfront," a mournful caterwaul, evidently from some English undergraduate, for the place was swarming with British and their cars, maids, dogs, valets, friends.

Lake Como's Salmon Delicious, 1479-1933.

They dined at night in the wisteria arbor set with charming little lakes on Como's very brink, in evening frocks, and with the black tie. And will do so probably until the world blows up. There were sirs, a lord or two, an M. P., a Lady Beatrice, full of noble affectation, and two charming members of the Baring family, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Baring. Also the inevitable clergyman, with his mouth full of hot mush preaching in the handsome church where lie buried Laurence Oliphant, the novelist, and all his immediate family.

Here we had salmon trout, both hot and cold, a divine edible delicately pink, perfect food. So evidently thought Lodovico Sforza, duke of Milan, in 1479. A letter from him to the Duca d'Este thanking profusely for salmon trout from Lake Garda, sent happily on a Friday, so that he might eat them fresh.

Hostess Kept Carlo—and All Other Men—for Herself.

The last day at luncheon under the shade plane trees, backed by a wall of ivy, a long table was laid out with flowers, and a dozen or so attractive looking people came in. The hostess, a tall, pretty woman, very smart, had the idea of seating her guests by inspiration. "May, you there, and Tiny next, and then Bebe, and Ruby here and Lily there, and Carlo here by me." Until finally all the women were massed together and the hostess had all the beaux for herself. "No, no, give me Carlo," shrieked somebody in anguish. "No," said the hostess firmly, "Carlo must sit by me." I thought Carlo was a dog, but he turned out to be a very mild little old Italian duca. From their voices I soon knew all the others to be American. Also from their talk, which was uniquely of the Cambio or exchange, particularly rotten on that day. These Americans were the owners of or were living in the beautiful villas, shelved exotically on varying levels of the deep lake. Expatriates!

Coming away on the boat we passed close to the ancient villa and gardens of Butler Ames of Boston on a wooded peninsula. Near it the small, remote villa sold to Henry Winthrop, now living in Paris. The Ames house, a rusty orange, is in two parts, one towering four stories beyond the other. Very beautiful ancient steps and landings descend to the water. And gray enameled trunks of plane trees, tall, dark, green cypresses, glossy magnolias, and thick, velvety cedars make a garden of romantic simplicity and beauty. Ivy and wisteria drape the balustrades to the water's edge.

In the shade, just above the lake on a landing, sat Mrs. Ames with guests, the finishing human touch.

Rome Was Capital of Europe This Summer.

Italy has made great strides in two years, visible to the eye, but probably in a political sense most striking.

This summer Rome was the vibrating capital of Europe, everything and everybody seemed falling into her lap—the four power treaty, signed there, Gen. Balbo's flight settling who's who in aviation.

The lira had more pep than any European currency. And a line of prime ministers and special envoys striving to see Mussolini was forming at the left.

Cheap railway fares had filled the country with travelers and the prospects were fine for millions from the sale of Italian sea planes.

Add the gorgeous physical beauty of the new Three-in-One Rome—the aloof, historic papal city, the lately uncovered Rome of the Cæsars, and finally the modern Rome of Mussolini, framing grandeurs of the past and possibilities of the future. New streets, splendid Via Impero; at right angles, Via San Gregorio, running by the Coliseum and under the Arch of Constantine, and opened by Balbo walking wreathed in laurel with his men, as did victorious generals in days of the Cæsars.

Il Duce Works His Head Off —and Followers Do Likewise.

At this high stepping epoch my card was left at the foreign office for an audienza with the Duce, as he had invited me to do on my last visit. A week passed. Prime ministers were piling up at the hotels—Turkish, Lithuanian, Hungarian, German, British, and Dollfuss from Austria with his troubles. Also Daladier, a soviet man, and smaller fry. Then came a friendly message from the Duce—he could absolutely not see me until after Aug. 27, over a month away. That day Mussolini took over the war ministry, his jobs also being home, foreign, corporations, and chairman of the council of ministers.

They said at the foreign office that it was unthinkable the way the Capo del Governo was working.

Then came rules of conduct from the duce for Fascist officials. A bit monastic, perhaps, but sound. No smart cars, preferably motorcycles and tin lizzies. No night clubs, no cabarets. No white shirts. The black shirt is really stunning, especially with white linen suits.

And, above all, not to be little brothers of the rich but big brothers of the poor. In short, Fascists must not get topheavy or it would be too bad.

Venerable Convent Sacrificed to Growing Foreign Office.

Forgetting these intriguing matters, I drove with the beautiful Duchessa di Grazioli to Montalto, her villa at Frascati. While passing a lovely sixteenth century convent near the Forum the duchess said it seemed a pity it must go to make way for the new foreign office. So great is the rush of foreign affairs to Italy they have outgrown the huge Chigi palace in the Corso.

Bowling along, the aqueducts on our left, meeting many long horned white oxen hauling hay, soon the Alban hills loomed ahead and in the bright glare Frascati was a bright splash on the hillside.

Over it towered Villa Aldobrandini in proud distinction. At the right the pink, yellow Montalto clinging for centuries to its rocky base among glorious trees. Built by Pope Sixtus V. for his nephew, Montalto, it is a perfect example, inside and out, of the lovely architecture of that remote period.

Italians Confiscate Castle Bought by Ex-Kaiser.

On the mountain back of Frascati we could see a great statue of marble. This was a part of a private memorial garden belonging to the venerable Princess Lancellotti, mother of the duchess, and she had asked permission to drive to this remote spot.

On the way we followed wooded roads and passed three villas belonging to the Lancellottis, among the oldest and most powerful of Roman families. One villa was "Falconieri," bought secretly by William Hohenzol-

Some Debs Find Charity Work an Irksome Duty

Washing East Side Babies, They Dream of Junior Assemblies Autumn Ball.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—Quite a few of our debutantes each year aren't at all interested in charitable work, and think that washing an east side baby is far from thrilling sport. However, since all this sort of thing is part of the duties of a provisional member of the Junior league, they are willing to pop into out of the way hospitals and clinics and pose in cap and apron for the benefit of the photographers.

Being a member of the Junior league is all very well, and something that will be of comfort in years to come—but during her one and only deb year the bud is more concerned with getting bids to both the Junior assemblies and to the noted autumn ball at Tuxedo Park which graces the Halloween period.

Blue Bloods Only Dance at Junior Assemblies.

It is a moot question as to which is the more important—the Juniors or the ball—but I incline to the former. If one can wangle a bid to the trio of dances at the Ritz which this season take place on Dec. 1, Jan. 5, and Feb. 2, then one can live down not having been asked to swanky Tuxedo. To be left out of both immediately relegates a girl to the ordinary ranks of society.

The possession of money, which is all one needs to be "of" society these days, doesn't count for much in making the assemblies. The list of fortunates who will be permitted to subscribe to the dances is carefully compiled, and a girl must have more than just "of" to be accepted. The committee in charge of nominations is a notable one, active individually in social matters and highly placed as regards lineage. This year they are Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Mrs. Richard C. Colt, Mrs. M. Walker Rogers, Mrs. Walter Phelps Bliss, Mrs. Harry T. Peters, Mrs. Adrian V. S. Lambert, Mrs. George S. Brewster, and Mrs. Edwin G. Merrill. When these ladies have finished with the inevitable blue pencil the resultant list may be regarded as including every four star debutante of the season 1933-'34.

Social Graces May Help One Get to Tuxedo's Ball.

Tuxedo's autumn ball, which takes place on Oct. 28, is not so determinedly social, and allowance is made for debutantes from other cities as well as from Gotham.

The colony on the Jersey side of the river is a vary hard place to crash socially, but its members have a warm spot in their hearts for girls with social graces, even if their social lineage is a shade under par.

Mrs. George B. St. George, admittedly the social leader, is a kindly person and a good mixer, and not given to looking too determinedly down her nose. With such gay help as Mrs. Morgan Hamilton can offer, and with Mrs. L. Havemeyer Butt, Mrs. E. Roland N. Harriman, and Mrs. Herbert Reed Winslow standing by, the list of girls invited to the ball will guarantee that fun will be the order of the evening, and that while all the most noted girls are asked, a few will also come who will have their personality and popularity to thank for their invitations rather than the blue bloodedness of their elders.

There will be many interesting folk in town this fall and winter. And they will be the more welcome since they bring with them something of the leisurely attitude that European society not only affects, but possesses.

The Drexels are among the comers as well as the goers. Anthony Drexel Jr. has just departed for Paris, and his brother, John R. Drexel Sr., is just arrived.

ALL WORK, NOT MUCH PLAY

are doing your job in Washington. Besides, if you do get licked, you're a martyr to your job."

- That story about Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, telling the reception room girl in one of his own departments that he was "the secretary," and her reply, "Whose secretary?" brings to mind an incident that took place a few weeks after Mr. Ickes had come to the cabinet. It was at a party. The wife of a Chicago politician was there. Presently a man came in. Everybody called him "Harold," seemed to know and like him well. Presently the woman turned to him and said, "Mr. Ickes, what newspaper do you work for here in Washington?" "Madame," responded Mr. Ickes right genially, "I am a member of the cabinet."

- Señora de Espil [Chicago's Courtney Letts Borden, who recently married the Argentine ambassador here] is not only one of the most comely in the diplomatic set; she is the youngest ambassadress in town.

- This story is a little late in reaching me. When the delegation sailed for the London economic conference last June, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Cordell Hull asked the deck steward to give them chairs in a sequestered place on the boat, far from the crowd. They were assigned chairs in a quiet little nook, where only six chairs could be placed. Everything was fine. But just as they were setting down into their steamer rugs, the first day, they spied the name on the adjacent chair. It was that of Celeste Jedell, secretary to Ray Moley, who was, at that time, assistant secretary of state, to the not very great delight of Mr. Hull. The Hulls took one look at the name, left their chairs, and never occupied them during the voyage.

- During the world war two journalists met in Santiago, Chile. One was the short, dark haired Señor Don Benjamin Cohen of Chile; the other was the tall, quiet Hal Sevier, owner and editor of the Austin [Tex.] American.

Yesterday the two met at luncheon. Neither is a newspaper man now. The dark eyed señor is chargé d'affaires at the Chilean embassy here. The tall gentleman is newly appointed ambassador to Chile. As they sat and exchanged reminiscences both diplomats seemed to think that journalism was frequently just as exciting as diplomacy.

Corsets by Saks

PRESENTING

the new fall models in corsets to define and emphasize trim youthful contours

The feminine figure doesn't change, but fashionable interest concentrates from season to season on ideal types. Today the emphasis of fashion is on the rounded youthful figure. Smart costumes are made for the slender hips, narrow waist and high bustline, and clever corseting by a nice process of emphasis and restraint gives the definite effect of an ideal figure.

The staff of corsetiers at Saks-Fifth Avenue Salon is quick and intelligent in adapting to each individual type of figure the fine and often exclusive creations now on display.

Railroads Offer "Cent a Mile" Back Home Trips

"The first back home excursion of the autumn affords Chicago an opportunity to take advantage of round trip coach fares that are reduced nearly to one cent a mile," H. W. Siddall, chairman of the Western Passenger association, said yesterday.

Destinations will include points north, northwest, west, southwest, south, and southeast. Tickets will be sold for certain morning trains of Oct. 6, all afternoon and evening trains of that date, all trains of Oct. 7, and some morning trains of Oct. 8.

On the return trip tickets will be honored on trains leaving destination by midnight Monday, Oct. 9, except from points in the south, southwest, and southeast, where the final return limit is Oct. 16.

"With the vacation season officially over," Mr. Siddall added, "these back home fares will give another chance to get away for an enjoyable weekend or perhaps an opportunity for a long deferred visit with relatives or friends."

It has been only three years since the latest Passion Play at Oberammergau, but another one is announced for next summer. This one will mark the tercentenary.

Not the least unusual feature of the 1934 spectacle will be the fact that the agony on the cross will be depicted in a country ruled over by, and following the teachings of, Adolf Hitler.

- Americans visiting Java on one of those world cruises next winter will find where dragon's blood comes from. If they are under the impression that it comes from a dragon, such as appears in one of the Wagner operas and in Chinese ceremonial festivities, they will learn better. Dragon's blood is a red colored resin derived from the fruit of a rattan palm, it is used to color varnishes and lacquers, and it is one of Java's leading exports.

Krugar National park, world's largest reserve for wild animals, has modern hotels, one with a nine hole golf course, and 600 miles of good roads. But the tourist agencies still warn that visitors enter the park at their own risk, and no one is permitted to travel after dark.*

Famous Curves of Mae West May Disappear

Rumor Says Film Actress Has Gone Into Clinic of Metabolism Expert.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—[Special.]—Dealing a death blow to the cherished hopes and dreams of those buxom women who were praying that the new Mae West era of curves and chubbiness was here to stay, Dame Rumor and the noted star of "She Done Him Wrong" and "I'm No Angel" captured the center of the stage in the Chicago colony here this week.

For well founded rumor had it that Mae West had placed herself under the care of Santa Barbara's international authority on metabolism, Dr. William Sansum, with but one idea in mind, that idea, of course, being to reduce and lessen those same alluring curves that first brought on the fond hopes. Attachés of Dr. Sansum's clinic steadfastly denied the star was here, but reliable sources insist that if she is not already in the city she will arrive next week.

But even such a bombshell as that failed to take away attention from the parade of arrivals and departures common to this between-season time of the year.

Chicago Polo Enthusiasts Visit.

Heading the procession of new arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. John T. de Blois Wack, prominent in Chicago and in polo circles here. They have been at their home in Newport, near Lake Champlain, for the summer, and will spend the winter in their Montecito home, Rancho del Bosque.

Then too, there is Mrs. Frederic S. Gould, who is due to return in the near future to her Sanleandro lane home after a summer tour in Italy.

Coming also for the winter season are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elting, of Chicago, with their daughter, Mrs. Joseph Donner. Expected on Oct. 15, they will occupy the Cold Springs road home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King of Chicago, which they have leased for the season. Mr. and Mrs. King, following a short stay in the Biltmore after closing their home, have left for Chicago after their annual visit here. Mrs. George Culver, Chicago, has arrived for a fall visit and is a guest at Hotel El Mirasol.

Among those who have returned to Chicago are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Ryerson and their three daughters, who spent a part of the summer at El Cerritto, their Hot Springs road home.

Mrs. James L. Carr of Montecito and her daughter, Peggy, are leaving for a month's visit with friends in Chicago, and will return here in a month.

Film Notables Make a Call.

Texas Guinan, wise-cracking New York and Chicago night club hostess; Jack Warner, one of the brothers Warner of film production fame; Warner Oland, William Collier Jr., William Powell, and Katharine Hepburn were among the film and stage celebrities visiting during the week.

Popular Miss Nancy Dickinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Dickinson of Chicago, who have an estate at Hope ranch here, was hostess at a dinner for eight in their Hope ranch home, later taking her guests to a barn dance given by the Santa Barbara girls' school.

Major and Mrs. Max C. Fleischmann returned from a cruise to northern waters aboard their yacht Haida with friends.

Ex-Governor and Wife Leave for New York.

Former governor and Mrs. R. Livingston Beeckman of Newport, Rhode Island, and Montecito, are leaving for a short visit in their home, New York, and Chicago. They will return to Montecito about Thanksgiving and will occupy the Meeker home on Valley road this winter.

Miss Eleanor Maxwell Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Davis, became the bride of Frank Carl Jakel in services conducted in the First Methodist church here during the week. They will make their home in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip M. Chancellor, who have been in Montecito since their marriage last spring in Germany, will leave this month for an extended stay in Hollywood.

Miss Noel Kennerly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude S. Kennerly of St. Louis, is in Woodside, Calif., a guest of Miss Marian Casey. She will return to Montecito shortly. The Kennerlys will not return east until later in the fall.

Col. and Mrs. Joseph H. Barnhard of Chicago have moved from Lavereda road to the Tuttle home on Picacho lane in Montecito recently purchased by them. Mr. and Mrs. Converse M. Converse, who have been occupying the home, are staying at the Biltmore hotel until their new home is completed.

Prince and Princess Orsini of Rome, and the latter's son, Robert Rowan, of Los Angeles, are guests at the Biltmore, as is L. Van Eighten of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chatfield Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Jameson, Mr. and Mrs. Girard Van Hale and Miss Marian Derham were hosts at theater parties at the Little School of the Theater in Montecito.

Finds Traces of Pygmies in No. Transvaal

CAPE TOWN.—That pygmies once lived in the northern Transvaal of Africa has been proved by recent finds of D. S. van der Merwe, assistant register of mining titles on the Rand. Ethnological experts at Witwatersrand university hail the discoveries as very important.

Among the finds are the forgotten works of a vanished race, including an extensive irrigation system and a large dam. An implement of the type used by ancient copper miners also has been uncovered. An altar, evidently made for sacrifices, was approached by causeways and stairways so small that they could be used only by very small persons.

Clews of Stone Age Civilization Found in West

BUTTE, Mont.—[U. P.]—Traces of a "stone age" civilization which apparently prevailed many centuries ago in northern Montana have been unearthed by Prof. H. M. Sayre of the Montana School of Mines.

Prof. Sayre, on a 1,400 mile exploraton trip through the northern, eastern, and central sections of the state, found hundreds of circles, eight to fifteen feet in diameter, made of stones. No evidence was obtainable regarding the use to which these circles might have been devoted..

He also investigated long rows of stones one to three feet high, which in some cases were a mile in length.

It is thought the stones were placed by a tribe that occupied the plains section before the Crow, Cheyenne, and Blackfeet Indians took over the territory. Ancient legends of the Blackfeet, referring to a tribe "that lived without fire," are believed to concern the stone builders.

Prof. Sayre also found a giant stone hammer, weighing more than twenty pounds—too large to have been wielded by a man of ordinary strength.

Near the town of Hinsdale, in northeastern Montana, the professor discovered a layer of buffalo bones three feet deep and eighteen feet wide. The bones lay at the bottom of a steep bluff. Prof. Sayre believes this to be evidence of a buffalo hunting ground used in a remote period—so remote it is not even chronicled in the legends of more modern tribes.

It was the custom of the Indians to drive buffalo over a sharp bluff or cliff during their hunting forages, then destroy the crippled animals with bows and arrows.

BRIDESMAIDS FOR THEIR CHILDHOOD FRIEND

"Two of the loveliest bridesmaids we have seen in many a year," is what every one was saying about Miss Gwendolyn Juergens and Miss Helen Marie Castle when they attended a childhood friend, Mrs. John Roderick Rogers, the former Peggy Glidden, at her wedding two weeks ago. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

When Chicago Was Young

THROUGH THE DECADES WITH THE MARTHAS

The Sober Seventies

BY HERMA CLARK

Gen. W. T. Sherman, leader in the civil war.

William Bross, an early editor of the TRIBUNE.

Former President Ulysses S. Grant.

Mark Twain, famed American author and humorist.

A letter from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend, Julia Boyd of New York. (Note: Herma Clark interrupts her story of the Eighties to review Chicago's century of social life. Martha Freeman Esmond—the second Martha in Chicago—writes today to Julia Boyd, the "Dear Julia" of the letter usually found in this column.)

Nov. 15, 1879.

DEAR JULIA: We are just beginning to catch our breath after the whirl of social events attending Gen. Grant's visit to Chicago last week.

I suppose there has never been offered to any one citizen of this country such a magnificent round of festivities as were given Gen. Grant here as a climax to his trip around the world. It must have been pleasant to the ex-President and his wife to be entertained at the home of their son, Col. Frederick Dent Grant, who lives at 751 Michigan avenue. The Potter Palmers entertained them, too. (Mrs. Palmer is a sister of Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, you know. They were the beautiful Honore girls.)

But the great event of the Grant visit here was, I suppose, the banquet given by the Army of the Tennessee. I didn't attend that, as it was purely a reunion of veterans, with some invited masculine guests, but Will has been describing it vividly for me, telling me of the men at the head table. I should like to have seen that group—the calm, unimaginative Grant, center of attention; the homely but spiritual looking David Swing; the picturesque and gallant Mayor Carter H. Harrison, elected only last spring; our own Gen. Sheridan; Gen. Sherman, with keen eyes and thin lips, and close cropped hair fast turning white; "Fighting Jack" Logan, with skin swarthy as an Indian's.

And I should like to have seen the tattered battle flags, hung all about. Will says the veterans were deeply moved at that sight, for they had not gazed on them since the days when they watched them as they moved across a hard won battlefield.

"Just pieces of cloth," says Will, "but tears streamed down our faces as we saw them hanging there, and I bawled with the best of them." I don't wonder. Tears start to my own eyes when I see flags carried in a procession and realize how much they have cost in blood and anguish.

Bob Ingersoll's speech was a gem, those who attended the banquet say, as his golden voice rang out in praise of the soldiers who "fought that a mother might own her child." The house rose and cheered him, Will says. Will is a great admirer of Col. Ingersoll and only wishes he were not an atheist, for he'd like to vote for him for President. He will never be nominated, of course, until he renounces that belief.

Mark Twain's speech about "Babies" was the humorous hit of the evening. Don't you like Mark Twain? I think his "Innocents Abroad" is extremely funny. His talk to the people at the Tennessee army banquet was so amusing that even Gen. Grant laughed till the tears streamed down his face. I love to hear men talk and tell stories.

We are nearing the end of the year, which means that this decade will soon be over. I call these years the "Sober Seventies," for as a city we have felt the chastening rod of providence. Do you think great calamities like our fire are sent by God as a punishment for wickedness? Will says: "Why blame the Lord because wood burns when fire reaches it?" And he quotes Luke 13:4 on the subject.

"Deacon" Bross says the fire has been a blessing in disguise. I remember he told me that right after it happened, and it seemed "a hard saying" at the time, but we have lived to see that he was right, stanch old lover of Chicago that he is! Good has come from the fire, also, in the sacrificial spirit it inspired all over the world. The wonderful generosity of Europe and America to us at that time always reminds me of the poem of Whittier, almost the only good verse I ever read about our great disaster. There were such terribly lachrymose ballads and fearful poems written about the event, but I have always thought Whittier's lines very sweet:

Ah, not in vain the flames that tossed
Above thy dreadful holocaust,
The Christ again has preached through thee
The lesson of humanity.

Though the fire has been a good thing for the city because it has caused it to be rebuilt in more durable materials, the seventies have been a discouraging period. We had a second fire, in '73, you know, which came at the same time as the financial panic. But our bankers are strong men. They surmounted the difficulties of the time and Chicago has moved forward and today is in better condition than before the fire. "Sweet are the uses of adversity" to a city, as to an individual, I suppose.

Martha Jr. is at Bourniques'—our fine dancing academy—tonight, where a "German" is being given. That is the popular form of entertainment just now. I am getting ready to give a "kettle-drum." If you have any suggestions pass them on. I've already engaged Johnny Hand's orchestra. He's the best orchestra leader in the city. Your loving friend,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

French Praise Both Chicago and Its Fair

They Were Pleasantly Surprised by the Warmth of American Hospitality.

By May Birkhead.

PARIS.—[Special.]—All the Parisians with whom we have talked after their visit to A Century of Progress are enthusiastic about that great Fair, the magnificent city which provides its setting, and the United States generally. Some of the French were rather doubtful as to the kind of reception they might have; but their fears were soon dispelled, and they were touched, and almost overwhelmed, by the warmth and omnipresence of the Windy City's hospitality.

They expressed themselves as particularly moved by the souvenirs of such Gallic explorers as La Salle and Joliet, whose names are enshrined in that vast midwest section of which Chicago is becoming increasingly the capital. More and more as American historians recover the epic of our frontier days do they find traces of French activity; and quite a body of scholars in France are finding new material to elucidate the relations which the two countries have so long had in common.

Franco-American Museum Grew Out of World War.

This impulse for closer study of the bonds between the two countries lies behind the creation, a few years ago, of the Museum of Franco-American Coöperation at Blérancourt, a town in the department of the Aisne which saw the devastation of the war. The museum is the outgrowth of the relief unit founded there by Miss Anne Morgan and the late Mrs. Anne Murray Dike.

While at Blérancourt the two women began to gather souvenirs. They soon collected so many that it was necessary to find special quarters for housing them. For this purpose they restored the imposing remains of the original Château of Blérancourt, built by the same architect who designed the Palace of the Luxembourg in Paris for Henry IV.'s first wife, Marie de Medici. So important has the museum become that its curator is now M. André Girodie, who was for many years in charge of the museum at Versailles.

Exhibits Throw New Light on Revolutionary Heroes.

Autographs, paintings, engravings, even caricatures, are among the curious documents which throw a vivid and sometimes strange light on such figures as Franklin, Washington, Lafayette, not to mention the early French pioneers in America, and the many exiles and other personalities, such as Talleyrand and Louis Philippe, as well as many lesser lights who have also helped to enrich the picturesque Franco-American tradition. The museum is largely visited by the French on Sundays. Both Americans and Frenchmen are eligible for membership in the society known as the Friends of the Blérancourt museum.

To give some idea to Parisians and those passing through the capital of the resources of Blérancourt, M. Girodie is arranging, at the Orangerie in the Tuileries Gardens an exhibition which will open next spring. One of the features will be a revelation of the way in which Franklin advertised the American cause in Paris.

American Women Convert Bakery Into Guest House.

Miss Anne Morgan and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, since their recent return from the cure at Marienbad, have been spending their week-ends at Blérancourt. They were responsible for the installation, last year, of a guest house, converted from an old bakery. This building, which is just inside the picturesque gate leading to the château, has a charming old world cachet, and the rooms are furnished in simple good taste.

Both Miss Morgan and Mrs. Vanderbilt, who have followed the fortunes of Blérancourt in war and peace for many years, are sailing soon for the United States.

Early fall marks the time when Parisians and cosmopolitans begin, either for the sport of shooting or for further travel, to converge again on the capital, even if only for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt left their yacht on the Riviera, and after a brief stay at Aix-les-Bains, where many go for the autumn cure, came on to Paris for a few days before returning to the Azure coast. Mrs. Benjamin Rogers, after cruising with the Edward Huttons for several weeks on their yacht, Hussar, left her hosts at Cannes, they to proceed to Venice, while she has reached Paris, where she will soon be joined by her son-in-law and daughter, Señor and Señora Arturo Ramos.

Austria Confers Her Highest Honor on Emil Winter.

One cosmopolitan party, some of whose members have reached Paris, were the guests in southern Austria of Emil Winter, Pittsburgh steel manufacturer. After seeing a part of the Salzburg festival the host conducted them through the lower Tyrol to Millstatt lake, in Carinthia, where they assisted at the ceremonies to celebrate the 25th anniversary of his magnesite company. The governor of Carinthia bestowed on Mr. Winter the Cross of Merit, the highest honor conferred by the Austrian government.

Attendance at A Century of Progress Art Exhibit Breaks the World's Records

Art Institute to Be Open Evenings Till Nov. 1 to Accommodate Throngs.

By Eleanor Jewett.

THE suggestion in last Sunday's art column that the closing hour of the Art institute during the last weeks of the Official Art exhibition of A Century of Progress would be changed has been confirmed, and the museum announces that the building will be open to visitors until 10 o'clock in the evening from now until Nov. 1.

According to Daniel Catton Rich, associate curator of paintings, the institute has captured for America the world's record for daily attendance at an art museum. The 18,000 persons who, in a single day during the first week of September, visited the museum exceed by a wide margin the number checked in at any special art show ever held in a museum. Our nearest competitor was Burlington house, London, during the Italian exhibition at the Royal academy, where the biggest day was 12,700. Mr. Rich is equally sure that the close to a million persons who attended the exhibit during the three months which began May 23 and ended Sept. 1 outnumber the total attendance at any art museum anywhere throughout the same period of time.

Many Century of Progress Exhibit Canvases for Sale.

The Art institute considers it may not be generally known that over 250 of the works of art in its official exhibit are for sale. Prices range from $100 to $375,000. It would be interesting to know which painting was priced at this last figure.

Many of the prints, in the galleries on the first floor of the museum, are also for sale, but here the range in values is less. The prints run from $3 to $12,000. Those in the thousand dollar classes are, naturally, rare impressions of the old masters.

The Art institute announces that the children's tours which were not given during September have been resumed for October under the guidance of Miss Helen Mackenzie. She will take the children through the galleries every Saturday morning at 11 o'clock until the exhibit closes on Nov. 1.

Local Artists on Parade at Chicago Galleries Association.

There is little that is new going on among the various galleries just now, though with the coming of October probably a breath of fresh life will animate this or that gallery which during the summer has kept itself consciously keyed to A Century of Progress visitor pitch. One of the first galleries to make a sign toward this goal is the Chicago Galleries association, 220 North Michigan avenue, where there opens directly an exhibit by four Chicago artists of the younger group; Karl Brandner, Wilbur Adam, Gasper Ruffolo, and C. Warner Williams, the last a sculptor.

Wilbur Adam is known for his portraiture and Gasper Ruffolo for his still life and portraits, but both in this exhibit will show landscapes as well as their more typical canvases. Mr. Brandner will hang a group of recent paintings from Indiana. C. Warner Williams will show a number of new portrait bas-reliefs.

The Increase Robinson gallery, Diana Court building, a week ago opened a frivolous and amusing exhibit of water colors by John Pratt, whose catalog contained the glamorous name of Thornton Wilder in the preface.

"Sylvia," by Randall Davey, is one of the most skillful of the canvases by American portrait painters on display at the Fine Arts exhibit of A Century of Progress, curent in the Chicago Art institute. It was lent by the Grand Central Art galleries of New York.

There are points about the exhibit that make it of interest. Mr. Pratt does not pretend to a serious apprenticeship in painting and these efforts have been tossed off by him for his personal satisfaction. They are somewhat of the Rifko Angel class with the distinction that his do not pretend to a place in the sun when art with a big A is mentioned.

Mr. Pratt is modern, inasmuch as modernism is the simplest flag to caper under. His water colors possess rhythm and balance and some gorgeous though extravagant color, and they stimulate thought. They embody ideas. That the ideas are literary rather than "arty" may be laid perhaps at the door of his university training. Apparently his mind, filled with images of various kinds, has bubbled over into pictorial illustrations of mythological or historical tags instead of fulfilling itself in ragged verse. The result is fantastic and entertaining, although not of vital or even serious consequence.

Carnegie Institute Again Holds International Exhibit.

As a sign that times are improving the Carnegie institute is again holding its International exhibition. This year the exhibit opens Oct. 19 and every painting present will be there by invitation. The former custom of jurying the American entries has been dropped. Ten European countries will be represented. The American contingent numbers about 125 canvases.

The awarding of prizes was done last week on Wednesday and Thursday in Pittsburgh. On the jury were Dr. Robert B. Harshe, director of the Chicago Art institute; C. Powell Minnigerode, director of the Corcoran gallery of Washington, D. C., and Meyric R. Rogers, director of St. Louis City Art museum. Practically all the names which have sprung into importance in the last ten years find themselves again represented in this show, whose character, deliberately, during successive seasons has formed itself more and more definitely upon modernist lines.

Famed Illuminated MSS. on Display at Northwestern.

Commercial art, illustration, dress design, and cartooning will be offered to high school students by the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts in its recently started thirty-second year of Saturday morning classes.

Many visitors to A Century of Progress pass by Northwestern university in Evanston as they motor to or from our suburbs on the north. Probably few of them know that a most interesting exhibit of "Western European Illuminated Manuscripts from the 12th to the 17th Centuries" may be found in Northwestern's new Charles Deering library. The building was only recently dedicated and opened to the public. It is worth seeing in itself and houses a number of fine paintings as well as this special exhibit of manuscripts. The manuscripts are the internationally famous Ricketts' collection and have been the goal of many distinguished persons' visit to Chicago.

The school of the Art institute opened its fall term Sept. 18 with a satisfactory attendance. An addition to the faculty of industrial art has been made in the person of H. F. Reynolds to teach architectural rendering.

The Goodman theater school of the drama also opened Sept. 18 with about the same number of students as last year.

Two groups of striking murals representing Indian types and ceremonials have recently been placed on exhibition at the Mayan Temple on A Century of Progress grounds. They are the work of native pupils of Miss Dorothy Dunn, who has been teaching painting and design in the U. S. Indian Service school at Santa Fé since her graduation from the Chicago Art Institute school last year.

A SILVER SHEATH

Claudette Colbert's evening gown of shimmering silver paillettes encrusted on chiffon uses the simple shirtwaist silhouette in the blouse and a clinging bias skirt line. Its only trimming is the wide belt with a flat buckle of the gown fabric.

SOCIETY CENTERS ON FAIR

Finally we reached the heights where, framed in pines, was the heroic, lovely statue, and a garden of roses, marble seats and balustrades, and at the right a magnificent view over the Campagna to Rome and the distant gleaming sea beyond.

Montalto is a delightful villa. Its yellow stucco exterior and pale green blinds faded by time. The water supply having failed, the duchessa's rose gardens and lemon trees were suffering, so we raced over its exquisite interior instead. Its chief beauties are its many frescoed ceilings, painted by great artists of other days, and quaint furnishings.

Renaissance Decorations Give Somber Majesty to Villa.

The main entrance hall, a billiard room, led to the living room, its ceiling done with cloud effects by Caracci. A small salon called Sala della Notte had a night sky with stars by Cavaracci. The duchessa's own bedroom was done by the famous Domenichino.

The heavy beams and panels of the whole palace were painted in the 16th century. But one long, delightful galleria was executed by Pannini in the 18th, while the guest rooms were allowed to remain in the ancient style.

A marvelously tranquil place. But its fountains did not sing, and its gardens, seven stories down at the foot of its towering façade, were dying. We, however, ate out on a shady terrace from lunch baskets and were happy. Such a deep, warm silence over the Campagna. The duchessa's two charming girls were along, Catarina and Anna, who makes her debut this winter. We tore into Rome that night to go to the last of the outdoor symphony concerts in Constantine's basilica.

Fresh Air Fund for Poor Is an All-Italian Project.

The whole of Italy was working this year for the fresh air fund, or Colonia Marina and Montagna. By its efforts the children of the very poor from all Italy and Sicily were sent to the country. Ancient castles and empty palaces on the sea were snatched from their owners, filled with cots and kitchens, and the children rushed in. Thus Alexander Kirk, counselor of the American embassy, lost his lease of famous San Tevero, his 14th century castello on the Tyrrhennian sea. And much upset was he.

A man I know heads the movement in Naples. With him I visited five colonies and saw 5,000 children growing strong and healthy. Ammunition works and gun factories have been made into dormitories and playrooms, also outdoor dining rooms. And the lovely old Castello Baia of the 14th century above Portsuoli had just been requisitioned.

Crown Princess Marie José, living in the royal palace at Naples, gave a beautiful garden party for the Colonia fund, and a thousand guests swarmed into the royal domain for a charming festa. The crown princess moved freely and naturally among her guests in the most simple way, and a very large sum was raised, over 100,000 lire.

We happened along at lunch time and saw what excellent food Italy gives her baby Ballisti.

Rosie Dolly Comes Forth Clothed in Nails.

All too soon one early morning we heard the hoarse hoot of the Rex, come to fetch us. The Lido deck was an all day spectacle. At Cannes two boatloads of people came aboard, piles of trunks, dogs, motors. Among these Rosie Dolly, famous music hall favorite, and her Chicago husband of the Netcher family. Nobody more invited than they in summer [illegible] of the French Riviera—royalties and all. Her silvered outfit of nails had the ship's company quite gaga. And as for the string bath suit and the backless, frontless, pantless pajamas, they were all there on scores of passengers. A unique sight to see so many people lay all their cards upon the table.

FALL FASHIONS FROM PARIS

FILAP
PARIS-1933

Mainbocher puts women in instep-length skirts for afternoon, as this model shows. It's made of tawny red downy wool and has capelets and muff of logwood brown seal.

Schiaparelli signs this jacket ensemble of dark red tree-bark silk with twisted girdle and collar of pervenche blue and rose.

Lucien Lelong created this short cape ensemble of green wool. Monkey fur in the shape of inverted hairpins runs up the sides of the cape and around the cloth muff.

This Jean Patou coat is made of blackberry colored broadcloth. The collar falls to the waistline in back and is edged with blue fox.

Chanel's plaid velvet basque jacket, bordered with mink, with brown velvet dress and plaid velvet blouse. The toque is of brown coque feathers.

Bettina Bedwell's story elsewhere in today's Tribune describes fully the Paris style trend for autumn.

"Made by the makers of

GULISTAN

... when the store told me that, I knew I could not go wrong"

Illustration shows an 18th Century Lavere Kirman Design, with the historic Tree of Life motif. Ask to see Gulistan No. 25135

"Oriental rug luxury is what I crave in all the rugs in my home. I can be sure of getting it in ANY rug made by the makers of Gulistan. They are the leading makers of Oriental rugs and it's marvelous how they give that same Oriental beauty, at prices about one-third the originals. As I gaze at the rug on my floor—it's all there . . . the lovely Oriental design . . . the soft colorings . . . and that rich, silky sheen which simply transforms a home!"

When shopping for ANY Oriental Rug Reproductions, look for the label of the leading Makers of Orientals!

No matter what you wish to pay, you will find what you want made by the makers of Gulistan. Four qualities to choose from, at popular prices: many sizes and patterns in each grade. The success of these rugs comes from their trueness to the Oriental Rug tradition. The House of Karagheusian, with its production centers in Sultanabad, Hamadan and Tabriz, weaves the fine Persian Rugs of today, and imports them to America. In the Gulistan series of rugs made in America they use the same designs . . . the same type of sturdy Oriental wools . . . and the very same finishing processes as in their Oriental creations. Experts hesitate to tell the difference! Kashans, Kirmans, Sarouks (many of them museum pieces), may be found reproduced in all these qualities. See them at any good Furniture or Department store. No need to sift out substitutes. The Karagheusian name and label on the back of the rug are your guide.

VACUMATIC FILLING

...Parker's Revolutionary Principle... increases Ink capacity 102%... abolishes rubber ink sac, piston pump, valves,—all old-time faulty parts

HOLDS 102% MORE INK
(Less than actual size)
INK HELD BY RUBBER SAC PEN
INK HELD BY PARKER VACUMATIC FILLER
WRITES TWO WAYS
upper side writes hair-line or extra fine or fine
Lower side writes fine or medium or broad, etc

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW

before this sacless, laminated Pearl Beauty supplants all sac-type pens from $5 up

If you are not afraid of change, if you are one of the vigorous spirits whom the world today is eager to reward, go at once to the nearest pen counter, and try this miracle writer.

Pen makers vainly tried for nearly 50 years to produce such a pen. No less than 250 sacless pen patents were granted before this finality was invented. Yet rubber sac pens continued to rule, for it seemed that faults in sacless-type pens were insurmountable.

Then a scientist at the University of Wisconsin conceived the Vacumatic Filler idea and Geo. S. Parker agreed to develop it.

That took the courage of a pioneer, took 5 years of engineering, cost thousands of dollars.

Yet the result exceeded all expectations—a pen of such super-excellence that Parker can, and freely does, guarantee it mechanically perfect.

You'll be the exception if you're not captivated by the breath-taking beauty of its laminated barrel — a wholly new, ultra-smart and exclusive style—built up ring upon ring of luminous Pearl and Jet, as shimmering as velvet. Stop at the first pen counter and see it.

You'll be completely fascinated by the way it creates vacuum in the barrel, by seeing the ink rush in and fill it completely—102% more ink than a rubber sac pen of equal size!

And you'll get a still bigger thrill when you write with its All-Purpose point—write your regular hand on the lower side, and fine or hairline on the upper side for figuring or interlining. This Reversible Point of precious Platinum and Gold, tipped with a pellet of rare Iridium, is custom-made by master point makers. It's as utterly smooth as the bearing of a watch, and perfectly formed on both sides.

Save your old pen for sentiment, if you like, but carry the Parker Vacumatic Filler to keep up with the swift-moving times. Make it your head assistant in learning and earning and stay on a par with the best of them.

Dealers everywhere are demonstrating daily—remember to see it. The Parker Pen Company, Janesville, Wisconsin.

HOW TO KEEP UGLY HAIR from GROWING BACK

To remove embarrassing hair is easy. But to stop regrowth—Ah!—That's the question every woman wants answered.

The Guaranteed
CROXON METHOD

Is the proven answer to this vexing problem. Croxon Cream has been on the market for only eighteen months; yet sworn statements prove that no hair has come back for over twelve months where Croxon was used.

Science tells us that where there has been no regrowth of the troublesome hair in six months, it will probably never grow again. The experience of users proves that Croxon has stopped regrowth.

A Perfect Beauty Treatment

Harmless—antiseptic—pleasingly perfumed—easy to use as cold cream. The Croxon Method will enable you to instantly remove the unwanted hair and to have a beautiful skin, shades lighter, free from blemishes and disfiguring ugly hair.

COSTS LESS NOW THAN EVER BEFORE

Present this coupon to your favorite department store. They will not only give you a free testimonial booklet, but they also have a special introductory package containing twice the standard quantity of Croxon Cream together with a free package of Croxon Plastik — all for the usual price or write direct to:

IT MUST BE NEARLY DAYLIGHT
THAT MORTGAGE HAS ME WORRIED!
I WAS A FOOL TO EAT SO MUCH!
WHY WON'T MY NERVES RELAX?
I'VE GOT TO GET SOME SLEEP!

PUT AN END TO THIS SORT OF NIGHT-TIME TOSSING

Get a Real Night's SLEEP

Tonight..This Natural, Drugless Way

See For Yourself How Much More Quickly You Fall Asleep And How Much Better You Rest —New Energy Next Day

DO you fall asleep quickly and naturally at night? Or—like so many others in these trying times—do you hate to go to bed for fear you'll lie awake and toss?

If so, here's news that may save you many a sleepless night—many a heavy-headed morning.

New Energy Tomorrow

Make this test:—Try Ovaltine for 3 nights straight—and observe especially how much better you feel when you awaken mornings. Note how much more quickly you "come awake"—how much easier it is to arise and start the day.

For now a simple way has been discovered to bring sound sleep quickly, almost the moment you go to bed—entirely without medicine. It's as free from drugs as the bread you eat or the milk you give to your child.

It is a delicious food concentrate which you take with warm milk just before you go to bed. Then fall asleep as effortlessly as a 2-year-old. And sleep all night more restfully than you have, probably, in weeks and months.

In the morning you awaken refreshed, clear-eyed—filled with new vitality and energy to last you throughout the day. For this new way does more than bring sound sleep at night. It also acts to rebuild nerve, brain and body tissues while you are fast asleep.

How It Acts

This remarkable food-drink is called Ovaltine—and it acts to combat the 3 most common causes of sleeplessness—entirely without drugs.

First: Ovaltine, taken as a warm drink at bedtime, tends to draw excess blood away from the brain. Thus inviting mental calm and "conditioning" the mind for sleep.

Second: Ovaltine corrects digestive unrest by gently stimulating and aiding digestive processes.

Third: Ovaltine supplies important food elements, the absence of which, in ordinary diet, leads to irritated nerves and sleeplessness.

A cup of Ovaltine, in fact, provides—in easily digested form—the food elements necessary for rebuilding nerve, brain and muscle tissue while you sleep. And, at the same time, greatly multiplies your ability to recover from fatigue. That's why millions take it night after night—and an important reason why its use has spread to 54 different countries today.

Try It Tonight

Don't judge Ovaltine merely by what users claim for it. Try it and see for yourself how much more quickly you fall asleep—how much more completely you rest.

As you continue to take Ovaltine, note the permanent benefits you obtain. Observe how it restores your natural tendency to sleep soundly every night. Note how much more easily you recover from fatigue—how vitality multiplies.

'Phone your druggist or grocer for a tin of Ovaltine now. Mix 2 to 4 teaspoonfuls with a cup of warm milk and drink it before going to bed tonight. In the morning when you awaken, take stock. See how much fresher you feel—and how different the whole world looks when you've had a real night's sleep. 997-T

NOTE: Thousands of nervous people, men and women, are using Ovaltine to restore vitality when fatigued. During the World War, medical authorities made it a standard ration for rebuilding nerve-shattered, shell-shocked soldiers. It is also highly recommended by physicians for nervous, underweight children—and as a strengthening food for nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged.

EVEN BOILING OIL, 403° OF LIQUID FIRE CAN'T HURT SUPER-VALSPAR VARNISH.
Cheaper substitutes fail under this remarkable test

NEW VARNISH! NEW ENAMEL! AMAZE THOUSANDS

by their ability to resist punishment

"25 years ahead of the times"—"Will make home furnishings last 2 to 10 years longer"—say experts

LASTING beauty—quickly, easily applied—lovely, mar-resisting surfaces anywhere in the house—are now assured to all, thanks to a remarkable new finish called Super-Valspar.

This revolutionary discovery for all home painting comes as a further improvement over the famous original Valspar—the varnish that boiling water will not turn white.

The New Super-Valspar defies even boiling oil—alcohol—strong soaps! Pound it, hammer it, maul it—it resists intense punishment.

This wonder finish is offered in clear varnish and 20 beautiful shades. Both types dry in 4 hours. No brush marks. One coat covers.

Now wood floors can shimmer like new, defying even hot grease and the worst wear and tear when covered with Super-Valspar clear.

It's amazing, too, how this economy finish triples the life of linoleum-type floor coverings while protecting beauty and halving cleaning care. Saves up to $35 in postponing replacements.

With Super-Valspar in colors, chairs, tables, porches, kitchens, bathrooms, dressers, can now glow with lasting beauty; so simple that no experience is necessary to get splendid results.

Dress up the old car

Don't drive a shabby car any longer when it is so easy to renew its former beauty. Now, with Super-Valspar Enamels you can transform it in a few hours without fear of failure or drudgery.

Remember that Super-Valspar in colors are the only enamels containing the miracle element that makes Super-Valspar finishes tough as steel yet smooth as silk.

So don't accept substitutes advised as "just as good but cheaper". Super-Valspar costs a few cents more, but it goes much farther, and gives lifetime satisfaction. Get a can today and change drabness to beauty.

The boiling water test that made the original Valspar world famous—the varnish that will not turn white under this merciless test.

NEW BEAUTY FOR YOU
This Amazingly Easy Way

End Dull, Muddy Skin and Ugly Blemishes—Results Amaze Thousands of Men and Women

Skin sallow, pimply and blotched—Ashamed to be seen!
Skin clear and smooth, complexion lovely—Attractive once more!

WHY be ashamed of a sallow, blotchy skin when this easy treatment will do wonders for you? Thousands have found that it brings radiant new beauty—a clear, lovely skin—a fresh, youthful complexion!

"My skin was in very poor condition," writes a lady in South Boston, Mass., "but since taking your pasteurized yeast, the blemishes and pimples have entirely disappeared." "Your yeast is certainly marvelous," says a user in Tuckerton, N. J., "almost every day someone tells me how much better I look."

As you know, the two most common causes of poor skin and complexion are faulty elimination and a nervous, run-down condition. Your trouble is internal and requires internal treatment. That's just what Yeast Foam Tablets provide.

These delicious tablets of scientifically pasteurized yeast contain rich stores of the precious vitamins B and G—the nutritive elements which strengthen your digestive and intestinal organs, which give tone and vigor to your nervous system.

With the true causes of your trouble corrected, eruptions and blemishes disappear. Your skin becomes clear and smooth. Indigestion, constipation, lack of pep and nervousness all go. You enjoy new beauty and new health.

Any druggist will supply you with Yeast Foam Tablets. The ten-day bottle costs 50c—only a few cents a day. See what this remarkable corrective food will do for you. Get a bottle today!

"Now I'm schoolgirl complexion all over"
Wise Mother... she uses her own mild Palmolive for baby, too
ANDREW LOOMIS

BABY'S skin is so unbelievably soft and fine. You wouldn't dare let any but the mildest, gentlest soap touch it. So, when doctor says: "Olive oil in soap is best," you choose your own precious Palmolive, made from a secret blend of olive and palm oils.

It is these gentle oils that make Palmolive soothing, kind. Yet it cleanses thoroughly. It is pure. It is safe. There's no artificial coloring, no strong perfume, no harsh alkali in this natural, wholesome beauty soap. Palmolive's mild lather penetrates the pores, freeing them of accumulations easily . . . leaving skin soft, smooth, gloriously clear and fresh. Truly, Palmolive is the soap of youth.

Buy three cakes, today. Tonight, start this 2-minute treatment for baby and yourself, both. Massage a rich lather of Palmolive and warm water into those tiny pores. Rinse with warm water, then with cold. Why, really, there can be two schoolgirl complexions in your home . . . both kept clear and radiant by this soap with its secret blend of gentle olive and palm oils.
